

Pssst, hey buddy, wanna' buy a campus?

University President Mitch Maidique has asked the Board of Regents for permission to sell all or part of Bay Vista Campus so he can consolidate operations at Tamiami, a Miami News story reported Saturday.

Saying he has been told the largely undeveloped,

198-acre campus is worth roughly $1 million an acre, Maidique proposed selling at least part of the land to further develop and improve Tamiami.

"If it would be the will of the Board, we would like to investigate liquidation of the campus or part of the campus so our resources could go to the main campus," The News reported Maidique as saying.

Bay Vista serves only 3,700 students, in contrast to Tamiami's 13,000-plus. Sixty million dollars has been invested in BVC, including a $1.3 million pool and a new $9.2 million library presently under construction. Seventy-five million has been invested in Tamiami.

Though the Board has not formally responded to the request, BOR Chancellor Charles Reed said the proposal would most likely be shot down.

"I think that the decision was already made that we should have a campus there several years ago. I doubt that the state would be interested in having that land commercially developed," Reed said.

Presidential/vice presidential race to be fought in run-off

Valerie Greenberg
Sunblazer editor

The field is down to two — Tim Benjamin/Nazaria Ramallo v. Fred Jorgenson/Natalie Butto.

Neither ticket was able to pull in a majority of the 1,068 voters in last week's Student Government Association elections. They did, however, edge out the Alex Fernandez/Lourdes Lopez and Joel Montgomery/Randy Crutchfield tickets and will face each other in a run-off Tuesday and Wednesday for the presidential and vice presidential seats.

The Benjamin/Ramallo ticket took 39 percent of the votes, barely squeezing past the Jorgenson/Butto team's 35 percent.

Both Benjamin and Butto said they were disappointed in the voter turnout.

"It's low, as usual. It's what it has been in the past," Butto said. She said a goal if elected would be to "find some incentive to get people to vote in future elections."

Benjamin, who said he had expected a higher turnout because "each year the University is growing and each year we should have more and more people voting, not less," said if elected he would implement a system where people who vote would wear a button or sticker to encourage others to do the same.

Benjamin said in the run-off election he hopes students will focus on the experience he and Ramallo would bring to office. Butto said she and Jorgenson can better represent the student body because she is primarily a Bay Vista student and Jorgenson is based on Tamiami.

Peer advisors to the rescue

VALERIE GREENBERG
Sunblazer editor

Adjusting to college life is no easy accomplishment. Fortunately for freshmen at FIU, there is help available. Peer advisors, a handful of students who have already overcome the trials of college life, work with incoming freshmen to make their entrance to the University smooth.

"Advisors become referral agents for students. They learn where to send students with certain problems," said Cynthia Cone, director of academic advising and the director of the peer advisors. Peer advisors assist freshmen with academic advising and registration, participation in orientation activities and organize and lead small group discussions.

"One thing the peer advisors do is encourage freshmen to get involved, not to act like they did in high school where they got up, went to school, and went home. If they have to study, an advisor suggests that they study in the library, not at home," Cone said.

"It helps both the student and the advisor because for the advisor there is some self-see PEER, p. 3 satisfaction," said Noel Lawrence, a peer advisor for two years. "You tell the students what to take, where to go, like you are releasing your knowledge to other people instead of keeping it to yourself."

During the summer, peer advisors attend training sessions with professional counselors and experts from University departments to prepare for dealing with students' problems and needs.

"These professional counselors can teach them to learn up front what students are telling them but might not be saying directly," Cone said.

Also during the summer, peer advisors call local incoming freshmen and write those out of state.

"Even during the summer, before they enter the University, the incoming freshmen talk to the peer advisors. Some are very afraid about stepping out of high school, so they call the advisor to ask simple questions that they wouldn't ask adults," Cone said.

The program, which was established in 1982, has been very successful, Cone said. "Freshmen still call peer advisors at home and seek them out. They are like big brothers and big sisters."

Peer advisors must have entered the University as freshmen, have experience with working with students, are familiar with FIU programs and who are ready to make a commitment to working with the program.

"When a student commits to a year-long program, a new job or extended social life should not interfere with their com- see PEER, p. 4

Cone said selecting the peer advisors from those who apply is not easy. "The freshmen at the University are already honor students, so we get past that and look for somebody with time and commitment and who knows of the academic and social life of the University."

Our Constitution was born out of a cacophony of competing voices.

But today the freedom of speech that remains the hallmark of our Constitution may be threatened.

The NAAAF Essay Contest is designed to emphasize the importance of free speech and open debate in a vital area.

In his best-selling book, They Dare to Speak Out: People and Institutions Confront Israel's Lobby, former Congressman Paul Findley sounds an alarm: "It is clear that many Americans do not feel they can speak freely on one of the most complicated and challenging current issues: The Arab-Israeli dispute."

Is he right? What do you think? Full time college and university students are invited to submit a critical essay of 2,500 words or less on the subject "The Development of American Middle East Policy: Is Free Speech Threatened?"

There will be 200 regional winners of $1,000 each and 10 national winners of an additional $4,000 each.

The contest is sponsored by the NAAA Foundation, a charitable organization which carries out educational programs on Middle East subjects.

Television commentator Tom Braden serves as Honorary Chairman of the Selection Committee. Distinguished columnist Carl Rowan is Awards Chairman.

FIU's own Rape in Vermont is musical success

SANDA KURTZ
Sunblazer Features Editor

There's a new sound in town. Screaming guitars, howling vocals and maniacal drummers have finally given way to Rape in Vermont.

This band, comprised of more than a few FIU students and graduates, plays music the world needs to hear. With such hits as "My Car Don't Work," "Nancy Reagan," "Ridin' Dat Rail" and other classics, it won't be long before Rape in Vermont becomes a cult classic.

Those in the high-up at Fire & Ice already know the band's potential and have asked them to be the un-official house band of that dancing establishment. Club Banal, where the group has performed to standing-room-only crowds, has them there as often as they can get them.

The band is composed of Mario Ramos, lead vocals; Jeff Dearing, guitar; Oscar Vermont III, bass; Gino Policello, drums; Frater Brian Spitzer is the boys spiritual advisor and sometimes guitarist. Spitzer, Ramos, Dearing and Policello have either graduated from or will graduate from FIU.

While Spitzer is away at Law School, Ramos and Dearing keep the band moving from gig to gig. They were at Club Banal on the fourth of April, and you have a chance to see them right here at FIU on April 9, at Thursdays on the Bay. Their performance will be a benefit for FIU's Literary Magazine. If you know what's good for you, you'll come on out and support this worthy cause.

Rape in Vermont has the talent, drive and sense of humor to keep the band performing for a very long time.

UM sweeps series against FIU

Sunblazers give up 26 runs in three games

JEFFREY BRENNER
Sunblazer sports editor

As a freakish cold front hit Miami, someone lighted a fire underneath the University of Miami, giving the Hurricanes the spark to sweep the series against FIU.

The Hurricanes bats pounded out 26 runs in three games, six of which were home runs during the first two games at Mark Light Stadium.

The scores for the three game set were 7-4, 12-1, and 7-6 in 12 innings.

The mainstay of FIU has been its pitching, but on this weekend the pitching was weak. Ken Deal, the ace of the staff with a 1.02 ERA, uncharacteristically gave up nine runs in 3.1 innings, including two home runs.

In the first game of the series, a crowd of 2,365 watched as center fielder, Rich Radford, hit his second home run of the season in the top of the second to give FIU a 1-0 lead. FIU led until Miami came to bat in the bottom of the third.

Hurricane Jorge Robles led off the inning by hitting a grounder to first baseman Tony Shade and Shade stepped on first for the first out. Then Jose Trujillo walked and stole second. Next was Mike Fiore who hit his fifth home run of the year.

The Hurricanes stayed ahead through the rest of the first and second games to the second inning of the third game.

In game two, the Hurricanes blew up a storm as they scored eight runs in the first three innings.

The fifth inning of game two went haywire for the Sunblazers as left fielder Jorge Laguardia left the field for the dugout when the strap for his glasses snapped. No one was notified to call time and relieve pitcher Stephen McDowell pitched the ball. Trujillo hit a high fly ball to left, but there was nobody there. Center fielder Rick Johnson ran toward the ball as he noticed Laguardia missing. Johnson made a diving attempt at the ball that he just missed by inches. Trujillo had to settle for a double because of Johnson's hustle. Trujillo scored when Frank Dominguez hit his 11th home run of the season.

In the third and most exciting game, FIU took an early lead in the second inning when Victor Rivera scored on a Rich Radford sacrifice fly to center field.

UM came back in the top of the third when Robles led the inning off with a double, and then scored on a Fiore single to center.

The Sunblazers then struck for two runs in the fifth inning. Shortstop Zack Valade reached base on an errant throw from Miami's shortstop. He then advanced to third on a perfect hit-and-run play with Laguardia. Hector Fernandez hit into a double play. Next was Johnson, who hit a single to left field. He advanced to third on a single to right field by Shade. Valade finally scored on a wild pitch by

Will Vespe.

UM and FIU traded runs in the seventh inning to make the score 4-2.

Disaster struck in the eighth inning for the Sunblazers as Dominguez walked to lead off the inning. He moved to second on a John Viera single. Kirk Dulom hit a sacrifice fly to center field, which allowed Dominguez to move to third. Viera then stole second to give UM men at second and third with one out. Relief pitcher Terry Christopher was then able to strike out catcher Doug DeCock. Wade Taylor a pinch hitter hit a grounder to the right of first baseman Shade. Shade fielded the ball cleanly but threw the ball behind the pitcher who was coming to cover first base. That error allowed two runs to score and give UM a 4-4 tie. Taylor eventually came around to score to give the Hurricanes a 5-4 lead going into the bottom of the eighth.

FIU got the run back in the same inning as Mark Wilgus pinched hit for Steve Edwards. Wilgus hit a grounder to the second baseman, but this time the UM second baseman overthrew first base, which allowed Wilgus to go to second. He then scored on a Laguardia double.

The game stayed tied until the eleventh inning when Robles was able to get on base and eventually scored. But FIU was up to the challenge as Shade got on base and scored later on a two base error.

UM won the game in the 12th as Bobby Hernandez hit a double and later came around to score on a sacrifice fly by Robles.

FIU will have one more chance at the Hurricanes as UM hosts a single game April 28 at Mark Light.

Professional and student photographers around town are buzzing about Florida International University. FIU's photography department is rising as one of the area's best, as it attracts the biggest names in the business to lecture and work with students. Four of the nation's top photographers are seen here through the lenses of FIU students. Gary Winogrand (top left), perhaps the most famous photographer to have lived in Miami, is pictured, camera around neck, on Miami Beach shortly before his recent death. Larry Fink (bottom left), known for his dramatic black and white portraits, is caught napping at a student's home after a full-day workshop at FIU. William Eggleston (bottom right), a pioneer of color photography as an art form, is shown talking to and being photographed by FIU students following a lecture. Lee Friedlander (top right), is framed among cactus on Miami Beach while spending an afternoon shooting with students.
