Seward Proved A

The more we hear about this fellow, Prof. A. F. Seward, who swindles silly suckers by selling them horoscopes, the more obnoxious he becomes. Frankly we believed a new low had been established last week when Prof. Seward and his redheaded assistant, Leroy Howells, were sued because Howells struck a middle-aged woman over the head, but now we are aghast at the symposium of opinion and complaints which have poured into the office of MIAMI LIFE during the week.

Prof. Seward, who incidently isn't a professor at all the public. It is high time joint by hot-air, neon lights Evidently Seward neglected but an illiterate faker, is a that the citizens of Miami and ballyhoo. When they to consult his horoscope oth-

He waxed wealthy peddling his horoscopes, which cost him but a frac- er. tion of a cent, to the suckers for a dollar each. And-speaking of sex we are reminded of the almost continuous advertisement, Seward runs in the daily newspapers for female "assistants". He wants them pretty and willing to travel but there is no record that he ever hired one for the $25 per week he offers in the ad.

With his loot, stolen from suckers, Seward purchased a Miami Beach Hotel which he sold for a fancy figure last year. The man who purchased it turned around and sold it making $100,000 profit.

He and his red-headed son-in-law should not be permitted to insult winter visitors and attack them without provocation. There is room for anything in Miami which is honest, amusing, entertaining or decent but if Prof. Seward comes under any of these classifications the irate public doesn't think so, otherwise we would not have received such an avalanche of protests.

Taxpayers Must Be Bullied?

"Have you paid your garbage tax?" is being asked by the city tax assessor of all who apply for homestead exemption. Taxpayers are told they'll get no exemption unless they pay the iniquitous tax-whose legality would not survive a test in the courts! . . It is also reported that people are being told they can't vote unless they have paid the garbage tax! . . . There's still another form of intimidation used, we hear: if you lie about having paid your garbage tax-and give a fictitious number-they'll not give you credit for your homestead exemption, on the grounds that you have perjured yourself!

Another form of blackjacking is to be found in the frantic statements and writings of Community Chest promoters, after the public has shown such a distaste for the drive. The Herald yesterday page-oned that "three ways are open for winter visitors wishing to make contributions to the Dade County Community Chest." But visitors are NOT shown there is NO way for a visitor to be benefitted by this charity- no matter how much in need he might become! . . The blackjack? Here it is: "Donn (general chairman) reminded the by sinessmen that a list of firms that have subscribed 100 per cent to the chest will be published in the newspapers and that he felt sure "YOU WILL NOT WANT YOUR NAME OMITTED!"

Cheaper Insurance Can Be Forced Here--

N the next year we are going to hear a lot about insurance. It's time Florida did something about insurance sold within her borders—and Metropolitan Miami, in which probably a fourth of the state's insurance is sold, needs to be given the best information in the quickest possible time. We're already paying two or three times the fire insurance rates we should pay. But the evil isn't confined to fire insurance, wind-storm, or hurricane insurance, all out-of-proportion to the risk, but it is in life insurance that the people are being cheated out of the most money.

The outcome of all of this will probably be the formation of an Insurance Council, some sort of body which will work for the development of better insurance laws as affecting this community, reducing our rates not only on fire and hurricane insurance but life and accident and health

Did you know THAT-

There are 128 fire insurance companies operating in Miami (there are more now as these figures were made up back in 1935)?

These 128 companies operate approximately 425 separate agencies?

The City of Miami receives a direct benefit of only $12,000 annually in mercantile licenses?

These companies have collected in Miami, in the five years ending in 1935, in fire insurance premiums, $11,675,844—or approximately $2,000,000 per year?

Yet the fire losses during this period amounted to only $479,387-or 4.1 percent of the premiums collected? A company can successfully operate on a loss of 55 percent of the premiums collected? IN THE CITY OF MIAMI THE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES HAVE TAKEN IN TWENTY TIMES WHAT

THEY HAVE HAD TO PAY OUT IN LOSSES! DON'T YOU THINK THEY OUGHT TO BE TAXED-AND TAXED PLENTY?

WHY SHOULD POOR PEOPLE HAVE TO PAY $4 A YEAR GARBAGE TAX WHEN THE RICH FIRE INSUR-ANCE COMPANIES GET BY WITH A STEAL LIKE

Back in 1935 the commission and the city attorney studied a plan to impose a municipal tax upon fire insurance companies—and, after a time, evaded discussing it further. An insurance bill, setting up an insurance board whose duties would be lowering Florida insurance rates to conform with rates elsewhere, has been presented before the last three sessions of the legislature by a local group headed by Attorney Harry Gordon, but the insurance lobby against it has so far been too strong, mainly because of lack of pub-

It is beginning to be evident that the same procedure as was followed by Ordinance 1066-the city commission ordinance that eventually led to reduction of our electric rates —would cause a 50 percent reduction in our fire insurance

Flash (9:10 p. m. Friday) . . . Royal Palm gambling may be resumed within next hour or two. That's latest rumor. Watch for MIAMI LIFE Extra if it does!

THE publisher of MIAMI LIFE received a telephone call from Manager Arthur Childers of the Royal Palm Club this week. Childers did not say where he was calling from.

"Why," he asked, "did you print that statement?" He referred to the story in our Sunday extra which quoted Childers as having told this publisher that J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, himself had told him that gambling might be conducted at the Royal Palm-if northern racketeers were strictly kept out of the picture. "You know," Art went on, "that I made no such statement."

The publisher then declared emphatically that Childers had made such a statement—and said he would take a most sacred oath to that effect? Whereupon Childers declared almost as emphatically that he had not . . . but later in the telephonic conversation, Childers asked: "When do you say I made such a statement?"

When told it was about six weeks ago, Childers demanded, "Why didn't you run the story then?" The publisher replied that at that time the FBI had taken no direct action in the local gambling set-up. or anywhere else in Florida... but when injunctions were taken out in Broward county signed by FBI agents, the publisher couldn't help remembering what the Royal Palm manager had told him. Then Childers said-still talking over the phone-"The only reason you did, you saw that the other articles you had printed had done no harm to the place."

Then Childers said, "I must get that paper off the street! How can this be done?" Whereupon the publisher remarked, "Get rid of the Mov-whom MIAMI LIFE is going to fight as long as they have the control over our entire city administration that they exercise today!'

This may not be the word-for-word telephonic conversation—but it is pretty correct, especially as to

We read in the Herald later that, at just about the time he called this publisher, Art Childers was being questioned by the FBI agents! The publisher of MIAMI LIFE wishes to reiterate that the Mob. all of whom were questioned with the exception of Yuke Byer by the FBI, will continue to be exposed by MIAMI LIFE until their control of the city is broken or the Mob is disbanded. MIAMI LIFE last week had some strange visitors—and stranger telephone calls and propositions—all of which were obvious attempts to involve, in some way or other, this paper in the local gambling mess... Trying to trap us! . . . they were pretty lucky in not getting trapped themselves! MIAMI LIFE will continue, regardless of threats against lives of members of its staff, regardless of the attempted buying off of our editorial policies, to give you next week any further developments along Miami's Mob-front!

Meanwhile, ask yourselves and your best friends these following important questions:

How Art Childers reconciles his denials of gambling activities with his friend, Walter Winchell wrote in his column Thursday telling of Larry Fisher being a spectator, of Col. Kelly of New Jersey being there, of it being at the Club, and of it being at Ace-Deuce's place?

Though Sunday night witnessed the last gambling at the Royal Palm Club, why did not Monday morning's Herald (always dull from lack of news) not contain a line about this most important news of the winter season? If it isn't a travesty of justice that Frank Hyde and Red Slaton should be serving four months jail sentences for gambling-that they should have been tried and convicted a couple of vears after their place was closed- all because of the insistence of the Herald and the Newswhen here on our bayfront, in the most conspicuous place they could have found, two Miamians, one of the best-family connections, operate a crooked gambling palace, open to all with a few bucks-WITHOUT A SOUL ARRESTED, LET ALONE BEING FINED? If the city commission majority hasn't been letting the Royal Palm club go of their own free will—then who has forced them into this position—and why?

MIAMI's City Commission Majority wants to talk Water remembers its obligations to Little Nell? Deal, street car elimination, or anything that might divert attention from what appears to be the biggest scandal yet envolving the self-styled "New Deal" commission.

Mob-controlled gambling at the bayfront Royal Palm Club—the most conspicuous gambling joint in North America-stopped suddenly Sunday night-when operators learned G-Man Hover was returning. Everybody concerned quaked not a little.

Curiously, the Herald suddenly got anxious about completing the Water Deal . . . isn't it rather peculiar that during the entire run of the Royal Palm Club's exclusive gambling, the Herald forgets all about its very important Power-Trust Deal at city hall—and it isn't until the gambling rooms are darkened and the operators have gone that it suddenly

Let no one be fooled! And, for once, let us not be diverted from the burning question of today: WHAT WAS THE ROYAL PALM PAY-OFF, and whom to? . . . Don't let the city hall majority and the Herald "tout" us off the subject. It's the most important thing in Miami right now. If J. Edgar Hoover gets to the bottom of it, it'll be No.1 story

MIAMI LIFE can't help pointing out an apparent connection between several apparently unrelated things that have happened of late. The commission majority in January bowed abjectly before the Power-Trust, put an illegal ordinance before the voters at a time when it was deemed most expedient for the Power-Trust to succeed with it, and with

By LEFT HOOK (Round Three) MIKE Jacobs, the toothless czar of the fistic world, a chiseling ticket-scalper who turned the sale of choice seats for practically every big New York event into a rotten racket, is put on a pedestal by Miami bigwigs. If Jacobs was actually putting the fight on for the sake of sweet charity, he would demand box-car headlines to tell the world that ALL the profits derived from this forthcoming BUSINESS venture of his would be used to fight infantile paralysis! But we do see him asking the city for the $500 it would receive for the use of the Stadium to be turned over to the infantile paralysis fund! . . . it would swell the sum, and increase the amount of the small percentage Jacobs is going to turn over for charitable purposes.

No mention has been made in either newspaper as to the percentage of the gate which is to be diverted to charity-for fear some charity-minded persons might start thinking about it too deeply!

It is hard to believe that a man of this type has the entire boxing game in his grasp!

Why, he's the type of man a City of Miami ordinance prohibits! He can't legally do business in Miami!

Yes, we have a ticket-scalping ordinance on our books.

However, it seems that anybody with money is vested with a halo in the eyes of our boot-licking, publicity-seeking officials-who have given toothless Mike permission to violate our laws . . . For violation of law it is to stage this fight! . . Florida laws specifically ban championship fights!

Of course, there is no more harm in a championship fight than in a non-championship fight -for a contestant will be knocked just as punch drunk in a nonchampionship bout as he will in a championship fight. But as long as it is a law, our commission should not be a party to a conspiracy to violate it! This might be a good time to enforce this law. The Conn-Lesvanich fight is immaterial. Stopping it won't hurt us. Holding it might-for Mike Jacobs smells very bad . . . stinks, we believe, is the proper word. And now that he asks the joint free for Feb. 28, it would be most timely to invoke the State law. Mike, the ticket-scalper, controller of referees and judges, and larcenist of bad repute, should not be permitted to give us any more (Next week Round 4)

"Cabbages and Kings"

The time has come, the Walrus said, To speak of many things; Of ships and shoes and sealing wax, And cabbages and kings.

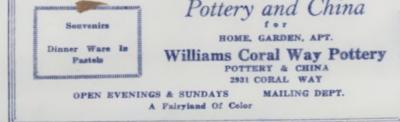

-The Walrus and the Carpenter.

WHERE does slang originate?... Suppose you were told you were going to be "bushwhacked" what would you expect? . . . Australian footpads are responsible for the phrase . . . They used to hide behind bushes waiting for victims . . . When the unfortunate victim approached, the thugs merely popped out from behind the bushes and "whacked" him over the cranium with a club . . . Hence, "bushwhackers."

TAKING a "potshot" at someone, too, is another quaint old slang phrase which comes down from "Gone With The Wind" days . . . When Confederate cannon balls became scarce the laddies in gray stufed their cannon with scrap iron, horseshoes, doorknobs or even old fashioned dornicks . . . Old iron "pots" were especially in demand and when broken up and stuffed into a cannon, caused heavy casualties if any Union soldiers happened to be lurking within three or four miles of the place where the gun was aimed . . . Of course the cannon frequently "back-fired" killing more men behind them than in front but "pot-shotting" still retains its modern meaning . . . While on the subject it might be said that the Union soldiers looked with extreme disfavor upon being "potshotted" and retaliated by introducing the "grapeshot" . . . A "grapeshot" was a couple of cannon balls fastened together with a ten or twelve foot chain and fired from the same cannon at the same time . . . The balls upon leaving the cannon would spread out leaving the chain to mow down anything in their path.

THE new electric camera eye employed at race tracks eliminates all guess work and "dead heats" occur quite frequently . . . There was no ca- Gordon." mera at the famous Kentucky horseman's private training farm but the finish was a thrilling one just . . It seems the horseman had thirteen horses ready to ship to a southern race track but was informed that only twelve of them could be taken care of . . . Lining up the thirteen horses at the barrier the horse owner addressed the thirteen negro boys who were to ride them . . . "The twelve who come in first go with me to Miami. The last one in, together with his horse, gets shot.".. The race resulted in a thirteen horse dead-heat.".. A negro jockey once won the Kentucky derby, did you know that?... Man o'War only ran 21 races in his notable career . . . He won 20 of them.

WHEREVER horsemen meet they still declare that Man o' War was "pulled" in the one race he did lose, otherwise he would never have been beaten . . . There is some question about this popular belief . . . Man o' War ran his first race, as a two year old, at Belmont Park in 1919 and won easily . . . He followed by winning his next five races, each time increasing the distance until he was running in six furlong events . . . His seventh race was against a horse named John P. Grier at Saratoga . . . Man o' War finished second with John P. Grier turning the six furlongs in 1:11 1-5 . . . Previous to that ace Man o' War's best time for the same distance was 1:12 2-5 and the best he ever did for six furlongs after the race was 1:11 3-5 which indicates that as a sprinter John P. Grier might have been the best horse after all . . . As a three year old Man o' War won eleven straight races and was retired to stud . . . His total track earnings were $166,140 . . . His largest purse was earned at Kenilworth Park in Canada in a match race which he won from Sir Barton . . . The purse was $80,000 . . His smallest purse was in his second race as a two year old when he drew down exactly $200 . . . Although Man o' War won the Preakness, Withers, Belmont, Dwyer, Travers and Laurence Realization stakes he never won a Kentucky Derby . . . Man o' War, owned by Samuel D. Riddle, was retired to stud at Faraway Farms and has earned more than $1,000, 000 for his owner in prize money and through sale of foals . . . Approximately 50,000 persons visit the farm each year . . . The famous horse is 23 years old.

We Pay One Fourth of State

AST October, Dade Coun-4 ty, the big sucker county of Florida, was paying a sixth of all the gasoline taxes collected in Florida. In December it was paying nearly a fifth. Although no figures are available yet for January, it is probable, at the present time, that fully a fourth of the huge taxes made possible by the state tax of 7 cents a gallon, plus the 1-cent federal levy and an additional inspection tax-a total of 81% cents-is being collected in this grand county whose back if big enough and broad enough to carry the other 66 counties on it!

MIAMI LIFE doesn't know of any better way to show interested folk what's happening than the tables printed herewith.

With only an elementary knowledge of figures you can see what's happening.

There are ten top counties among the state's 67. Most of the rest political subdivisions, financial set-ups so laid out as to strengthen certain powers at the state capital, facilitating crooked maneuvers that have made this state's political corruption almost proverbial. Under our archaic constitution, which makes the governor almost a complete dictator for four years and which combines cent, many of the bigger anyway, in white population!

the executive and judicial branches of government to a large extent, each county is limited to one senator and even the extremely large counties one to three lower house men. But through the creation of a new county another senator and another lower house representative can be effected; hence the many, many, parasitical counties in the state who do not contribute enough taxes in the state to pay the salaries of tax collectors-but which divide up enough funds collected in other counties to build handsome county buildings, beautiful highways that lead nowheres, and big schools that will never be filled with pupils!

The figures tell the story. You'll note that during last December the top ten counties contributed nearly twice as much gas tax money as did the other 57 counties. You'll also note that the top ten counties showed a healthy increase over December of 1938, but the "other 57" gained only slightly. You'll see that during the entire year of 1939 forty-seven counties of Florida (the parasitical ones) scarcely made a gain, but the be able to boast a permanent top 20 counties showed a population as much as both gain of around seven per- of them put together! . . .

ones ten percent, and only one a very slight decrease!

Here are the top-heaviness of the financial structure is striking. Dade county is shown as carrying the rest of the state-for, remember, a good part of the gas taxes collected in those counties is from motorists traveling to or from Miami! It is only since Miami came into existence at the turn of the century that Florida started emerging from oblivion. The state's phenomenal growth since 1912 is almost completely due to Miami, Miami Beach, Coral Gables, or the other live parts of Dade county.

Many readers will be surprised to see that the gas taxes collected in Dade county is very near that collected in BOTH Duval and Hillsborough counties-although either Jacksonville or Tampa is popularly supposed to be just as big as Miami is. Right now Miami is larger than both of them put together, meaning, of course, that Dade county is a bigger county in mid-season than are Duval and Hillsborough counties - and before another year has passed will probably

This Is Good for What Ails You-- Sprint on the Beach, Dash in the Surf

(February 2, 1924)

FLORIDA has more seacoast than any other State—enough for every resident and visitor to have a piece without crowding. With this the situation, how can Miami Beach be explained, with its valuations sky-high and running into such figures as to cause the eyes to bulge?

Remember Robinson Crusoe. He had a whole island to himself and was not happy. He battled with the elements and dealt single handed with beasts of prey, but he didn't get a thrill until he discovered a human footprint on his

This simple reference explains Miami Beach. Starting at Smith's pavilion on the south and extending to the Pancoast hotel on the north, Miami Beach is lined daily with a continuous aggregation and assortment of idlers in bathing suits. Men, women, and children of all ages and conditions, from the infant in arms to the octogenarian, engage with a unanimity of purpose and delight in the healthrestoring and energizing pastime of playing in and on the sands, with an occasional dip in the surf as an incidental

Though Miami Beach affords many modes and methods of entertainment there is not one which is more stimulating to the physical constitution or cheaper to indulge than this half-clad communion with nature close to the sight and the sound of the sad sea waves.

The pictorial weeklies lead the outside world to think that Miami Beach is a resort for the wealthy and fashionable. Maybe this is true, but nobody is debarred by poverty of the lack of stunning sport clothes. The plain truth is that few costumes are seen here. The beach is a great leveler of class. The sun, the sands and the surf know no distinctions.

Yet there is that interesting variety which causes Miami Beach to be the greatest resort in Florida. Nowhere else in the state can such a scene be pictured, running the gamut of human grace, notes, and semi-tones (and for such a distance.) It must be a generous two miles from Smith's pavilion to the Pancoast hotel, and on any sunny day this stretch is animated by people in abbreviated dress, many coming out from private estates that form a picturesque background to the shore, the higher grounds of which are fringed with coconut trees and other fronded plants of the infinite palm family.

The noted ones of earth foregather here with the humblest, and it may be that those who attract attention elsewhere like it because they are permitted to take their places with other folks in any ordinary way and are not hounded by curiosity seekers and news hunters.

For example, there is Mr. Jack Dempsey, the man who has made a million with his fists. He was lying on the sand there absolutely unnoticed. It would not be possible to pick him out from the others except for the remarkable likeness he bears to his photographs. Yes, that's Jack. He was here three weeks, and seemed to like it better each succeeding day. He didn't look like a pugugly except for that disfiguring dent in his proboscis. His muscular development didn't show startingly-not at all. And Jack is a very modest chap. A little fellow about three years old in a red bathing suit comes along and climbs upon the fighter's legs, whereupon the terror of the prize ring pats him caressingly and speaks to him. The lil' fellow runs away, probably not aware that the greatest pugilist of his time has fathered him for a minute.

Not far from Jack is a writer of distinction, who has made a comfortable fortune with his pen, or perhaps it was his trusty typewriter. He is hardly recognizable in his rented bathing suit. He might as well be incog. for nobody pays any attention to him.

A society dame is seated on a rock busy with a notebook, probably her social calendar. She looks the part, even on the sun-searching beach, but is not a social queen here -just an individual intent upon pursuing her inclinations in her own way, but she would'nt be so contented, perhaps, if she were on a deserted coast--Oh, no! People all around but not bothering her-the surf pounding at her feet, the spray dashing in her face and the spume floating like a bridal veil in the distance.

Everybody's happy at Miami Beach. If anybody is not happy the best prescription for it is a morning on the beach in a bathing suit. A sun bath, then a surf bath and a shower, a good luncheon and a nap.

That's the stuff!

What has that and quickly be joined by a vigorous majority, on the assumption thinks he is clever enough to that a governor must govern actively, positively and constantly, or else lose his power to some one else who will do it. This governorship must be conducted fairly, with full consideration for the rights of his neighbor even before his own. We think it has been shown that, with this practice .. prevailing, a tremendous profit in happiness and satisfaction will accrue to the American people; whereas the present mode of misrepresentation, ignorant others are enjoying the games and neglectful voting, combat of group against group, disrespect for law, and the obsession that we are each clever enough to cheat everybody else are causing to his officer the purpose and much pain and threatening worse Some great forces move periodically and not constantly. This is one of the times when American

civic consciousness seems to be in eclipse. "How oft hereafter shall it wax and wane?" We believe that this proper civic consciousness is about to bloom and bear fruit again. There are daily new indications of it. May it be soon and soon enough. And, as we have already pointed out, how is this revival to come about except by the conviction wrought into the minds and characters of our children that they must do their duties as citizens much more fully, intelligently and unselfishly than we, the people, are evidently doing them now? Somebody must try to implant proper civic ideas in the minds of our children. Theorizing alone will not be enough. There must be active practice also. Thus, Miami Military Academy has long sought a program that will bring about this much desired end. Like the great American people, we ebb and flow in this respect. At the opening of school in the fall, there comes a tribe of youngsters who have, thus far, not learned much about civic cooperation. Each one is largely for himself and the rights of others are Greek to him. For quite a period there is nothing for it but to line them up and tell them pointedly and in detail just what to do, and then guard them night and day in every movement till they have acquired something of a community habit, whether they understand it or not. This process leads to many a debate and sometimes a boy will walk the company street under guard while he digests some regulation that he has broken. One boy cannot understand why he may not sing, dance or whistle in barracks while others are trying to rest. Another thinks he has the right to fly into a rage and manhandle anyone that happens to displease him. Another thinks he has the right to walk off the school grounds anytime he wishes without permission of the headmaster, Another thinks he may sign the leave book promising to return at a given hour, and then be late. Another thinks he may go home on leave and lead his parents a "dog's life" with the unpleasantness he dare not exhibit at school. Another determines that he will not eat some of all the food put on his plate. Another will take much larger portions than he can eat, and then waste it. Another throws down candy wrappers and orange peels wherever he may be, for others to pick up. Others like to have fun in ranks, talk back to officers. Others slam doors, break furniare explained fully and often. It is shown that every rule is good got to do with it? Each one still "beat the game," just as many intelligent elders know plenty about the laws and proceed to break them. These elders, too, seem to think, if they think at all, that the laws are made for the other fellow to obey. It is in the air. These young boys are not to blame for absorbing it. So, there have to be penalties, penalties, penalties. Many a boy spends much of the bright afternoon "walking off" penalties, while and sports. This becomes work. He has to think about this rule he has broken, and at the end of his "tour," he must state clearly value of the rule, and promise future adherence. The fact that he signed the regulations at enroll-many people think this program is unnecessary, too severe, and that good home life is far better. The answer is that home life seldom emphasizes community ideas sufficiently, a most necessary item in civic education. Our present adults are mainly the products of comparatively good home life, and we have agreed here that they are neglecting their duty too much. The fact is that the community question cannot arise to a sufficient degree in the average home because of the small number involved. With the best of intentions the average home has not the opportunity to drill sufficiently upon the rights of others. The item cannot merely be talked about. It has to be lived and practiced, or it comes to mean nothing.

Miami Military Academy produces some wear and tear. Occasionally boys enroll who cannot or will not harmonize and they are allowed to go elsewhere. Surprising as it may seem, some of these are from unusually good homes, so far as our information goes. The mortality is heaviest among older boys. We have found that many older boys coming to of doing strictly as they please, beautiful ear to be listening to regardless of the rights of others, that they cannot be changed except by very severe punishment. They pay no real attention to argument and discussion. They will promise anything any number of times, and then step out and break every promise as many times. The laws and public opinion are against the vigorous punishment necessary to reconstruct these boys, so we give it up in such cases and confine our efforts largely to younger boys that are still amenable to proper training. Some day the pendulum will swing back to the old Roman notion that the higher the rank and possibilities of a man the more sternly must he govern himself, or else be governed. So, after quite a spell of the "wearing in" process, and after the cadet corps has achieved at least an habitual regard for the rules of good society, more and more discussion occurs in student assemblies as to what it is all about. The boys have had a laboratory experience in trying out rules and regulations. So far, they have largely been governed. Now, the question is brought up, why not have to do so someday if they are to be good American citizens. They can never be good citizens without first learning how. They will have to practice it somewhere, sometime. Why not here and now, since they already have the mental and moral capacity of one for himself and the devil take the hindermost, just as it seems to be right now with many American people. But retribution follows swiftly upon each and every year old child?

GAMBLING SCANDAL

the aid of the newspapers got 227 more ayes than no's out of more than 9,000 votes. The same commission majority let the Mob open up gambling in the Royal Palm Club.

Both these were multi-millon dollar propositons.

There are several big-sized gambling syndicates in the United States that would pay a million-dollars for the gambling concession that Miami's Mob had at the Royal Palmand undoubtedly a great deal more if assured of a monopoly -such as the Mob exercised!

The Power-Trust Deal means an immediate profit of more than $4,000,000 in cash for the Power-Trust-and the chance for local banks and their financial connections to make several millions more profit in revenue and refunding

A height-of-season exclusive gambling concession at the Royal Palm Club means a multi-million dollar profit to the so-called Local Mob.

The Power-Trust is controlled by the Electric Bond & Share Company in Wall Street, New York-while the connections of the local Gambling Mob reached into several northern centers.

Victimizing he public is the objective of both these companies. All the courts from here to the U.S. Supreme Court found, in effect, that that is what the Power-Trust had been doing to Miamians ever since 1925- when the courts ordered a drastic reduction of electric light and power rates in this vicinity . . . the Power-Trust had lied about its initial investment.

MIAMI LIFE has a'ready informed the public about three of the Mob's head-men- Charlie Thomas, Ace-Deuce Jake Solomon, and Eddie Padgett being convicted felons.

Peculiarly enough, for each of these syndicates— the Power-Trust and the Mob-to accomplish their respective purposes -- which in the present case prove to be identical: victimizing the public-all that was really needed was the support of at least three members of the city commission!

As stated before, each got not only a majority—but a four-to-one support!

THE outstanding fact that cannot be denied or satisfactorily explained is that the city commission could have stopped the Royal Palm gambling-indeed, could have kept it from ever starting.

BUT the commission didn't! (Meaning that the majority of the five commissioners favored Royal Palm gambling-more than that, they approved the Mob having exclusive right to gamble in the Miami area!)

How can Alex Orr deny that he himself was chief sinner -for he runs the Miami police department . . which did not make ONE arrest at the Royal Palm club-although everybody knew they were gambling . . . and what is worse, conducting crooked gambling!

Now Van Orsde!, the undertaker has never been anything but a "Yes-man for Orr since he has been on the commission. As for Mayor Ev Sewell, the Royal Palm is located on Florida East Coast railroad property, and Art Childers' father-in law and gambling concession partner is the railroad's land company agent. . . and Ev Sewell's affection for the railroad has always amounted to infatuationfor it is to the railroad that the whole Sewell family owes its existence in this area!

The good people of Miami not only want the truth, but they want the whole mess aired-and cleaned up before anoher season rolls along. Are the people going to run Miami or will the Gambling Mob and the Power-Trust continue to rule-but making the people pay. The good people demand the whole story . . . it's still time to make investments elsewhere-becaus taxpayers surely can't feel safe with a commission that will "sell them down the river" to gamblers as well as Power-Trust slickers!

There's an old Hebrew saying, "commit a sin thrice and you will think it allowable."

That applies to the Miami city commission majority. to Manager Arthur Childers of the Royal Palm club, to the Mob-and to several otherwise well-meaning business men of our town!

The city commission majority has sown the wind. Now let them reap the whirlwind!

The same crowd that forced a recall election a year ago, took advantage of defects in our charter laws, trumped up bribery charges (later disproved in court) and succeeded in installing their own commission majority although only a small percent of the qualifed voters voted-this same crowd, mind you, has now turned over $5,000,000 in public funds to the Power-Trust, arranged to give the Power-Trust and their banker friends many millions more-and now stands convicted, before the Bar of Public Opinion, of having conspired with the Gambling Mob to operate public (and crooked) gambling in the most conspicuous spot in Miami's winter show window! . . To sicken prospective investors in Miami!

This is past the stage where it can be dismissed with an airy, "Don't believe MIAMI LIFE—it's a scandal sheet!" . . or a vague "MIAMI LIFE is trying to shake us down!" Miamians are to smart to be fooled by such artifices again-not this season, anyway!

To those who make such statements, ask-as Commissioner R. C. Gardner (whose rugged honesty has withstood the savage attacks of THE OTHER COMMISSIONERS-AND HERALD PUBLISHER KNIGHT!) is asking—why the Royal Palm Club gamblers weren't arrested and fined in the weeks they operated-so that those fines would help defray some of the city's expense—and decrease the burdens of the Miami taxpaver?-already the most over-burdened city-dweller in the United States!

A strictly honest city commission-believing simply that tourists should be treated to gambling if they want it- would not have given the Mob exclusive in the first place; and in the second place, would have directed police to make sure that a place doing the million-dollar business that the Royal Palm Club has been doing the last few weeks, paid plenty into the city treasury in the way of fines and forfeitures! . . . But no, they would rather collect a garbage

But this was NOT done-and now the lid is on, apparently for good, it's too late for the commission majority to cover up, to even make a gesture in that direction.

That there was a pay-off can scarcely be denied. According to G-Man Hoover's own words, made in magazine and in press within the last two years, there never was gambling in any municipality without a pay-off.

We want to know how much that pay-off was. To whom it went! . . . The whole truth about the "New Deal Commission's deal with the Royal Palm club!

If J. Edgar Hoover, who has uncovered more rottenness in city government than any man since the turn of the century, can help us find that out, the good people of Miami will bless him-no matter how much confusion, no matter how much havoc it creates among the big-wigs of the town.

We're the hub of a community that is some day going to be as big as New York City-in wintertime, anyway. We'd rather get to the bottom of this mess right now, while we're small enough to "take it!"and so we may get well quickly and get on a firmer foundation.

We can assure Mr. Hoover that only a minority is condemning him for digging into Miami's innards. The majority of the people in Miami are good people!-and we want Mr. Hoover to find it out-and then tell the nation about it! We repeat, the people of Miami are in the majority law-abiding and good. Their daily newspapers have simply refused to acquaint them with what's been happening because the gang in power is the gang chosen by the daily papers, who in turn get their orders from-

Mr. Hoover, that's for you to find out!- and in trying to find out you may be able to solve some baffling civic problems.

Orr Secret Dictator of Police

Commissioner Alex Orr (who very secretly runs the Miami police department) is the man who put through the iniquitous city garbage tax to oppress the poor. He is the man responsible for the Mob having exclusive on big-time gambling at the Royal Palm Club without paying a nickle into the city treasury for this rare privilege!

Commissioner R. C. Gardner doesn't favor a closed town-but he does NOT favor any city commissioner or city official- in fact, any public official-receiving any remuneration from gambling. He believes that if gambling is permitted, the gamblers should be fined as often as the traffic will bear-so that the city may, in a measure, recieve some benefitand taxpayers' burdens be lessened!

Gardner thinks in terms of people. Orr in terms of rich corporations or money syndicates.

Alex Orr can always be found on the side of the oppressor, however, be it Power-Trust or Gambling Syndicate.

For the past month-while gambling has flourished at the Royal Palm (on F.E.C. Railroad property!) -- city police have passed it up. Orr's the secret boss-as in the days of Kavanaugh. WHERE WAS THE PAY-OFF?

LOTTERY AT WALGREEN

East Flagler street and S. E. Second avenue, conducts a lottery! It's the oyster racket. There's a clever barker with oysters before him-and, listening, you learn how pearls are cultivated in these oysters by a particle of dirt or dust, which causes an irritation, which in time becomes a pearl-which, if it happens to be perfectly round and of sufficient size, is worth a lot of money.

There are hundreds of oysters-all tiny-which tinyness the barker explains is also caused by this irritation. Want to go a dollar that the next pearl found in one of the oysters will be yours? Step up lively, gentlemen and ladies! . . You put up a buck-and after a few jabs at oysters without discovering the precious formations, the man with the knife finds one with a pearl in it. It's vours-for the buck. But what a pearl! It is what is known as a "scab." Misshapen, ugly-not worth a pen-

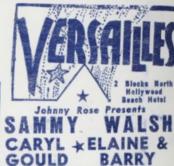

This is the second season this oyster lottery has been going on-and we've watched

"XTRA! Extra! Walgreens, and questioned many folksand no one has ever heard of anybody recovering a pearl that is worth a dimealthough the dollar bills taken in run into the thousands! It is probably the only lottery in the U.S. in which no customer gets anything!
