Dear Mr. Alter:

Elaine Fisher tells my wife you are "a keen guy". So now I am convinced, as a Channel 10 viewer, that Morrie Alter is both influential and a "keen guy" we should dialogue with. We being Arch Creek Trust. See enclosure # 1.

Arch Creek Trust reminds some old timers of the early Fairchild Gardens citizen support groups. We have the same potential of becoming a equally valuable South Florida quality of life resource.

We have 3 early opportunities to prove out my perceptions and Elaine Fisher's descriptions.

1. To help make and keep Arch Creek Park as a Native park, (believe it might be the only one so oriented) things become almost one on-one. One citizen vs one non-native tree-weed-bush, etc. You can't use bulldozers, lawn mowers, and we don't like herbicides. So on Saturdays a valiant few dig in or out as our Park Naturalist direct. Great activity, healthy-learn while you work from 9 to 12 A.M. at the park. What a remarkable story of civic stubbornness. Worth a look-see we hope.

2. The Trust meets every 2nd Monday at the Park Museum. Enclosure # 2.

On April 18th we are honored to host Marjorie Stoneman Douglas at a picnic basket gathering at 6:00 P.M. in the park. This remarkable woman (see Miami Herald, April 7,) will be our feature speaker, another story worth a look see from your vast audience.

3. See enclosure # 3 dealing with an activity which led my wife to Elaine Fisher.

Yours for constructive and entertaining Morrie Alter segments in my favorite news.

Sincerely Yours,

Lou Stark
