The Democrats aren't such smart politicians. At least the Republicans set their convention date so that it wouldn't interfere with the Jenkins - Armstrong fight.

It isn't hard to believe that the Hollywood film colony is supporting the Communists. Look at the way they pass their husbands and wives around among themselves.

The feuhrer idea, abroad in the world for many years now, comes to color the thinking and speech of certain Americans. An example is Paul V. McNutt, who said to the convention on Thursday:

"We have such a leader in Franklin D. Roosevelt. He is my commander-in-chief. I follow his wishes, and I am here to support his choice for vice president."

That language, glimpsed by itself, and with identifying words altered, could very easily have come from the speech of a Nazi Bund member and, if it had, it would have brought immediate wrathful comment from many Amercian citizens, including Mr. McNutt, no doubt. Yet it is the language of Hitlerism, and conveys the psychology of Hitlerism. Perhaps a kinder word there would be "feuhrerism." We are not very quick to see that the evil of totalitarianism does not spring from the person or persons who happen to be exemplifying it; it springs from the psychology behind the practice, and the psychology is a real and great danger, especially when it crops out in the speech and actions of a substantial and ambitious American like McNutt.

We've got to sympathize with that New York cab-horse that bolted through a plate-glass window when an auto horn suddenly sounded off the opening bars of "East Side, West Side." Perhaps the horse had once worked for Al Smith's hauling company, or maybe it was just a maudlin sentimentalist, or maybe it was just plain startled. But these trick horns ought to be abolished. One day the truck of the Miami Diaper Service played a snatch of "Rockabye Baby" while we were standing on Seventh Avenue, and we went to sleep against a phone pole and plumb missed the bus. There ought to be a law-one for every tune in fact.

Up in Canada somebody's tooth powder blew up in the bathroom and the authorities are investigating. These Germans will do anything! . . .

Confidential reports say that the circulation of the Miami Daily News has already taken a sudden upswing since Jack Bell's racehorse, County Bond, finally came through with a winning race Thursday, at the nice price of 7 to 1. Wild-eyed horse-players, grasping at straws, will now be searching Jack's column for a possible kind word about County Bond that might be twisted into a hint as to when he is going to win again. It's sort of nice and homey to know that we have a race-horse upholding the honor of Miami on distant tracks. It makes than on a total stranger. losing on him so much pleasanter

(MIAMI LIFE contacted Mr. Howland, just as we went to press. He said: "I am not an American citizen, although I have declared my intention of becoming one." He didn't say when he had applied-or whether he would become one eventually! . . . He also said Mayor Orr was "doing preliminary work at Opa-Locka nowand if I wish to give him a contract it is entirely within my rights-although no sub-contract has yet been provided-and there may not be any sub contract!" Howland said he came to America in 1926.)

THE United States government will pay upwards of $3,-■ 500,000 for the building of the Opa-Locka naval air base to an alien. He is contractor Fred Howland, a British subject. Out of 130 contractors, many of them Miamians, and furthermore Miami contractors every bit as good as Mr. Howland—and all of them Americans—Mr. Howland gets

And he gets it, apparently, through the aid of Miami's mayor, Alex Orr, British-born himself!

And Mayor Alex Orr, we hear, is sub-contractor on the

If we have not been grossely misinformed, Howland, who is well-known, and, we are sure, believed all along to have been an American citizen, is not registered or has not voted since 1920-which is as far back as could be checked on the registration books.

Some say that now, having received the three-and-ahe has, within the last week, applied for his first papers, declaring his intention of becoming (he doesn't have to become one, however!) an American citizen.

If this is the case it is even worse, because it appears certain that, although he has resided in this country for a score of years, he made no attempt to become a citizen until now-when he has in hand a $3,500,000 contract from benevolent Uncle Sam, on which he can make a big profit -if he'll only take the trouble to take out first papers-to keep down any criticism!

If true, this contract should be cancelled! We hope it is not too late!

And it should by all means be given to a bona-fide American citizen-not a Miami Tammany's idea of what American citizenship is! . . . given to an American citizen who is an American because he wants to be one-not because it is politically or financially expedient to be one!

As we picture it, Commander Carter, located at Jacksonville, took the estimates of some of the 130 contractors, had conferences, so we hear, with Mayor Alex Orr, and then mailed the data to the Bureau of Yards & Docks at Washington, D. C., where qualifications and recommendations were considered. That was some time ago.

Needless to say, the contract-letting has caused furore among other contractors. It's a juicy plum. Patriotic pride is at issue, moreover, native Americans can be pardoned for raising hell! . . . MIAMI LIFE has reviewed this strange Miami-British complex before, but in view of what has happened, it'll bear repeating: Alex Orr had lived in his native Scotland until he was 37-and war with Germany only a few months off in 1914-when he suddenly removed to Miami and took out first citizenship papers. However, he didn't become an American citizen for ten years-in fact, not until he had to, in order to get somewhere politically, as well as financially. But his frigid lack of patriotic ardor didn't prevent him from becoming mayor of Miami this yearfor his boss, the Florida Power & Light Company, decided he had sufficiently demonstrated his servility to it to be elevated to No. 1 Stooge . . . That, of course, isn't all our story. Since he's become mayor, another British-born has been elevated at city hall-B. H. Hadley, who heads, of all things, the civil service! Just a few years ago Miami had as mayor A. D. H. Fossey, another British subject-and only recently his son was slated for a city job.

And now this new blow to Americanism!

There's something terribly rotten about the situation! There is no question but that the recommendation of the mayor of the city of Miami would go far in determining who should get such a contract as the Opa-Locka one.

Is it then strange that Alex Orr, former British subject, half-million-dollar United States navy air station contract, should turn to a son of his motherland and see that he receives a handsome contract, especially if the favored Britisher would return the favor by turning over a handsome plumbing sub-contract to former Britisher Orr?

Now let us quote from the Service & Labor Section 9 of the government contract covering the Opa-Locka air

"Except as may be authorized by the contracting officer, no person who is not a citizen of the United States or has not declared his intention of becoming a citizen shall be employed upon the work."

In times such as these-when our American boys, even girls-sons and daughters of Americans-are about to be called upon to sacrifice their lives for country-which they will gladly and proudly do, for the sake of their American democratic ideal-we are somewhat horrified to see something like this happen! . . . To again see a most unnatural, a most suspicious un-American behavior at our city hall, a condition that has resulted in our national government turning down the staunchest and most patriotic of native American contractors to do homage to a group of mavericks whose conduct is a discredit to America and Britain alike!

Democrats Lead Republicans on All Fronts as Reports on Silverware Losses at Chicago Pour In

By JOHN KIMBLE

T IS a great pleasure to return to Miami after having spent the past four days in Chicago covering the Democratic National convention exclusively for the readers of MIAMI LIFE Not only does your sky-line remind me of New York but there is no place like Miami in the summertime. (And that's a FACT!)

But to tell you about the convention—the really significant news of it is not that Franklin D. Roosevelt was renominated. You learned all that in your newspapers and over your radios. The important lowdown on this historical gathering is that the Democrats are already evidencing a marked superiority over the Republicans in virtually every department, as certain confidential and unofficial figures. which I shall give you in just a minute, will show. On the basis of these reports, which I am able to obtain through my wide political connections exclusively, the Democrats are a cinch to win in November. Let us look at the record.

The first unofficial returns, drifting in late Thursday, showed obviously, is a reflection of the strength of the Solid South, where the mere mention of Coca-Cola is popular with everybody except the Candler family. The gallant southerners, traditionally used to anywhere from five to fourteen Coca-Colas per working day in their home towns, drank 785,087 bottles to the Republican's 260,-189 at Philadelphia. That means something more than 2,000,000 Democratic belches-an impressive total in any public hall, especially if you synchronize them.

Furthermore, the Democrats showed a comfortable lead in the matter of hot-dogs and hamburgers digested, consuming 392,543 such sandwiches which, as you will readily note, is at the rate of one sandwich to every two bottles of Coca-Cola consumed and still leaves one bottle of Coca-Cola over, which the sergeant-atarms probably got. The Republicans at Philadelphia, on the other hand, ate only 350,002 such sandwiches, the 002 being the ones Taft and Dewey bought to eat on

But in my opinion, based on long years of political observation, the most interesting and significant figures came from the hotels and restaurants, which, in reporting their losses of table silver, towels, and Gideon Bibles, indicated an overwhelming and revolutionary preference among the Democrats now. the Democrats for forks. Let me show you the figures, briefly, so that in the number of Coca-Colas that you may analyze for yourconsumed during the two conven- self this astonishing intra-party tions, Democratic and Republican, trend. Hotel and restaurant losses the Democrats outguzzled their during four days of this Demoadversaries by three to one. This, cratic convention were as follows: Forks

Spoons (gravy) Towels Gideon Bibles Let us contrast there figures with a similar set reported at the Democratic convention of 1932, before tre New Deal: Forks ... Knives 297 Spoons (gravy) Towels Gideon Bibles ...

The above figures indicate, inevitably, how eight years of power have improved the party of the common people. Clearly, they have abandoned their old custom of eating with their knives and are almost unanimously eating with forks, a skill at which they are outshining the silk-stocking Republicans who, perhaps in an attempt to influence the common people's vote, took only 84 forks from Philadelphia this year, 190 knives, and no towels or Bibles. The Republicans did, however, lead the Democrats in one department-and only one. At Philadelphia, the hotels reported 200 electric light bulbs missing after the convention. On the basis of the foregoing figures, therefore, unhesitatingly predict an overwhelming Democratic victory at the polls in November. Only one factor can stop

That's Willkie.

DOWER-PRESS Herald (& News) had a "revolt" putting Willkie over in the Republican convention. Now, it reports a "revolt" almost successful against Wallace for vicepresident, Roosevelt choice. Both "revolts" were gallery demonstrations.

Investigation would probably reveal the "revolutions" in both conventions were paid for from the same till. The only folk wealthy enough to hire "revolutionists" are the Power-Trust clique!

From now on we who occupy this now very important finger of Uncle Sam, pointing down South America way where heli's supposed to pop loose some day, will be engrossed, uniquely engrossed, in this extremely important political conflict, involving the biggest Power-Trust on earth (even Hitler's can't compare with it yet). We of Miami have had unusual opportunities to observe its interesting workings. For we have felt the force of it-this Power-Trust, or Power-bloc, or whatever you may call this stupendous American money force that since the World War has come to own us so completely that it now operates politics as efficiently as it does one of its super textile mills, electric projects, munitions plants, auto factories, communications systems, chain newspapers, or many another enterprise that no one except the tiny group of autocrats on top can possibly conceive of, let alone digest mentally . . . For we have had Little Nell with us (the Florida Power & Light Company) since the boom year of 1925—when it suddenly took over Miami while everybody except the five bankers who made up the city commission, was looking the other way.

What the Florida Power & Light Company has done to Miami, the Power-Trust, of which it is only a tiny part, has done to the nation. We saw the recent run-off election for Florida governor. Weren't there two Florida Power & Light Company lawyers kicking up a lot of dust, trying to raise issues-altho the Florida Power & Light Company had settled the only issue by putting the two of them first and second in the initial primary! . . . Why, the thing was so much in the bag that the Herald and the News, too lazy to make a pretense of fighting one another, didn't take the OMPLAINT has been made to Acton-Fisher Company of Louisville, makers of Twenty Grand cigarets-the firm that capitalizes its union-made products -about its "scab radio announcer" in Miami, namely Frank Malone of the Daily News staff, who doesn't belong to AFRA, American Federation of Radio Artists, affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

AFRA, after a long fight, triumphed at WIOD, the WIOD force being completely unionized. The particular program in question, however, employs Frank Malone, who makes his news comments at the same time.

Here's something the News hasn't explained; it's no longer the Isle of Dreams Broadcasting corporationbut simply Miami Daily News, Inc., that is operating WIOD. In other words, the corporation that gave meaning to the call letters WIOD "Wonderful Isle of Dreams"-is abandoned, and the paper's corporation takes over completely. When James M. Cox several years ago bought station WIOD he kept the two corporations separate. WIOD has been a great money-maker, almost to the point of monopoly.

The word monopoly suggests something, too. Isn't Frank Katzentine, head of the Miami Beach Station WKAT, which only this week took over NBC Blue network (which WIOD had), still attorney for WIOD? In fact. wasn't it while he was attorney for WIOD that he acquired WKAT, getting the permit mysteriously and quickly although other local

FLorida Power & Light Gouging Back In '26

(April 17, 1926)

Once more the jitney man is fighting for existence, this time against the mailed fist of the city of Miami, and he has won the first round of his battle.

Judge Atkinson in circuit court Thursday granted a temporary injunction restraining the bus line operated on West Flagler street by the city from using the name of the city pending a hearing next week. A decision on an alternative writ of mandamus ordering the city to grant permits to the Flagler Terminal Lines to operate touring cars as busses or show cause why their operating contract with the Miami Beach Railway Company should not be set aside willi be handed down later.

This brings to the front an interesting bit of recent history in the handling of city affairs, which resulted in the granting of what appears to be an exclusive bus franchise to the Miami Beach Railway company after the city had invited the jitney men to get together and put busses on the West Flagler run.

The Flagler Terminal Lines is the outgrowth of that invitation. It is composed of pioneer jitney men of Miami, who chipped in and tied themselves up, they claim, for nearly a quarter of a million dollars worth of equipment after they had been informed by the city manager that the city desired to get rid of jitney touring cars on Flagler street and to have busses replace them. After receiving assurances that the city would smile on the transformation of the jitney lines to bus lines, the jitney men went ahead and brought the busses here, putting them into service immediately. They have six more busses here in a garage, with an initial payment made on them.

Shortly after they inaugurated their service, however, they were given to understand that the city had agreed with the Miami Beach Railway company to buy and operate busses on behalf of the city, and that the permits which the Flagler Terminal crowd had expected to receive would not be issued to them The Terminal company hired counsel and got a writ of mandamus, compelling the city to issue the permits for the busses, but they claim that Manager Wharton told them that the city would freeze them out sooner or later.

Now they have gone to war again, to put jitney touring cars back on the Flagler street run, claiming that the public, or a large part of it, wishes the touring cars because of the convenience afforded to passengers in being taken off the route and to their homes for a small extra fare. Through their counsel, W. C. Price of Price, Price, Neeley & Kehoe, they are attacking the contract between the city and the Miami Beach Railway company as being beyond the authority of the city charter.

That contract provided, among other things, that the company would buy a given number of busses and operate them for a period of thirty years, with provisions for cancellation at stated periods during that interval. and that at the expiration of the agreement the city will buy the equipment back at the price of the original investement.

That doesn't sound so good, but it isn't the worst part of it. The city agrees to pass from time to time whatever ordinances are needed to aid the company and at the company's request. Provission, of course, is made for "arbitration" of any dispute on this question that might arise between the city and the company, but it leaves plenty of room for rough treatment of any concern that tries to buck the city's busses.

Not only does the city agree to these things, but it also guarantees the railway company its operating expenses from month to month -at a minimum of 3,500 miles per bus per month. This guarantee, applying to 50 busses, amounts at least to more than $50,000 per

And the jitney men are told that if they don't like it, they can lump it.

Here are these men who have made their living for years by serving the public transportation needs, suddenly involved in a tremendous investment strained their resources to the utmost and even more suddenly told to go to and stay put. The thing savors most unpleasantly of an attempt by big business and politics to trample on the little fellow and exterminate

MATRIMONY R-O-WS

America's Biggest, Loudest, and Most Interesting Divorce Mill Right Here In Miami, Our Major Industry

IT IS difficult to understand why 130 Miami lawyers are delinquent in their occupational tax in view of the bumper crop of matrimonial tangles being run through local divorce mills. Separating the bucks .. from .. the lambs. or vice versa, is easily one of the city's major industries and it would seem that the barristers should be reaping the golden harvest made possible by Florida's ninety day residence clause which has caused Miami to replace Reno as the nation's divorce capitol.

Wandering along matrimony row this week we find a number of unusual suits including just about everything in the line of charges from plain and fancy wife beating to a husband who caused his wife to lose weight because he wouldn't speak to her. A common law divorce suit struggles for the spotlight against one of a housefrau who complains that hubby refused to bill and coo and another of a gal who married a bozo to keep him from committing suicide. Here are a few, just a few mind you, of the many suits filed during the first three days of the week. -0-

She just married him to spite another man and gave him the bum's rush before the ink dried on the marriage certificate declares Edgar Boyd Roebke in his suit for an annulment of his marriage to Ida Grace Roebke, Edgar says the nuptial knot was tied in Jacksonville, June 4th, and that when he sought to avail himself of marital privileges Ida Grace slipped him a good old-fashioned horse laugh and told him she didn't love him and had only married him to spite another man. She refused to see him and barricaded herself behind parental doors. He says he tried for ten days to smoke her out but failed to make the grade. He asks the court to call the marriage null and void-especially void.

-0-A man who mopes around the house for weeks at a time without speaking or even grunting when spoken to is no bargain and only receives his just deserts when he gets a divorce suit draped around his neck avers Mrs. Seabelle

Stribling in her divorce suit 15, 1942 and the final payfiled against Herbert G. Stribling. Mrs. Stribling says Herbert frequently stayed away from home for days at a time and when he finally did get around to dropping in he was generally oiled to the gills. She says she lost a lot of weight over Herbert and asks the court to toss him back into the discard as far as she is concerned.

He had her between the devil and the deep blue sea, intimates Betty Conahay Redlhammer. Betty says Albert, who was wooing her, picked her up one silvery summer evening last August ostensibly for the purpose of taking her for a cooling drive. During the ride the moon got in Albert's eyes and he popped the question. When Betty refused he became violent and threatened to wreck the car in his determination to commit suicide. Betty wasn't so much opposed to the suicide clause in the proposal as she was to the thought of how he could wreck the car and kill himself without also scattering her all over the landscape. To avoid embarrassment, to say nothing of possible mutilation she agreed to marry him on the spot. Immediately after the ceremony he took her to her home which was a fatal mistake on his part because when he called for her the next day all he got was a cold shoulder to say nothing about dirty looks and a solid oak door slammed in his face. Mrs. Redlhammer says that in so far as the marriage was never consumated an annulment is in order.

-0-Exactly three months after she landed in Miami from her New York home, Mrs. Hermie Waller took advantage of Florida's ninety day divorce law by hanging a divorce suit on Adolph Waller. Mrs. Waller says Adolph was drunk during a large part of their married life and that he touched off the final spark one night when he came home soused to the ears and threw an alarm clock at her. She fails to say, in her bill of complaint, whether his aim was good or not but contends that the intent was there just the same.

For a few days after their wedding everything was just lovely states Mrs. Georgia Warren Peacock in her bill of divorcement against Henry B. Peacock, but in less than a month Henry suddenly assumed a standoffish attitude and utterly refused to cahabit with her in any manner or form. Despite the fact that they continued to live in the same house and despite all her efforts to make Henry bill and coo he still held out, declares Mrs. Peacock and as a result her health was seriously impaired. Henry, it appears will not contest the suit because a stipulation was filed with it whereby Mrs. Peacock is to receive $3,500 in cash when the final decree is granted and is to receive payments of $1,285 .-1941; October 15, 1941; Jan. and demands it.

ment of $1,285.72 on April 15, 1942—a total of $9,000.04 in addition to the first $3,500. The Peacocks were married in Virginia -0-

Mrs. Lillie Mae Mims, newest member of the divorce colony whose membership was made possible by her suit against Andrew M. Mims. should always steer clear of the number "20" because it certainly appears to be her unlucky number. Mrs. Mims, who admits that she was never married to Andrew in the customary manner but entered into a common law agreement with him on March 20, 1937, seeks her freedom and custody of her daughter. She says the common law business was started March 20, 1937 and that Andrew sold out on her on August 20th, 1938. A daughter was born November 20th, 1938 and Andrew is still missing. She charges deser-

He was jealous of her girl friends and frequently shellacked her for talking to them declares Annie Hodges Conger in her suit against Jimmie D. Conger. Mrs. Conger says that upon one occasion when she left her place of employment at Miami Beach in company of a male employee of the same place that Jimmie suddenly appeared on the scene and pulled a knife on her escort. After the knife episode she says they patched up their quarrel and Jimmie induced her to accompany him upon an automobile ride which culminated in another brawl which became so violent that she jumped out of the car while it was travelling 45 miles an hour causing her to become a hospital case. The Congers were married March 24, 1940.

A few days after their marriage his wife, Virginia Wade Coleman Knowles, appeared at the place where he worked and borrowed money to purchase "mediasserts Clyde F. cine," Knowles in his suit for divorce. Instead of buying medicine she bought wine and proceeded to go on a delightful bat, declares Knowles. She followed up the money borrowing spree by going back to his place of employment and cursing his employers, says Knowles and then tried to commit suicide by turning on the gas. Knowles says in his bill of complaint that he earns $120 per month and has to pay $40 out of that to a former wife and then has to fork over $7 per month to hold his job. He fails to state just who receives the $7 bucks but does declare that he is in no position to pay alimony to 72 on Oct. 15, 1940; Jan. 15, the second Mrs. Knowles in 1941; April 15, 1941; July 15, event she contests the suit

The Daily News raised dough for the ambulance? BUT-EQUIPPED AMBULANCE

Through the effort of the Miami Herald and Radio Station WIOD, $2,600, of $800 more than the required $1,800 needed to buy, equip and maintain a field ambulance for the British-American Ambulance Corps for a year, was raised on June 30. Using a Florida National Guard field ambulance, the "Buy an Ambulance" campaign which lasted six days followed a "blueprint" plan devised by Hal Leyshon, editor of the News. The daily, according to Kenneth Burgher, promotion manager, on request, will send to any authorized organization or newspaper, a set of plans outlining the activities that resulted in their successful campaign.

(Clipping is from EDITOR AND PUBLISHER, July 13,

Yah! Yah! The News went to a lot of blather to get the ambulance-but the Herald appropriated the credit in the Editor and Publisher.

Well, the News got a Pulitzer Prize by mistake!

Tom Williams' Epic

Tom Williams, likeable proprietor of the Paddock Club, 7th at Washington Avenue, Miami Beach, has taken an official and solemn oath on a stack of chorus girls that his new Paddock production, opening Thursday, July 25, will be the super collosal bistro epic of the summer. Everything will be new-new gags, dancers, singers and chorus. And talking about the chorus, Williams avers that they will be hand picked Broadway lasses, beauteous of both body and kisser. What more could a mortal want? Okay, okay, we weren't thinking about

With this peak show, price policy at the Paddock will reach a new low. There will be no cover or minimum charge and you can definitely "spend what you like."

There'll be continuous music by two bands with shows at 11:30, 1:30 and 3:30. The Paddock, needless to say, remains open all night.

Round The Town GENERAL ELECTRIC ON UNCLE SAM'S CARPET

(From AMERICAN BIZARRE, Published at 110 Smithfield St., Pittsburgh, Pa.)

FEDERAL TRADE COM-MISSION, Washington

General Electric Company, 570 Lexington Ave., New York, is charged with misrepresentation in the sale of electric light bulbs, in a complaint issued by the Federal Trade Commission

It is alleged that in newspaper and other periodical advertising the respondent company made representations implying that all or substantially all competitive products are inferior in quality to the respondent's "G-E" bulbs; that by purchasing any bulbs other than "G-E" the purchasing public will or is likely to get inferior products the use of which will result in a 30 percent loss of light and a 30 percent wastage of the electricity consumed, and that a purchaser is likely to obtain bulbs that will not burn as brightly or as long as the respondent's "G-E" lamps and cost more to operate.

Among representations allegedly made in the respondent's advertising were: "Why risk 30 percent loss of light * * * when G-E bulbs

NEWS society page) " . . . Mr. Davis, it seems, is employed by Combs. The gifts were packed in large grocery store cartons, Carnation milk, Heinz 47 Varieties, Campbell's baked beans, etc., etc. This in honor of Miss Watkins who is employed by a large grocery distributor!"

We've always thought that Heinz was distinguished for its 57, not 47, Varieties, and Campbell's soups, not baked beans!

Homes, After All, Are To Live In! Even Here!

They always say it is hard quire, speaks reasonably bridge, dances well, drives a car, wears diamonds and does not absolutely bathe in the soup plates, what more can you possibly find out about anyone, outside of having a check returned for insufficient funds or reading some morning that he or she has been arrested for murder. But there is one way, absolutely, finally and completely, to determine just exactly the sort of people your new friends are. Get invited to their new house and take a good look at the Mving room. By their interior decoration you may know them. And they can't escape you.

Whether they have employed an interior decorator or not, whether they have one day ready made out of a furniture store, whether everything is spic and span as may be, the interior decorating method will give them away. Because, after all, people's surroundings get to be like themselves.

When you see a living room with a clock and two ornaments on the mantel ture, a refectory table, a Chinese rug, a tall electric lamp all fussed up with pink silk and gilt roses, a victrola, a radio set, two hand painted photographs on the walls and no books, how many guesses do you have to have before you know that those people are more or less floaters, have no real tastes of their own, are satisfied to take their furniture, their jazz and their cocktails standardized, are making money for the first time and are not quite sure how to spend it, are perfectly good sports, probably honest but in the end likely to be wearing?

When you see a living room with heavy rough walls, massive imitation Spanish furniture with very uncomfortable chairs, huge Chinese vases either on the lessly in a corner, enormous you want to know.

to tell about people's charac- cigarette boxes everywhere, ter in a frontier city, mean- no pictures, no books, a radio ing Miami, because nobody that looks like a carved Spanhas any background any ish chest gone wrong, how more. If everyone, people in- many guesses does it take you to know that these peogood English, plays good ple are the same kind as the above, only after another year of making money and now able to afford the kind of interior decorator who likes to "do" heavy Spanish interiors.

Then there are the modest homes with cream colored bed room furniture and gobby wicker chairs and wicker tables and those curious woven wicker lamps in the living room. Don't you know, just looking at that sort of house, that they may be perfectly nice respectable people but that they have no particular minds or sense of background of their own. Their books may be a set of "Court Romances" and their three pictures a calendar, a bathing girl and one of those furnished their new house in prints of "Hope" that people used to give for wedding presents.

But when you come into a living room that may not be so excrutiatingly reminiscent of a furniture store, where the chairs do not all match but all of them are comfortable, where there are even two or three small shelves of books and a table that doespiece, a set of velvet furni- n't look "set" but has all sort of intimate little family junk that means something in the family history, where the colors are soft and subdued and the electric light bulbs are not imitation oranges and the lamps are not fixed up to look like petticoats and the telephone isn't hidden by a dusty taffeta doll and where the pictures are just wedding presents and colored photographs of the Grand Canyon but really good pictures, if they are only copies, then don't you breathe deep and realize that at last you have found some people with minds of their own, with good taste and charm and individuality,

Can't tell what people are like in a frontier town? Nonsense. Even a corner of a room, even a glance in a winmantel piece or standing use- dow, will tell you everything cost so little?" . . . "Thousands of New York factories, offices, stores, homes lose 30 percent of light. Beware of inferior bulbs! Buy G-E bulbs from your reliable neighborhood store. *

It is alleged that the respondent corporation's representations are misleading and unfairly disparaging of the products of its competitors; that not all or substantially all competitive products are inferior in quality to the respondent's "G-E" bulbs, and that a person buying other than "G-E" will not in most instances obtain lamps of lower quality than "G-E" or bulbs that will result in a 30 percent loss of light or 30 percent waste of the electricity used. The complaint alleges that many competing manufacturers sell products equal in quality to the respondent's "G-E" bulb, and that only a small percentage of the bulbs being sold to the public are of such low quality that their use will result in a 30 percent loss of light or waste of current.

The complaint points out that approximately 80 percent of the incandescent electric light bulbs sold in the United States for general lighting service are manufactured by the respondent and its licensees who manufacture bulbs under patents controlled by the respondent, and that of the total amount of general lighting service bulbs sold by the respondent and its licensees, about 25 percent are products of the licensees not branded "G-E".

Alleging violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act, the complaint grants the respondent 20 days for filing

Power-Trust

... Almost in the twinkling of an eye we saw it happen-we saw a commission that might have saved more money for the thousands of Miamians kicked out of office . . . saw the Power-Trust capture City Hall again, with the little foreign-born Alex Orr, leading the fawning procession . . .

Remembering what the Power-Trust has done to Miami -remembering our experiences with its various presidents in the last few years-George Estil, Joe Gill, Bryan Hanks, and, now, McGregor Smith-and remembering what all of them have done since first the Florida Power & Light Company suddenly grabbed the city's most important concessions-water, electric, gas, transportation, to say nothing of city hall control-we can understand Wendel Willkie a little better than most anybody else. For we see Willkie as just another Hanks, just another Gill, just another Estil . . . He's a Power-Trust departmental president (which means he has not even a birthright left! . . . else he'd never have been getting $75,000 a year up to the time they got ready to race him!) and will, after election, still be a Power-Trust official, must be!

DuPonts make no mistakes. This is a company, mind you, that makes its bright men sign away their birthrights before giving them employment. If inventors working in the duPont laboratories discover something, duPonts, not the inventors, own the invention. They had to sign away their birthrights before they picked up a test tube or figured a blue-print. There is certainly no doubt as to where Wilkie stands in this regard . . . Did we hear someone remark that duPonts married into the Roosevelt family? Quite true-and it's furthermore quite obvious that President Roosevelt has no fanatical trust-busting aims, and in many ways is fairly acceptable to them-

Here's the essential difference between the two menstrictly from the Power-Trust viewpoint, of course:

F. D. R. has had his two terms. He has already shown too much consideration for the public (strictly from the Power-Trust viewpoint, of course). He has shown a disposition "to give the sucker an even break"-which, from the Power-Trust point of view, is 100 percent anarchy! . . . Why, if elected for a third term, he might suddenly decide, in return for the greatest honor the American public has ever bestowed upon a man, to free them from the Power-Trust completely-by dissolving the Super-Trust and its interlocking, amazingly intricate, component parts completely-and turn America completely over to the people!

Willkie, on the other hand, offers no hope for the people. If elected, Willkie would have to be as completely servile to the Power-Trust-as completely servile as, for instance, is the little Scotchman who ranks as our mayor at

If he behaves (it could be Orr, but we're talking about Willkie), he might stay another four years. But if he showed any weakness-any leanings other than for publicity effect -toward the public weal, he'd be kicked out . . . which applies to Willkie and Alex Orr alike!

We are for Franklin D. Roosevelt (MIAMI LIFE started the first Roosevelt-Third Term Club in the U.S., in September 1938!) because he has already proved his mettle in forcing some material gains for the people in their constant 939 fight with Power-Trust oppressors.

We pick him over Willkie, because Willkie has proved nothing except possession of good personality . . . and that isn't as hard to build up as you might think-with hundreds of Power-Trust publishers like our (and Akron's) John Knight to help along the organization, and the craftiest publicity and propaganda experts in the game making a veritable army, and the Power-Trust financial coffers bear- Singer's house-which makes it ing a sign, "Come and Get It-If You've Got a Trick or

Giving to the people that to which they are entitled! . . . show or other refreshment on Willkie's job has always been to keep the people from hav- calling nights ing what they're entitled to! . . . when the Power Monopoly of the U.S., able to get the finest for any salary they choose to pay, devote $75,000 admittedly to one of them, it's proof that he is extra smart in robbing the public-or deft in "high finance," if you insist on the nicer term. Roosevelt's

SO YOU SAY..

WPA Orchestra Weak on Drums

After reading your letter about George Wolf, the WPA orchestra leader, as a musical critic and a lover of music, I want to make the following remarks:

First, there must have been a change in the conducting tactics of Mr. Wolf. While sitting in the park last Monday night, he tried to put on numbers that sounded very weak. Looking over the key instruments I found no percussion section. I think that is very important, because I have never seen an orchestra or band from coast to coast without a percussion section. If I were Mr. Wolf I would stick to string quartets which seem to be his forte.

Hoping he will become educated to correct instrumentation, which even every bugle corps leader knows, I hope I may look forward to a change.

Music Lover.

TVA (Tennessee Valley Corporation), which is a move in the direction of giving the people something instead of letting the Power-Trust operate all the farms in that area, brought Wilikie into the limelight. He opposed the people! . Notody expects him to change sides now-when the bosses he's fought for have now nominated him for the highest office in the land. My God, give the man credit for a little loyalty! Besides, as we've said, that's all down on paper, locked in a vault as hard to get to as the government's gold cave in Kentucky-because, well, because the Power-Trust won't deal any other way with such an employee as Willkie! . . . Why, if a man of Wilkie's super attainments were for the people, that same Power-Trust would be fighting him, blasting him, from every nook and cranny, in the and—picturing him as a numbskull, and villifying him very much as the Power-Trust deals with Commissioner R. C. Gardner in our midst!

Why Wilkie anyway? Simply the third-term bugaboo isn't sufficient reason to retire a good man, a good captain, especially as a world crisis seems to be approaching with that captain already fortified by his eight years in the White House, plus his World War experience as assistant secretary of the navy. Willkie certainly doesn't know more about war, undoubtedly much less. Could Willkie better the people? Quite the contrary, you may be assured, else he wouldn't be the Republican nominee (by the way, doesn't he remind you of Warren G. Harding in 1920 just after the convention?)

Willkie (because of his sponsorship) would have to be
