

THE

1957 CONCH

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial statements. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses and income. The document also highlights the need for regular reconciliation of bank statements and the company's records to identify any discrepancies early on.

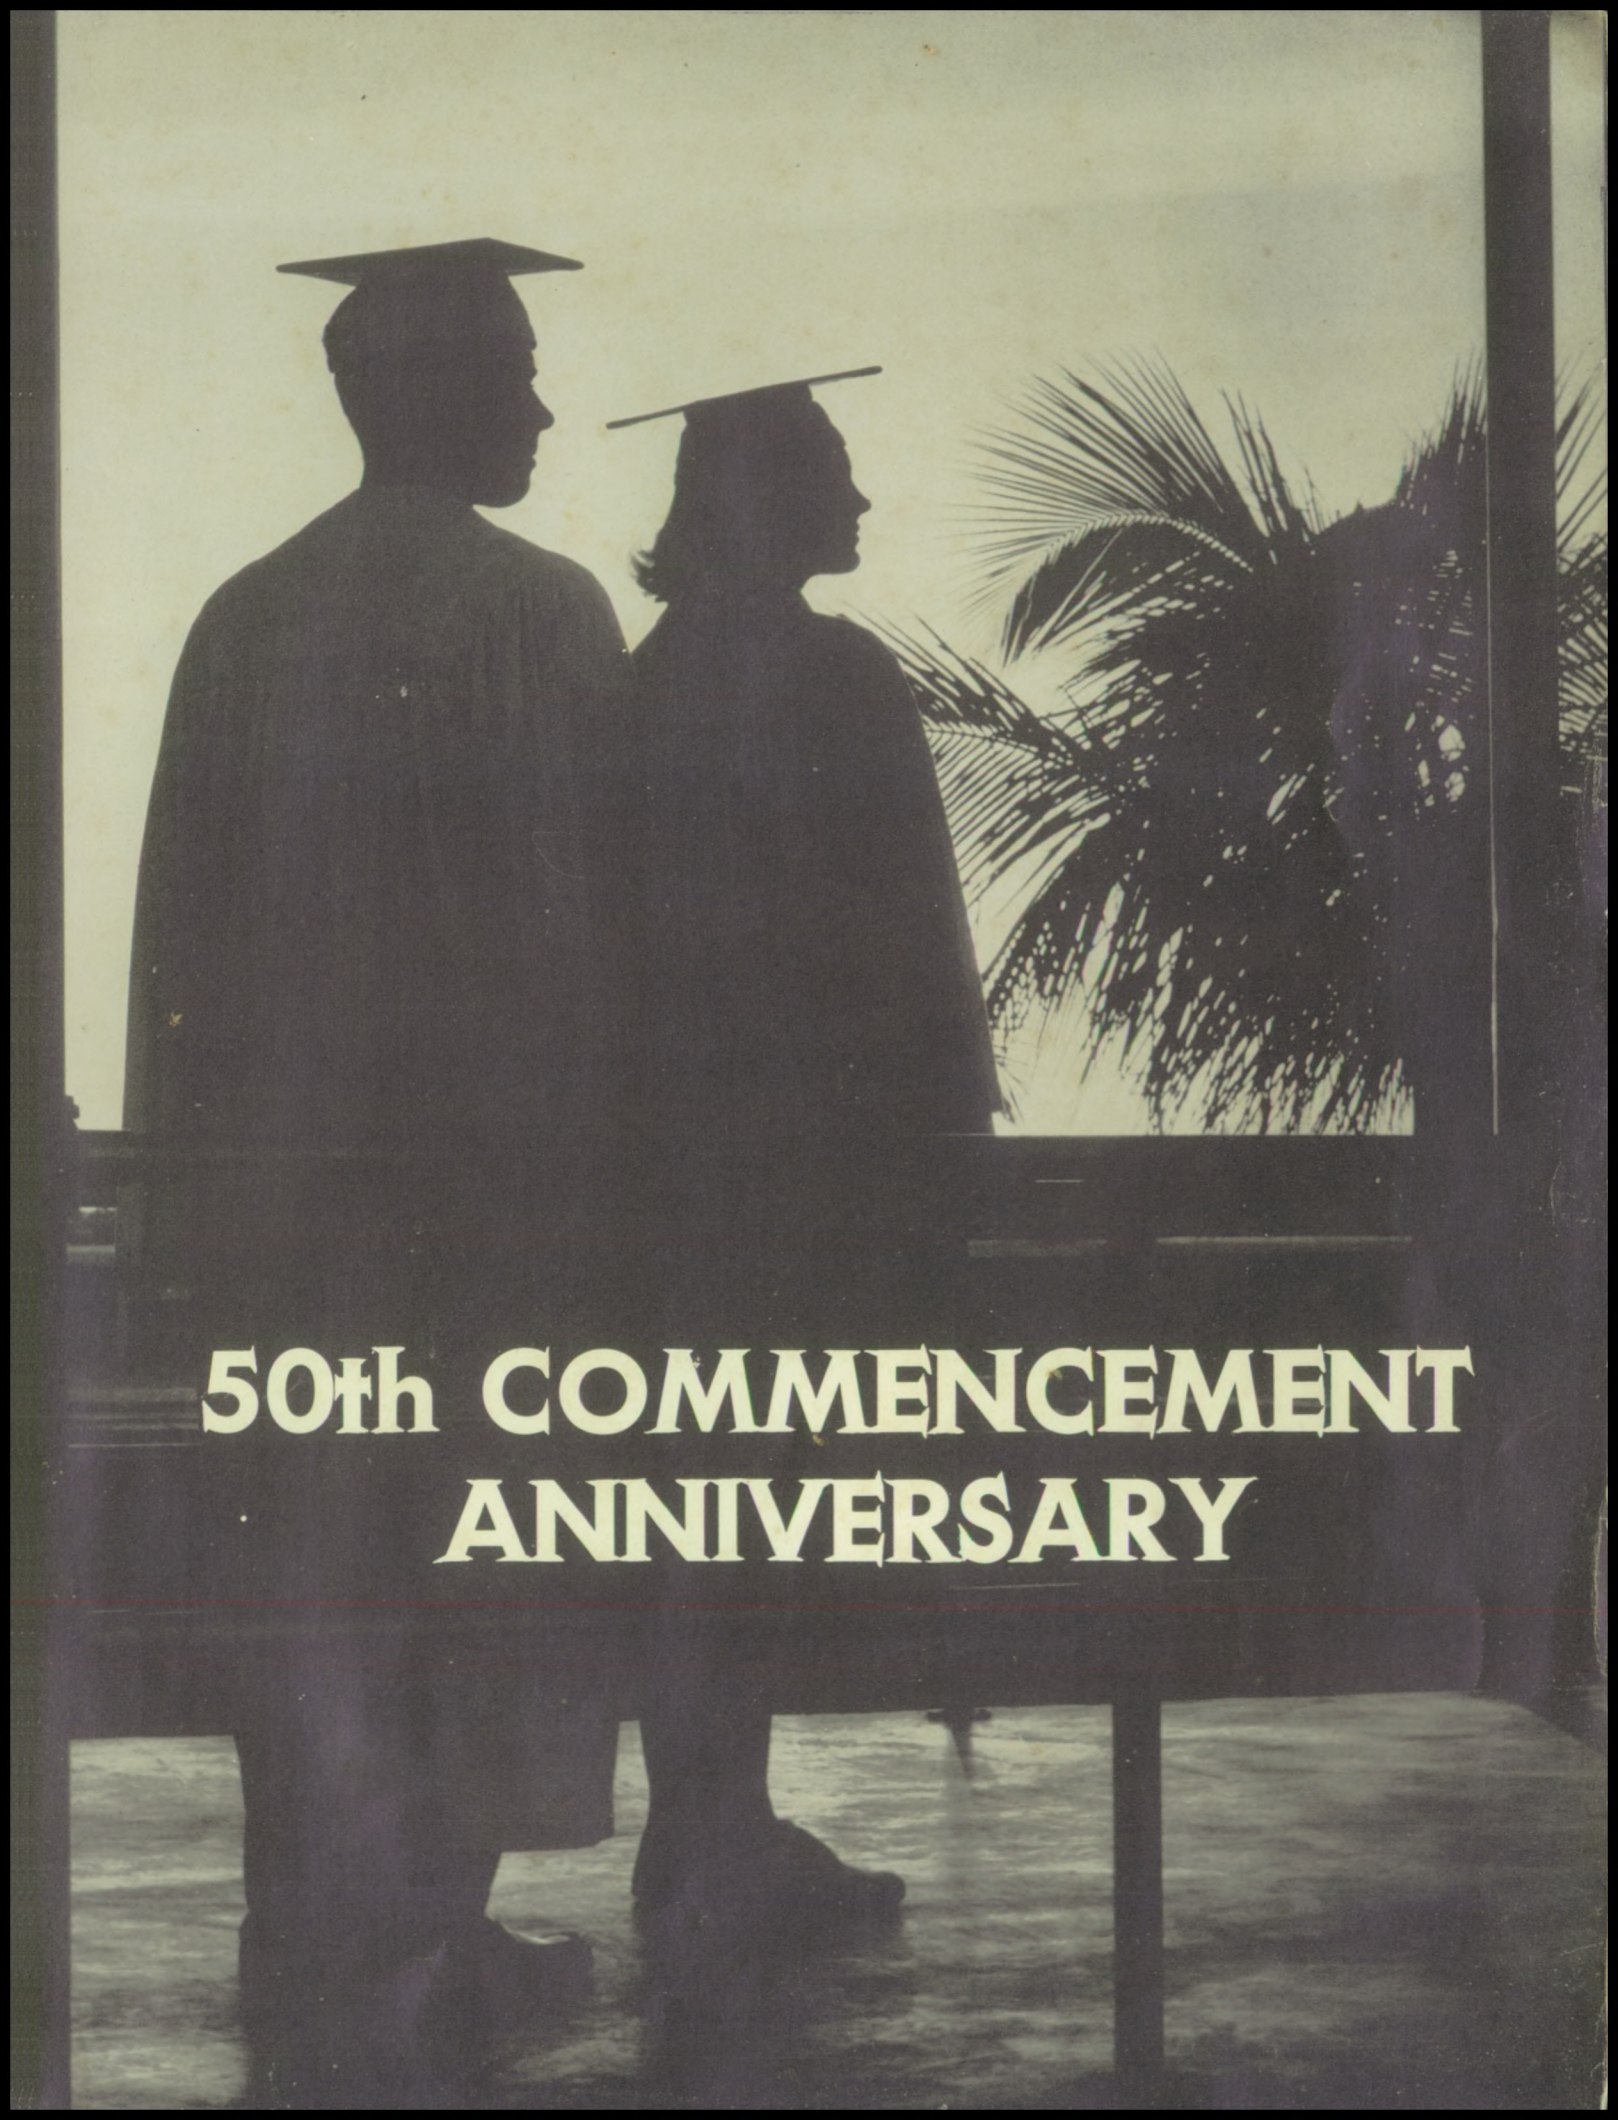

Furthermore, it outlines the various methods used for recording transactions, such as the double-entry system, which ensures that the accounting equation remains balanced. The document provides a detailed explanation of how debits and credits are used to record transactions and how they affect the different accounts in the ledger. It also discusses the importance of using consistent accounting policies and the impact of changes in these policies on the financial results.

In addition, the document covers the process of closing the books at the end of each accounting period. It explains how temporary accounts, such as sales, expenses, and income, are closed to the permanent accounts, such as retained earnings. This process is essential for determining the net income or loss for the period and for updating the equity section of the balance sheet.

The document also touches upon the role of internal controls in preventing errors and fraud. It discusses the importance of segregation of duties, authorization of transactions, and regular audits. These controls are crucial for ensuring the reliability of the financial information and for protecting the company's assets.

Finally, the document concludes by emphasizing the importance of transparency and accountability in financial reporting. It states that accurate and timely financial statements are essential for making informed decisions and for maintaining the trust of stakeholders. The document provides a comprehensive overview of the accounting process and the various steps involved in recording and reporting transactions.

Key West, Florida

FOREWORD

As we complete our first year in our fabulous, modern school, we pause to glance back through the years to marvel at how our educational facilities have grown.

The first Key West High School was a wooden building on Simonton Street founded in 1900. Due to unfavorable surroundings, it was moved in 1908 to the present Harris Elementary School. In 1914 the demand for a larger school was felt and what is now Truman Elementary School was erected for this purpose. As the years rolled by, a larger and more modern building was needed to hold the constantly-growing classes. Thus, in 1921, the citizens of Monroe County voted to erect what is now the front building of Memorial Junior High. Facilities were still inadequate to meet the requirements of higher standards; so, another two-story building with an auditorium was added in the back. This structure accommodated the students quite adequately for about twenty-five years, after which time the Annex was built a block away from the high school. As the population grew and the number of students almost doubled, it became necessary to have larger facilities. In 1955 the citizens passed the bond issue which was to enable the building of our ultra-modern high school on Flagler Avenue.

This year, 1957, is the golden anniversary of graduation ceremonies in Key West High School and the first anniversary of the new school.

This year's Conch staff has combined pictures and copy designed to bring back memories to students of today and yesterday as they leaf through the '57 Conch.

The first Conch was published in 1927 and contained less than sixty pages. It had a cardboard cover and no color. As you can see, the Conch has grown through the years. The '57 edition has two hundred pages, four of which are in full color and eight in duotone. The color is an innovation this year and twenty additional pages are among the new features.

CURRICULUM

These are the People

Who Supervise

Mr. Horace O'Bryant
Superintendent of Public Instruction

Never before in history have the monetary rewards of an education been so great. Truly, your diploma is a golden key which unlocks the storehouse of the world's greatest treasures. With such an opportunity in sight, I would earnestly urge every graduate to take full advantage of this chance which may never be repeated.

Mr. O'Bryant greets the first graduate of Key West High School, Mr. J. Lancelot Lester.

and Administer

Dr. Campbell relaxes at home with his wife.

Dr. Campbell talks over school matters with the president of the senior class and the president of the student association.

Dr. Harold C. Campbell
Principal

Fifty years ago, Key West High School graduated its first class. No one, even by the stretch of the imagination, would ever have thought that today, 1957, Key West High School would be housed in its present magnificent plant. Neither did anyone then dream that a course of study such as our present curriculum, and the extra-curricular activities, would be offered to all those who would avail themselves of the opportunity.

These changes did not come about overnight. They were made possible through the foresight of our alert citizens who worked diligently to meet challenging needs as the occasions arose. They are to be congratulated!

To you students who are presently attending the new Key West High School, there is not only a challenge to meet, but also a duty to perform, namely, that you see the need of a good education and that you work with determination to become a graduate of your Alma Mater. This you can and must do if you are to assume your proper place in life.

H. Campbell

Capable, when it comes to finances, is Mrs. Garrett, our bookkeeper.

Mrs. Alsing glances through the files for reports on students.

OFFICE STAFF

Key West High is proud of its office staff. In quarters which match the personnel for efficiency and smartness, the office workers greet warmly the visitors to the school, the man on a mission, or the student who needs advice.

Under the supervision of an experienced registrar who has moved with the various locales of the Key West High School since 1942, the staff functions smoothly. A bookkeeper well-known to the students for her ready helpfulness manages to lend assistance to needy teachers and students despite columns of figures emanating from the office, the plant, the cafeteria, and students organizations. The secretary is equally familiar to all through her daily "intercom" communications to the school body. An adult education registrar and file clerk lends to the efficiency of the entire group with ever-present willingness.

A large outer office with counter separating the staff from those who come provides for effective handling of the myriad requests which they bring. The other side of the counter has adequate space for the staff and records.

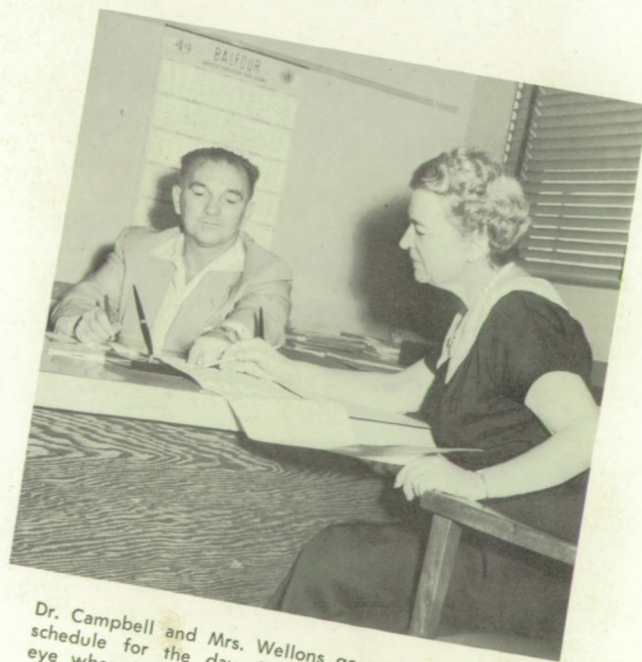

Three rooms for storage and supply complete the office personnel's quarters.

Mrs. Margaret Wellons
Registrar

"Your attention please," says Mrs. Quinn, official squawk box announcer.

Dr. Campbell and Mrs. Wellons go over the important schedule for the day. There's more than meets the eye when it comes to running the school.

Attendance

Rosemary Cabrera
Girls' Attendance

Paul W. Cauffiel
Boys' Attendance

Familiar to most students is the following routine of the attendance office.

If the pupil has been absent from school, he is to bring a note from the parents when he returns. This note should state when and why the pupil was not in school. The pupil takes this note to the attendance office and an absence admission slip is issued. It is marked so each teacher may check whether the pupil is excused or unexcused. This slip is signed by the homeroom teacher as well as each class teacher.

If the pupil is late for school, he reports directly to the attendance office, and he is issued a tardy slip before being admitted to classes.

If a child becomes ill during class, he secures a note from that teacher to the attendance office. In some cases the child may be excused to go home, or he may lie down in the room provided. If an emergency arises, the parent is contacted and asked to come for the child.

If it is necessary for a pupil to be away from school for some reason other than illness, a note should be brought stating when the absence will occur and why. A form, especially provided for this, is given to the pupil; he takes this to each teacher who may or may not O.K. his absence. This will depend upon his grades and whether the teacher feels he can miss the work. All work missed must be made up at the discretion of the teacher. Make-up work is the student's responsibility.

Eddy Garcia receives counseling from Dr. Cauffiel.

General Math

Our Curriculum Includes Math

Mathematics for every need and every mind is offered in Key West High School. Each high school student must study the subject two years, a higher requirement in curriculum than that of other years.

Algebra 1 and 2 introduces the college prep student into the mysteries of the uses of letters and other symbols in calculating and of negative and imaginary numbers. Thus initiated, he is prepared for the deeper matter of plane geometry, trigonometry and solid geometry, which, as all readers are aware, cope with relations, properties and measurements of solids, surfaces, lines, and angles.

Business math is designed for the commercial student; it refreshes him on the fundamental processes of arithmetic and on the use of short cuts; it teaches an understanding of the mathematical processes used in business; and, it gives the students an understanding of business vocabulary. Problems concerning retail and wholesale buying and selling, taxes, banking, and stocks and bonds are handled. Visits by local businessmen add to the effectiveness of this class.

General math is required of the student in the general as well as in the business course of study. Here it is hoped that all basic difficulties in the fundamentals are erased forever. Every-day problems are introduced to make learning more meaningful.

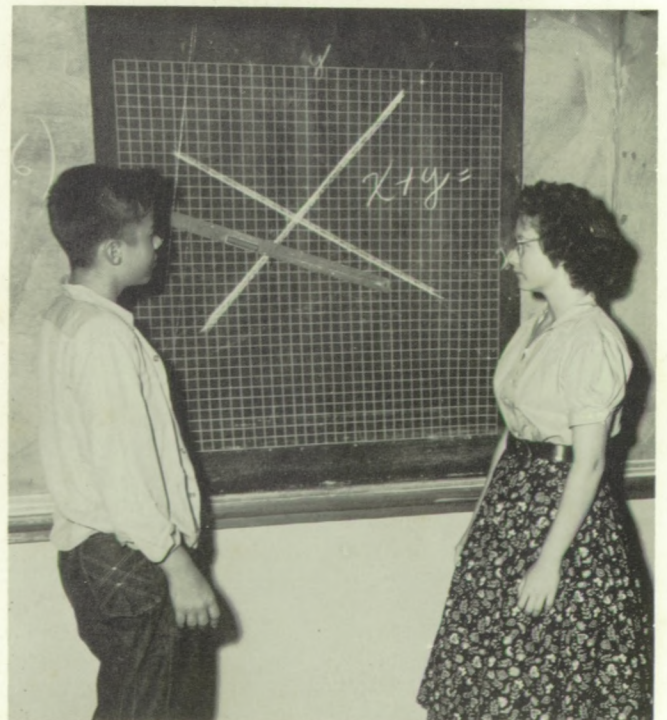

Practical math, introduced this year for all students not in college prep, aims to fill any loopholes left in the student's math background. It offers a general review of the fundamentals of math needed by the average person in his day-to-day activities.

Civics

Mike Hughes reviews the news in Mr. Roberts' civics class.

House of Representatives in session or a class debate? Whatever it is, Miss Reynolds is interested.

The social studies program in Key West High School aims to develop an appreciation of our past history with a view toward being able to interpret current events, to react judiciously to them, and to understand the workings of our government.

American history and government are required of every student who is graduated from high school. The first is a thorough investigation of our history from its beginnings to the present time.

Government is taught to acquaint the students with our governmental processes at all levels and to make them conscious of their responsibility as citizens of a democracy.

Civics, required of all ninth graders, gives students a survey of the material which they study in greater detail in the twelfth year required course.

Hey, kids, this isn't a posed picture.

World history, a tenth grade subject, treats of the shifting of world leadership from the East to the West, the historical effects of science and religion, and the growth of democracy.

Three awards for merit and ability are given on Class Night.

Social Studies . . .

Uh, uh, boys! Let's listen to Mrs. Taylor instead of flirting. She is trying to teach you government.

What are you doing, Chuck and Kenny? Or don't you know either?

The purpose of the study of science in high school is to make the student aware of his environment and appreciative of the effects of nature on his everyday life.

Biology, physics, and chemistry are required for college prep students.

There is more to biology than simply tracking down and cutting up insects. The study of botany, zoology, hygiene, agriculture, dietetics, medicine, and everything that pertains to life is covered in this course.

An elaborately-equipped biology lab boasts of an aquarium, seven brand-new microscopes, a form of a human torso, geological and botanical charts, a Bioscope and a Rayoscope and numerous reference slides. A darkroom is being equipped.

The study of physics involving experimentation pertaining to mechanics, heat, light, sound, and electricity, takes place in one lab and the teaching of chemistry, the science which treats of the composition of substances and of their transformations, in another.

General science, usually used by commercial and general curriculum students in satisfaction of the one-year science requirement, is a survey course which studies in general the effects of the elements on human beings and prepares the students for more specialized and inquisitive research into the laws of nature.

The Science Fair, held for the first time in March of this year for two days, showed the progress of students in these subjects. Four hundred displays covered all areas.

Three awards, a science award for the outstanding senior, a medal for achievement and a book award for the outstanding student of natural science, are given at the end of the year.

and Languages

Mrs. Stark and students listen attentively as Kathy Hansket gives her first speech.

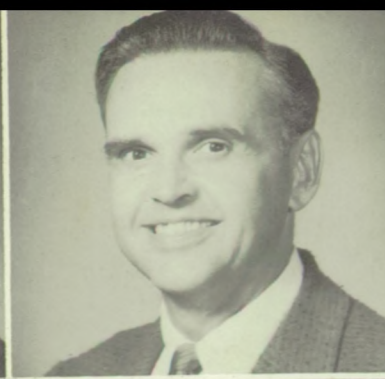

If Spanish is this easy, I think I'll sign up for it next year.

Until recently, Latin had really been a dead language for Key West High students. Last year, the course was reinstated mainly for college-prep students. One of the principal advantages of the study of Latin is that a basic knowledge of it tends to develop an understanding of the English language and grammar and an appreciation of English culture. A better feeling for art, music, and literature is among the aims of this course.

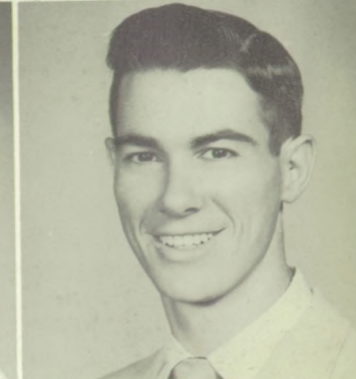

This must be a comical word. At least, that's the impression Mrs. Tatum and her class give us.

The aims of the college prep English course are high and are said to cause great consternation and conversation among the students. They are: clear understanding of the basic parts of speech, vocabulary-building, accurate spelling, clarity and forcefulness in self-expression, the writing of themes with logical organization and clarity, an understanding of the principles of research, reading comprehension, a cultural understanding of great English literature, sharp analysis of books read, an ability to take, organize, and use notes, and the correct method of study.

In order to provide all students with the opportunity to develop their ability to express in writing and in speech clear, concise meanings and to stimulate their desire to read, a course in practical English was made a requirement this year for all seniors not in the college prep course. This subject stresses grammar, correct expression in speech and writing, and appreciation for as well as familiarity with good literature.

D. C. T. (Distributive Cooperative Training) enables students to earn while they learn. They take the usual required subjects and spend at least one period a day preparing for their job under the direction of a coordinator. Most of them work on-the-job the entire afternoon and Saturdays. The co-ordinator confers with the employer about requirements for the position. In this way, saleable skills are developed through training and work experience in an actual business establishment in the community. While completing high school education, the student is thus making gradual transition from school to employment.

READING IS A PLEASURE . . . In Our New Library

Mary B. Trevor
Librarian

A spacious library consisting of a reading room seating 120 students, 22 reading tables, 2 conference rooms, a workroom for audio-visual education, a periodical room, and a Florida room, adds to the pride felt in the new school.

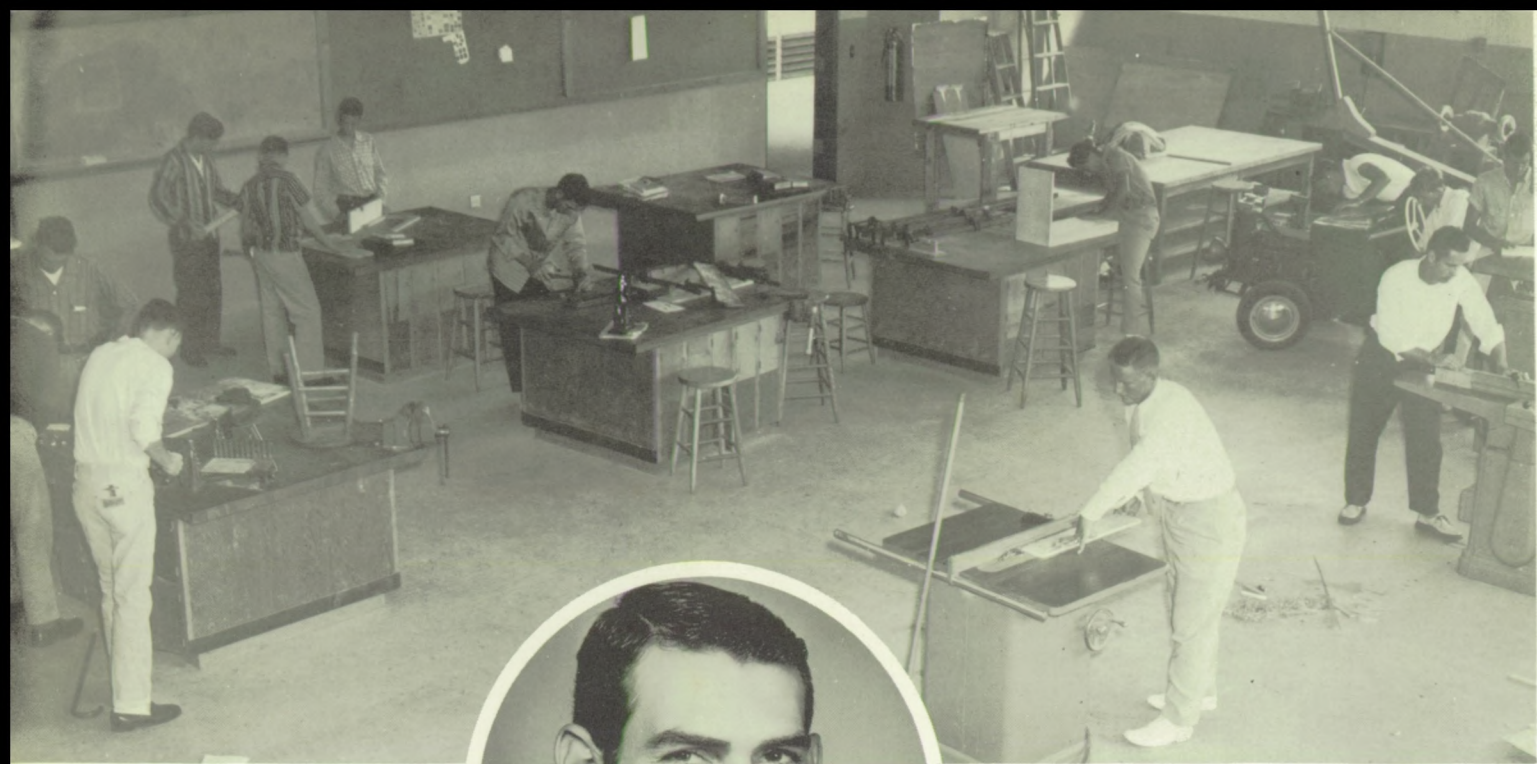

Over five hundred books have been added to the more than five thousand with which the library began operation. Among these are new encyclopedias and a 22-volume set of the Dictionary of American Biography.

Average daily attendance for 1956-57 was 422 as compared to 248 of the previous school year.

The credit course Library Science was added this year.

Lavonne Dowdy and Velma Roberts repair damaged books.

Thomas D. Stevens
Industrial Arts

The main purpose of industrial arts is to acquaint students with tools and processes involved in the art of woodwork and related fields. After mastering hand tools, the students move to power tools and then to designing and finishing.

All tools in the shop are as new as the school. Among the power tools are wood lathes, circular saw, jointer, planer, scroll saw, and a band saw and drill press. A complete set of hand tools is also available for use of the students.

Bookracks, TV tables, water skis, tool boxes, work benches, stage props, picture frames, aquaplanes, bed frames, and salad bowls are made. Exhibits of shop work are displayed outside the department.

Arts and Crafts

Arts and Crafts

Classes in the art department this year first worked in decorative metal work, moved to leather articles, and then took up woodwork. A short unit in water color was also introduced.

In conjunction with the manual arts department and under the direction of the dramatic classes, scenery was designed and made for the senior, junior, and sophomore plays.

Classes met in the crafts shop, which possesses varied facilities. Woodworking equipment includes a bandsaw, a scroll saw, a sander, lathe, circular saw, a large drillpress, a grinder and buffer, and leather work tools. A hand printing press was invaluable in producing quantities of attractive signs and posters.

An exchange of equipment and students between the art and manual arts departments made for smooth operation of both.

Art is an elective subject which is open to all students. It may be taken four years and is chosen mostly by general course students.

Donna Hedge shows Harry Bethel, Nick Vonya, Reinaldo de Lapaz, and Idilio Salinero that even girls can perform such skills.

"Please reserve your Annual," pleads Lee Castro.

Anyone for leather carving?
It looks easy in this picture.

Commercial . . .

The commercial department is housed in the first three rooms in the building of the new high school, quarters adequately equipped for business students. Bookkeeping and shorthand students meet in the first of these. Bookkeeping students become acquainted with all common business forms and learn the use of all standard record books. Bookkeeping for a sole proprietorship and for a partnership is studied in detail and corporation records are introduced. Students in Gregg shorthand take between 100 and 120 words per minute at the completion of their second year and have had practice in the transcription of their notes.

The office machines room has such up-to-date equipment as completely automatic Friden calculators, 10-key adders, dictaphones, comptometers, electric typewriters, duplication machines, a bookkeeping machine, and other miscellaneous equipment. In this class, office etiquette is taught during the first six weeks. Then, students are rotated from one machine to another.

In a well-lighted room with twenty-five new typewriters out of forty, students learn to type between fifty and eighty words per minute.

Business mathematics and business English are shared with other departments of the school.

Two highly competitive awards, a typewriter and a medal, are given at the end of the year to faculty-selected outstanding students.

Home Economics

Since the building of the old high school on White Street, Home Economics has been offered. This course is given to prepare girls for home and family life.

Every girl is required to study in this department for one year; the second year is optional. Food and nutrition are studied for one semester; clothing and textiles for the other. Attention is also given to child care and development.

The sewing classes make the costumes for school performances. Every year they present a fashion show for the Parent-Teachers Association.

The Woman's Club Homemaking Medal is given to a Senior girl who has done outstanding work in this course. Under the auspices of this department, the Betty Crocker Test on general homemaking is given to every girl in the school year. The winner of the "Search for Future Homemakers of Tomorrow" test was awarded a tiffany pin.

Physically, the department has been greatly enlarged and enhanced in the new building. Two completely equipped laboratories, foods and clothing, and one homemaking room simulate the most modern and up-to-date working environment in which the girls could find themselves in real life. The foods lab boasts of six unit kitchens, each containing a stove and a set of dishes, aluminum utensils, and a laundry unit with an automatic washer and drier. The clothing lab has five cutting tables, twelve varnished machines, and abundant closet space. The homemaking room has a living room and dining room combination.

"Step one in sewing is correct cutting of the material," says Miss Lowe to Joyce Toonk and Annette Dion.

Getting in practice for the future are Dorothy Jacques and Bernice Celani.

Look, Mom! I told you I could do it, even if it is just boiling water.

It's amazing what a sewing machine can put together.

If you learn one thing in Home Economics, be sure it's how to set a table.

It's a little long, but wait! It isn't finished yet.

Driver Training

Two years and so many accidents later, Key West High is still striving to teach students how to drive. Seriously, Key West High is proud of its persevering driver trainees. Nine out of every ten students participating in the course pass their test.

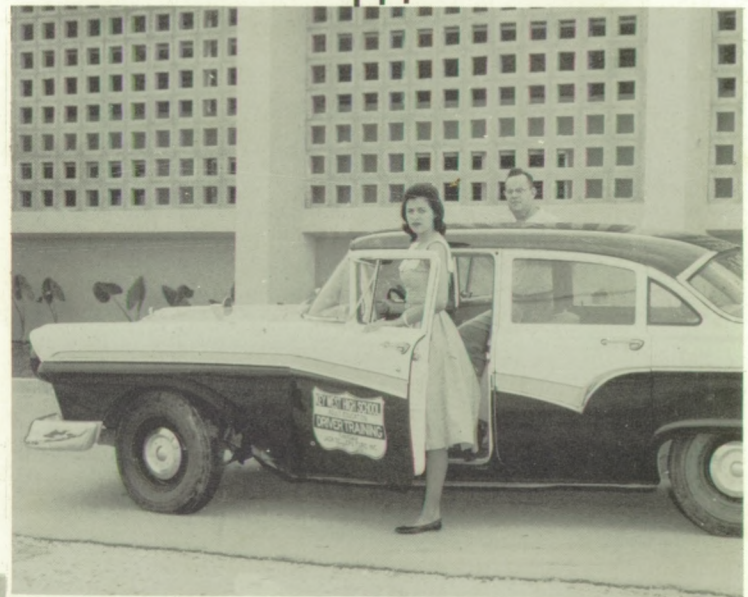

Monroe Motors has generously supplied the department with a 1957 Ford. In such a modern car, the students can keep up with the advancements of the automobile and its mechanisms as well as learn to drive. Laws of the state and respect for the pedestrian and other drivers is taught.

The department strives not only to make known the serious need for safe and courteous drivers but takes important steps toward meeting it.

Ormond Otvos and Annette Esperdy check their vision.

Jane Gomez is out for her daily drive.

Esther Yarnall gives parking directions.

CHORUS

The purpose of the general course in music is to give each pupil, regardless of talent or ability, an opportunity to develop an appreciation and understanding of music as an art, and to enrich his cultural life through musical experience of an emotional, spiritual, and aesthetic nature. It should be emphasized that the work of the general music class is largely exploratory with emphasis on the understanding and the appreciation of music as an art. Joy in performing, in listening, and where the conditions warrant, in creating music, rather than skill in performance, are the ultimate goals.

The choral department makes appearances at civic organizations and performs yearly for Christmas, Easter, and graduation exercises.

The Key West High School Band, under the new direction of Mr. William Higgins, has won wide acclaim over the island.

Fancier and faster marching was one of the noted improvements this year during football season.

Rehearsals are held every day during sixth period and once a week in the evening.

For the first time in many years, the band entered the District Band Contest. The band as a whole rated "Excellent." Solos and ensembles who earned "Superiors" in district went on to state contest held in Palm Beach. Their record is one to be proud of.

Physical Education

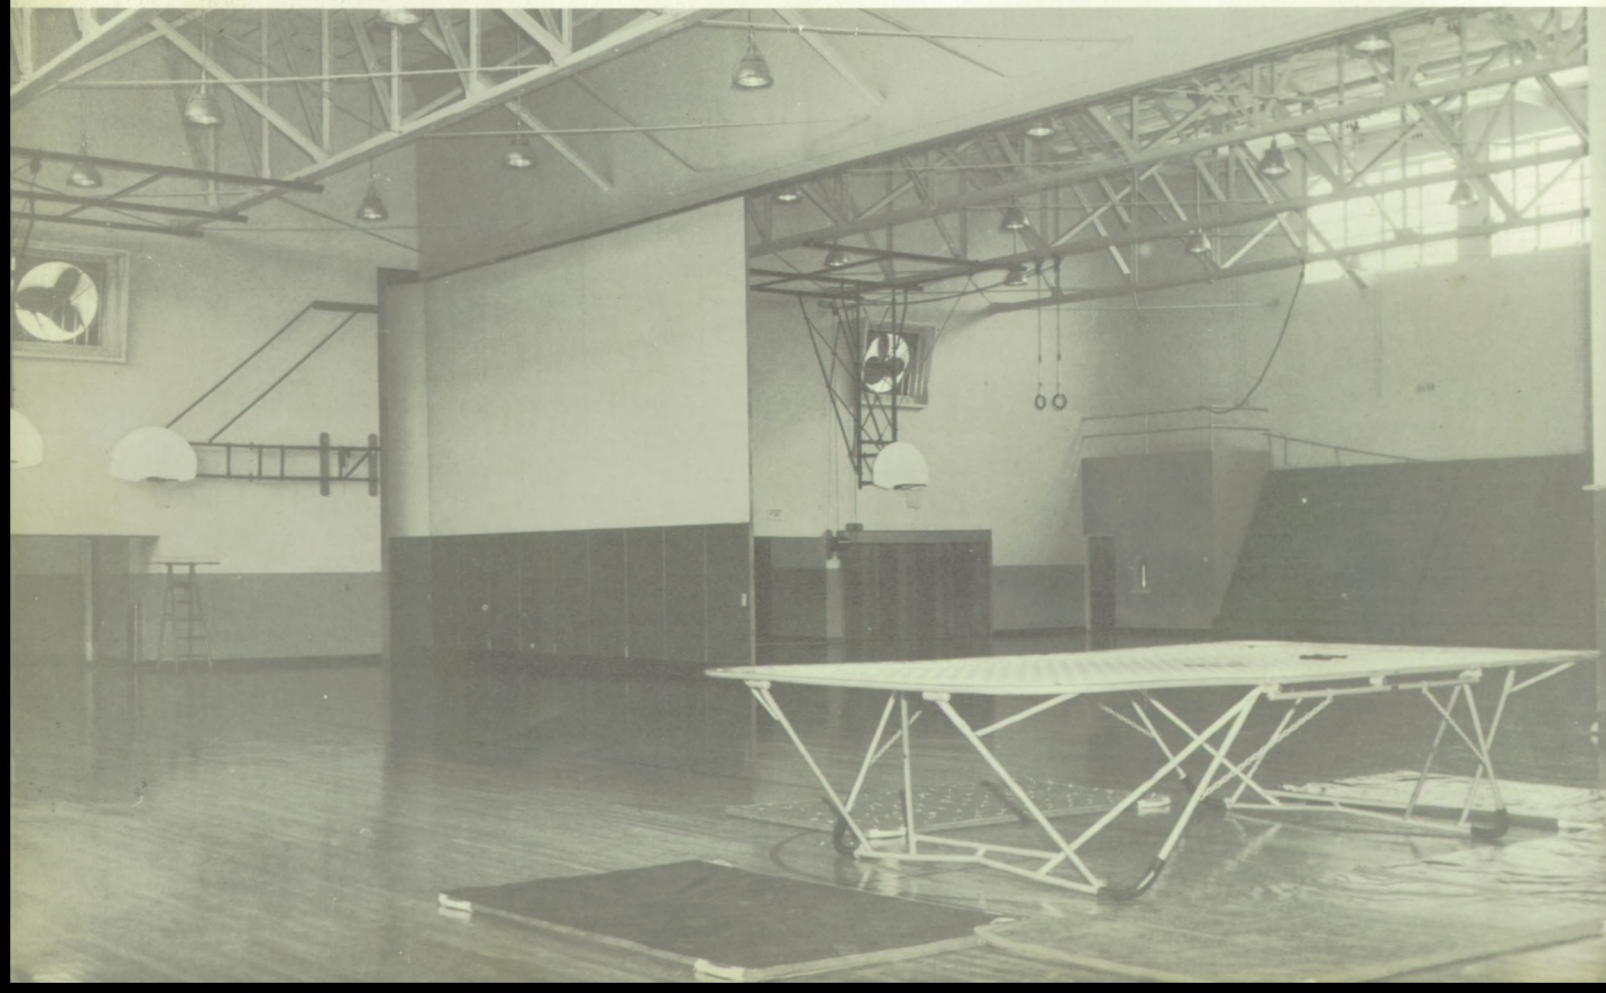

Operating on the principle that sound bodies make sound minds, the physical education department offers a complete line of gymnastics. Every student is required to take two years of gym sometime during his ninth and twelfth years. This course aims to develop a knowledge of skills to be used in leisure time, to provide for muscular, organic and mental development, to teach the acceptance of responsibilities, and to build good leaders.

This department sponsors all the sports teams and clubs in our high school plus intramural games. Sports players are given letters at the end of the season; medals and a plaque are awarded the winners of intramurals.

The new gymnasium is modern in every respect. It seats fifteen hundred comfortably on its folding bleachers. It has a sound-proof press box, two concession booths, rest-rooms, a room for the coaches, a room with twenty beds for visiting teams and a private coach's office, a custodian's office, and a sound-proof recording and television studio.

A large sliding curtain divides the gym into two parts, one for boys and the other for girls. Boys and girls have spacious locker rooms. There are seven hundred lockers, one for each boy and girl. Girls have eighteen tiled, private showers with hot and cold water and boys have thirty-six gang showers.

Ronald Dykstra has a strained muscle soothed in the whirlpool.

The girls do their daily exercises.

We have modern showers, too.

OUR CAFETERIA

A variety of attractive and inexpensive food is served in the cafeteria under the direction of Mrs. Johnson with special dinners served at moderate prices on holidays. At least two choices of hot meals are available each day, plus an assortment of sandwiches. Lunch is served in two shifts in a cafeteria so large, airy, and pleasant that it doubles as a ballroom for school dances. The cafeteria help's chief goal is to have at least seventy-five per cent of the student body eating in the lunchroom.

Each year, the cafeteria staff sponsors a dinner to raise money to send delegates to Tallahassee for training.

Did you notice how clean and neat our new school was kept all year? This was the work of the maintenance department. Workers were here long before the school opened and stayed until late at night.

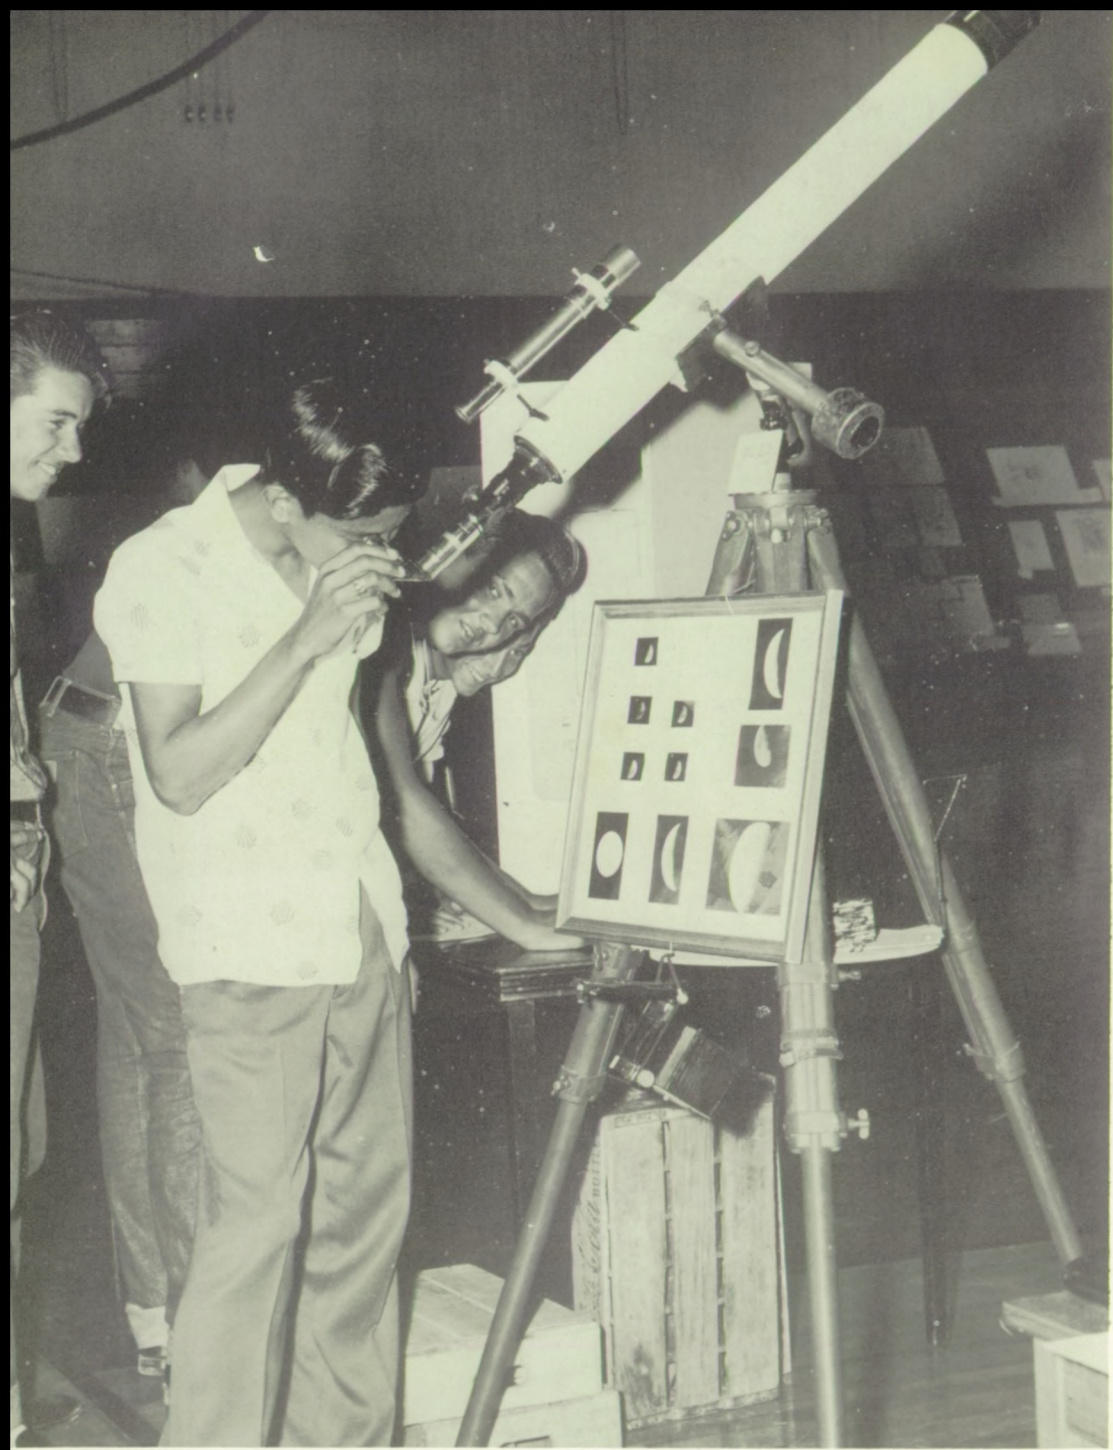

They kept the restrooms spotless, the halls clean, and the classrooms tidy. They washed all the school windows and swept away the water after a rain.

Custodians were always around to saw off locks when someone forgot his key or to open a room for a student or teacher in an emergency. There is one custodian assigned to each building. He was always on hand in time of need, whether the problem was small or big.

A vote of thanks goes to these hard-working men.

The Student Association of Key West High School is composed of all students in grades eight to twelve. The governing body is the Student Council, which is composed of one representative and one alternate from each homeroom elected during the first week of school to serve for one year.

The purpose of the Student Council is to develop leadership, to train its members to take their place in a democratic society, to act as a liaison group between student body and faculty. In the past few years the duties of the Student Council have grown until they now include handling concession booking for all activities at the football stadium during the football and baseball seasons and managing the student supply store.

The Student Council had 96 members during the school year. The head sponsor was Mrs. Pantaleo; other faculty advisors were Mrs. Pease, Mr. Lazier, Mr. Marshall, and Mr. Roberts. Weekly meetings were held at which all students were welcome.

One of the first and biggest projects of the year was to buy a popcorn machine which is in use at every concession. Another forward step taken by the Student Council was that of being the first organization in the school to vote a full-page ad in the 1957 CONCH.

The Student Council ably conducted the March of Dimes Drive in the school and contributed to the library fund. After-game dances are sponsored or assigned to other organizations by the Student Council.

An outstanding senior member is chosen by the club at the end of the school year and presented with an award.

HONOR SOCIETY

The Southernmost Chapter of the National Honor Society has been under the sponsorship of Mr. Lazier and Miss Trevor since its formation seven years ago.

In order to qualify, a student must have a "B" average, worthy character, good citizenship, and leadership qualities. Meetings are held the second Monday of each month.

During the year, the club had printed and sold postcards with the school's picture on them. It also aided in the March of Dimes campaign.

Each six weeks, the club member with the highest report card grades wears an honor pin and returns it at the end of the grading period. Graduating seniors receive gold tassels to be worn at graduation.

High standards of character, service, and scholarship are fostered during membership.

Four years ago, a chapter of the National Beta Club was founded in our school. Mrs. Hawxhurst has been the sponsor since the chapter was formed; Mr. Hawxhurst joined in the sponsorship this year. Meetings are held twice a month during lunch. A high "C" average and a commendable attitude are the qualifications for membership. The club had a membership of sixty-two during the school year.

Successful projects of this club were collecting for polio; furnishing Christmas baskets to needy families; having a baseball concession to raise funds for the public library; and organizing its annual clothing drive.

The Beta Club awards each graduating senior a black and gold cord to wear at graduation.

SNAPPER

Deadlines, deadlines, deadlines haunt the editors, co-editors, and moderator of the SNAPPER, month after month and year after year. Spiraling from the history of Key West High School, the SNAPPER has progressed from its original humble mimeographed position, to a modern, sleek, 6-page paper that this year incorporated the striking new feature of the Scholastic ROTO.

Under the check picture editorship of Violet Lence, the SNAPPER this year reached its highest plateau of quality, circulation, advertising, and layout. Another striking feature was the colored Christmas edition done in red and green.

Special acknowledgements should be given to our sports editor, Chuck Bonovitch; our Miss Friday, Sandy Small; roving reporter, Jill Schindler; two ace feature reporters, Darlene Jurczynski and Anna Mae Young; our photographer-about-town, Rodney Birkett; free-lance artist, Billy Rojas; capable Student Council editor, Suzanne Tremblay; and to our advertisers who gave us $1,000 worth of support.

The SNAPPER has maintained the highest levels of journalism and objective reporting; full coverage of school news; and an enthusiasm that has maintained the "Snap" in the "SNAPPER."

THE KEY CLUB ---- the junior branch of the Kiwanis, is the only boys' service organization in school. Sponsors are Mr. Roberts and Mr. Henriquez, both of whom are former members. There are forty-six members and meetings are held every Wednesday. To become a member one must have character, high moral values, leadership, and scholarship.

As their service projects, they rolled paper, shined shoes, made welcome signs for sports visitors, helped the Kiwanis on Kids' Day, had a toy drive for the needy, purchased floor mats for the gym, and sent delegates to the state workshop and convention. To raise money, they sponsored dances and handled many baseball concessions.

The outstanding graduating member of the Key Club receives the Kiwanis award.

And we're off to the convention!

KEYETTES

— — — — one of the girls' service organizations in school, is sponsored locally by the Sinawiks. Miss Touster is the faculty sponsor. There are thirty-six active members all of whom maintain a high "C" average and are chosen for their leadership qualities and good character. They meet every Wednesday and once a month in the evening.

Their year has been a busy and highly successful one. As money-making projects, they sponsored dances and football concessions after football games. Among their service projects were polio and library fund, polishing the school trophies, helping the Kiwanis on Kids' Day, making cleanliness posters for the restrooms, decorating the cafeteria in February, having a formal banquet for new members, ushering at school functions, selling Christmas seals, and spearheading the drive for a Senior tea.

This year, they undertook the task of writing a club constitution.

The outstanding graduating Keyette receives the Sinawik award. The winner is determined by the number of service hours she has given the club.

CONCHS HAVE A

The Key West grid squad started its season with 33 men, only 4 of whom were lettermen. Fifty boys had turned out for spring training the previous semester but 17 dropped because they had to work or simply could not take the two practices a day.

Lack of experience and light weight were the major causes of losses. Although the team was inexperienced, it never lost courage.

The team closed its season with a win, one of only two wins against eight losses this year. There were very few major injuries and much experience was gained during the season.

On December 10, 1956, the annual close-of-the-season banquet was held in the cafeteria. The boys were awarded letters and gold footballs. The nine seniors also received gold belt buckles. Outstanding players, as chosen by the team, were announced and given their awards.

This year's basketball season was the longest in the history of Key West High with twenty three games on the schedule. Thirteen boys turned out for practices; four of these boys were lettermen. All were said to be of good height and average weight. The squad was composed chiefly of members of last year's junior varsity players. The boys practiced every day after school for approximately three hours.

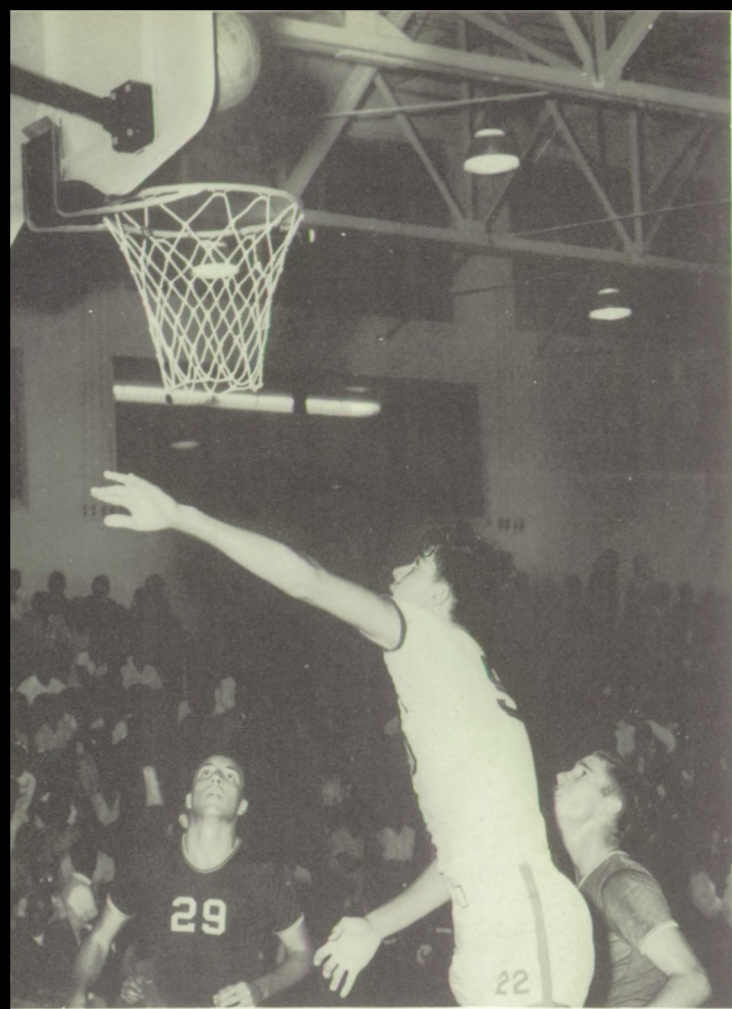

The season opened in the old high school gym as the new facilities were not yet completed. On January 29, the first game was played in the new gym with the bleachers filled to capacity. Decided improvement was noticed by all because of the much larger court. The gym itself is the largest in the state and compares favorably with the best of college gyms. Sliding doors make it possible for the court to be divided in two sections. It was truly an exciting and memorable game for it had to be carried overtime to break the tie—Key West winning by one basket.

There were no injuries during the season and only one boy was ineligible for a short period of time during the year.

Key West placed fourth in the Gold Coast Conference this year. One player made all-conference.

In the district tournament held in Belle Glade, Florida, the CONCHS were the underdogs, but came up like dark horses to place second. They lost the district championship by only one point. Two players made all-district and one received honorable mention.

Ten boys received letters and gold basketballs at the end of the season. A player must participate in a certain amount of quarters before he is eligible to receive these awards.

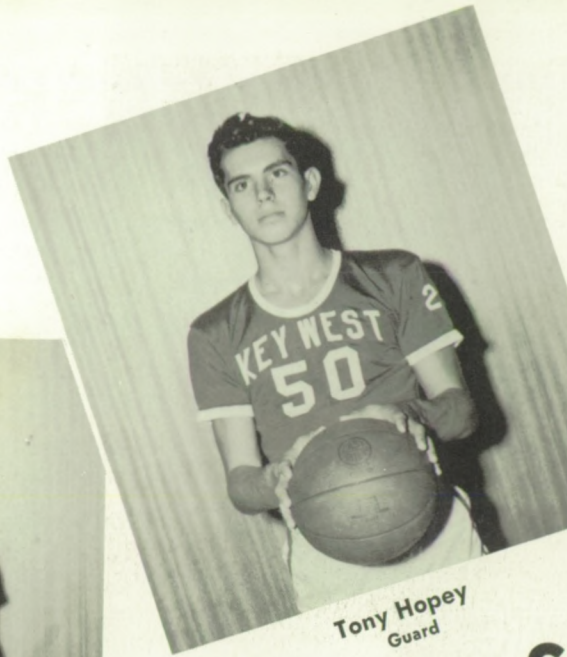

Tony Hopey scores two points for Key West.

CHEERLEADING

Seven girls composed the cheerleading squad this year. They were girls with lots of spirit and pep and not even the heavy rains of football season could dampen their spirit.

They practiced every day during sixth period and after school. They went to almost every away game during football and basketball season and kept the students cheering their team.

A smile was common on the faces of our cheerleaders for they enjoyed their activity.

Next year they will be out there again leading the students in their favorite cheers.

Seventeen boys composed the 1957 baseball squad. Practices were held every afternoon after school and in the evening on the night before a game. All concerned were pleased that the season passed without injury or drop-out of members.

The Key West High team placed second in the Gold Coast Conference. The Class A Sub-District tournament games were held for the first time in Key West; the team went on to become district champions in Class A.

They were neither a heavy nor a hitting team but wound up the year with a 15-3 record plus a 4-0 tournament record. Local baseball fans were able to see sixteen of the regular games and three of the tournament play-offs.

The team had only three senior members and hardly any experienced boys. Coach Allen has worked with them for the last two years.

Our track team this year was composed of approximately twenty boys under the coaching of Reed Quinn.

The team, lacking experience and a completed track, did not win any of the five away meets in which it participated, although it made a fair showing.

They did have a sprint medley team and a 440-man that were good enough to send to the regional meet in Miami. The boys took fifth place.

With this year's experience behind them and a finished track, the boys are expected to make a good showing in the future.

TENNIS CLUBS

TENNIS

Striving to win a trophy are our tennis players. The boys' team was unsuccessful in competition but the girls have a 2-win, 4-loss record. Coach Jones and Miss Cappony are the sponsors. Every student must be eligible scholastically, own his own racket, and attend three-fourths of the practices to remain a member.

BIBLE CLUB

The Bible Club meets every other Tuesday and had approximately twenty active members during the school year.

To join the Bible Club, one must believe that the Bible is the word of God and that there is only one God. Any student in the eighth through twelfth grades is eligible for membership. Letters were awarded to faithful members. Club members do not participate in service or money-making projects during the school year for their main object is the lofty one of learning and appreciating the Bible. To this end, guest speakers, representing various religious bodies, were asked to club meetings. Study and discussions of specific aspects of the Bible followed the talks of guest speakers.

Mr. Rodriguez has been sponsor for two years.

FUTURE NURSES

Although the Future Nurses were in operation only a part of the year, they soon came into their own under the sponsorship of Mrs. Kramer, visiting school nurse. Membership is open to any student who shows an interest in health or a health career and is limited to thirty.

The twenty-four members worked on such successful projects as sponsoring Salk vaccine inoculations for high school students; canvassing for the Cancer Drive; helping the Library Fund; attending the state convention; sponsoring a Mother and Baby Care Course; presenting an assembly; and taking field trips.

A special pinning ceremony is held once a year in which Florida Future Nurses Club State pins are awarded to those who have completed twenty-five hours of club-approved work.

The members also do volunteer work in hospitals.

Standing: Marlene Kelly, Donna Olivier, Linda Lewis, Robert Vargas, Mrs. Sanda—sponsor, David Adams, John Lawler, Armando Gutierrez, Jack Katz, Tom Walker, Orquidia Hernandez, Manuel del Pino.

Future Teachers have been active in our school for the past five years. Mrs. Sands took over the sponsorship of both the senior and junior branches of this club during the past school year. The membership totaled twenty. Each member has a "C" average, is recommended by three teachers, and has a sincere desire to teach. The club meets twice a month on the second and fourth Mondays during sixth period or at noon.

In January, the Future Teachers dressed two-cent lollipops as dolls and sold them as their March of Dimes project. This was noted as one of the most successful polio projects in school.

Highlighting their activities was a tour of the County Board Administration Building. Two delegates and the sponsor attended the state convention at the University of Florida in Gainesville during March. Five students took part in the second annual Education Day in March also. At the formal dedication of our new school, members of this club served as ushers. Closing their active year was the observation of elementary schools.

In their assembly, they honored the oldest retired teacher in our community, Mrs. Louise Grant; installation of the new officers followed.

Seated: Suzanne Trembley—Recording Secretary, Mrs. Frances Sands—Sponsor, and Juanita Henriquez—President. Standing: Pat Straughan—President Jr. FTA, Connie Arnold—Parliamentarian Jr. FTA, Carmen Lopez—Librarian, Jack Katz—Treasurer, Judy Fincher—Vice President, Carla Caso—Secretary Jr. FTA.

Nearly fifty students met daily in sixth period in the annual room in the early part of 1956 to plan the organization of the anniversary edition and the business campaign for the 1957 yearbook. Students from all classes were recruited and devoted their energies to photography, layout, advertising, circulation or publicity.

The editors and their assistants met in a compact room set aside for the annual while the others, larger in number, met in one of the classrooms.

Many changes were made by the 1957 annual staff which hoped to make this yearbook the most up-to-date one seen by Key West High. Besides the obvious ones, such as color and increased size, were the reduction of numbers of superlatives, inclusion of more student pictures, highlighting of the school curriculum in a section showing the classrooms in action, and a cover change for the anniversary year only.

Another innovation is spring planning; in the second semester, a staff for the 1958 yearbook was chosen and began work on its annual.

Jr. Debs Complete First Aid

If you are willing to work, are in or above the 10th grade, and have a "C" average, you are eligible for membership in the Junior Debs. This club is the youngest branch of the Woman's Club and has been in existence for five years. Miss Everett is school sponsor and Mrs. W. C. Harris is the sponsor from the senior club. Meetings are held every second and fourth Wednesday at 7:00 P.M. Membership is limited.

Besides adopting a needy family, raising funds for the March of Dimes and library fund, and sponsoring dances after games, these girls had an outstanding service and money-making record. They made voodoo dolls of the opponents' colors and sold them in school before every football game. Realizing the need of being prepared in case of an atomic attack, the girls took an 18-hour course in first aid and civil defense. Twenty-six out of thirty-four members took and passed the course.

Boys' STATE

Boys' State was held in Tallahassee during the week of June 17-23. Thirteen boys from Key West High School were chosen for their qualities of leadership and their knowledge of our government. These boys were sponsored by the leading business and civic organizations of Key West.

Boys from all over the state met at Boys' State to learn by experience the internal workings of our city, county, and state governments. Young men electioneered and shook hands for seven days in running for office. The boys were privileged to visit the Capitol, the legislative chambers, and met Governor Gollins and his cabinet.

Girls' STATE

On June 21, Monroe County Girls State representatives boarded the bus for Tallahassee. The girls were chosen by the eleventh grade homeroom teachers because of their ability to get along with people, leadership, and scholarship.

The Business and Professional Women, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Women's Club, and the Convent Alumni Association each sponsored a candidate.

The girls learned about the state government and elected their own officials for the one-week period. The girls returned home, tired but happy, on June 29 with an experience long to be remembered.

DRAMATICS Students Have Busy Year

Pat Munoz gives the group a few pointers.

The drama class, under the direction of Mr. Pavalko, ran the gamut of stage activities this past year by doing actual set construction, costuming, make-up, learning the techniques of producing, choreography and effective staging. Members learned the fundamentals of acting in the classroom and executed these in the following productions: "In the Mood," the Christmas Pageant, "School of Yearning," and other less important productions.

Twelve students this year completed the course and received theoretical knowledge as well as practical experience.

Theatrical techniques of advertising were stressed heavily. In fact, students were fortunate in being able to follow procedures connected with the birth of an idea, its incorporation in a show, and the execution of the show. All behind-the-scenes phases of theatre were revealed and appreciated, from programing to lighting to props. The students planned extensively for College and Career Day.

An award is given to a senior for outstanding work in dramatics. Any senior is eligible for this award.

MONITORS

For the first time this year, Key West High School had a monitor system composed of 40 seniors and 11 juniors. The purpose of this group is to uphold school principles and laws. The group was formed at the beginning of the third six-weeks' period by Dr. Campbell and has meetings only when necessary. Bob Swanson, Senior Class President, is captain of this organization.

To be a monitor, one must be able to accept responsibility, be a leader, be friendly, and be courteous. Senior monitors wear gray arm-bands with the letter "M" printed on them in red. Junior monitors wear red arm-bands with a gray letter.

The monitors, after a year of organization, felt that it was the co-operation of the student body that helped make it a success.

Okay, let's go!

"It's a good thing you have it in writing, Robert," says Pat.

Girls Rule City For a Day

GIRLS' DAY

Thirty-six senior girls from all over the city took over the various city offices for the day of September 28, 1956, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women.

Mr. Lang welcomed the girls on behalf of the mayor; the girls were then escorted to their respective departments where instructions were given on the how's and why's of operation. The future citizens conducted fire drills in their schools. A paddy wagon picked up boys for whom warrants were sworn and a mock court assembled in which they were tried.

A ride on the fire engine through town ended the day.

The Police and Fire Departments relax before the big fire.

The Bigwigs—Deanne Ecton, Carol Best, Donna Newlan, Violet Lence, and Susan Woodard—just before the big pow-wow.

Patrolman Barbara Buckwalter watches over the convicts who are in for life.

James Presley McElveen carries out his sentence.

SENIORS

President Bob Swanson patiently awaits the arrival of Seniors for a class meeting.

The Best Years of Our Lives

were spent in Key West High, just as a similar high school period is memorable to all who were graduated during the past fifty years. Like all seniors before us, we regret leaving the source of many fond memories, memories which take their proud place in school history all too soon. Our most cherished recollection is that of graduation night, despite the certainty we all felt that some of us were parting forever.

Senior Student Council Representatives
Sitting: Louise Brooks, Deanne Ecton, and Ilka Munoz. Standing: Susan
Woodard, Pat Cassidy, Carol Best,
Nancy Jones, and Ruth Mazeau.

SENIORS

The senior officers pause for a moment in the halls to discuss class business.

The seniors had a busy and prosperous time this year; everything they did was remarkably successful. They were the poorest class when school opened and the richest at the close of the year.

To raise money needed for end-of-the-year activities, they sold one thousand boxes of Christmas cards, sponsored concessions and candy sales, and, for the first time in senior history, presented a record-making variety show.

They spearheaded all fund-raising campaigns and were eager leaders of the underclassmen. The seniors were one hundred per cent in annual subscriptions and in the March of Dimes and Library Fund drives.

The seniors had many "firsts." They were the Golden Anniversary class, the first to be graduated from the new high school, first to fill the auditorium both nights for a class production and had the first all-night party after the Senior Dance. Much of this achievement is due to the fine group of sponsors the class had this year. They worked hard and long for the class of '57.

Our ever faithful sponsors pause for a moment's relaxation.

The Junior Class of 1956-1957 is composed of 151 students divided into 6 homerooms.

Its first money-making class project was a football concession for which many students worked tirelessly.

In a heated competition with the seniors at an all-school annual rally held in the cafeteria, the juniors were over one hundred per cent in subscriptions. Extra yearbooks were purchased for teachers and students. The class also voted a one-half page ad for this year's CONCH.

Their second was a three-act comedy entitled "Clementine" which was held in the auditorium February 25 and 26.

The juniors introduced a novelty project called "Twerp Week." Girls carried boys' books and asked them for dates during the entire time. The week ended with a big dance in the cafeteria attended by the student body.

On April 26, class activities were climaxed with the annual Junior-Senior Prom which was held in the cafeteria.

SOPHOMORE OFFICERS

The Class of '59 early in its high school career has shown signs of being an outstanding group.

To raise money for its treasury, the class sponsored candy sales and a class play.

The class voted to buy an ad in the yearbook and donated a large sum to the public library drive.

To celebrate their successful year, the class journeyed to Bahia Honda for a picnic on June 6. This event ended their year.

Freshman Class

The Freshman Class of 1956-1957 started its high school career with a year full of activities.

To raise money for their class treasury, the Freshmen sponsored candy sales in the patio outside the cafeteria. Besides this, they sponsored several junior varsity football concessions. To provide occasion for entertainment for the underclassmen, they held dances in the cafeteria on Friday and Saturday evenings. Records were brought by the students to provide the music.

Their first and probably most memorable event was their Freshman Prom, held in the cafeteria on March 22, from 8 to 11:30 P.M. The theme was "Pennies From Heaven" and each person attending was given a program designed to carry out the theme. The dress was optional; Jackne Drudge and his orchestra provided the music. The students provided their own entertainment and refreshments. Tickets to the Prom were sold to help cover the cost of the dance. All the class sponsors were on hand to chaperone this very successful event.

Howard Johnson welcomes Sandra Small to the dance.

It was a lovely night for dancing.

Banquet

Hey, Glenn, close your mouth!

Shirley Brill and Butch Stewart cut a rug.

Hey, how about a smile.

Mrs. Pantaleo, you don't say!

The Senior Dance and Banquet were held on May 29. The banquet was held in the cafeteria beginning at six-thirty in the evening. Fruit cocktail, steak, peas, mashed potatoes, salad, rolls, tea, and strawberry shortcake were served.

The theme of the dance held in the Casa Marina ballroom from nine to twelve forty-five was "Our Golden Memories." A giant senior ring formed an archway at the entrance. Jackney Drudge provided the music. The programs, printed in gold, were shaped like graduation caps.

The first all-night party sponsored by Key West High began at one-thirty the following morning with a movie. At three forty-five, the skating rink was invaded by the seniors and their guests, and at six the cafeteria served a hearty breakfast to the hungry survivors. Then, tired but happy, seniors and their dates headed for home.

Jr. Play

Won't you ever finish fixing that lamp?

CLEMENTINE

The Junior Class play, "Clementine," was presented in the auditorium on February 25 and 26. It was a three-act comedy and had a cast of twelve.

The story concerned the difficulties of a young tomboy who poses many problems to her parents, her classmates, and herself in growing into Clementine after years of being "Butch" on the football team.

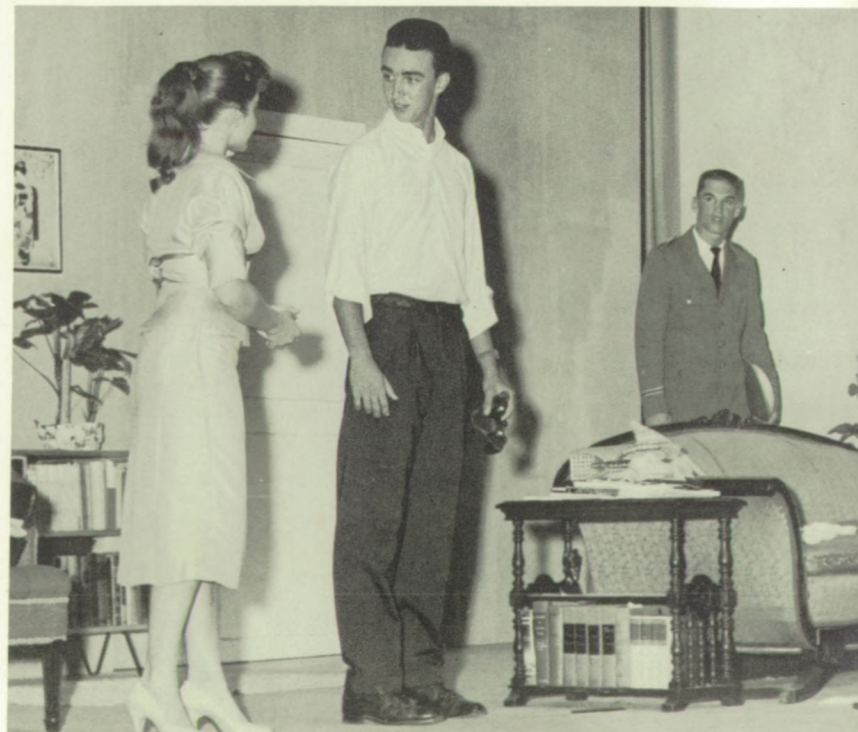

Her father, who was running for re-election as mayor, nearly loses his campaign because "Butch" has a football that is always breaking windows.

The resulting complications, misunderstandings, and awkward situations furnished amusement and entertainment to the audience.

Thirty years of bad luck for breaking this mirror!

We're going to have a hanging!

Soph. Play

You don't say!!

THE BIRDS AND THE BOYS

The sophomore play entitled "Birds and the Boys," a three act comedy, was presented in the auditorium on April 1 and 2.

One comical situation follows another after Adam and Cricket Martin enter their model home in a magazine contest. Bird-watching, visits from reform school inmates, neighbors who need Cricket's signature on a petition produce awkward situations which Cricket manages to bring to a happy ending.

Freshman Prom

The cafeteria was the setting for the Freshman Prom held on March 22. The evening began at eight p.m. and lasted until eleven-thirty. Jackney Drudge and his orchestra were on hand to provide the music.

"Pennies from Heaven" was the theme for this first big dance for freshmen. Streamers covered the cafeteria ceiling and gold pennies of all sizes were seen hanging from the roof. The girls' dresses of all colors added to the beauty of the surroundings.

Entertainment was provided by members of the class. Refreshments were served.

Mr. Ryals chats with the stags.

Time out for a breather.

Everyone's dancing.

Pennies, Pennies everywhere!!

The pajama party that found the girls with "Rings on Their Fingers and Bells on Their Toes."

Sheila Swinger sang "Heart and Soul."

Conchette

The "School of Yearning," an original musical comedy, was written and directed by Mr. Frank J. Pavalko for the Conchettes.

Mr. William Higgins, band director, formed a special fifteen-piece orchestra which supported the show brilliantly.

Mr. Dennard Haden, famous choreographer of the Texas Rangerettes, did the beautiful choreography for the production.

Patrons who jammed the auditorium on the nights of April 29 and 30 were noisily enthusiastic about the antics of Captain Silver, Jeb, and the Traveling Students.

Various departments in the school and students who were not directly connected with the Conchettes co-operated to make the production a success. The Conchettes themselves were most effective in varied dance routines instructed by the director who originally helped them organize.

This was the second Conchette production; their show now promises to be an annual event. Proceeds are to be used for the purchase of new costumes.

These are the lovers who danced to "Heart and Soul."

I am the spirit of 'Captain Silver.'

Show

Look, Mom, one leg.

What a party! What a party!

Hello there.

Here we get a look at some of our bored Seniors who couldn't find a thing to do. "The juke box was broke and they were out of coke. Ah...."

Hil We'll be your guides through "In the Mood," compliments of Lucky Pierre.

The Class of 1957 loudly presented "In the Mood" on February 11 and 12 in the high school auditorium. For the first time in school history, the auditorium, much larger than any Key West has ever had, was filled to capacity both nights. The show netted over thirteen hundred dollars and enjoyed wide acclaim for many weeks. There were twenty-one acts, each of a different nature. After the final performance, the cast held a pizza party in the cafeteria; Dr. Campbell furnished the soft drinks. The show was directed by Mr. Frank Pavalko; Patricia Munoz was the student director.

The Four Flats sang with feeling to let the audience know they wanted to be among that number When the Saints Go Marching In.

No show is complete without the burlesque follies. These beauties were chosen from the most celebrated nightclubs in Key West and went over big with the crowd.

The Four Angels, Leo, Albert, Rudy, and O.D., sang Written on the Wind and Graduation Day.

Robert Vargas and Donna Newlan gave us a comical lesson in Hamlet.

The Starlighters, as partly shown here, furnished the music.

Here are two emcees, Norman Campbell and Kenny Bishop.

Donna sang In the Still of the Night.

Lee Castro portrayed the part of the henpecked Mr. Minstrel.

We couldn't forget Old Key West in our show, either.

Ronnie Dykstra displayed his talents with Lady of Spain and El Relicario.

Juanita Britchard took us to the Forbidden Planet.

Fred Garcia gave an exhibition on Olympic Moments.

Junior-Senior Prom

King and Queen
Donna Newlan and Rudy Carreno

The Sand and the Sea was the setting of the Junior-Senior Prom on April 26 in the cafeteria. One would hardly have known that it was a cafeteria with all the beautiful decorations. Native girls greeted guests at the door and gave them favors. Fish nets covered the ceiling, and tiny candles sparkled on the tables in the dim light. Sounds of the crashing waves could be heard when the orchestra was not playing. Tropical palms lined the roofs of the huts and an old torn-up boat lay in the sand in the back of the hall. The food, consisting of colorful, especially-designed sandwiches, fruit punch, nuts, potato chips, and mints, was served throughout the dance.

Everybody dance!

Bob Swanson, Barbara Buckwalter, Linda Groves, and Dennis Sullivan take time out for a chat.

Let's watch our imagination.

The high school band, chorus, and speech class were on hand to provide the sound effects.

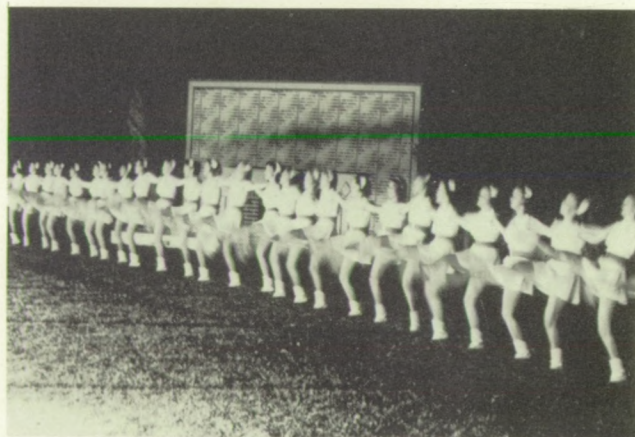

On December 20, Key West High presented for the third time its Christmas Pageant at the high school stadium. Young and old alike packed the stands to watch the religious and secular program which lasted well over an hour.

The dramatic department provided the cast for the manger scene; the maintenance department supplied the scenery and props. Chorus, band, and a verse choir also participated in the elaborate show.

The giant Christmas tree, built by the maintenance men, added to the beauty of the pageant. It was covered with hundreds of colored lights and featured a large white star on top. Much credit goes to the maintenance group which worked long and painstakingly to make the background the success it was.

Community singing of favorite Christmas carols, led by the band, climaxed the program.

A child is born in Bethlehem.

The Conchettes in "Winter Wonderland."

Here comes Santa Claus!

Seniors burn on CONCH DAY

On April 3 all seniors met at Monroe County Beach at 7:30 A.M. to decorate their cars for the celebration of the long-awaited Conch Day. At 8:00 the sheriff's car led the annual procession to the school where the famed Conch Flag was raised. Immediately after, all cars headed for Bahia Honda.

It was a beautiful day and the water was wet. The Seniors piled into the sand and dragging the sponsors with them. After the traditional burying of the sponsors in the sand, delicious fried chicken and accessories were served to the hungry Seniors. Everyone had a wonderful, sun-burned time.

WEEK

The last week for seniors began with final examinations. Several days after finals were completed, the United States Naval Air Station invited the class for an all-day visit. This event was thoroughly enjoyed by all in attendance. The morning began with a tour of the base and aircraft. The seniors joined the servicemen in the chow line for a delicious lunch. Ending the day was a movie for the girls and a plane ride for the boys.

The first all-night affair began after the dance. A movie, skating, breakfast, and finally, some sleep was on the agenda.

Commencement exercises were highly successful for the golden anniversary class with a realization after graduation that the best days of their lives were now in the past.

NIGHT

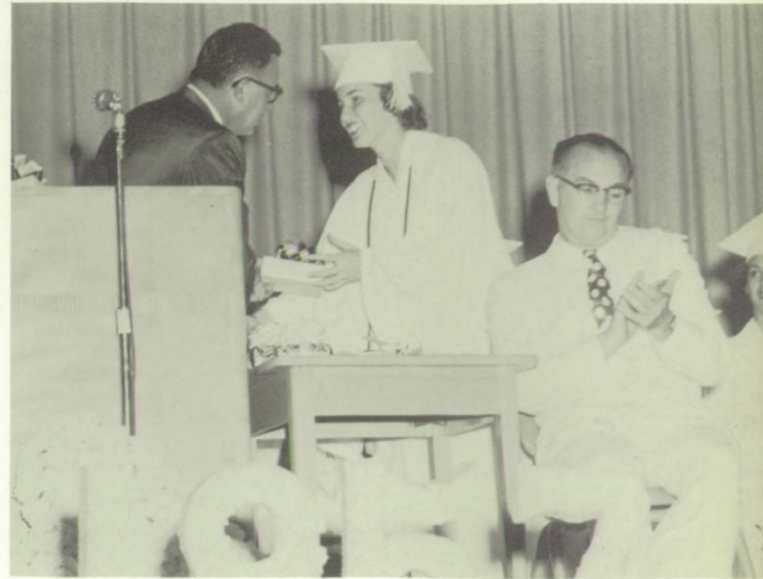

May 30 was Class Night; the event was celebrated in the auditorium because heavy rains cancelled original plans for holding it in the stadium.

The graduates entered to the playing of "Pomp and Circumstance" and filed into their seats on the stage. Baskets of white flowers decorated each side of the stage.

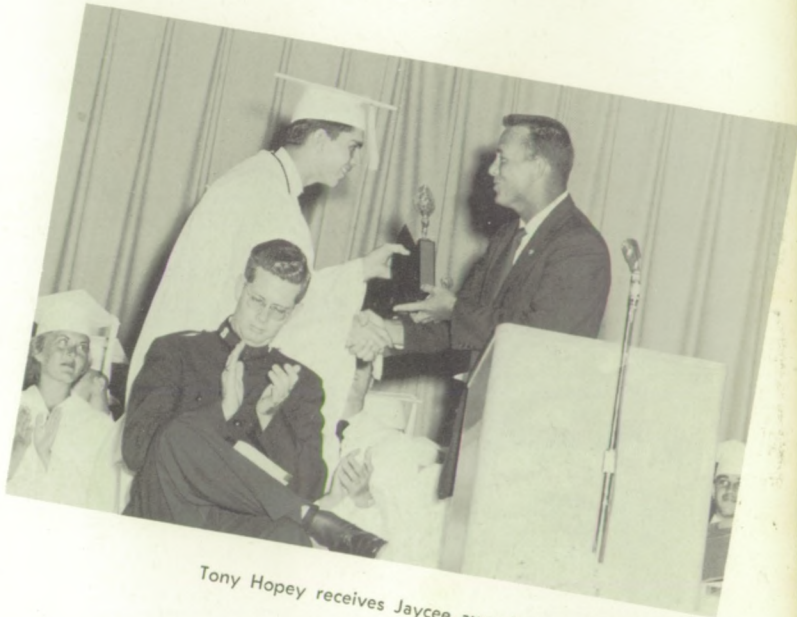

The class president as master of ceremonies introduced the two graduates, business manager and advertising manager of the yearbook, who read the last wills and testaments of each senior. The editor-in-chief of the annual read the class prophecy, the work of the literary editor. It was so well read that the audience thoroughly enjoyed it.

Awards were presented to deserving graduates by representatives of the organization sponsoring the gifts.

The benediction was pronounced and the strains of the "Alma Mater," played on the piano, filled the air as the graduates marched from the auditorium.

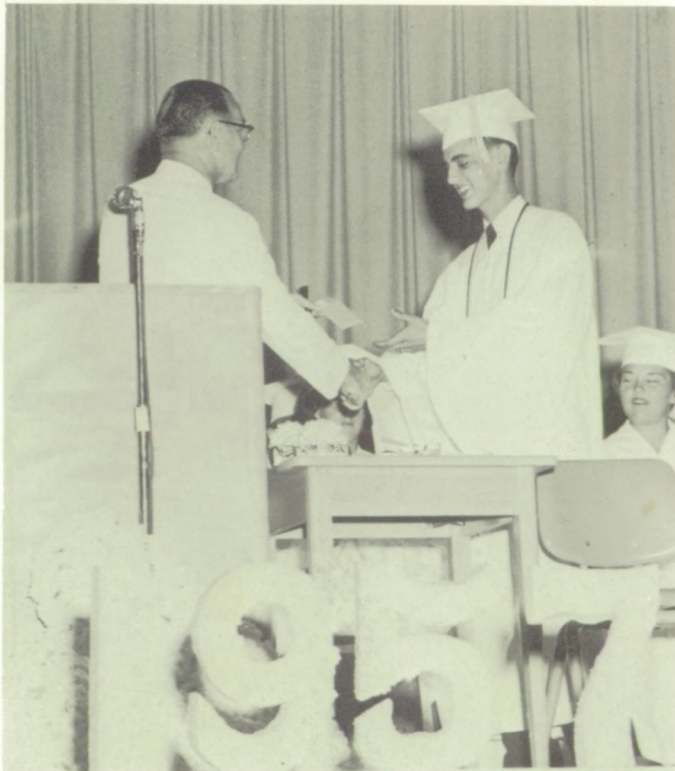

Carol Best receives the Paul Sher award.

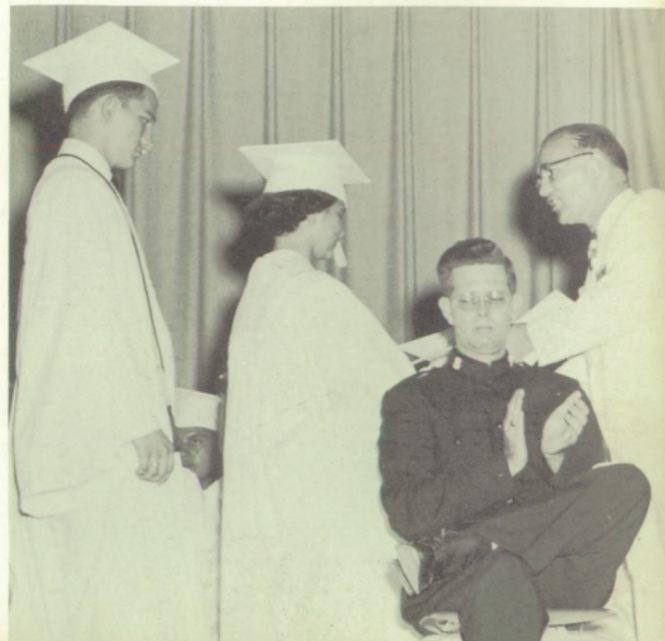

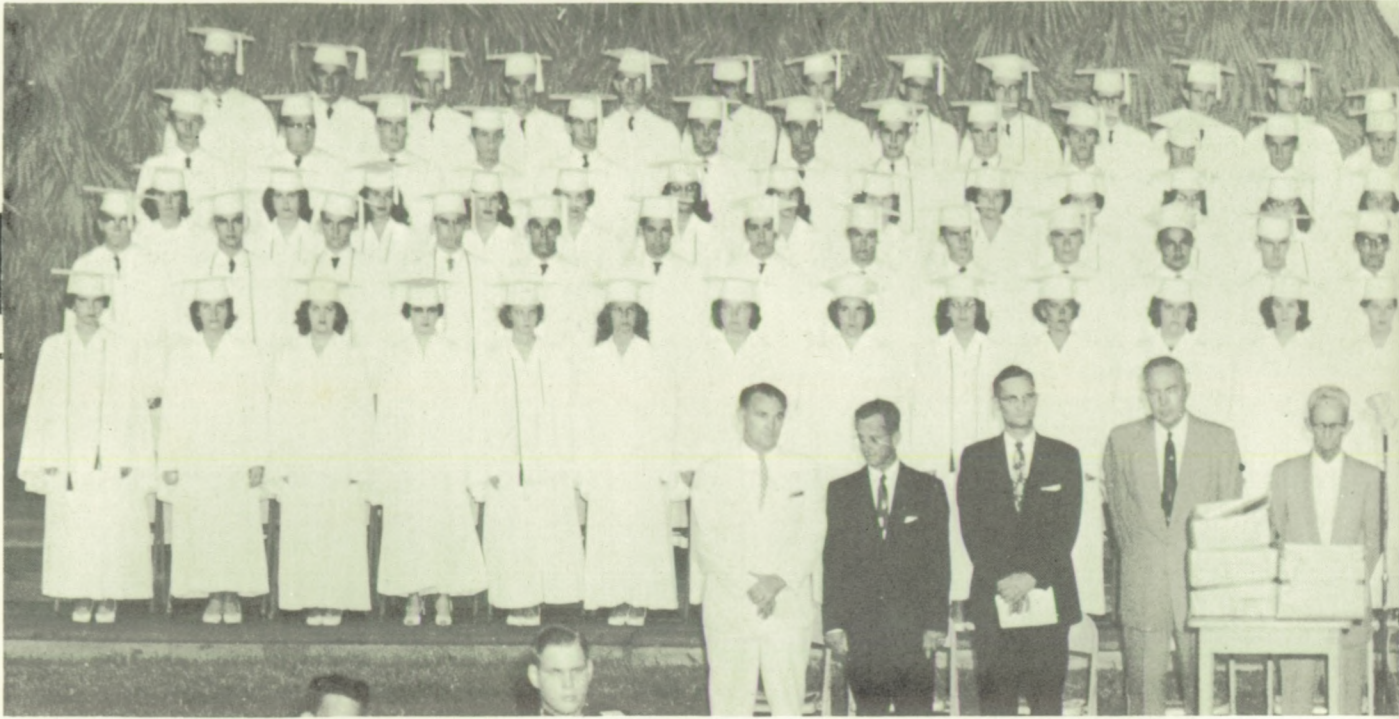

Tony Hopey receives Jaycee award.

Armando Gutierrez receives the Balfour award.

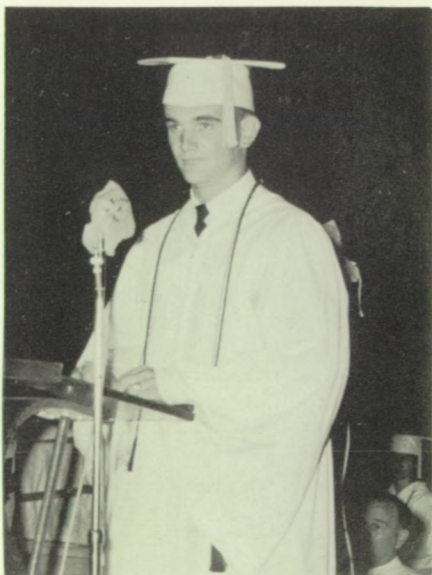

Benny Roberts and Shirley Brill receive the Danforth Foundation award.

OF THE CLASS OF 1957

Pat Munoz talks of the women of today.

At eight in the evening of May 30, the band struck up the familiar strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" and the graduates, in their white caps and gowns, began the long-awaited graduation processional. It was a beautiful sight as they filed into their seats which were situated in front of a back-drop of green palms with floral poinciana decorations.

The invocation was given by the minister of the Ley Memorial Methodist Church. The salutatorian welcomed the large audience. "The Young Woman in Today's World" and "The Young Man in Today's World" were discussed by graduates especially chosen for this privilege. The valedictory, given last, is memorable for its well-chosen remarks expressing the feelings of all the graduates.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction introduced the first graduation class—the one member—from the year 1908.

Each senior was given his diploma by the Superintendent; then, tassels were switched in one movement of the entire class.

After the benediction, the band played the recessional, "The War March of the Priests" for the exit of the graduates.

Proud parents and friends, with tears and smiles, emptied the stands and crowded around the students. Congratulations and best wishes were exchanged. Flash bulbs were exploding and horns blowing as everyone left the stadium.

PROPHECY

One clear summer day as I wandered through Bayview Park with my '57 CONCH in my hand, I sat down to scan over the edition which I had received while in college. It was the first chance I had had to really look at it. I realized when I was through, that I still had two hours before my bus left for Chatahoochie so I decided to sit there for a few minutes longer. I closed my eyes and slowly drifted off to "never, never land" where I found myself wandering through old Key West High. I opened the door to the office only to find Carol Best Niles sitting at the Registrar's desk. Mrs. Wellons had since retired to live in Central Africa. Curious to know who was now principal, I knocked on the large wooden door that led to his office, and entered at his request. The familiar face of Willie Smith greeted me. After a little chatting, I said goodbye and asked if I could tour the building. Dr. Smith consented but said I would have to have a hall pass.

I found while visiting the various rooms that Norene Green is now the shorthand instructor while Shirley Brill is teaching the one-finger style of typing. Sam Harris is now the band director and Nancy Jones is in charge of the cafeteria. Velma Roberts has replaced Miss Trevor in the library with Margie Hockenberry, who always wanted to blow up the school, teaching science. I was just in time to see Valentino Gonzales, now head football coach, taking his gridmen through their daily exercise. Mike Whitley is still water boy. The art department is under the capable direction of James Mora, and Lynn Rath is the high school janitress. Peeking into the classrooms, I find Richard Scott is still a senior.

Anxious to tour the town, I called a taxi. I sat in the office and looked through a few magazines while waiting for my cab. Picking up the latest edition of "Life Magazine," I found Harry Bethel to be publisher and Janet Johnson to be head of circulation. The main feature of this issue was the story of the Sultan, Danny Orapeza, stared me in the face. Looking over his harem, I saw Louise Brooks, Lee Bopst, Barbara Pinder, Elisa Malgrat, and Shirley Potter, all of whom were classmates of mine. In the section on foaming cleanser, which we used to call toothpaste, was the smiling face of Sondra Carbonell. I always knew her teeth would come out—in the limelight, that is. Reading on, I noticed that Linda Brantley, now the chief model for Christian Dior, is making a special appearance in the Waldorf Astoria. Geraldine Saunders has been hailed as Marilyn Monroe's twin. Naturally, Marilyn has gone on a strict diet. Ruth Mazeau is now a member of the June Taylor Dancers and Ronald Skelton has joined a ballet corps in New York City.

My cab arrived, and as I opened the door, I found the ever-familiar face of Mario Calero in the driver's seat. He's still managing to make a living for his wife, Addie Muse, and their six children. We got to talking about our old classmates and he told me that Thelma Albury has a prominent business of interior decorating. Mary Ellen Baker owns a false-teeth factory and Albert Gwynn is the head Boy Scout leader. The Mardi Gras has been reopened under the management of Richard Hall with Bob Swanson as the bartender. As we passed the newest section of Duval Street, Mario said that the huge skyscraper, now directly to my left, was designed and built by Ray Edwards and owned by millionaire Robert Valdez. Pat Munoz now works for Donna Newlan in her "I'll make you beautiful . . . maybe" beauty shop. I noticed a Slenderella shop and he mentioned that Dorila Hernandez is the owner. Alice Russell has opened an ultra-modern dress shop with Sandra Small as the chief designer. Raymond Garcia has since left the rock for Hollywood and the life of a movie star. I bid Mario farewell, paid my fare, and was left standing in front of the Strand Theater. There in the ticket booth was Catherine McDaniels who told me that Barbara Buckwalter and Jean Castellano are in joint ownership of the theater. Rebecca Dillon is giving them stiff competition with her supersonic, high fidelity, cinemascope twenty-story screen drive-in theater. The title of the movie was "Submarine Sinking," starring Fred Garcia and Olga Avila. In the newsreel I saw Billy Borreson capture the national golf championship from Marie Broadbent. A special flash showed Wayne Albertus, the singing ukulele sensation, cutting his latest recording, "You Ain't Nothing But a Gum Drop." Orlando Fernandez, so I see, is sponsoring a trip to the moon in a rocket designed by Julio Santana. Another special flash was the final concert of the London Symphony Orchestra. There on the director's podium was Thomas Walker. Randall Warren was shown capturing the ping-pong championship from Nancy Tucker.

After the movie, I walked around town to look at the changes that had taken place. The first thing to catch my eye was a dancing school. I walked in to find Gloria Taylor at the receptionist's desk. I found out through her that Barbara Ramirez is the owner and Rose Trussell and Violet Sands are two of the teachers. Next door is a barber shop owned by John Ward. Anola Ybarnea and Carmen Vidal are regular customers. Farther down the street is a mortician business together. They specialize in their famous worm-proof coffins. Lee Castro has Roberts and Ralph Roberts are in the father and has taken over the Florida Press. I wandered into McCrory's and there was Marilyn Foh, now pinned a "retired" sign on his father and has taken over the Florida Press. I wandered into McCrory's and there was Marilyn Foh, now the floor walker. She told me that Cecilia Garcia, Sydney Guthrie, and Martha Bell are employed as sales girls. I see that Ray Smith and Tillman Smart have opened an up-to-date fish market; they specialize in barracuda and shark with special midnight deliveries. I dropped in the police station next, and there was Fred Henning, better known as Dick Tracy II, at the chief's desk. He said that business was slow and there was only one prisoner, Jim Heisler, who was arrested for bigamy. Tired of walking, I boarded the city bus, now owned by Glenn Roberts, and rode for a while. On the walls of the bus were the posters of the politicians running in the coming elections. I recognized a few familiar faces: Josephine Arnold is running for the House of Representatives; Gary Pinder and Eddy Garcia are opposing each other in the Mayor's race; Kenny Pinder is running for City Commissioner; Orletta Stirrup for juvenile judge; and Armando Gutierrez for garbage collector.

I passed the office of the Citizen now edited by Rodney Birkett. I understand that he and Violet Lence are still going steady. I wonder if they will ever get married.

The newspaper files provided much information; for instance, that matrimony has claimed Carolyn Putnam, Pat Cassidy, Leila Griffin, and Katherine Schroder. Rudy Carreno and Katherine Pratt finally tied the knot. Michael Carey has also exchanged vows with Sallie Holland. Winnie Stirrup is busy raising a family of giants. Pat Price is sitting on top of the world living in an igloo in Alaska. Bruce McLawhorn is making a tour of schools without bell systems and is blowing his trumpet for the exchange of classes. Tony Hopey, now a famous ball player, is the father of nine boys. He's going to have his own baseball team. I hear that Lloyd Kefauver is an admiral in the Navy. Ronald Dykstra, Eddie Boza, and Jack Jeffcoat have been awarded medals for being outstanding deck swabbers for the Navy. Don Conover owns a used Crosley car lot. Jeanne Haffield practices medicine in New York. Bobby George is drawing cartoons for Walt Disney and Dennis Sullivan writes the "Dennis the Menace" comic strips.

Lord runs a kindergarten and Howard Johnson manufactures filtered cigars. Odilio Valdez is still picking up girls in the morning and taking them to school. Robert Vargas is leading the life of a happy hobo but he's still looking for his lucky charm. Norman Campbell is in the shrimp net repair business and Manuel Domenech is a chimney cleaner.

Gene Favors owns the Beachcomber. David Eastburn is holding up two-thirds of the pants in the South with his famous line of suspenders.

I understand that Juanita Britchard, Susan Woodard, Jill Schindler, Ilka Munoz, and Janice Sadler are regular customers of Kenny Bishop who runs a kissing booth. He always wanted to kiss til the cows came home. James McElveen is the Tavernier game warden and Jack Russell has joined the highway patrol. Ned McCarthy has built a 90-mile bridge to Cuba. Charles Bonovitch, Lanny Harris, and Robert Padron have been employed by Greyhound Bus Lines. They have the job of picking the ticks off the greyhounds. Sandra Handley is the head nurse in Monroe General Hospital.

FLASH: Dr. Campbell is now a Citizen paper boy. Mr. Pavalko has joined a monastery. Miss Wirmusky is in the poor house. Mr. Simoson has joined the foreign legion, Mrs. Pantaleo manufactures chewing gum for typists, and Mrs. Taylor is going with me to the insane asylum. . . . Lanny Harris

The staff of the 1957 CONCH takes this opportunity to acknowledge all those who willingly and generously contributed to the success of this yearbook.

The Class of 1955, in leaving a substantial amount of money to the anniversary edition, is responsible for the color pages which make their first appearance in the annuals of our yearbook history. We thank them for their generosity and trust they will approve of our use of their gift.

The success of our yearbook depends on subscriptions and the generosity of friends in the community. We want to express our appreciation to the merchants and businessmen who have advertised in our annual.

In addition to our advertisers, we wish to express our profound gratitude to all the people who have contributed so much to the publication of this volume:

- Mr. Rozanski, our photographer, for his assistance and patience.
- Mr. Morris, the representative from Myers Publishing Company, for his interest and many courtesies.
- Mr. Billy Rojas, class of 1958, who graciously assisted the art department when he was called upon.
- Our principal and teachers, who cooperated so well, while we were taking pictures.

The Parent-Teacher Association promotes the welfare of youth in home, school, church and community. Meetings are held on the evening of the third Tuesday of every month. Students are asked to urge their parents to attend. The P.-T.A. has done an outstanding job in promoting good will among parents and teachers.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial data. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses and income. The document provides a detailed list of items that should be tracked, such as inventory levels, customer orders, and supplier payments. It also outlines the procedures for recording these transactions, including the use of specific forms and the assignment of responsibilities to different staff members.

The second part of the document focuses on the analysis of the recorded data. It describes various methods for identifying trends and anomalies in the financial records. This includes comparing current performance with historical data and industry benchmarks. The document also discusses the importance of regular audits and reconciliations to detect and correct any errors or discrepancies. It provides a step-by-step guide for conducting these audits, from the selection of samples to the final reporting of findings.

The final part of the document addresses the communication of financial information to management and other stakeholders. It discusses the importance of clear and concise reporting, as well as the use of visual aids such as charts and graphs to enhance the presentation of data. The document also outlines the frequency and format of these reports, ensuring that all relevant parties have access to the information they need to make informed decisions.
