

Alligator Wrestling

THRILLING      DANGEROUS

Every Hour — Every Day

The wrestlers enter a pool containing hundreds of alligators, to put on this exhibition. In separate pools you will see many more alligators ranging from babies to several weighing over half a ton. You will also find here the largest collection of crocodiles in the United States.

Indian Camp

The Indian Camp, nestling on the banks of the beautiful Miami River, is an unusual sight. Here you will see the "Silent Seminoles" living and working in their own primitive way, making curios and novelties in their own crude and interesting way. Be sure to bring your kodak—there is no restriction on taking pictures, and you will obtain some rare and interesting views.

Indian Hand-Work

In the entrance to the Village you will see the most interesting and comprehensive collection of Indian Curios and Hand-work in the country. Here, truly, one may procure a real Florida gift or souvenir.

Always Something New at Musa Isle

Our hunters and collectors are constantly bringing in new exhibits, and you will have a world of fun watching the tropical diving monkeys. They have a swimming pool, and as they leap and splash, they seem almost human. This is the only collection of this type of monkey in this part of the country.
