ADIN BABER of Kansas, Illinois, and Miami, Florida has made a hobby of the study of early American history as shown by the records of the movement of commerce and military supplies over early trails and streams.

DUVON CLOUGH CORBITT, Ph.D., is a professor in Candler College, Havana, Cuba. He has published many results of his researches in the Cuban and the Spanish archives.

DAVID FAIRCHILD of Coconut Grove organized the Section of Foreign Seed and Plant Introduction of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in 1898. He became head of this organization as it developed into a Division. He conducted as its Agricultural Explorer various Expeditions in many parts of the world in search of new and valuable plants of promise for agricultural and horticultural uses in America. This Division has fostered the introduction of nearly 200,000 varieties and species of useful plants. He came to Miami first in 1898 and made his home here in 1916 and is the author of "Exploring for Plants" and "The World was my Garden" and the "Book of Monsters" and has been President of the American Genetic Association since 1913. This association publishes the Journal of Heredity.

HELEN C. (Mrs. Wm. L.) FREELAND of Coral Gables knew George Merrick intimately for thirty-one years. She has seen the city of Coral Gables grow from its inception in the mind of the founder. Mrs. Freeland has wide interests in history and genealogy and has done much research, especially in the latter.

ROBERT F. GREENLEE of Ormond Beach, Florida, has lived among the Seminoles, has been permitted to witness their ceremonies and to make recordings of them. These recordings are available to students of Indian lore.

WATT MARCHMAN, is now residing in St. Augustine, where he is Corresponding Secretary and Librarian of the Florida Historical Society.

T. RALPH ROBINSON, has retired from government service and lives at Terra Ceia, Florida. He was a plant physiologist in the Division of Fruit and Vegetable Crops and Diseases, Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture. He spent much of his active life in Florida stations.
