MIAMI'S FATE UP TO VOTERS

OYEZ! OYEZ! Oyez! The Court of Public Opinion will be open next Tuesday to determine whether the City of Miami shall continue to be dominated by Newspaper Nepotism or be given back to the People."

For on that day, which promises to be an auspicious one, twelve candidates shall line up before the Bar of Ballots to learn whether they shall be included among the six who will compete a week later for the mandate to represent YOU, as a member of City Commission.

The ranting and raving, innuendoes and incongruities and flambouyant flatteries of the campaign are temporarily terminated. Now comes the delicate operation, wherein YOU, Mister and Mrs. Voter, SHALL ACT AS SURGEON TO THE STRICKEN CITY GOVERNMENT AND EITHER INFUSE NEW BLOOD INTO THE EXHAUSTED VEINS OF THE AFFLICTED MUNICIPALITY, OR ABANDON MIAMI TO THE MALIGNANT AND CANCEROUS PARASITE WHICH HAS DRAINED THE TREASURY OF ITS LIFE'S BLOOD THE PAST FEW YEARS!

The candidates have had THEIR say. Now, YOU'RE the doctor; upon YOUR shoulders, therefore, rests the future of Miami!

DR. RALPH B. FERGUSON

First, make your diagnosis. You MUST KNOW that Miami, like a craw-fish, has been crawling backward. PUPPETS, DANCING TO THE WHIMS OF EITHER THE "BOSS TWEED" OF BIG TAMMANY OR OF THE "MARK HANNA" OF LITTLE TAMMANY, HAVE BARTERED AWAY THE NATURAL HERITAGE OF THIS FAVORED CITY. YOU MUST REALIZE THAT IF THE PATIENT IS TO RECOVER, THESE TUMORS MUST BE REMOVED!

Of the 12 candidates on the ballot, the great majority have come out directly or by inference for expulsion of that Great Dissenter, Andrew J. (for Jacknapes) Kavanaugh. BUT, A N D DON'T OVERLOOK THIS VITAL FACT, OF THE ANTI-KAVANAUGH CANDIDATES, ONLY THREE ARE CERTAIN TO WIN IN THE RUN-OFF A WEEK HENCE — IF ALL ANTI-KAVANAUGH VOTERS LINE UP BEHIND THEM. DON'T SCATTER YOUR VOTES AND THUS PERMIT ONE OR TWO OF THE KAVANAUGH HENCHMEN TO SQUEEZE THROUGH BY VIRTUE OF SUCH A SPLIT!

The three Anti-Kavanaugh candidates WHO ARE CERTAIN TO WIN IF THOSE VOTERS WHO WANT KAVANAUGH OUSTED GET BEHIND THEM, ARE DR. RALPH FERGUSON, JUDGE JOHN W. DuBOSE AND R. C. GARDNER!

"Such popularity MUST be deserved"—and IS DESERVED! Each of these three is AN INDEPENDENT; each has shouted from the house-tops, as it were, that he WILL FIRE KAVANAUGH. And NONE pays homage to the insidious BIG AND LITTLE TAMMANY!

Pussyfooting Politicians who have axes to grind for the City Hall Gang are attempting to bamboozle the gullible voters by sneering:

"SHUCKS! KAVANAUGH AIN'T AN ISSUE IN THIS CAMPAIGN!"

Judge John W. DuBose

Oh, he "ain't, ain't" he? Well, we dunno. We were under the impression that it was somewhat of a pertinent problem to decide whether we wanted to allow half-crazed negroes to run rampant over the city, unbridled and frenzied with their new freedom, robbing white people in their homes—and assaulting white women and girls.

We were bigotted enough to think that the complete demoralization of one of the finest police departments of the nation was a serious situation. We labored under the impression that the city should be perturbed when an outsider, caring not a whoop about the future of the city, acted as an agent to stir up factional strife, racial disturbances and general discontent to the devastating detriment of municipal progress.

Kavanaugh has been responsible for these untoward conditions—and yet some scheming candidates have the effrontery to say: "Kavanaugh ain't an issue." Why do you suppose 95 per cent of the Miami police are dead against any candidate favoring Kavanaugh? Ask any Cop; he'll tell you. He'll tell you how he is compelled to devote two-thirds of his time filling out reports instead of patrolling his 'beat'.

How Kavanaugh bawls 'em out for making arrests (when Certain Big-wigs are cornered) and bawls 'em out when they don't make arrests and accuses 'em of "laying down on the job."

Kavanaugh calls the Cops onto the carpet for not making enough traffic arrests, whether or not violations warrant numerous arrests. So Kavanaugh "ain't an issue, eh?" Listen to this:

Some time ago, Bob Yancey, an officer with 15 years of good service on his record, was demoted from rank as motorcycle officer to patrolman at N. E. First street and Second avenue. A reporter from this publication attempted to learn why he was disciplined, but Yancey, like a good soldier refused to discuss the case.

But MIAMI LIFE found out from unquestionable authority (you'd be surprised) that this is what happened: Officer Yancey handed a ticket for a traffic violation—a flagrant one, incidentally—to a woman motorist who later proved to be the teacher of children of a high city official.

And so? Yancey was demoted without even a hearing as provided for in the city charter—he was yanked off his motorcycle simply because he did his duty!

Is it any wonder that courageous, trained officers are actually afraid of their shadows, so far as their jobs go? Like newspapermen who labor for that despot of the Fourth Estate, William Randolph Hearst, the Cops here never know when they'll have their heads chopped off—under "Khedive" Kavanaugh.

Consider this: Before the advent of Kavanaugh, officers received a one-day breathing spell every two weeks and two weeks vacation each year. But the imported New Yorker fixed that. Oh, yeah! He grants them 30 days vacation per year only — with pay, but he wants them to take that thirty-day pay after they return from their vacations and not before, when they need it most. More-

Meditational Musings . . .

CLARK Gable once worked in a sawmill for $3 per day but that still don't explain those ears. In Hollywood they declare that when he was born his parents didn't know whether he would walk or fly. . . Engineers have figured that it would cost 100 million dollars for gasoline to be used as fuel on a round trip to the moon. The distance is 240,000 miles. Wonder if they forgot to figure that a fellow might coast or "free wheel" back and save half of the fuel cost?

Wally Simpson's bedroom in Baltimore has been turned into a museum and the admission is fifty cents. Shucks, she could have done better than that without ever going to England. . . Professional blood donors get $35 per pint for the life giving fluid. Papa Dionne could probably get a little more. . . Carole Lombard hates to wear panties. In a recent picture the silhouette was so distinct that filming was held up until a pair could be scouted up for her. An old 1929 Pathe studio photo, showing Carole in the all-together, has been dug up.

The average person can hold his breath exactly half a minute. Trained swimmers in the South Sea islands can stay under water three and one-half minutes. The greatest balance test ever devised to select aviators calls for closing the eyes and standing on one foot with the other foot on the knee for one minute. Try it sometime.

A famous prizefighter once figured that he had reduced more than two tons. He kept count of all of the weight he worked off over a course of twelve years. Shipwreck Kelley, famous flag-pole sitter, has spent more than 4 years of his life on flagpoles. . . Why does a polar bear never attack a penguin? Polar bears inhabit the arctic and penguins are found near the south pole. Maybe that is the reason.

AFTER a 40-day sitdown strike, girls from the five- and ten-cent store walked out shouting, "Bottoms Up."

Greeby Buys New Shoes

Says He Always Gets Them Too Small Because There Is So Much Comfort In Taking Them Off

R. HAMMERHEAD GREEBY, who holds the proud distinction of having held the bag in more snipe hunts than any other Miamiian, was found this week by the Miami Life reporter coming out of Beck's shoe store.

"I do not desire no publicity," he yammered.

"What's that?" roared the reporter, falling in step beside him as he strode down Flagler street.

"I don't desire no publicity," answered Greeby.

"I can't hear you," shrieked the reporter. "Stop here a minute."

"What's the matter with your ears?" queried Greeby.

"Nothing," replied the reporter. "I can hear you now since you've stopped walking. Where in the hell did you get those squeaky shoes?"

"I resent that," flared Greeby. "I can't help it if they squeak, can I?"

"Maybe not," agreed the news hound. "But at least you might have 'em tuned. What size are they?"

"Tens," responded Greeby, "and oh boy, are they tight!" "No wonder," sneered the reporter. "You know you wear twelves. What's the idea of buying a pair of shoes two sizes too small?"

"Ha!" belched Greeby. "So you don't know, eh? Well, my short tempered friend, I'll learn you somethin' about shoe wearin'. Always get your shoes two or three sizes too small and you'll enjoy life."

"Nertz," barked the reporter. "What kind of logic is that?"

"Good logic, whatever that is," replied Greeby, "because after walkin' a few blocks it becomes a real pleasure to set down somewhere and take your shoes off."

"Oh Migawd!," shrieked the reporter. "A hundred and fifty thousand human beings in Miami and I have to bump into you."

"Maybe it is your lucky day," wheezed Greeby. "Lets you and me drop in here and have a couple of hamburgers on you."

"Quiet," roared the reporter, "and get away from me. Someone I know might come along and I don't want my reputation ruined."

"All right," beamed Greeby, "let's just sneak into this gin mill and drink some lunch." "Sneak," blurted the reporter. "You couldn't sneak up on a freight train with those brogans. Go on get away from me."

"All right, all right," rasped Greeby. "If you feel that way about it slip me a couple of dollars and I'll be on my way."

"A couple of dollars," roared the reporter. "You've got a hell of a nerve trying to mooch two dollars. Why don't you ask for a nickel or a dime?"

"I resent that," flamed Greeby. "Don't tell me how to run my business."

"What's coming off here?" boomed an authoritative voice as a huge bluecoat hove into view.

"This guy is annoyin' me," sung Greeby dancing wildly around in a circle.

"What's that?" roared the cop. "I say this guy is annoyin' me," bellowed Greeby.

"Stop makin' all that racket with them shoes so I can hear you," yelled the policeman enforcing his command with a well-directed whack at Greeby. "Now what is the trouble?"

"I said this fellow was annoyin' me," wheezed Greeby. "I asked him to loan me a couple of bucks and he won't do it. I am plenty annoyed." "Is zat so?" yammered the cop, taking a strangle hold on his night stick and glaring fiercely at Greeby. "Sure, sure," soothed Greeby, starting up the street. "But let it pass: I won't press the charge." "What's that?" roared the cop. "I can't hear anything, either," muttered the reporter, crossing the street to make a closer inspection of a blonde.

A HOLLYWOOD motion picture needing the immediate services of a famous star who happened to be sojourning in New York lost no time contacting the star via long distance.

"Grab the first plane and get here as quick as possible," shouted the director.

"No; I'll come by train," responded the star.

"I said plane," shrieked the director. "We need you right now. You aren't afraid of airplanes, are you?"

"Yes," flared the star, "and I'll come by train or not at all."

"Oh, Migawd!" bellowed the director. "Don't you know that no one ever dies until his number is called?"

"Sure," cooed the star, "but suppose they call the pilot's number. I'll still come by train."

MR. C. E. (MIKE) DAMERON spent an enjoyable week operating a shell game in the Herald's exposition building. He wasn't trying to get customers to guess which shell the pea was under but was selling the shells.

MR. J. J. CLINTON, who used to be one of Andy Kavanaugh's hired hands, attended a political meeting in Bayfront Park Monday night, but did not take a seat on the platform.

MR. GORDON ROGERS is now the proud owner of a boat and is figuring on buying a commodore's cap. He already knows how to say "ship ahoy" and "shiver my timbers."

MR. J. J. MURPHY spent a busy week moving the Printcrafters' printing plant to a new building. Mr. Murphy assisted the movers personally by grunting very hard while the big press was being loaded on a truck.

MR. STEVE VETTER, one of the WIOD Veters, has sold so many commercial programs that he is getting ready to ask for that $10,000 salary some complimentary bozo said he was getting a couple of years ago.

MR. SNAG TROWBRIDGE, one of the West Palm Beach leather slinging Trowbridges, dropped in one day this week to say that he is looking for a good fight. No one in the office accepted the offer.

MR. A. B. CLEIN is now living in his own home and will spend the summer practicing the thumb to the nose movement for landlords next season.

Editor Miami Life, Dear Sir:

What crack-brained idiot conceived the brilliant idea of forcing city commission candidates to circulate petitions to get their names on the ballot?

For several weeks the voters were much annoyed, harassed and pursued by a mob of professional chisellers hired by various candidates to obtain names on petitions.

Most of the candidates spent at least $100 (and several spent two or three times that amount). Wouldn't it have been much better for each candidate to have paid $100 into a general fund as a qualifying fee in the first place and have it all over with? I do not know who will be elected but I do hope that the city commission will take steps to eliminate this nuisance before another election comes up.

After listening to the twelve candidates in the city commission race speak in Bayfront Park I have reached a remarkable conclusion.

Every one of them promises to reduce operating expenses at least 10 percent. Why not elect all twelve of them and have no operating expenses at all with 20 per cent left over for profit?

Congratulations upon your stirring editorial regarding passage of the so-called "Anti-Lynch Bill" in congress.

Miami's Fate Up To The Voters

over, every day officers are absent during the year due to sickness is deducted from the 30-day vacation period. That's Andy Kavanaugh for you!

Now, we know the majority of candidates realize the seriousness of retaining this New York bumpkin in such a responsible position. But most of this majority of candidates cannot possibly be elected.

Those three sure winners, as any unbiased and unprejudiced observer will tell you are: Dr. Ferguson, Judge DuBose and R. C. Gardner! Now take the Herald's Office-Boy-At-Large, Ev ("I Was Out Of Town When They Hired Kavanaugh") Sewell, the perennial candidate...

What's that we hear from the bald-headed gent in the front row? You say Moe Annenberg and his Tribune are supporting Ferguson, DuBose, and Gardner?

Why is a bathing suit like a barbed wire fence? "Because it protects the property without obstructing the view."

"Do you think I made a mistake in buying this suit?" "No, but you sure made a mistake wearing it."

"Morning Herald." "Morning, Bud." He: "What's all the bustle about?" She: "Don't get personal."

STATION R. B. C.

EVERY TIME someone attempts suicide by jumping in the river from the Flagler street bridge and is fished out before the drowning process sets in, another hero comes to the front.

An unemployed waitress tried the stunt last Monday night and was rescued by a young man who happened to be passing at the time. When interviewed a few moments later the lad explained to reporters that the girl was not injured "but smelled pretty bad on account of choosing a spot immediately behind a fish house to start her journey across the Sixty."

With an alleged "doping" argument raging, a lot of Mi-amians are curiously awaiting the outcome, and wondering how government narcotic agents arrive at the conclusion that a "doped" horse should win by 27 lengths in a half mile race.

R. C. GARDNER. As the balloting neared, rumors were current in political circles that pressure was being brought to bear surreptitiously to compel several of the lagging candidates who appear to be Lost Causes, to throw their dubious support behind the coalition candidates of Big and Little Tammany.

The government is suddenly interested in lynching and unless something happens to prevent it a bill is soon to be passed to give federal agents full authority in lynching cases. State authorities, of course, will be deprived of a branch of law enforcement which heretofore has been left in their hands.

And speaking of law enforcement the wave of counterfeiting which is sweeping the country could be broken up more quickly if the government adopted a policy of replacing counterfeit money instead of seizing it.

CANDIDATES APPEAR ALL of the candidates in the city commission race will speak in Bayfront Park Saturday night at the meeting sponsored by the Dade County Democratic Committee.

"Tub" Palmer Goes to Town In Contest

BACK in 1904, "Tub" Palmer, now owner of the Club Deuce at 222 14th street, Miami Beach, walked all the way from Jacksonville to Miami. It took him a long time, but "Tub" got there. Today, "Tub" is running for office as city commissioner at the Beach. From canvases made by friends, it appears that the liquor store dealer will have a much easier journey to his goal this time than he had back in 1904.

ROUND THE TOWN

SENTIMENT in Miami Beach during the last week indicates that Dr. Maurice Klein, candidate for city councilman is gaining support all along the Beach front.

"Why is a bathing suit like a barbed wire fence?" "Because it protects the property without obstructing the view."

"Do you think I made a mistake in buying this suit?" "No, but you sure made a mistake wearing it."
