

SHORT SHRIFF

Scholarships available at FIU

Students at the graduate and undergraduate levels who demonstrate a high level of scholarship and/or financial need may be qualified for one of the numerous scholarships offered by most of the FIU schools.

Applications for any of the scholarships offered can be obtained at the financial aid offices in PC 125 at Tamiami and TC 110 at North Miami.

The deadline for applying for a scholarship is Oct. 6 and all supporting documentation must be received by the financial aid office by then.

SGA poses police question

Aside from choosing 39 SGA officials, voters in next month's SGA elections will be asked how they feel about FIU's public safety department.

The senate placed the following question on the ballot: "Are you in favor of eliminating the 32-member, armed public safety department on campus?"

Though the results will have no legal effect, the senate wants a consensus of the student body. The Senate is on record in opposition to armed officers.

To study how other universities handle security, the senate voted to set up a new ad hoc committee.

NMC Bureau needs writers

The North Miami news bureau of The International is seeking contributions of news and feature stories relevant to this campus. Bring stories to Peggy Vernon in TC 113 or Shiao Moore in the Student Activities office, TC 111 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The bureau is also interested in receiving reports of upcoming events. Releases must include a phone number in case more information is needed.

The International is interested in providing students of both campuses with the most complete news, and with your help we can do this.

SGA elections still open, associate chair available

It's not too late to get involved with FIU's Student Government Association.

SGA's fall elections, scheduled for Oct. 16, 17 and 18, offer more opportunities for budding politicians than ever before.

Top prize in the SGA sweepstakes seems to be a six-month term as associate chair, the number two job in the Senate. The position has been vacant since Richard "Cap" Weinstein resigned in July to take a job with student activities.

Any student can run for associate chair unless he is in the FIU faculty or administration. Candidates must gather 100 student signatures, supporting their candidacy.

Each candidate for the 22 Senate associates' seats, six Tamiami Campus budget committee slots and five North Miami Campus budget vacancies needs only 20 students' signatures, but all must be from the candidate's school.

Five important jobs which are on the ballot for the first time are those of the International Court justices. Court candidates must turn in 50 signatures to qualify, and cannot be FIU employees.

Potential candidates can pick up copies of the election guidelines and related papers in the SGA office, room UH 311. The declaration of candidacy petition (part of the package) must be returned by 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 6.

SGA votes to raise pay

PETE KOLB
Editor

Several SGA Senate members have submitted a request for $45,000 to cover the costs of a salary bill passed, by a 21-2 vote, at the last meeting of the summer quarter. The funds will supplement the present salary budget of $36,000.

The bill raised the salary of the SGA chairperson from $1,200 to $3,900 per year. The other four positions on the SGA Presiding Board were raised from $1,200 to $3,100 per year.

Students will pay for the raises with their Activity and Service fees, which are collected at a rate of about 15 per cent of a Florida resident's tuition.

The salary bill, entitled "Let's Be Efficient," also created several new salaried positions, and established salaries for nine formerly unsalaried positions, including $2,500 for the chairperson of the Social and Cultural committee.

The state legislature raised the amount of money put into the Activity and Service fund from $2.14 to $2.49 per credit hour. Lobbyists representing student governments said that the money was needed to increase important student services.

The funding request will be on the agenda at the next SGA meeting on Sept. 27 at 11 a.m. in UH 150.

Justices of the newly established student court will receive a total of $145 per decision, with $45 going to the Chief Justice and $25 to each of the other justices.

Even before the pay raise, the total paid to FIU's senate members was more than that of any other state university in Florida.

The Chairperson's new salary is the highest amount paid to any individual. University of North Florida's student government president is second with $3500.

Things are looking up

If you look out the window, you'll see Florida International University, which opened in 1972. That long building on the left is Owa Ehan, which opened last year. That small building in the back left is University House, while the big one in the back is Primera

SGA salary increase should not be funded

The request of $45,000 for additional SGA salaries that will be considered at this week's SGA meeting (Sept. 27) is not in the best interest of students.

When lobbyists representing student governments asked the legislature for a 35 cent per credit hour increase in funding for activity and service programs, they said it would be used for important student services, not for salaries.

In the spring, before her election as SGA Chairperson, Cyndi Burton said of another proposed salary increase, "Personally, I fear that the additional money will attract more individuals who are only interested in the money."

The SGA should reconsider this salary matter; and if they do not, President Crosby should veto the expenditure.

Vote no change in BOR status

There is a proposal on the Florida ballot in November which would give the Board of Regents Constitutional status and transfer the Florida Cabinet's duties as state Board of Education to a new board appointed by the governor.

This is an ill-advised idea. The Board of Regents is quite well defined by statute, and has had few problems with the legislature.

"Constitutionalizing" the BOR may put it "above the law," in the words of Commissioner of Education Ralph Turlington.

Since state law prohibits two persons from the same county from serving on the BOR, Dade County (and FIU) will never have the pull on the BOR that could be exercised in the legislature, which is apportioned by the population.

Any flaws in this new system would have to be corrected by yet another constitutional amendment, involving another election.

In the interests of FIU and the future of public education, vote against Revision 8 in November.

Sunburn U.

The hottest controversy at the University of Miami these days is a Tropic magazine article which labeled that school "Suntan U."

The student newspaper there has been filled recently with stories, editorials, letters and so on— all criticizing the Tropic article.

And to think, FIU's official nickname is Sunblazers.

Hey, would you rather be in the sun or a hurricane?

Boy, it sure is fun writing a newspaper column each week.

You can write anything. Anything. You. All you have to do is type or write any opinion, thought or suggestion and send it to room UH 212A.

More than likely, we'll print your comments. We'll even give you this space.

Don't send anything over forty or fifty pages. From 100 to 200 words is more reasonable.

"Obscentities" are acceptable if your letter is in good taste. Remember, obscentis is the crutch of inarticulate bastards.

And it would be nice if you could comment on relevant topics of interest to students here.

One thing we won't print is an unsigned letter. However, we will withhold your name if you wish.

If you are unable to write, call us at 552-2118.

This space is open to students, administrators, faculty and staff. All entries are the opinions of the authors.

We may not be able to print everyone's thoughts, but we will try to offer a broad range of opinion.

Analysis

Athletics not equal, researcher says

ROSE BROWN
Staff Writer

A researcher for the FIU Title IX monitoring committee says inequities continue to exist in the athletic program here.

Title IX of the Federal Education Amendments of 1972 prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in all federally-funded education programs.

Title IX states that "equal opportunity must exist in the plan for the total athletic program in areas of the assignment of coaches and the provisions of practice and competitive facilities."

FIU's athletic department had until July of this year to comply.

A section of Title IX mandates a self-evaluation study to be done by each institution receiving federal funds. In May, FIU Executive Vice President Dr. Joseph Olander appointed Pat Lusak to research FIU's compliance with Title IX.

Lusak now says that "evidence suggests that inequities continue to exist." According to Lusak's Title IX report, there are still some inequities in funding, and much greater inequities in the availability of staffing and facilities.

The Title IX report listed the problems and made several recommendations.

Dr. Judy Blucker, who started FIU's women's intercollegiate athletic program, was in general agreement with Lusak's conclusions and recommendations.

According to Blucker, the present administrative structure is "stifling to women's interests and concerns in its present form. This problem is greatly enhanced by the fact that the athletic director (Tom Wonderling) is a varsity head coach of a men's sport, thereby seeming to reduce his credibility in making objective decisions in such matters as staffing, facilities and budget."

Another problem, according to Lusak's Title IX report, is the ratio of full time men's to women's coaches. Presently there are five full time men's coaches and one full time women's coach.

The report said that the use of adjunct or volunteer coaches for four of the five women's sports results in less opportunity for women athletes.

The report recommends that the current administrative structure be evaluated, and that at least two full time women coaches be hired.

According to Blucker, the most "flagrant" violation of Title IX has been facilities. The women's volleyball and basketball teams now share a gym (an old airplane hanger) with a concrete floor, while the women's softball team uses the men's soccer field.

The women's basketball team has been greatly effected by the concrete floor in the gym. Last year's team had to cancel six games because of severe injuries encountered running on the hard floor.

Blucker said that the athletic director would "seem to consider only the interests of male athletes at FIU, while ignoring the previously-made-known health and safety threats to women athletes using the tin gym."

Lusak and Blucker recommend there be an inspection of the tin gym and repairs made before the next volleyball and basketball seasons. Lusak also recommends a facility for the women's softball team be built.

Self-evaluations of Title IX compliance have been made on the athletic department since 1976. All of these evaluations suggest inequities continue to exist in the administrative structure and in facilities.

Since these evaluations, three additional male personnel have been hired, making a total of eight male full time employees, compared to two full time female employees.

As far as facilities go, permanent bleachers and a press box have been added to the men's baseball diamond, and pine trees planted by the field. For the women's program, a new softball field is being built.

Wonderling, who has been athletic director for the past three years, says he is aware of the problems with women coaches and facilities, and has been waiting for the University Council to approve two women's positions. He said that the Title IX report should "provide a great deal of leverage to show where the program has been inadequate."

Concerning facilities, he said he did not favor the SGA athletic committee's recommendation on funding for renovation of the floors in the tin gym. "I wouldn't want to see SGA waste their money on renovating the tin gym because the building may get torn down," Wonderling said.

Lusak concluded, "Equal opportunity for women athletes does not yet exist, especially in the areas of coaching and facilities. The crucial question, still unanswered, is how the University will respond to the Title IX recommendations got increased support for the women's athletic program.

"I hope that the athletic council will take the initiative in giving expenditures for the needed improvements in the women's program greater priority than in the past," Lusak said.

Dr. Blucker was recently released from her duties as head softball coach by Wonderling.

Goodwin moves up and away

ROSE BROWN
Staff Writer

Dr. Nancy Goodwin, FIU's director of institutional research, left FIU, Aug. 31, to become the President of Greenfield Community College in Massachusetts.

"It is time for a change," Goodwin said. "I need to grow and continue to learn."

Goodwin started at FIU in 1971 as assistant director of planning and analysis, in an office located in the old airport tower, when there were no other buildings on campus.

During her seven years at FIU, she held five different positions.

"FIU gave me the opportunity to learn many things I wouldn't have learned anywhere else, because it is a new university," Goodwin said.

On her last day at FIU a going-away party was given for her in the University House Presidential Suite.

"Part of FIU will always remain with me; I am leaving with good feelings," she said.

Local media stars here Oct. 7

TINA CHELEOTIS
Staff Writer

A day of panels, workshops and seminars presented by local media representatives highlights the annual South Florida Journalism Day, open to the entire university community, Saturday, Oct. 7, in University House from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Journalism Day, sponsored by the Greater Miami Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists and FIU, in cooperation with the Florida Scholastic Press Association, is open to all journalism students and faculty in South Florida.

Topics of workshops include layout, advertising, career opportunities, investigative reporting, radio and television news, and interviewing.

Workshops will be presented by local media personalities including Steve Tello (Ch. 10 news), Bea Hines (Miami Herald feature writer), Bob Mayer (Ch. 4 news), Michael O'Brien (Miami News photographer), John Keasler (Miami News columnist) and Chuck Dowdle (Ch 10 sports).

A special workshop on science fiction writing will be given by FIU Executive Vice President Dr. Joseph Olander.

Registration is from 9 to 9:30 a.m. in the University House Forum.

Medical services offered free

Student Health Services are available to all FIU students at no charge. Health Services at the Tamiami Campus are located in the Owa Ehan (OE) Building, room 115. The unit, which is funded by Activity & Service Fees, provides emergency and general health care, as well as preventative medical services.

Some of these services include:

- Physical examinations
- Treatment, prescriptions and referral as indicated.
- Screening for diabetes, hypertension, T.B., etc.
- Family planning
- Counseling and referrals
- Immunizations
- Special services for handicapped, diabetics and allergic students

Information regarding weight control, smoking, V.D., alcoholism, sickle cell anemia.

A physician is available in OE 115 during the following hours:

- Monday—11 a.m.-2 p.m.
- Tuesday—4-7 p.m.
- Thursday—11 a.m.-2 p.m.

Registered nurses are available when the physician is in and also during the following hours:

- Monday-Thursday—8 a.m.-11 p.m.
- Friday—8 a.m.-6 p.m.

A Family Nurse Practitioner is also available during hours posted in the clinic.

If you would like a service that is not provided, come to the clinic and discuss it.

Don't go straight to see this movie!

Because there's going to be nothing straight about a CHEECH & CHONG film. Every generation has had their own comedy duo; the 30's had Laurel and Hardy. Abbott & Costello broke up the 40's and Martin and Lewis really fractured the 50's.

CHEECH & CHONG have helped make the 70's go "UP IN SMOKE."

CHEECH & CHONG are the comedy team that gave birth to rock comedy and in the process of turning on a whole generation, sold ten million albums, picked up numerous awards, including Cash Box and Billboard's best comedy duo, and a Grammy for their album, "Los Cochinos."

Now it's time for a CHEECH & CHONG movie.

C & C's "UP IN SMOKE" will make you feel very funny.

So don't go straight to see this movie!

Students can avoid late fees

PETE KOLB
Editor

Tuition fees, which were advertised as due on Sept. 25, can now be paid as late as Oct. 2, without incurring the dreaded $25 late fee.

In another change, FIU continuing students who didn't register at early registration will not have to pay the $25 late registration fee if they complete registration by Sept. 25.

Students who do not pay by Oct. 2 will not only incur the $25 late payment fee, but will also have their enrollment cancelled. There is another $25 fee charged to those reinstating a cancelled enrollment. So anyone paying after Oct. 2 will owe an extra $50.

In the past, students had about two weeks to pay without a late fee.

However, during the summer, the final date of payment was changed to Sept. 25. The reason given by FIU Registrar Columbus Posey for the change was an interpretation of a Florida law requiring payment for state services in advance.

Later in the summer, following an investigative article on the new payment system that appeared in the International, the FIU administration changed the final payment date to Oct. 2.

Concerning the dropping of the $25 late registration fee, Posey said that the administration had been considering this for some time.

"The fee was intended to encourage students to register early," Posey said. "The penalty now is that students sometimes don't get their classes or sections" if they register late.

NMC begins food service

PEGGY SCHUMO VERNON
Staff Writer

(North Miami Campus) After nearly two years of wrestling with vending machines only to receive a stale sandwich at the end of the bout, FIU North students and faculty will have full food service beginning this fall, according to Duke Campbell, assistant vice president of administrative affairs.

FIU has awarded the contract, which will run until the completion of the Student Services Building in 1980, to Second Base Inc., a North Miami Beach corporation headed by Tom Albanese.

Albanese, 32, has been a student here and as such he saw a great need for quality food service and he decided to do something about it.

As part of the contract, FIU has agreed to build a structure on the patio adjacent to the Trade Center which will house Albanese' equipment and will include a Tiki-type bar to provide a Rathskeller atmosphere, said Juan Argudin, FIU director of auxiliary services.

"The Tiki bar structure will be completed a couple of weeks after the beginning of fall term and it is unlikely that regular food service will begin until then," Argudin said. "However, barbecues are being planned and the first one will be on registration day, Sept. 25."

Although the terms of the contract only require Albanese to serve from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. and from 4 to 8 p.m., he plans to be open for business from 11 a.m. until midnight.

"The students have been clamoring for service and they deserve the right to be able to get a sandwich or a beer at any hour," Albanese said. "I firmly believe the students will make it worth our while to stay open all day."

Albanese' menu initially will include hamburgers, hot dogs, sandwiches and salad plates. He also plans to offer daily hot plate specials.

Bet you didn't know

Should casinos be permitted on the Gold Coast? SGA Senate is willing to take a gamble on it, while some University of Florida students want to deal their school in.

At the urging of Chairperson Cyndi Burton, the Senate voted, 16 to 4, in favor of casino gambling at its Aug. 23 meeting.

The vote, during Burton's weekly report, was informal. The SGA By-laws prohibit motions during officers' reports.

Meanwhile, in Gainesville, an organization called "Let's Help UF" is trying to collect the 500 signatures required to place a casino referendum on UF's student body elections ballot.

The group, which claims to be nearing its petition goal, will campaign for casinos in mobster garb.

Mules laden with Blue Maguey pinas on their way to Cuervo's La Rojena plant.

Since 1795 we've gathered our Blue Magueys for Cuervo Gold the gentle way.
It's the old way. And still the best.

At Cuervo we know that there is only one way to make Cuervo Gold perfect. The way we've been doing it for more than 180 years.

That's why people still nurture our fields of Blue Maguey plants. And why mules are still used to bring these precious plants to our distillery. For tradition is still the most important ingredient in Cuervo Gold.

This is what makes Cuervo Gold truly special. Neat, on the rocks, with a splash of soda, in a perfect Sunrise or Margarita, Cuervo Gold will bring you back to a time when quality ruled the world.

Cuervo. The Gold standard since 1795.

The search ends; screening begins

The search and screen committee for the next FIU president will choose from a list of 139 persons who were nominated before last week's deadline.

The 13-member committee, composed of nine FIU employees, three interested outsiders and a student, recommends from five to eight persons to the Florida Board of Regents. The BOR will select the person to succeed President Harold Crosby, who leaves office Jan. 1.

SGA associate Barbara Castellanos, the only student on the committee, said there were "some good candidates, some bad candidates. We are going to look at it objectively."

The next search and screen meeting will be Wednesday, Sept. 27 at 2 p.m. It will be in PC 521, and is open to the public.

FAU-FIU nursing approved by Regents

The Florida Board of Regents met here Sept. 8 and approved Florida Atlantic University's request to begin a Bachelor of Science program in nursing.

This new program will be in conjunction with FIU, which will lose its own program in June 1979.

The BOR also announced that student regent Les Miller will stay on the board until after the November elections so the new governor can appoint a replacement.

Did You Know
Godzilla
Was A Co-op?

Not many people realize this, but Godzilla co-oped in Urban Renewal at the University of Tokyo. Like the students in F.I.U.'s Co-operative Education program, ol'Baggy Scales alternated quarters of full-time study in his academic area with full-time paid on-the-job experience in his chosen field. For Godzilla, Co-op paid off — he got permanent employment in his field through his Co-op experience and is seen above happily at work eating the city of Yokohama. And Co-op can work for you, too. Unfortunately, all our positions for 50-ton giant lizards are currently filled, but we have responsible positions open for students in Accounting, Fine Arts, Chemistry, Finance, Industrial Technology, Criminal Justice, History, Computers, Public Administration, Physics, International Relations...almost any major you can think of.

Suspected carcinogens should be considered 'guilty until proven innocent'

International Contributor

It is estimated that cancer will be contracted by one out of every four people in good health today. Fifty to ninety percent of these cases will be caused by carcinogens in the environment, a significant fraction of which will be in the foods and liquids we ingest. These substances are either put there by the manufacturer in order to flavor, color, or preserve the food; or we ourselves produce them when we inadvertently or otherwise char fish and meats in cooking.

With these statistics, and considering the fear that strikes the heart at the mere mention of the disease, it is no wonder that the once timorous FDA and other cognizant government agencies have responded to public pressures and banned outright a host of suspected carcinogens including such staples as cyclamate sweeteners, food dyes such as Red No. 2, and even saccharin. Conspicuous by its absence in this accounting is the preservative sodium nitrite.

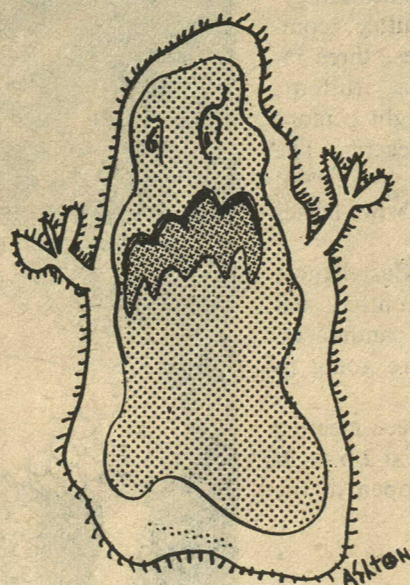

The stuff is ubiquitous. It is impossible not to see it listed in "Ingredients" on all prepackaged meats. And yet as every FIU alumnus of Chem 302L knows, sodium nitrite in the proper environment converts to N-nitrosamines which form potent carcinogens. Then why isn't it banned?

There are probably three reasons. First is the political clout of the meat producers. When the possibility of a ban on nitrites in bacon by the FDA or the Agriculture Department became a possibility, the governors of Indiana,

Illinois, and Iowa recently pleaded that a deadline be extended to avoid "disaster for our meat producers and farmers." Second is the unquestioned effectiveness of nitrites in preserving meats from botulism poisoning. Such poisoning results when spores of a bacterium produce a potent toxin that affects the nervous system. None of the proposed substitutes for nitrites works very well and abandoning their use would increase the risk of illness or death from botulism poisoning. (Sodium nitrite serves another function which some feel is the major reason for its use: it reacts with myoglobin in meat to replace a grayish tinge with a healthy-looking red color.) Third is the scientific controversy that continues to escalate as new research on the problem is reported.

On the one hand are the scientists, some very influential, who urge caution before abandoning nitrates as a meat preservative, not only because of its proven effectiveness for this purpose, but because they believe that nitrite synthesis is a normal biological function which occurs without the ingestion of external nitrite. Thus they cite that 80 per cent of the nitrite entering the stomach is that already manufactured by bacteria in the saliva, and less than 20 per cent is derived from the nitrite in meats. An MIT and Ontario Cancer Institute study reported as recently as mid-June of this year takes this thinking one step further: that the nitrites needed for nitrosamine formation can also be synthesized in significant concentration in the human intestine.

On the other hand are the scientists who acknowledge that the body may form its own nitrites but insist that ingestion of additional nitrites significantly increases the risk of tumor formation. To support this view, a new study by the Fredrick Cancer Research Center in Maryland—also reported in mid-June—finds that many common amine drugs such as the tranquilizer Librium may be readily converted into nitrosamines in the animal body if the diet also contains nitrites.

Probably the most sensible approach to this and similar diet problems is that until precise methods exist for determining chemical safety prudence must prevail by regarding suspect chemicals, indicated on the imperfect evidence of animal tests, guilty until proven innocent.

Is it sick to love a pen?

Is it crazy to love marker pens that give you the smoothest, thinnest line in town... and feel so right in your hand? Is it mad to worship pens with clever little metal "collars" to keep their plastic points from getting squishy?

Not if the pen is a Pilot marker pen. Our Razor Point, at only 69¢, gives the kind of extra-fine delicate line you'll flip over. And for those times you want a little less line, have a fling with our fine point 59¢ Fineliner. It has the will and fortitude to actually write through carbons.

So, don't settle for a casual relationship. Get yourself a lasting one, or two, to have and to hold... at your college book store.

FLORIDA INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY WILL PRESENT A COMPREHENSIVE SPEED READING PROGRAM

It is FULLY GUARANTEED that you will learn to read at least three times faster in your own textbooks or your entire tuition, $100, will be refunded.

"I feel that speed reading is essential for students and professionals. I highly recommend your course for anyone who wishes to increase their reading speed and comprehension. Thanks again for offering me an alternative to the restrictive traditional reading approach that I had been taught in school."

— Laura Stoller
UF Student

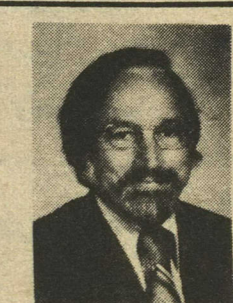

"An extremely valuable experience. Not only does it increase speed but provides a powerful approach to developing study habits that will serve students and teachers well, whether reading for fun or in the pursuit of new knowledge."

— Ron Tikofsky
Chm., Dept. of Psychology
FIU

"Everybody who has to read a lot, like high school students going to college for instance, should have a course like this to save time and be able to read more. It is very important that the person keep using it. I would recommend Reading Development for the students."

— Father Otto Martinez
Acting Principal
Belen Jesuit Preparatory School

Students taking the course at FIU last quarter reported increases of up to 10 times with full comprehension!

Unlike most speed reading course, there is no additional reading required — you will learn to read faster in your own textbooks. Reading Development does not use any so-called "standardized" readings. Anything you can read now, you can learn to read 3-10 times faster.

The Reading Development course includes a lesson on how to study efficiently and a lecture on "test wiseness," information all students can use.

The course will meet once a week for seven weeks, each lesson lasting 2½-3 hours. One hour of homework is required each day.

Usually the fee for this course is $255 per student (as compared to Evelyn Wood's $425). However, in order to make this course more available to FIU students and interested persons, the fee will be reduced to $100.00.

If learning to read 3-10 times faster is important to you, let the Department of Conferences (552-2600) know as soon as possible.

EACH CLASS IS LIMITED TO 20 NEW STUDENTS.

Soccer season begins with 4-3 loss to Bruins

"FIU? They stink," says a young soccer fan at the home opener against UCLA.

But the Sunblazers were 17-2-1 and made the NCAA Division II quarter-finals last season.

"Yeah, but they're nothing like UCLA and some of those schools."

The young fan is right. FIU is a commuter school and, perhaps because of this, attendance at home games is usually small.

"My guys really get fired up when there is a big, boisterous and supportive crowd," Nuttall said. "We need student support and even more of a community following."

A good following might be enough to put the 'Blazers over the top and into the Division II national championship.

To Nuttall, the real key to winning is recruiting good players from winning traditions and then getting them to play well together.

To help the players get closer to one another, Nuttall took the team to Melbourne for a week of intensive training before the season began. They used the Florida Institute of Technology facilities.

The season opened with a 4-3 loss to UCLA. The Bruins are in Division I and are ranked 12th nationally. FIU is in Division II.

"The UCLA loss didn't hurt us, although a win would have been a feather in our caps," Nuttall said. "We have plenty of time left."

There were two standout features of the 'Blazers in the season opener: They played like winners and they played together.

'Dr. Magic' Njie does tricks, but can't make fans appear

Managing Editor

Winning is in the air and the soccer team is on the scent of a Division II championship.

The team played tough against powerhouse UCLA (losing 4-3) and refused to let down. A sure sign of a winner.

Al "Dr. Magic" Njie, a winner himself, is on the trail of becoming an All-American.

Njie, a forward, epitomizes coach Bill Nuttall's philosophy of recruiting winners and then getting them to play together.

Before taking shots on goal, Njie looks for an open man to pass to. He had two assists and a goal in the UCLA game.

Gary Pollack and Charles Worthen scored FIU's other two goals.

The attitude, coaching and talent are there for the 'Blazers.

"We have a highscoring team and as soon as our defense jells we will be in good shape," Nuttall said.

The team also needs some fan support.

"We are planning some special events and contests for home games,"

Al Njie

Nuttall said. "This should help increase attendance."

By the time the Rollins game (Oct. 10 at FIU) rolls around, Nuttall hopes to have a good fan turnout.

"Rollins is tough. Whenever we play there, it's like being a goal down before the game starts because of their fans. They have a packed stadium and the noise is non-stop for 90 minutes," Nuttall said.

The Rollins team will miss their fans when they come to FIU in October. They will probably miss the FIU fans, also. There aren't very many—especially for a winner.

Women take screen and make it work

LUISA YANEZ
Staff Writer

Glossy it is not, but then glossy is not everything. With that in mind go see "Girl Friends," director/producer Claudia Weill's first major motion picture.

"Girl Friends" is a women's picture without the mush and tears. This one is a tale of two women, one a writer, the other a photographer.

Along the way one chooses marriage over career, and the other career over marriage—a case of the different road taken a la "Turning Point."

Weill, a new filmmaker with the eyes of a Scorsese and the humor of an early Bogdanovich, has assembled for her debut a cast of "real people" sans make-up, capped teeth or wardrobe by Edith Head.

Her stars, newcomers Melanie Mayron and Anita Skinner as the odd-coupled roommates who get sidetracked by life, give performances that will linger with you; they get strong support from Eli Wallach, Christopher Guest and Viveca Lindfors.

Technically, "Girl Friends" is bogged down by a case of amateurism. The editing is rocky and the sound—well, you'll hear noises of daily living not commonly heard on the silver screen.

Nonetheless, Weill's one man (oops!) one woman show is an impressive preview of her capabilities.

"Girl Friends" is a sincere study of life and relationships told in a fresh and unpretentious manner. Give it a try. Rated PG.

True humor found only on planet Ork

Managing Editor

The prime of prime time this tele-season is—believe it or not—a 30 minute Sitcom from ABC called "Mork and Mindy."

Hold it. I know it's a spinoff from "Happy Daze" and "Laverne and Squirley" but poor ancestry does not an orphan make.

Mork from Ork is played by Robin Williams, a young genius-actor you may have seen on the modern day "Laugh-in."

"Mork and Mindy" centers on him while avoiding the snotty trash one expects from ABC. (That network is called ABC because those are the only three letters the execs know.)

Actually the basis of the show is so ridiculous it will appeal to the usual tele-audience. But when Mr. Williams becomes Mork, a xositid from the planet Ork, the show becomes a deadly weapon; One can die laughing.

Jokes aren't corny and laughs aren't cheapshots. Williams—and his script—are superior to anything on the box.

Williams makes Steve Martin, Chevy Chase and Richard Pryor look like serious newscasters. He's that good.

Sure, you don't want to waste time becoming tele-stupid. And you would be embarrassed if you were caught watching "Mork and Mindy."

But the show will be a ratings hit and should provide a couple of years of true humor and good laughs in a medium where both are sadly lacking.

Mindy is Pam Dawber and the show is on Chs. 10 and 12 Thursday evenings at 8.

Spottswood pick in Senate runoff

John M. Spottswood Jr., a 28-year-old attorney-businessman from Key West, offers Democratic voters a clear choice in the state Senate District 40 runoff election on Oct. 5. Spottswood is the logical candidate for South Dade and Monroe County Democrats yearning for an eager and progressive senator in Tallahassee.

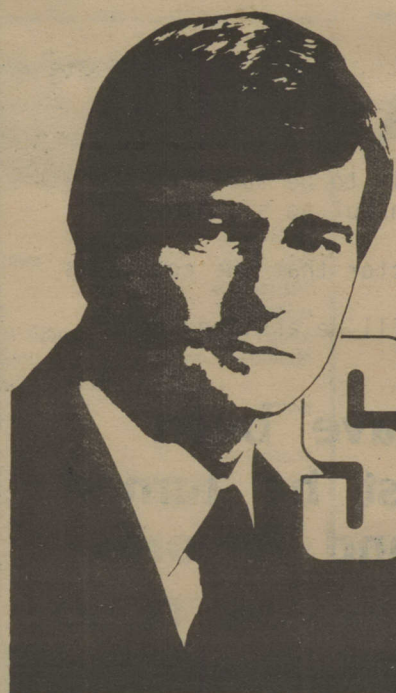

Spottswood is a committed opponent of casino gambling and just as committed in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment. His opponent, however, vehemently opposes the ERA, to the point of accepting a $1,000 campaign contribution from STOP ERA, a group based in Alton, Ill.

A strong environmentalist, Spottswood recognizes the need to preserve nature's unique gifts to South Florida. He also favors preserving the area's man-made traditions — buildings of unusual design — instead of wildly swinging the wrecker's ball.

One of Spottswood's top priorities is to lobby for more money to aid public education; he goes beyond the simple muttering of tired phrases attacking the public school system. He also supports more aid for migrant laborers, whose living conditions are so substandard, yet whose work is so critical to both farmers and consumers.

In the Sept. 12 primary, The Miami News Editorial Board recommended Mike Simonhoff as the best choice in this race but said Spottswood is a "bright young candidate in this contest with potential for public service."

Simonhoff lost in that primary, giving voters the chance to test Spottswood's potential right now. The Miami News Editorial Board strongly recommends the election of John M. Spottswood Jr. in the Oct. 5 Democratic primary.

For dynamic leadership today and tomorrow. A tradition of public service.

John SPOTTSWOOD Jr.

Learn to write resumes

The Department of Career Development and Placement will be presenting several seminars throughout the 1978-79 school year on resume writing and interviewing techniques. The facilitator for the seminars, Arletta Young, is also the department's vocational counselor. Young sees these seminars as an avenue for reaching and motivating students.

According to Young, the purpose of these seminars is to explain all the career-hunting activities future graduates (and others) should make to land a job. It is hoped that these seminars will, in addition, help students prepare for the on-campus interview sessions so that they can get the best jobs possible by presenting themselves to a recruiter in a professional manner.

All of the seminars are free. The first two have been scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 4, for all students enrolled on the North Miami Campus; and Thursday, Oct. 5, for all students enrolled in the School of Business on the Tamiami Campus. For additional information regarding the seminars, please contact Young at the Career Development and Placement Office in UH 340.

Library cuts hours on both campuses

FIU's budget for the operation of the library for the 1978-79 school year is $20,000 less than last year and due to this library hours at both campuses will be reduced.

The Student Government Association allocated the $20,000 last year to enable the library to increase its hours. This year, however, the SGA rescinded an allocation of $15,000 approved May 24 to maintain the longer hours.

New library hours are as follows:

Tamiami Campus

Mon.-Thurs.—8 a.m.-11 p.m.

Friday—8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Saturday—9 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Sunday—1-9:30 p.m.

North Miami Campus

Mon.-Thurs.—8 a.m.-10 p.m.

Friday—8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Sat.-Sun.—1-5 p.m.
