Contributors

JEANNE BELLAMY is a staff writer of the Miami Herald. She has written on a wide range of South Florida Topics, most importantly perhaps on water control in the Everglades. A preliminary draft of this paper was read at a program meeting of the Historical Association on January 31, 1951.

MRS. HENRY J. BURKHARDT, perhaps better known to newspaper readers in Dade County as Sue Pope Burkhardt, comes of a pioneer South Florida family. She is a graduate of Miami High School and attended Florida State University. She filled various positions on the old Miami Metropolis, and originally went to West Palm Beach where she now resides to have charge of the Metropolis news bureau there. The article on the history of coontie starch making was written for the Everglades Park Library, and was read at a program meeting of the Historical Association of Southern Florida.

ERNEST G. GEARHARDT, JR., is an Assistant Vice President of the First National Bank of Miami. He did the research on starch making machinery and the early methods of processing coontie roots into starch for the purpose of designing a working model of a coontie starch mill of the type being used in South Florida before the turn of the century. This model was the central attraction of the bank's exhibit in the Greater Miami Manufacturers' Exposition at the Dinner Key Auditorium in March 1952. An historical theme was selected for the exhibit to coincide with the bank's observance of its fiftieth anniversary year. The article was originally written as explanatory and background material for the benefit of the bank personnel manning the booth at the exhibit. The starch mill model was later donated to the Historical Association of Southern Florida, and has been on display for some months at the Miami Public Library in Bayfront Park.

OLIVER GRISWOLD is program coordinator for the University of Miami's Radio and Television Department. He is chairman of the Historical Association's Committee on Historical Sites and Markers.

REMBER W. PATRICK, who prepared the introduction and notes for William Adeed Whitehead's description of Key West is chairman of the History Department at the University of Florida, Associate Editor of the Florida Historical Quarterly and author, among other things, of Florida Under Five Flags.

JULIEN YONGE, Director of the P. K. Yonge Library of Florida History at the University of Florida, and for more than a quarter of a century editor of the Florida Historical Quarterly, called to our attention the Whitehead description of Key West and supplied the photograph and notes on the early plan of Key West.

F. PAGE WILSON is a long time resident of Miami as his article indicates. He now resides at 102 S. W. 19th Road. He is a member of the Historical Association Board of Directors, and an active member of the Miami Pioneers. This article is part of a larger study of the area's history on which he is working.

LIST OF MEMBERS *

EXPLANATORY NOTE: The Society provides several classes of membership. Regular or "Annual" members at three dollars a year make up the great majority of the list. For those who wish to contribute more for the promotion of the Association's work, the other classes of membership provide the opportunity, and the publication of their names in the proper category of membership is a means of recognition. "Sustaining" members pay five dollars a year, "Patrons" pay ten dollars a year, "Donors" pay twenty-five dollars a year, "Sponsors" pay one hundred dollars a year, and "Benefactors" contribute two hundred and fifty dollars or more a year.

*This printed roster is made up of the names of those persons and institutions that have paid dues in 1951 or in 1952 before September first, when this material must go to press. Those joining after this date in 1952 will have their names included in the 1953 roster. The symbol  indicates founding member and the symbol * indicates charter member.*
