

KENNEDY & ELY VICTIMS ARE NAMED

LAST week Miami Life blew the lid off of one of the most audacious and gigantic insurance swindles ever perpetrated south of the Mason-Dixon line.

The very foundation of the house of Kennedy & Ely was rocked from the force of the blast and percussion is still reverberating as Miami Life digs deeper into the mass of deceit, clever bookkeeping, manipulating and plain stealing which resulted in Miami insurance policy buyers being "gypped" out of approximately $250,000 during the last five years.

Last week Miami Life exposed the crooked methods employed by Kennedy & Ely to swindle policy holders and insurance companies represented by Kennedy & Ely in the Miami area and advised Miami Life readers that THEY WOULD BE GIVEN MORE DETAILS IN SUBSEQUENT ISSUES.

Miami Life is ready to make good on that promise! On February 1, 1935, the firm of Kennedy & Ely issued a Miller National Insurance Company policy No. 208471 to the Dee Gee Corporation. The amount of the premium paid by the Dee Gee Corporation to Kennedy & Ely was $465. When the premium reached the Miller company it had shrunk to $400. Kennedy & Ely STOLE THE $65.

This is how they did it. They wrote the policy with a premium of $465.00. The customer paid this amount. Then Kennedy put through a return PREMIUM ENDORSEMENT to the company pretending that the rate had been reduced and that the customer had due him a return premium of $65. Kennedy received this $65 from the company. BUT HE DIDN'T RETURN IT TO THE CUSTOMER.

This same procedure applies to all of the specific instances mentioned in this story and in other cases uncovered and THE POLICY HOLDER IS ENTITLED TO THAT RETURN PREMIUM from Kennedy, and if he can't recover from Kennedy HE CAN RECOVER FROM THE INSURANCE COMPANY. We base this statement upon a case at law known to all members of the bar:

"Lawrence vs. Fox, (to be found under the Third Party Contracts in Corpus Juris).

On December 24, 1935, (Note: it was Christmas eve, too) Messrs. Kennedy & Ely issued another Miller National Insurance Company policy to the Reserve Holding Company. The premium paid by the Reserve Holding Company to Kennedy & Ely was $282.80. When this premium reached the parent company it had dwindled down to $254.55 KENNEDY & ELY stole the $38.25.

WE CAN GO ON INDEFINITELY WITH SPECIFIC INSTANCES but let's digress for the moment and speculate as to what happened to the money being stolen.

Did Kennedy & Ely duly enter it upon their books as earned profit?

Did they enter it upon their records in a business like manner or did KENNEDY SNEAK BEHIND THE DOOR AND POCKET IT?

Now to get back to the more profitable business of stealing. Here is a whang-doodle.

Kennedy & Ely issued a policy with a premium of $784.87 and put through a return premium of $246.12. THEY STOLE THAT AMOUNT.

Look at this one—A policy with a premium of $433.45 put through with a return premium of $100.03. Kennedy & Ely STOLE THAT AMOUNT.

Or how about a policy with a premium for $685.10 which was put through with a return premium of $95.76. ANOTHER STEAL.

Of course all of the stealing wasn't done through the same company. Kennedy & Ely represented five companies in the Greater Miami area and NO PARTIALITY WAS SHOWN. If they gave all of their larceny business to the Miller Company on Monday they probably favored the Pearl Assurance Company on Tuesday and turned their attention to the Monarch Insurance Company on Wednesday. The General Insurance Company and the Eureka Security Company were not overlooked and PAID THEIR SHARE IN CROOKED PROFITS TO MESSRS. KENNEDY & ELY.

AND—while five insurance companies were dividing the losses sustained through the larcenous tactics of Kennedy & Ely the SUCKER CROP REMAINED UNCHANGED. They were all recruited in the Miami area and PLENTY OF THEM WENT BACK FOR ADDITIONAL DOSES FROM YEAR TO YEAR.

Now let's get back to specific cases again. Here is a nifty in which a policy with a premium for $356.40 was issued and a return premium of $119.40 put through by Kennedy & Ely. THEY DID SOME MORE STEALING!

A policy with a premium of $470 was issued and the return premium slid through for $145.86. STILL STEALING.

Cast your eyes upon this one. A policy with a premium for $1007.30. A return premium went through for $280.80. NICE GOING, GEORGIE!

And—another little policy with a premium of $765.00 with a return premium for $85.93. THE BOYS MAKE GOOD AGAIN.

Shall we go on and on and on or shall we pause a moment and go into the "false claim" department. Oh dear, Yes, plain stealing wasn't the only sharpshooting done by Kennedy & Ely.

Ho Hum! here's another batch of specific swindles (We are fairly smothered with them). A policy for $784.87 was issued and the return premium went through for $246.12. GEORGIE HASN'T WEAKENED YET.

Policy for $1,000 was written and the return premium was only $72.50 (An agent of the parent company was probably in town that day). Of course K. & E. snagged the $72.50.

Next we come to a policy for $465 out of which Kennedy & Ely contented themselves with making a return premium of $65. (That was the day Georgie stayed at home with a toothache).

Let's wind up this specific instance business with a policy for $316.17 which had a return premium of $63.71. We can't understand the odd penny but maybe Georgie needed a box of matches.

These last eleven policies aggregate $6,566.09 and KENNEDY & ELY STOLE $1,308.36 which is approximately 20 per cent. Of course a measly $1,308.36 on eleven policies isn't exactly a mint but when applied to hundreds, yes thousands of policies, it runs into money, as the monkey remarked when he poured a bottle of milk into the cash register.

And so ends the second week in Miami Life's crusade for honest insurance practices in Miami. From a reliable source we learn that the "phonies" are on the run and that by this time next week the insurance business in Miami will be on an "honest" basis on all fronts.

Incidentally, information upon which Miami Life's insurance story was written last week and information disclosed in this story, WAS NOT given to this paper by the Insurance Department or the State of Florida, or any of its representatives. As a matter of fact OUR OWN investigators dug up the information and the fact that the insurance department actually uncovered sufficient evidence to compel Kennedy & Ely's to surrender their license, and it is a fact, the insurance department laid the proof before the insurance companies. The insurance department of the State of Florida merits a great deal of credit for their tenacity in following the Kennedy investigation for nearly two years to uncover definite and undeniable irregularities by the Kennedy agency.

AGED MAN TRUSTED FRIEND, MAY GO TO POTTER'S FIELD

THE sands of life dwindled to a mere trickle. The purple shadow of the grim-reaper cast a blur over his tired and fading eyes. One day was just like another and all days were gray.

In the autumn of his life Alex C. Smith faced eternity alone. He had no children; no relatives. Life had been indifferent to him and for it all he only asked one thing—he wanted a decent Christian funeral.

When he turned the calendar for his 83rd birthday he knew there would never be another. His sun was setting. When tobacco for his pipe became scarce and the shelves of his pantry became barren he didn't complain—and he bought neither tobacco or food until the premium on his insurance policy had been paid.

Alex Smith wanted a Christian burial, and there was no question in his mind but that his good FRIEND H. W. Morrow of 560 N. W. First Street, would see that his last wish was carried out. Why not—?

The $250 insurance policy named Morrow as the beneficiary and upon occasions without number Morrow had assured the old man that the funeral expenses would be paid.

Death visited the home of Alex Smith last week. He died calmly and happy in the firm belief that his ONE FRIEND on earth would not betray him beyond the grave.

The rest of the story is, indeed, too unbelievable for words. Morrow has turned rat!

While the clay, that was once the pulsating body of Alex Smith, lies on a cold slab at a local undertaking establishment, Morrow refuses to assign the insurance policy or assume any responsibility for the Christian funeral which Alex Smith wanted. Instead of a decent burial, ALEX SMITH IS GOING TO THE POTTER'S FIELD just as surely as H. W. Morrow is going to hell.

We would have no trouble finding the proper name for a louse like Morrow. We could call him a vulture, and a disgrace to humanity but what's the use?—a ghoul who robs the dead is too callous to be insulted and we are more interested in seeing that Alex Smith receives a decent funeral than we are in suggesting that Morrow be horsewhipped.

The funeral home will contribute it's share toward the expense. Miami Life will cheerfully toss it's contribution into the hat. Who else will volunteer to donate a few dollars for Alex Smith? Let's give him that Christian funeral and take care of MISTER "GENTLEMAN" MORROW later. Miami Life's telephone number is 2-3239 and the funeral will cost approximately $200.

FERGUSON BAND WAGON IS TRAVELING RAPIDLY

AN amazing political miracle is happening in Miami and prognosticators are gaga trying to figure out how Ralph Ferguson's band-wagon worked up such terrific speed in the city commission race.

There are thirty-one candidates in the brawl, and every one of them concedes that Ferguson will be the high man and some of them are scared he will poll a MAJORITY IN THE FIRST GO-ROUND.

We rather doubt that any candidate can poll a majority in a field of thirty-one, but little or no doubt remains that FERGUSON IS IN THE DRIVER'S SEAT and that he is definitely a city commissioner. Of course we will have to wait until the votes are counted—but that seems to be a mere formality.

R. C. Gardner, who ran fourth in the last election, looks mighty good at this stage of the game. Ferguson has gone on record as being anti-Kavanaugh and it is understood that Gardner echoes Ferguson's sentiments. A rumor (there are always rumors in political campaigns) purports to have Gardner on the other side of the fence but we cannot believe that a man possessed of as many fine qualities as Gardner could be misled and until he makes a definite statement to the contrary we intend to string along with him. Embalmers Drive Miami Ambulances

Z-Z-Z-Z-Z BANG!
An automobile skids on wet pavement and crashes into a telephone pole. A body, thrown from the wreckage, lies inert on the curb. An excited spectator rushes to 'phone for an ambulance.

Ten or twenty minutes elapse. And then—and then a "blood buggy" from a private FUNERAL HOME rolls onto the scene, with siren wide open. Does the crash victim get immediate and expert attention from an experienced interne? No, Elmer, for this is Miami.

From their seats in the ambulance, the driver and what is quaintly called a "skilled attendant," clamber. Grabbing the pulsating body as though it were a gunny-sackful of Georgia Col-lards, they toss the inanimate human onto a stretcher and take "it" for a ride—often "it's" last.

Are these "sod-busters" concerned with the victim's possible broken bones, ruptured organs, severed blood-vessels or torn ligaments? Whatinell do Bush League Embalmers know about "them there things?" Cadavers are their meat, so to speak, and that's all they're concerned with.

In every major city in the world, excepting Miami, educated internes accompany all PUBLICLY-OWNED AMBULANCES. They have saved untold thousands of lives—delivered babies, closed gaping wounds, applied tourniquets and performed similar delicate operations BECAUSE THEY KNOW WHAT TO DO WHEN KNOWING MEANS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH.

But in Miami, when you are in need of medical attention, you draw a professional embalmer and you're lucky if you don't START AND END UP as the piece de resistance in a first class funeral.

Madam and Mister Miami, YOU may learn from experience. YOU may be the next "Victim." Then it won't be funny. Demand protection! Miami Life will be pleased to publish your views on this pertinent subject. Write NOW—today!

PSYCHIC STUDY IS REVEALED TO CUB REPORTER

By Florence Prewitt

I WAS wondering where my next Old Fashioned was coming from, when the editor called me over to his desk. I knew something was brewing. "Holy smoke!" I muttered, without moving my lips (that's a neat trick if you can do it) "I suppose this lantern-jawed mug wants me to interview Kavanaugh or Palsy-Walsy Sheriff Coleman."

But my fears were quickly dispelled. The editor started cleaning his fingernails with a toothpick and casually said:

"The Psychic Research Society of Miami has been placing some ads with us lately, as you know, if you ever take the trouble to read your own sheet instead of those True Confessions you've usually got your nose buried in.

"In pursuance with our policy of investigating our advertisers, we want to know whether or not this society is the real McCoy. And you're elected because the boys apparently are nursing holdovers this morning and can't be bothered with work at this particular time. At least none has shown up. So wiggle over to the American Bank building at 139 — I said one-three-nine—North East First Street and get the lowdown."

In room 611, I was pleasantly received. Right off the bat I got it off my chest. "What," I asked in my best drawing room manner — "What is the purpose of this society?"

The secretary, a man named Robert Steele I later learned, pursed his lips, fainted his fingers so both hands were touching at the tips, and, gazing reflectively at the ceiling, replied:

"To investigate in the most scientific manner all psychic phenomena."

"And how do you go about this?" I asked.

Steele leaned forward, tense. "By studying various forces possessed by man—the physiological, psychological, ecstatic, clairaudient, clairvoyant, telekinetic, telepathetic — in fact, every known force and potency man seems to possess," he replied, without so much as coming up for air.

"Whether these forces are latent or inherent," he continued, "is one of our problems. Can these forces be developed? What laws govern them? Or are they subject to laws? What is their scope? Then again, we conduct these studies impartially. Our primary rule is 'Research without prejudice and for truth alone.'"

I inquired: "You mention physiological—now isn't that definitely a biological science?"

Steele had a ready reply. "I believe every physiologist will admit that many of the mechanical, chemical, thermic, dynamic and nervous functions of the body are as much a mystery today as they were in the days of Hippocrates and that there is plenty of room for research in the field of physiology."

"Yes, but isn't that a rather extensive study—and are you equipped sufficiently?"

"Among our members are scientists and physicians who are perfectly willing to place at our disposal their equipment. We have also wealthy and philanthropic members who provide necessary funds to continue research."

"But", I butted, "how do you expect to succeed where science with its unlimited resources has failed?"

"Has it failed?" he countered.

"When you find the most illustrious scientists, Sir Oliver Lodge, Barrett, Crookes, Myers, Hyslop, Hodgson and others, has concurred in scientific conclusions."

"Yes, but does not Jastrow, the eminent psychologist, refute the findings of these men and claim they are victims of 'The Will To Believe'?"

"Granted, but recall the past errors of other scientists who seemed imbued with the 'will to disbelieve.'"

"Such as—?"

"The great scientist who wrote a book to prove the impossibility of the railroad. Did not Lord Kelvin claim hypnotism to be half fraud and poor observation? Edison's electric light was declared by several scientists to be an impossibility, as were also the airplane, the phonograph and other commonplaces of today."

Well, he had me there but still I tossed queries at him. "Has this society ever had an . . . form of psychic phenomena which it could regard as genuine?" I asked.

"Yes."

"How do you know it was genuine?"

"By elimination of as many human factors as possible. You see, the average person's power of observation is undeveloped. Even a trained person can be fooled by appearance of things, especially if a sympathetic attitude for psychic phenomena is present. But we do not rely on these. We supplant them with meters, infra red and ultra violet photographs, capacity and short-wave instruments and the electric eye."

"Just how do you go about developing latent forces, as you say?"

"Most of our studies are with those who seem to have developed psychic powers since joining the society. Members wishing to develop any one of what we term 'psychic powers' must first undergo a thorough physical examination. Then they subject themselves to tests for psychic ability. Because we have found that each person is a biological, magnetic, antipathetic, nervous and dynamic seat of individual forces, they cannot study in groups. They are developed as individuals according to their possibilities."

"Then it is really possible to develop psychic powers?" I asked.

"To a degree, yes," he said, and started to elucidate when an attendant poked his head in the door to announce that members of the Northern Psychological Research Society had just barged in for a conference.

So to the office to dash this piece off—and then off for that postponed Old Fashioned. Join me?

Rambles and Rumbles

IF you waltz down Flagler street one of these days and find the traffic cops wearing lip-stick, permanent waves and Clark Gable haircuts, think nothing of it; they will be in training for the movies. Twentieth Century-Fox has requested the Chamber of Commerce to supply a couple of coppers for Shirley Temple's new picture, "His Master's Voice" which is to be filmed in Miami, and you can't rule a cop off for trying.

DRUSUS, known as the most "honest" horse ever to run on a Florida track has passed to his last reward. Drusus broke down in a race at Tropical Park Monday afternoon and had to be destroyed. During his lengthy career Drusus nearly always ran true to form. His specialty was the distance route and when not overmatched he was always close-up, giving everything he had. He didn't always win, but he didn't always lose either. Win or lose, every person who clutched a $2.00 ticket on him knew beyond question of doubt that old Drusus would be "trying". He was trying Monday and his eyes were still turned toward the wire when he was destroyed.

MORE ABOUT Ferguson Band Wagon

Beyond Ferguson and Gardner the field is strung out all over the course. Judge John DuBose and James R. Cooper are conducting strong campaigns. Mayor A. D. H. Fossey, too, is working very hard for re-election and cannot be counted out. At this moment only one thing appears certain. EV SEWELL IS LICKED AND WE DOUBT THAT HE EVEN GETS ENOUGH NAMES ON HIS PETITION TO QUALIFY.

If he does get the required number of signatures he will find that the voters have become considerably "smarter" than they were four years ago and that he need make no preparations to be "carried on the shoulders" of his constituents this time.

Mary Dillard Perrine, the only woman candidate in the race, is the "dark horse." She seems to be sawing wood and saying nothing and even the wise old owls who generally predict the outcome of elections are afraid to venture a guess as to what may happen when she takes the stump during the campaign.

Miss Perrine's platform is a sound one, and one that will appeal to women and men alike. A woman in local politics is something new, and the women may demand representation; if they do they have their chance and Miami will receive millions of dollars worth of favorable publicity.

Francis M. Miller, attorney for the Madison Square Garden Corporation in Miami, has dropped out of the race and will not file a qualification petition. M. F. Hannahs, is reported as having a sufficient number of names on his petition to put him in the race and may be depended upon to poll a substantial vote in the northwest section as well as in other sectors of the city. J. J. Bridges, Roy Willette, Charlie Dillon, W. M. Lester and H. M. Jackson are other candidates who may upset things when the campaign gets a little further along.

Campus Chatter

AT MIAMI U.

Our very sincerest congratulations to the DELTA EPSILON PHIS on going national tomorrow morn'. We have been expecting them to join TAU EPSILON PHI for some time after seeing all the T.E.P. pins on campus from other colleges. What with the PHI EPS being national all these years, the CHI O's going national during the Christmas holidays, the band fraternity going PHI MU ALPHA SIMFONIA, national honorary, recently and now the A.K.A.'s going BETA PHI ALPHA in the very near future, we are really going nationalistic on the U of M. campus. Didn't we warn you that there'd be more than one national putting a chapter on campus in the past few months!

It appears the city fathers have already forgotten the nationwide publicity we gained from our last season's football team or is there some real reason why they favor the high schools. But we all know the adage "You can't keep a good man down" and believe it will apply to the new coach and team. Who could believe otherwise after seeing the boys out at practice at eight o'clock on a Saturday morning or even studying in the library in their free time.

NIGGER IN THE WOODPILE: 'Tis rumored that there might not be an orchestra at dinner henceforth, if that group doesn't calm down. Of course we grant you that you must relax sometime and give vent to frivolities, but please not in the cafeteria. Hint taken, boys? . . . would like to know what brand of toothpaste WHEEDEN uses after seeing her picture as MISS DEAUVILLE in the Tribune. All nonsense aside, though, congratulations, GLORIA . . . Quite a unique pin you wear, BLACKIE . . . Glad to see BOB and HELENE smiling that way again . . . The WALKER-BOYLE duo is quite a consistent occurrence of late we'd say . . . Louise Herbert is taking it on the chin we'd say after reading the MIMIC . . . As usual the library has become a real hall of study with exams in the offing . . . TOOTS and LORRAINE make a study in paints together, don't they? . . . BOB made quite an impressive KAMPUS KING with that patch over his eye, but TOLCHER, the Phi Alpha candidate, stole the show when the throne stairs gave way under him . . . After listening to LUEHL as M. C., we agree on his nickname of Goo-Goo . . . See you at exams, studs.
