'Progress' Promised By Dressel

By PAT MURPHY
Editor, The Times

Bubbling with harmony and pledges of progress, a new Mayor and two new City Commissioners elected in a low-interest election will be seated tomorrow by Coral Gables.

They are:

MAYOR JERRY DRESSEL, who won a four-year term in his unopposed bid. He garnered 2,688 votes.

COMMISSIONER JOE MURPHY who also won four years on the Commission as second high man in a field of five, with 2,548 votes. Murphy is immediate past mayor.

COMMISSIONER BILL CHAPMAN, 46, newcomer who beat out incumbent W. L. Philbrick by 44 votes for a two-year term with 2,131 votes.

Philbrick and Dr. Franklin J. Evans, former Commissioner seeking a comeback, lost with 2,087 and 1,545 votes respectively.

Out of 12,431 registered voters in the Gables, 35 per cent — or 4,359 — cast ballots. This included 36 absentee ballots.

The last city election two years ago drew 42 per cent.

Chapman credited his personal campaigning for votes as the key to his upset victory over Philbrick.

But observers were more inclined to credit anti-liquor campaigning by various Coral Gables churches and Philbrick's lack of campaigning.

Dressel pledged a "progressive" Commission term, stressing continued development of new construction and attraction of new business to the Gables.

Murphy's post-election statement was much the same as those before the election — his desire to remain in city government to help complete projects started during his administration.

Philbrick, if he felt badly about losing by a narrow margin to Chapman, showed no signs Tuesday night when he showed up for Murphy's victory celebration.

A Nautical Landlubber Lee Lincoln Bends To His Task ... Helps Crew Ready the 'Holiday' for World Jaunt

Lee Lincoln Leaves Gables?

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

...To Watch Fjords Go By

By RAYMOND LANG
Staff Writer

Lee Lincoln — That unpredictable mystery man of many faces — is going on a holiday with his new love.

Around the world!

And his new love is the "Holiday," a 200-foot Norwegian cargo ship that first threaded through the fjords in 1940.

The enigmatic Lincoln, who dresses like a grizzled gold prospector, but talks like a college professor is known for his frequent, head-on battles with the Gables City Commission.

Wealthy from various Gables real estate holdings, he often shuffles along on sandals and garbed in rumpled shirt and baggy pants.

A well-read, well-traveled man, he recently fought to buy the UM's decaying San Sebastian dorm to turn it into a center for the handicapped. Miami Beach millionaire, who did buy it, is now suing Lincoln for alleged harassment.

But that's behind him. Lincoln now talks about his new love — and his plans for her.

"Didn't you ever want to go around the world in a great, big beautiful boat?" Lincoln quizzed, his 250 pounds burdening a kitchen chair in his relic-cluttered home at 4855 Ponce de Leon Blvd. He throws nothing away.

"I'm chartering her for a year on a global tour. It's going to be like a private yacht and we'll set sail for the out-of-the-way places.

"And we'll collect rare animals, mineral species, rare plants."

The ship, under Panamanian registry, is in drydock now, but she'll be ready to sail in mid-May. Though she accommodates 75 persons, Lincoln said he's interested in signing up about 30 persons of various shades of interest and personality.

The cost for the tour —

Doctors' Asks OK for 9-Story High-Rise Wing

By MAURICE LaBELLE
Staff Writer

Doctors' Hospital revealed plans this week for a multi-million dollar expansion program that would nearly double its present 213-bed facilities, create two high rise wings and the first four-story hospital parking garage.

Dr. Howard C. McDevitt, member of the hospital governing board, sketched out the hospital's plans at a City Commission Conference.

The Commission took no action on the proposal and advised Dr. McDevitt that the final plans would have to be presented at a public hearing before the Planning and Zoning Board.

Informal approval of the plan to build a nine-story and a seven-story wing which would have parking facilities for 560 cars, came the same day from the Dade County Hospital Advisory Board, according to Assistant Director Mahlon Clark.

"I couldn't say whether it will cost three, four or five million dollars," Clark said Wednesday.

Final arrangements for acquisition of approximately 1.4 acres from the University of Miami are still being made, Clark said, although the UM Board of Trustees has already approved his transfer.

Training of UM personnel may be involved in the agreement, Dr. McDevitt told the Commission.

The new wings would provide a 400-bed facility, 250 beds for acute care and 150 for chronic cases.

"We feel with this Medicare bill coming up and with our own expansion, that this will be needed," said Clark.

"This is still in the basic planning stage," he emphasized. Why has the need to go nine stories?

"This is what our architect told us we will have to have," said Clark.

The "old" hospital, which was expanded only a few years ago, will be partially converted to administrative offices and other purposes, he said.

33% Fare

Hike Asked By Taxis

Taxicab firms operating in Coral Gables are asking for 33% increase in rates — an increase already granted in Miami Beach, Miami, Miami Shores, North Miami and North Miami Beach.

A public hearing has been set for May 11 by the Coral Gables City Commission on the proposal.

Julius Bauer III, owner of University Cab and Gables Taxi, and John McKenna, manager for Checker Cab of Coral Gables, a Yellow Cab subsidiary, appeared before the Commission Tuesday, but the matter was postponed until a public hearing could be scheduled.

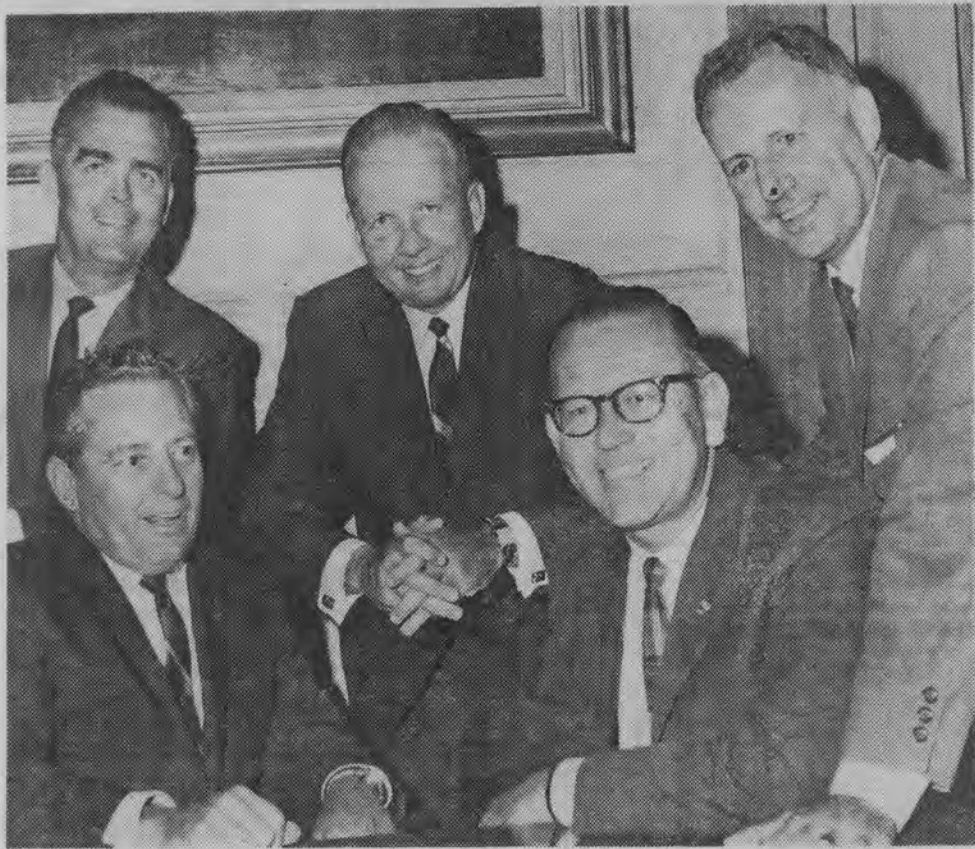

"It's getting to a point when taxicabs cannot operate on the same revenue because of increased operating cost per mile," Bauer said Wednesday.

While revenue has gone up 25% Bauer said, cost of operation is much higher.

Pay is up 66%, administration, 52%, insurance, 350%, repairs, 68%, professional services, 76%, taxes 34%, utilities, 47½% and depreciation 43%, Bauer claimed.

The basic rate of 30 cents per mile has remained unchanged since 1945, the cab company owner said.

on going without Philbrick," the funeral director said philosophically.

There wasn't much doubt in his mind that the liquor issue had beat him and he said so, all the time sipping a non-alcoholic drink.

"You know, I made the motion that put the amendments on the ballot," he said ironically. Murphy was visibly upset at losing his comrade in politics and business.

Philbrick lost, he said, because of narrow mindedness in connection with the liquor issue.

Chapman, who rode to victory on his strong anti-liquor campaign, denied that this was chiefly responsible.

"I don't think so," he said, soberly reflecting on his upset win over Philbrick.

"I just went out there and campaigned," said the conservative-minded newcomer to Gables politics.

Chapman is a lay leader in one of the churches that led the fight against the amendment.

Yes-Minded Voters Pass 20 Of 27 Charter Amendments

Coral Gableites, the 35 percent who bothered to vote Tuesday, were in an affirmative mood when they voted on the 25 proposed amendments, one ordinance and a straw vote question.

They approved 20 of the 27 proposals put before them, most of them routine and administrative in nature.

Among the more important issues approved was Amendment B which will now authorize the mayor and city commissioners to compensate themselves for office and travel expenses. The vote was 1,394, for and 1,321, against.

A possible Civil Rights suit was averted when the voters approved granting to unskilled employes, mostly Negroes, the same retirement privileges as other employes. The vote on Ordinance Z was 1,354 to 934.

Consumers Water Company got a vote of confidence when voters turned down the Question AA to purchase its facilities by a nearly 3-1 margin. Only 865 approved the proposal to consider buying out the private utility.

Restaurants lost out in their bid to serve liquor with meals.

The proposed change in the fiscal year to make it coincide with Metro's — largely academic since the Metro Charter calls for it — was also approved 1,766 to 798.

The City Commission sought to extend an illegal practice of making contracts up to five years and 10 years with voter approval, but this was defeated 1,689 to 770.

Here is a complete rundown of the 27 proposals and the results:

Amendment A, yes; B, yes; C, yes; D, yes; E, yes; F, yes; G, yes; H, yes; I, no; J, no; K, yes; L, yes; M, yes; N, yes; O, no; P, no; Q, yes; R, yes; S, yes; T, no; U, yes; V, yes; W, yes; X, yes; Y, no; Z, yes; AA, no.

2 Funerals Recess Commission Meeting

In unprecedented acts, the City Commission Tuesday twice recessed its meeting to attend in body funeral services for two prominent men in the community.

At 2 p.m. they halted temporarily their deliberations to walk next door to the Coral Gables First Methodists Church to pay their last respects to Rev. John Howard Hanger, pastor of the church.

They returned briefly more than an hour later to recess again at 4 p.m. to attend services for a man who had once served on the City Commission himself, M. B. Garis, long time resident and engineer.

Last-Minute Church Drive Beat Liquor Law?

A well-organized last-minute fight by church groups apparently shares major credit for defeating the proposed charter change liberalizing Coral Gables' liquor laws.

Final unofficial returns showed that 2,063 voters opposed the change which would have given liquor serving rights to large restaurants, while 1,702 favored the new law.

The difference was 361 votes. The core area of Coral Gables around Precinct No. 2, where most of the major churches are located, scored the highest opposition vote — 693 against, 509 for.

Last weekend, telephone committees from various churches and anti-liquor groups bombarded Gables voters with pleas to oppose the amendment. Mailing pieces from ministers' groups and Sunday morning statements from church pulpits also stressed the importance of defeating the amendment.

The anti-liquor groups' arguments boiled down to a simple theme — preserving what they called Coral Gables' wholesome atmosphere and preventing what they claimed are the vices connected with extending liquor usage in the city.

Meanwhile, the Coral Gables Restaurant Association — a newly-formed group representing restaurants which would have benefited from the amendment — said it had no immediate plans.

Bill Nestor, owner of the Firelight, said the association would continue to function.

He said the group had informally discussed what he called "a restraint of trade" imposed by the city's present law, and some members had

Election Cost Seen As Highest

Tuesday's municipal election figures to be the costliest on record, City Clerk Loretta Sheehy said this week.

Although the figures are not yet in, Miss Sheehy estimated that the total will come up to between $5,000 and $6,000.

Two years ago, the cost was only around $3,000, she pointed out.

Why the extra cost? While there were 10 candidates, each paying $100 to file two years ago, only five paid the fee this year for a considerable difference.

But the greatest costs were incurred by purging the voting list — $1,000.

The ballot also cost $500 to publish because of its length which required a full page.

called for a court challenge.

"But this would have to be undertaken by individuals rather than the association," Nestor said.

Nestor said the city-led Coral Gables Country Club operates under a special restaurant license in apparent violation of the city charter.

$$$-Saving Sewer Deal Links Miami And Gables Lines

Linking the Gables sewer system to Miami will probably not cost residents one cent and will ultimately cost less, John Telfair, engineer for Maurice H. Connell & Associates, said Tuesday.

The prediction, based on projected use, the pending agreement with South Miami to tie up and the possibility of federal assistance funds, came on the heels of formal approval of the contract between the City and the City of Miami Water and Sewer Board.

That agreement guarantees Miami a minimum of 12½ cents per 1,000 gallons of treated sewage. The rate will go down with greater usage by the participants in the contract.

The statement by Telfair that the agreement would enable the city to pay off approximately $1.4 million in bonded indebtedness on the old plant and still retain similar costs was unexpected good news.

"I can see no way in which it can increase the costs to Coral Gables," said Telfair, pointing a detailed chart he had worked up to show that the Gables really did not have too many alternatives.

Expansion of the 2.5 million gallon plant, already at 90 percent capacity, would have caused treatment cost to jump when the City faced spending another $270,000.

The Gables will initially pay Miami approximately $200,000 a year for cost of treatment.

A year and a half of negotiations between City Manager L. W. Robinson Jr. and Connell on one side and the Water and Sewer Board on the other preceded the agreement.

Construction of the connector is expected to begin in late summer, Telfair said, with approximately 15 months needed to complete the job, which will include a pumping station.

Still undecided is what to do with the six-acre site at the University of Miami Main Campus. The City has indicated it wants to keep an undetermined amount of acreage for the pumping station.

The land was originally acquired from the University, which needs the land for expansion.

and the passengers will vote on where they want to go — is $5,000, Lincoln said.

Lincoln, who won't disclose what he paid, is now part-owner. He'll act as the ship's purser.

"I want to go to places that haven't been ruined by tourists, that haven't been branded by civilization," said Lincoln.

Lincoln, with a beard casting a white half-moon across his ruddy face, puffed away on a pipe as he unfolded a world map across his kitchen table.

"We might head for Galapagos Islands, Tahiti, Easter Island, Pitcairn Island," he said, dashing off exotic names of spits of land in the Pacific.

"We could go through Rarotonga and Tonga in French Polynesia. On to Australia and Indonesia, Cyprus, Jerusalem.

"And I want a live group. Age is no restriction." He prefers, he said, passengers with perhaps naval or medical know-how, and several with interests in botany, marine biology and associated sciences.

"How many people," beamed Lincoln like a boy peering in a candy store window, "are like me?"

"They broke the mold. There's only one Lincoln!"

This Kind of Help the City Doesn't Need

By ED RORDAM
Correspondent

Any horticulturist knows the multitudinous problems insects pose to efficient gardening.

But the Coral Gables Parks Department has found a two-legged challenge to the bug kingdom's claim to top position among gardening headaches — man.

John Harrison, the man responsible for maintenance of city parks, tells tales which may shock you into disbelief until you realize he is entirely serious.

For instance, a palm tree which required three men to lift was gone from Giralda and Ponce de Leon the day after Harrison's crew planted it there.

Another time found Harrison confronting a woman on Miracle Mile about her volunteer gardening in the city's flower beds.

Holding a fistful of freshly-uprooted plants, she explained that as a taxpayer she felt entitled to take what she wanted. After being enlightened about the purpose of taxes, she became irate, climbed into her $5,000

Lincoln automobile and drove away, Harrison said.

Another woman was asked by police one night what she was doing with pruning shears in a city rose bed. She carefully explained that because of the overworked condition of the parks crew she felt obliged to help out whenever she could.

Strangely though, she pruned only choice buds from the bushes.

Some fraternity men at the University of Miami "overworked" maintenance men, according to Harrison. He said they promptly cut down several palm trees on San Amaro Drive (fraternity row) when they noticed the trees obstructed their view of the tennis courts from the fraternity houses.

Harrison has been with the department for five years and is accustomed to the varied problems connected with the job. "When we plant an area we expect to lose a little bit," he says.

The enormity of the job is evident in the 500 miles of grass that's cut, and 86,000 trees to trim.

Street Won't Be Closed

Galiano Street, north of Merrick Way, will not be closed as had been once contemplated by the Metro traffic experts.

Instead, a 90-day experimental traffic situation will be set up to control Merrick Way Galiano and Giralda, according to Robert E. Dunivan, acting traffic engineer for Metro.

The intersections will be channelized, using paint instead of permanent controls until its effectiveness is determined, Dunivan told the City.

The hodge-podge intersections will be reviewed for possible modifications and changes after the new plan has been in effect the three-month period.

Our New Commission Needs Modern View

The three men who take their new seats this week on the Coral Gables City Commission take office at a time when particular imagination and harmony is needed.

To the victors in Tuesday's election — Mayor Jerry Dressel, Commissioner Joseph Murphy and new Commissioner William Chapman — we bid them luck.

Chapman, whose upset victory over incumbent W. L. Philbrick apparently was rooted in his campaign for traditionalism, will have an especially critical role.

The Commission, nearing preparation of a new budget, should put among its priorities a bolder more stringent fiscal attitude.

The trend of dependency on federal aid not only does not suit the economic character of Coral Gables but it reflects on its management.

There are pressing capital improvements to be developed and financed.

And above all, the inter-governmental relationship with Metro.

In Dressel, the community has an attractive, respected, conservative and well-equipped Mayor. We think his term will prove productive.

Commissioner Murphy, immediate past Mayor, has the imagination and experience to assist.

If ability is the key to the next two years of successful city government, Coral Gables has the chance to fare well.

Could Be You

Late Ambulance Is Inexcusable

While one statistic is piled atop another in a senseless campaign defending the efficiency of ambulance service, injured and bleeding persons are lying on the streets waiting too long for help in Dade County.

The "average" time for responding to emergency calls by Randle-Eastern, the Metro ambulance contractor, is in itself impressive — as a statistic.

But statistics mean nothing to an aging, bleeding man sprawled on a sidewalk with his leg severed.

We cite this as an actual case.

This was the case of the man rammed through a Miracle Mile shop window by his wife's runaway car. He later died.

While police repeatedly checked on the whereabouts of an ambulance and Coral Gables firemen worked to stop life from draining away, minutes ticked by.

The idiocy is that Metro has placed into the hands of a single ambulance operator the major responsibility for tending the emergency needs of an entire county of a million souls — when other help could be close by.

The injured and dying need prompt help.

Under the Metro policy, only the county's contractor ambulance service can remove the injured.

Is it reasonable for a seriously injured person to wait eight minutes, 10 or 15 — whatever the "average" time is?

We think not.

Metro needs to study emergency ambulance service in Dade. Can help be speeded up with an improved communications system? Or is it a question of more ambulances posted more strategically?

And, please, let's not get into more statistics on "average" response times.

They Can Tell Boob on Your Tube

While the debate over electronic snooping goes on, more and more sophisticated spying techniques are evolving.

Comes now two enterprising young men who have figured out a way to tell what TV channel you are tuned to without any sort of connecting or listening device that might be considered an invasion of your privacy.

The same sort of device might put the Voice of America and Radio Free Europe out of business in the hands of our co-existing friends behind the Iron Curtain.

But the gimmick is being put to more peaceful purposes — like determining whether "Johnny Quest" or "The Munsters" are ahead in the tube ratings.

Steve Mixsell and David L. Nicholson, are credited with inventing the "eye in the sky" technique making the Nielsen system of placing approximately 1,200 or more recording devices in selected homes look like a rather primitive way of sampling

TV viewers tastes, or lack thereof.

How does it work?

It's so simple, it's silly.

A specially equipped plane flies back and forth over an area at 2,000 feet until it gathers a reported 1¼ million samples!

This is done with a special electronic eavesdropper known as "airborne television audit" which has the uncanny knack of picking up the transmissions from the local oscillator in your set.

The inventors claim that no two sets operate exactly alike, and with finger-print-like accuracy, they can tell whether you prefer Hollywood Palace or The Entertainers or the unique programming of the sometime educational channels.

But one thing the snooper won't tell them:

What eye-strainer were you looking at before the commercial went on, causing you to flick to another channel to get a sneak at another program?

A Few Ideas on How to Speed Up, Enliven Nation's Favorite Sport

BASEBALL — The season opened this week. The umpires yelled, "Play Ball," at various cities throughout the country and at least six months of baseball stands between us and the world series come next October.

THEY PLAYED 162 games last year and I imagine they'll play about the same number this year. For some, the interest in baseball is on the wane. For others, baseball is baseball and saying anything against the grand old sport is akin to criticizing grandmothers.

THERE ARE several reasons for what public apathy there is toward the sport. One is the slowness, the numerous periods of waiting and the reticence of baseball officials to accept rules changes to promote a faster game.

THE SEASON is far too long. As a result, the teams that play in the world series are not necessarily the best teams, but the teams most capable of holding up under 162 grueling games. Baseball season now is one of endurance, not skill.

IF I WERE baseball commissioner, I'd do a little changing. First, I'd change the rules from three strikes and four balls to two strikes and three balls. This should shorten the game a little. Might even require the batters to stand in line to hit.

NEXT, I'D KICK the New York Yankees out of the American League because they win the league title entirely too often. Then I'd hold baseball season from May 1 to Aug. 31 and require each pitcher who starts a game to finish a game, unless he was hurt.

THERE WOULD be no arguing with the umpires (who, by the way, would not be required to wear those hot black suits if my changes were accepted), the number of team players would be cut from nine to seven (no shortstops) and no games would go into extra innings. Tie games would go into the record books as such.

THE INNINGS would be cut from nine to five (no need for that seventh inning stretch. Managers would not be allowed on the field, outfield would be fined for dropping fly balls and a runner would not be required to circle the bases on a home run (why tire the man out? He's going to need the stamina to go 162 games).

EVEN THE present-day baseball uniform is outdated. The garb is nothing more than a collar-less shirt with a baggy pair of knickers. And everybody knows that knickers went out with 23 skidoo and prohibition. Sox would be abandoned except as a nickname.

IF I WERE designing a uniform, it would be conducive to speed. The shirt would certainly have a collar and the pants, instead of being baggy, would be treader, skin-tight garments that would fit each player like he were poured into them.

COLOR IS terribly lacking in baseball. Each team should have its own colors that would definitely be a part of the uniform and easily recognizable to the fan. The Boston Red Sox would have red uniforms, undoubtedly, and the Baltimore club probably would be decked out in the colors of the Oriole. The visor-type hat would remain.

SPRING TRAINING, now about six weeks long, would be cut to two weeks. There would be no exhibition games, because they mean nothing anyway, and a manager would not be required to wear the uniform of his team. Casey Stengel would look ridiculous in treader pants.

'Greatest Story' Not Easiest Story

Backstage Problems of Christ's Life

***

By SYLVIA SPRINGER
Religion Writer

The thunderous thud of nails driven into a cross.

Horses hooves hammer hard against stone pavement.

Wind whistles softly in a lonely night.

And it begins, a reverent retelling of the Greatest Story Ever Told.

Sound effects is only one part of what it takes to put on the nation's largest Easter Pageant held each year in the Orange Bowl Stadium, 1500 NW 3rd St.

A cast of 150 men, women, and children of all denominations is in rehearsal, in addition to raising sets, for the Sunday event, directed by Rev. Neil Wyrick Jr., Palmetto Presbyterian Church, 6790 SW 56th St.

"Lots of faith goes into putting this on," Rev. Wyrick said softly. "The past two weeks, the Lord has really been there."

What goes into taking 30,000 people back 2,000 years? Voices, crowd scenes, acting, realistic sets, plus dedication says the youthful preacher.

"We were trying to get the sound of nails going into the cross," Rev. Wyrick said. "Nothing seemed to work. Then we hit a hunk of wood against a fake doorway and that was it."

"For the horses, we couldn't find anything, but records of them galloping," he observed, "so we used it at half speed, just like the wind, it's really a blizzard."

***

TAKE THREE different crowd records, put them together in one recording and what have you got? A mob in Jerusalem, watching the Crucifixion.

"We took a record of a crowd leaving a theater, one of some University students, and an ordinary crowd," Rev. Wyrick said. "That way, we got what we wanted."

When it comes to costumes, sometimes you make too many, or too few. We've got to have twenty-two costumes in a hurry," the preacher explained. "People in a lot of different churches are helping out. More children are in it this year than ever before."

What if a costume doesn't fit?

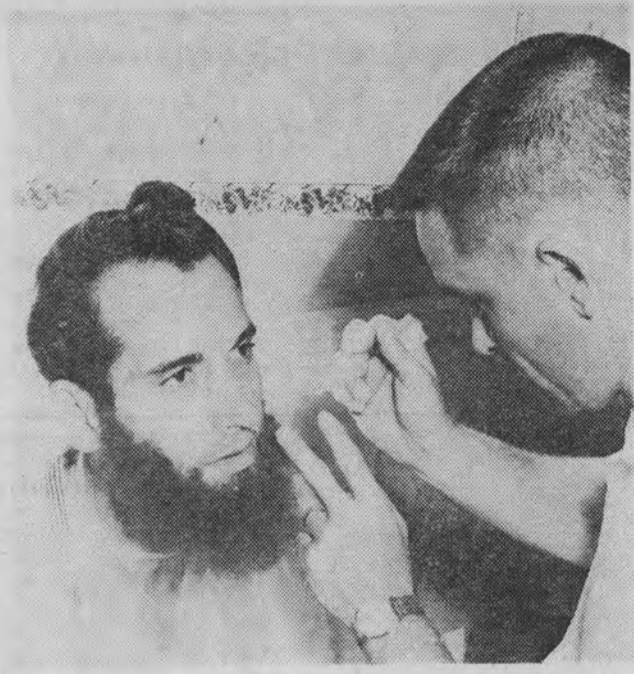

"Something has to be done quick," he said. "We've got somebody at work now making a costume smaller."

"Making the actors up is an adventure in itself," Rev. Wyrick observed. "We need more people to put the beards on the disciples. It takes a full hour to make up Matt in the role of Christ."

And there've been things that happened in the past. Seventy-five mile an hour winds whipped through the stadium the night before the 1956 pageant knocking down all the sets. "But there was little damage and we got them all back up in time."

Judas hung himself in the 1960 pageant. And somebody was supposed to take him down after it was over. They forgot, so he hung there for a full five minutes after the performance before he got somebody's attention.

"He was hanging there by straps under his arms, a special kind of pulley that is used for that kind of thing."

Architects Buy

Douglas Entrance Sale Thisfar Away

A group of Dade architects who were scheduled to exercise an option to purchase Douglas Entrance for $270,000 following a meeting with the owners Douglas Development company yesterday (Wednesday) are already laying plans for using the building.

One of the first things the new owners expect to do, said James Deen, architect who led the efforts to keep the entrance from the demolition hammers, is to establish two large exhibition rooms at an estimated cost of $30,000.

Contrary to other reports, Deen said, the building is generally in good shape. Existing apartments have been pretty well kept up.

Some restoration work will have to be done on some of the used.

Meanwhile, Food Fair, which plans to buy land adjoining the entrance for a supermarket and stamp redemption store, is scheduled for a public hearing April 19 at 7:30 p.m. before the Planning and Zoning Board.

Shakespeareans Pick New Society Heads

The newly organized Shakespeare Society formed to "encourage and promote the works of the Bard" has elected a slate of officers to hold until the Fall of this year.

They are Dr. George Jacobson, president; Harry Zuckerman, vice president; Dr. Delmar E. Solem, second vice president; Mrs. Ralph Gordon, secretary; Kurt Wellisch, treasurer; Mrs. Peter Wolf, publicity; and Peter Wolfe, head of the planning committee.

Dr. Solem, chairman of the Drama Department at the UM and one of the founders and director of the Southern Shakespeare Repertory Theater, said that members of the Society will be granted free attendance at four lectures in June (open to the public at $2.50 per lecture), and will receive ticket preference to the four Shakespeare plays which will be presented at the UM's Beaumont Hall during all of July and early August.

'Hot Prospect' For Gables Industry?

Thirty-five more northern industrial executives now know more about Coral Gables as a place to do business than they did a month ago.

The Gables' community development director, Jack Suiter, has returned from New York where he visited and talked with 35 executives.

Suiter said at least one of the companies he visited, an electronics firm, has indicated strong interests in possibly relocating in the Gables. It has about 60 employees and manufactures electronic parts.

Suiter spent three days in New York along with development directors from throughout the state. Gov. Haydon Burns put his personal plane at the group's disposal.

Move Over! Here Come The Alligators and Bees

What sort of creatures are moving into the Gables?

The Zoning Department, in recent weeks has had a couple of unusual requests.

One dealt with the keeping of reptiles. The other with honey bees.

The reptile business was put off for further study by the Planning and Zoning Board and they haven't even heard of the request to cultivate bees.

Zoning officials are still looking up the law on that one.

Registered pioneers will receive certificates of appreciation during the big May 1 birthday party at Merrick Park and will be honored during the event.

It's all part of the big city birthday festival set for April 21-May 1 to observe the city's 40th anniversary. Birthday Committee officials, headed by Bob Hildreth, wanted to salute our pioneers and founders.

Metro Dies Automatically with New County

By MAURICE LABELLE
Staff Writer

Cutting up Dade County into two or more counties or annexing part of it to another county would automatically kill Metro, the man who got Metro rolling said this week.

"In my opinion, it would knock Metro out," said attorney Robert Givens, former Miami commissioner.

How would this happen?

Any physical change in the boundaries of Dade County would create a conflict with the Constitutional Amendment which created Metro and spelled out its boundaries, Givens explains.

Givens, who is championing a new type of Metro government, says many prominent attorneys disagree with him but that a 1961 suit left that question open.

In Leta Dawson Young vs. Dade County, Givens said, his client lost her suit against Metro, but the Supreme Court left the question unanswered by merely affirming the lower court without comment.

Merely changing the name of Dade County, however, would not create a legal reason for abolishment. This had been voted down three years ago, when the Government Research Council proposed that the name of Dade be changed to Miami.

But creating two or more counties from Dade would raise the legal question:

Which one would Metropolitan Home Rule apply to?

In Givens opinion, if the State Legislature grants to Miami Beach or Hialeah or South Dade a separate county, the controversy over Metro will be a dead issue.

Crossed Wires In His Home

"I'm a victim of political retrogression," said Sen. George Hollahan Tuesday as he addressed the Coral Gables Kiwanis, struggling to avoid lispng through a new set of teeth braces.

"I can't even kiss my 11-year-old daughter because we might get our wires crossed."

Each county would operate under the same five-man elected commission found in the other 66 Florida counties today and as was the case in Dade before the Home Rule constitutional amendment went into effect in 1957.

Givens own plan for Metro envisions an entirely different concept that would entail a five-man authority, appointed by the governor that would deal only with county-wide functions financed entirely from revenues.

These would include water, sewers, incineration, airport, seaport and expressways.

The traditional county government would handle the state and county courts, the county roads, bridges and administration of state law, etc.

The School Board would remain intact, levying its own taxes as it goes now.

And the municipalities would be left to operate under their charters.

In Death, John Hanger Lives In Souls He Brought to God

By SYLVIA SPRINGER
Religion Writer

Because of him, a young man who once sat at the piano in Florida nightclubs today stands in the pulpit for God.

Robert Soka was only one of many who felt the warm, gentle touch of Rev. John Howard Hanger, a man who never thought of himself.

He lived for others.
Now he's dead

Death came quietly, Sunday morning at 2 a.m., in the hospital at Emory University in Atlanta, where the 57-year-old Rev. Hanger was convalescing from a tracheotomy.

But the dynamic minister who led the First Methodist Church of Coral Gables, Coral Way at Hernando, for the past four years, will never leave the hearts of the people who knew him.

Like Rev. Soka, minister of Education under Dr. Hanger.

"I WAS PLAYING the piano and the Hammond organ in nightclubs up and down the Florida strip," the youthful preacher recalled. "It was back in 1952. He was pastor of Temple Methodist Church in Fort Lauderdale."

"It was hearing him preach that first interested me," Rev. Soka recalled. "Then I got into his wife's Sunday School class. We became friends and I started thinking."

Then there was a transfer. And Dr. Hanger went to Jacksonville.

"I sent him this prayer poem I wrote," the young minister said, "and I got back this urgent request to come up and see him."

"We talked and prayed," he related, "and we decided I would try to become a minister."

A PREACHER'S license, what every aspiring Methodist Minister must have. "He started proceedings to help me get mine," Rev. Soka remembered. "Then he helped me get into his seminary, Garrett Theological Seminary."

But Rev. Hanger's compassion and concern never ceases. Its always there. His Jacksonville church supported several seminarians, of which Rev. Soka was one.

After seminary, came a pastorate for Rev. Soka, in Oviedo, Fla., which he held until February of last year.

"He wanted me to come down here as his education minister," the preacher said. "We both prayed about it for at least six months, but here I am."

"I'm just one he helped," the minister stated. "For years, he'd spend every summer in Leesburg preaching to the young people at summer camp. A lot of them went into the ministry as a direct result."

"He was subtle about it," Rev. Soka said. "But you always knew you had his heart and hand."

HIS LOVE stretched clear around the world. Under Dr. Hanger's leadership, First Methodist became the top Methodist church in the United States for supporting missions.

He organized the "dollar for dollar system," the operating budget was the same as what went out to the missions.

He leaves a church teeming with 4,250 members. And there was expansion, plans for two classroom buildings are underway.

Poetry was close to his heart. The graying minister, with a deep resonant voice write a verse a day. Often, he compiled them into little booklets for the congregation.

His home at 2901 Granada Blvd., was a home with an open door. Visitors would always find happiness and contentment, from Mrs. Genevieve Hanger, who seemed to echo her husband.

There's a daughter, Genie, head cheerleader at Coral Gables High School. She graduates this year. Two older daughters are married to Methodist ministers. And John Howard Jr., will graduate from Emory University this year, entering the ministry in the fall.

"He never said to me, 'You should be a minister,'" Rev. Soka said.

"He just showed me his job. And I saw him."

He Hangs Up Hat

Another Oldtime Gables Policeman Exits

By RAYMOND LANG
Staff Writer

A time-tarnished gold whistle and a pair of sidewalk-worn, polished black shoes . . . they're not at the Gables Police station anymore.

Sergeant Franklin 'Skeet' Brooks retired last week.

On the day he celebrated his 65th birthday, this balding grandfather of seven, who lives at 4545 Riviera Dr., pushed past the station's swinging doors on Aragon Avenue — as he'd done for 23 years — for the last time.

"Old Man Mountain gettin' through, Hmmm?" joshed Officer W. E. Preston as he hustled into Sgt. Brook's tiny office to shake his hand.

"Yeah," came back a soft reply, "I'm gettin' there."

"Happy birthday, sergeant," chimed another policeman.

Sgt. Brooks leaned back in his swivel chair. A faded gold police whistle hung to his shirt from a chain. Two ball point pens poked out neatly from his shirt pocket. Over his heart was an oval gold shield.

It was a day in January, 1942, when the 42-year-old Brooks had to find a job. He'd been a car salesman with a Gables firm, but Uncle Sam confiscated the vehicles at the war's outbreak.

And so the one-time special police officer and manager of an industrial bank in Gary, Indiana found himself staring across a desk at Louis C. Reeve, then the Gables police chief.

Sgt. Brooks swirled in his swivel chair and recalled that conversation. "He said to me," Brooks reminisced "You got some dark pants? White shirt? Black shoes and a dark tie?"

Sgt. Brooks nodded that he had.

"Then he handed me a shield and a gun and said 'Be here at seven in the morning.'

"And that," the burly Brooks said, "started me on my way."

Along that way, Sgt. Brooks has stumbled across two skeletons . . . shot at fleeing criminals . . . pounded a beat . . . banged down a door to get a little girl who had locked herself in . . . and outlived three municipal judges in whose court he clerked.

"I started pounding the bricks like everybody else," the Atlanta-born policeman reminisced. "And then I was put on the desk to relieve Johnny Rosasco, who was then desk sergeant." (Rosasco went on to become manager of Venetian Pool.)

The hardest part of saving is the start. Maybe this offer of up to about two-thirds of a month's free dividends at Coral Gables Federal will ignite you to start saving NOW instantly instead of some sweet faraway day.

The sum you save may be small — as little as $10. (Or it may be thousands of dollars, for all we care.) (We like little savers because we've seen so many of them grow big.)

This "free-from-the-first" offer applies also to additions to old accounts: All savings placed on or before the 20th of the month earn dividends from the 1st.

These free dividends will earn Coral Gables Federal's current good rate of 4 1/4% paid or compounded four times a year. If you allow your dividends to accumulate every quarter, this really means a rate of 4.31% per year.

K-9 Wastes No Time; Helps Nab Prowler

Coral Gables' K-9 police dog unit successfully swung into action against a prowler this week — only 12 hours after they officially were commissioned and assigned by the city.

A Gables woman who lives on the 1400 block of Algard Avenue reported to the police there was a Peeping Tom looking in her bathroom window.

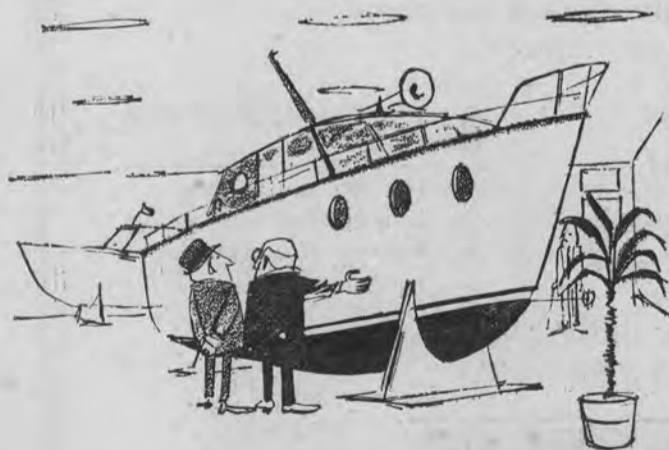

Officer Henry Arnaud arrived first and apprehended a man in stocking feet walking across the front lawn. He had left his shoes under the bathroom window.

It was K-9 officer Lamar Gilbert, and his German Shepherd, Rocky, who was the back-up man.

Charged with disorderly conduct was Eduardo Tejada, 21, of 1614 Merrick Dr.

YOU CAN'T BLAME Jerry Dressel for putting on the dog Tuesday. Not only was he elected Gables' mayor, but our City's new K-9 corps began patrolling that night. Here, clutching a diploma, Dressel shakes hands with one of the three German Shepherds who had just 'graduated' in a brief ceremony at City Hall.

She Accuses Metro Ambulance Claim 'Cheating'

Metro is cheating when it claims that there are 30 ambulances available for emergencies, Lula McLendon, long-time resident and one of the movers behind Jackson Memorial Hospital said this week in predicting dire consequences unless the number is increased. Miss McLendon challenged Acting County Manager Hoke Welch' report that the county is sufficiently covered.

The Metro Commission, acting on Welch' recommendation, turned down a proposal by South Florida Ambulance Service Inc. to operate four ambulances from its Coral Gables headquarters.

Miss McLendon claims that Randle-Eastern Ambulance Service the firm that has the contract with Metro to handle emergencies, has only 16 ambulances in operation and that the balance is made up from a group of private funeral directors.

The fiery civic leader said that the Commission ignored testimony by the new ambulance firm that service in Dade County is inadequate. They reported that 49 ambulances would be necessary for adequate coverage.

She claimed to have recorded the time for an ambulance to arrive at the scene of an accident on Miracle Mile at 25 minutes.

The victim died later at Doctors' Hospital.

"It makes me cringe when I realize that there are four funeral homes that could (any one of them) have got to that accident in five minutes or less," said Miss McLendon.

"Back in 1935," said Miss McLendon, "as a member of the Red Cross Board, I was dispatched to Homestead to set up a first aid station and get ready for the ambulances that were bringing the wounded into Homestead from the keys after that hurricane.

"We had 26 ambulances in Dade County at that time and everyone was working just as fast as they could to make that hard trip back and forth and even then some more lives could have been saved with more ambulances," she said.

A similar catastrophe today, she pointed out, would be disastrous.

How Jewish Families Will Observe Passover

Wine, bitter herbs, and ancient words will highlight Passover observances in area synagogues this week.

Sunday Friday evening will usher in the ancient holiday which commemorates the Angel of Death's slaying the first-born of Egypt and passing over Jewish homes, covered with the blood of a lamb.

Lasting for eight days, through April 24, it is also a time of remembering the Jews' wanderings after they left Egypt until they found the Promised Land.

Seders, special dinners, will be observed in several temples, and each Jewish home is encouraged to have one. Parsley, lamb shank, lettuce, an egg, Charoseth, and bitter herbs adorn the Passover plate, each with a symbolic meaning.

Charoseth, a sweet mixture, represents the mortar the Jews used to make bricks, when they were slaves, but the sweetness of God did not fail.

The head of the family, or if it is a Congregational Seder, the Rabbi rises and begins reading from the Haggadah. And the ancient story unfolds.

Here's a list of Passover celebrations in Coral Gables and South Dade Temples.

Temple Beth Am, 5950 N. Kendall Dr. Friday evening at 6, an abbreviated service. Saturday morning at 10, service with Congregational Seder at 7 p.m. Friday, April 23, two Yiskor Memorial Services, at 8:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. The regular Passover service

'Reassurance'

Friendly Voice Aids Oldsters Daily Lives

Senior citizens and invalids who live alone in South Miami can breathe a sigh of relief, knowing that the city is concerned about their health.

That's because South Miami is the only municipality in Dade County with a full-time "Reassurance Service."

Participants in this two-year-old program merely call MO 7-5691 and ask for "Reassurance Service." They're assigned a code number and a call-in period each day.

If the participant fails to report, the city calls him. If there's no answer, the Fire Department's Rescue Squad checks the person's house to see if he needs any assistance.

"Sometimes elderly people slip and fall in the bath tub," City Manager Richard Barton said. "This program could save their lives."

No Savings in Penal Code; Phillips Vows More Fight

The Dade County League of Municipalities has promised a continued fight against Metro's Amended Penal Code asserting that the main objection — the Code will cost taxpayers money — has still not been met.

W. Keith Phillips Jr. league president, condemned the Code saying that "Metro has still not proved that it is an economy measure."

He said Metro's Budget Director Dennis Carter had recently confirmed that the cities will lose $125,000 under the Penal Code instead of gaining $65,000 as claimed by the Code's supporters.

"In addition," the League president said, "the unincorporated areas would pay a minimum of $35,000 more. Our state attorney has advised that costs must go up to provide two additional Metro judges and six to eight prosecutors to handle the cases under the Penal Code — an additional cost of between $100,000 to $200,000 a year.

"Also, the City of Miami advises they have lost $2 million since their transfer of traffic courts to Metro in 1959, and my own city of Coral Gables has seen a reduction in traffic court revenue from $190,743 in 1959-60 to $87,868 last year. Under Metro's new ordinance reducing the cities' income from fines and forfeitures to 50 per cent our anticipated revenue will be only $62,629.

"Someone has to make up this difference and it is the taxpayers," Phillips charged.

He added that Metro's advisers even went so far as to recommend the elimination of the Metro's District Courts to bring about a "false economy value" of the Penal Code. "This would mean persons would be forced to drive to downtown Miami to be tried for offenses and prisoners would have to be transported to the Justice Building for trial," Phillips added.

The controversial Penal Code was recently amended by the Metro Commission by eliminating the autonomy clause and postponing its effective date until Oct. 1.

"Notwithstanding the failure of the County Commission to show economy in a takeover of our courts, there is no acute need for the ordinance — no hue or cry of injustice by citizenry. On the contrary, the vast majority of the people from the unincorporated areas and the cities oppose the ordinance."

Easter Shopping Spree With

Happy Easter shopping to you all...

Did you know that at The Card Shop at 322 Miracle Mile, you can order ANYTHING monogrammed, such as Cocktail Napkins, Informals, Stationery, Birth Announcements, Party Matches, all kinds of things WHILE YOU WAIT. This is the best news since 'sliced bread.' In gold, too and I must say that the quality is perfect. This darling shop has a completely marvelous collection of Keane postcards in full color in superb selection. And for the kids The Card Shop has some adorable fold-out cards of either a four room doll house, a complete Space Station or a Barnyard. Best thing I've seen for a child's gift and only a dollar. Stop by The Card Shop for all your Easter cards, too.

I just know that at the last minute in your Easter Shopping you will need plenty of little boys' white dress shirts, ties, socks and fluffy petticoats for the little colleens, spanking white gloves, of course, and the place you'll head for will be the Children's Corner at 1401 Sunset Road next to Coco Plum W.C., as this darling shop has oodles of just everything for the kids right up to size fourteen. The real scoop is that Children's Corner has those wonderful boys' slacks of Dacron and Cotton in good colors and they need NO IRONING. For a precious Easter gift you will love the sweet little book "Le Hibou et le Poussquette," which has accompanying stuffed Hibous and Poussequettes, so colorful and beguiling for a child's reading and cuddling. It's Easter all the way, at The Children's Corner.

No mention of luscious things to eat, cooked by men, would be complete without a favorite from Gourmet Dr. Louis Skinner. His variant on Eggs Benedict is superb. Go to Publix Market, your favorite one, and buy nice fresh eggs, some fine Ham, Cheese for sauce, fresh tomatoes and some English Muffins. This would be ideal for your Easter Morning

Champagne Breakfast. Gently and lightly toast the English Muffins, ditto with poaching the eggs (just a minute) whip up some jiffy cheese sauce and heat the oven. On each Muffin, place paper thin slices of ham OR Canadian Bacon, a big juicy slice of Tomato next, then the lightly poached egg, smother with the creamy cheese sauce and pop into the oven to 'goldenize.' Chill the Champagne and serve these lovely Oeufs au Fromage Tout de Suite!!

And speaking of food, plan on taking Easter Day off as 'after Church' most of the Restaurants will be open for early Easter Dining. The Beefster will open its handsome doors at Noon and will serve all day and evening. Famous for beef of course, the Prime Ribs a la Britaine being a specialty of the house, but this fine day there will be some delicious Baked Virginia Ham for the 'trads' (traditionals as opposed to 'mods') and some succulent Roast Duckling.

Bring the whole family as the children's portions will be just One Dollar and a Half. Easy to get into the Beefster Restaurant now as you can enter on Douglas Road instead of Eighth Street. Look forward to a wonderful "EASTER AT THE BEEF-STER." The Beefster is located at 3651 S.W. 8th St. Phone 444-5769 for reservations, at your favorite 'meeting' place.

Incidentally the Dade County Public School Fashion Show Luncheon will be held at The Beefster this Thursday. Should be quite a bash. The Sportsman's Fashion Show in the Evening at The Beefster will be put on by The Red Shutter featuring outdoor and indoor sports.

At the Chateau Bleu Beauty Salon located in the new Chateau Bleu Hotel, 1107 Ponce, tonite you can have your hair done by appointment. Thelma Lattanzi, owner of this lovely shop, is busy whipping up some beautiful new Easter stylings to go with all the latest styles in clothes. Thelma is an expert with coloring and she can correct some of those 'mistakes' we sometimes inherit. I saw that terribly chic hairstyling Don Carleton of the Chateau Bleu did for model Sharon Lee, most becoming for her. We are all remembering Alex Godard in our prayers. He passed away last week. We love his Pineapple Shop. Our deepest sympathies to his friends and family.

El Bolero Restaurant will swing as usual on Easter Sunday evening with talented Joe McCarthy at the piano playing and singing all your favorite Easter Parade songs. The Prime Ribs of Beef will be extra delicious, Jack says and don't forget that El Bolero has the most delicious Home Fries you ever tasted. The Filet Mignon comes in three bear sizes for those who don't have 'doggies' at home. El Bolero for luncheon too, these days, and be sure to try their Florida Stone Crabs. Call HI 3-4203 for reservations.

For an Easter a la Francaise, Cafe Pierre at 3101 Ponce de Leon, will open at 1:30 on Easter Sunday afternoon. There will be delicious COMPLETE dinners at very special prices, from $2.50 to $2.95. For something extra special, be sure to try the Cutlette de Porc, Flamande. Positively superb. For the Gourmets there will also be Fresh Spring Leg of Lamb with wonderful French Vegetables. Children's dinners will be Half price. Call Pierre at 444-2041 for your Easter Dinner Reservations.

This Mom's a Designing Woman

Mrs. Philip Ludovici didn't know it, but when she lent a bathinette to her sister-in-law, she launched a career as a "designing woman."

"My sister-in-law had just given birth to twins," she explained. "I knew she needed the bathinette."

"But my baby, Joe, was under a year old, and this left me without any place to dress and change him."

So Mrs. Ludovici began designing. Came the weekend, she put her husband to work. "Help me build a shelf on the side of the crib," she asked. "Something that's collapsible, but sturdy enough to hold a baby."

Her husband, attorney Philip Ludovici, obliged. They built a shelf, padded it with vinyl, and attached it to the crib with a brace and chain. This process required drilling holes in the crib.

But Barbara Ludovici wasn't through designing. Next weekend, she told her husband she had modified her idea. "What we need is something detachable, like a car seat, that fits over the edge of the crib. If it had two shelves, we could stack diapers on the bottom."

"And a little pocket attached to the top shelf would be handy for pins and ointment and powder."

Edward Ludovici and Friend ... watch Mama diaper Joe on the Dressanett

The result of Barbara Ludovici's designing, and Philip Ludovici's patience is a product called "Dressanett." It was displayed at the Home Show, and is currently available at Barron's Toys and Togs, in Sunniland Shopping Center, and Children's World, in Kendall and in Hialeah.

The portable dressing table is made from vinyl-covered Curon foam, which is both non-allergic and non-toxic. The aluminum tubing is protected by a plastic composition, and the safety strap has several graduated snaps to permit a secure fit.

Mrs. Ludovici, a registered nurse and the mother of two boys, worked with an engineer to design the product.

"It has all the structural support of the crib itself," she said. She climbed up on the top shelf to demonstrate.

An office has been set up at 9871 E. Fern to organize the marketing and promotion of Dressanett. Mrs. Ludovici has done much of the detail work herself, but credits her husband with being the "backbone" of the project.

"Without his knowledge of business techniques, we wouldn't have been able to manufacture this at all," says the diminutive housewife.

"All I contributed was the idea, and that developed out of a desire to be lazy."

They'll Parade At Miami-Dade

The Fashion Design department of Miami-Dade Junior College is planning a show titled "Fashions Foretold."

It will be presented Thursday, April 15, at 4 p.m., at the Fashion Design Center, room 1326, at the College.

AJC to Premier Film; Reserve Chapter Elects

Mrs. Eleanore Rosenstein, ticket chairman of the Miami-Coral Gables chapter, Women's Division, American Jewish Congress, announces that an exclusive premiere of Israel's first full length feature film "They Were Ten" will take place 7:30 p.m. April 20, 21, at the Mayfair Theatre. The film has English subtitles.

Prior to the film showing there will be a special exhibition of paintings from the collections of Leonard Rosen, chairman of the board of Gulf American Land Corporation and Jack D. Gordon, president of the Washington Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The Coral Gables Chapter of Reserve Officers wives had its annual installation of officers ceremony following a luncheon at the Summit Restaurant. Installed were: Mrs. Dan Smalle, president; Mrs. A. R. Hagemeyer and Volkswagen, incognito.

You'd have to be some kind of a car sleuth to know that concealed underneath the Karmann Ghia's beautiful exterior is the heart of a VW.

The Ghia's chassis and the 4-speed synchromesh transmission are the same as the regular VW's.

Behind every Ghia is one of VW's won't-boil-over-or-freeze-up engines.

You also get VW's big 15-inch wheels; the very ones that help VW bugs rack up 40,000 and more miles on a set of tires.

The Ghia's torsion bar suspension is all Volkswagen, too. Not to mention the traction and gas-and-oil economy and low insurance and parts and service, etc.

What aren't typically Volkswagen are the Ghia's sleek lines, the handwrought body, the noble Roman nose.

If you're one of those people who admire everything about the VW except the way it looks, why not consider driving around in a beautiful disguise?

Jacques Wolfe: He Tinkers with the Infinite

By BETSY POLLER
Woman's Editor

Jacques Wolfe has had 23 one-man showings of his photographic work, including the one that runs through April 17, at Sindelir Gallery, 90 Almeria, Coral Gables. He is also the composer of songs classics, such as "Shortnin' Bread" and "De Glory Road." His achievements in both fields have brought him quantities of critical praise.

But Jacques Wolfe is not simply a successful artist; he is essentially a man who tinkers with the infinite, a man whose mind leaps to the unbounded.

Shy and modest, he is nevertheless impatient with restricted techniques, what he calls the "cliches" of artistic standards. Both his music and his photography testify to his restless search for new methods.

As a young soldier stationed at Greenville, S.C., during World War I, he'd take long Sunday afternoon walks through the country. "I heard exciting music coming out of those little Negro clapboard churches," he said. "Later, I discovered some song poems which fit in with my idea of using the spiritual idiom in the form of concert song."

Jacques Wolfe
... restless mind

After the war, Wolfe returned to New York, where he taught high school music by day, and worked on his compositions at night. He created "De Glory Road," "Gwine to Hebbin," the operetta "The Trysting Tree," and collaborated with Roark Bradford on "John Henry," a folk opera, which was produced on Broadway.

"I was fortunate that some of the greatest voices of the day — Lawrence Tibbett and John Charles Thomas — wanted to sing my music," he said.

Wolfe taught high school for 25 years in Brooklyn; his wife, Rose, taught first grade.

"As I neared my 50th birthday, it started getting to me. The kids were fine, but all they demanded from the music was the right to blow loud. I decided not to spend another ten years waiting for my pension."

So he and his wife quit their jobs, sold their furniture, packed the car and headed south.

One of the items that made the trip south with the Wolfes was Jacques' $7.50 Kodak box camera.

After watching other camera addicts fiddling with the details of their equipment, Wolfe decided that the first thing he had to learn was how to take a picture; technical experience could come later.

Wolfe's searching mind has produced some startling innovations in camera technique. In portrait work, he will sometimes curl the photographic paper to achieve an effect of greater intensity around the subject's dominant feature — the eyes, or the hands, or even the posture of a standing figure.

His color photography shimmers with ingenuity. His time exposures, double and multiple exposures, many of brightly colored lights against a night background, are as impressive and exciting as their counterparts in abstract art. Wolfe also works with open shutter techniques and has produced a body of nonrepresentational work that he calls "black canvas" studies.

His portraits of Carolina mountain people stand in contrast to his abstract work. These are simple people photographed against stark backgrounds, yet viewed through Wolfe's shutter, they glow with the beauty of reality and the scars of their endurance.

Wolfe and his wife live in South Miami, in a home that reflects their enjoyment of all things beautiful: the walls are dominated by massive, abstract canvasses, the porch is open to the sunlight and the view of their flower garden.

Although Wolfe divides his time between composing (his son, Paul, conductor of the Florida West Coast Symphony, recently introduced his father's latest work, "Psalm 67") and his backyard darkroom, he won't consider a career as a commercial portrait photographer.

"People who are scrupulously honest about everything else expect you to produce a portrait that makes them young and beautiful," he said. "Yet my object in camera work is to reveal, not to conceal."

Similarly, he hasn't considered publishing a book of photographs. "I'm not much of a salesman for myself. I derive sufficient enjoyment from my creative work and gesturing toward his garden, "from the beauty surrounding me."

'Mommy,' Her Kids Said 'You've Got to Change!'

By RAYMOND LANG
Staff Writer

If Virginia Chapman had listened to her five children Tuesday night, she might never have made it in time to City Hall — to plant a kiss on her husband's cheek.

That was when her husband, insurance man Bill Chapman, nailed down a City Commission seat in a surprise win.

"My kids kept pulling me in the door," said Mrs. Chapman, of 719 Malaga Ave., "and telling me, 'Mommy, Mommy, you've got to change.'"

"You know, I felt that Bill would win," she grinned, "but I never stopped to think how I would look when I got down here."

She looked fine Tuesday night in the Commission chambers as she chatted quietly while her husband shook the hands of well-wishers.

The Chapmans, who met at a dance in 1944, in Teaneck, N.J., have five children. They're Barbara, 16; Bill, 15; Virginia, 12; Richard, eight; and Beverly, three.

Get a License

If you run a commercial parking lot you must obtain a license.

That was the decision of the City Commission Tuesday in connection with the 401 Building, across the street from the City Hall.

The owner operates a 13-car lot in the rear of the building which is run by an attendant who charges fees.

"I didn't want him to run," admitted Mrs. Chapman, wearing little make-up and dressed in a neat, beige outfit.

"But I knew he had to get it out of his system and so," she sighed, "when I saw I couldn't make him give it up, I worked as hard as I could — night and day."

And that included toiling away last April 9 — their 17th wedding anniversary.

"If someone had told me that on my wedding anniversary I'd be walking side-walks and ringing doorbells..." she said, never completing the sentence.

"But," she smiled happily, "Tuesday is my lucky day and 13 my lucky number."

Duke Was a Leopard And So Is 'Madge'

By BETSY POLLER
Woman's Editor

Damon Runyon often used the phrase "more than somewhat." I was pregnant "more than somewhat" when I waddled into the drugstore to see if I could find a book to take my mind off my miseries, both current and impending. I selected "The Leopard," but when I got home I realized it was long, and full of interchangeable names. In a decidedly bovine mood, I filed the book under the short leg of the table and forgot it.

Several months later, the movie started playing on the Beach, and I went to see it. A moody, vague film, it looked as if it had been shot through an earth-colored lens. It was full of a sense of imminent tragedy which never materialized, and all I remember was the Duke's final speech.

Looking for all the world like Burt Lancaster in a pair of false sideburns, he mused that he was a leopard, but after he was gone, the jackals and the goats would replace him.

He was referring, of course, to the passing of the aristocracy and the coming of age of the middle class, but his speech has certain modern applications.

I know some leopards, too, people of incomparable grace; strangely, perhaps, none of them are any younger than the aging Italian Duke.

Margaret Loughlin is such a person. Her face is broad and jowly, her hair is white, and even when she braids it, stubborn. Her eyebrows are one magnificent, shaggy line. The effect is of a woman uncoiffed, unplucked, unpowdered.

She learned how to walk properly when she was in Nurses' Training, going to school for eight hours and working in the Brooklyn tenements for another eight. You can almost hear the drums when she strides up the street, carrying a bag of groceries and a bulging pocketbook.

Even her youngest grandchildren call her "Madge," but they do so with awe as well as familiarity, sensing that she is a mixture of no-nonsense values and delightful irreverence. Widowed when the oldest of her four children was not yet in grade school, she kept the family together through the depression and eventually managed to send all four to college, and two to graduate school.

She confessed once that she learned two tricks of great practical value.

"At the end of the day, I'd take the brood out to the yard for a game of tag. I'd run faster and faster, then disappear into the house to fix supper. Half an hour later, they'd troop in exhausted to eat, bathe, and go to sleep."

Her other secret was a matter of aptitude testing. "Joe was no good at washing windows because he'd sit on the ledge reading old newspapers for hours." Joe, clearly not cut out to be a window-washer, is now director of news at WCBS-TV.

In her At Home attire, a red silk Japanese kimono and a pair of rubber thong sandals, she looks like an unholy combination of Mary Worth and Sadie Thompson.

But don't let that fool you. More than somewhat, she's a leopard.

Oil Painting April Gift

An oil painting by Theo Tobiasse, one of the best known of the younger European artists, has been selected as the April 'art gift of the month' at the Joe and Emily Lowe Art Gallery of the University of Miami.

A gift of a Philadelphia patron of the Lowe Gallery, the painting is called "Maternite a la Chaise Bleue" (Motherhood with a Blue Chair).

"It is carried out in a text-style of abstraction," said Dr. August L. Freundlich, director of the Gallery and chairman of the University's art department.

The painting by Tobiasse will be on display in the foyer of the Gallery throughout the month of April, he added.

Miss Berwald, Paul Boggs Married in South Miami

MRS. BOGGS

Miss Darlene M. Berwald and Paul Stanton Boggs were married in a double ring ceremony at South Miami Lutheran Church, April 9, at 7:30 p.m.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin E. Berwald, 7360 S.W. 56th St., and the groom's parents are Mrs. Gladys Boggs, 560 E. 40th St., Hialeah, and Mr. Bert Boggs, 1426 N.W. 28th St., Miami.

Miss Barbara Batchelor served as matron of honor; James Isham was best man. Ushers were Stanely Batchelor and Tomas Redman.

After a tour of Florida, the couple will live in Hialeah.

The bride's gown was lace and crystal-pleated tulle. Alternate tiers of lace and tulle formed the chapel train. Her bouquet was a single orchid surrounded by carnations and ivy.

FRANK & EVELYN'S RESTAURANT

"Pleasurable Dining"

It has been rightly stated that the really successful person is the one who is paid for doing the things he likes to do, and two such persons are Frank and Evelyn Koutas of the Frank & Evelyn's Restaurant, located at 2728 Ponce de Leon Blvd., phone 444-8801.

A couple who derive much enjoyment out of meeting people and serving the public, Frank and Evelyn are well-known and have many friends throughout this section. Because they place due emphasis on customers' pleasure and enjoyment many regard this Restaurant as their favorite eating place.

Known for its friendly, congenial atmosphere, more and more people make it a point to stop in often at Frank & Evelyn's to enjoy their noon luncheon and/or their complete evening dinner, and to meet friends amid pleasant, relaxful surroundings. All foods, bread, rolls and baked goods are prepared in their famous kitchen, and a private room is available for parties by appointment.

This establishment, built with careful planning and hard work, is successful largely because of the Koutas' careful attention to detail. We are fortunate indeed to have Frank and Evelyn and their Restaurant in a position of service to the South Dade area.

FLORIDEAN REST HOME

"Where Patients Are Guests"

With the standard of living constantly raised, with life expectancy increasing well beyond retirement age, and with the congestion of city life, the private hospital or convalescent home is playing a major role in caring for the aged, the sick and the invalid.

Many people who have been identified with the medical or nursing professions have recognized this fact and have established homes that provide all the necessary facilities and comforts at a cost that is well within the average family's budget.

Among the better places of Greater Miami and Dade County is the Floridean Rest Home, at 47 NW 32 Pl. Established in 1944 and specializing in care of the elderly and chronically ill, Floridean Rest Home is an accredited Nursing Home. There, under the direction of Julia and Jack Rice, owners-administrators, the guests and patients are contented and well cared for and live in an atmosphere that is clean, sanitary and healthful. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rice are past presidents of the State Nursing Home Association as well as past presidents of the District Nursing Home Ass'n.

Floridean Rest Home is very well equipped to handle its patients. It has every facility and resource to give special attention to diets and/or medication. The staff and personnel recognize the responsibility placed upon them and they give 24-hour nursing care as well as having a physician available. Floridean Rest Home is accredited by the National Council for the accreditation of Nursing Homes. So if you are seeking a place of love and care for your loved ones, call HI 4-7187 and Mr. or Mrs. Rice will be most pleased to assist you.

'Yearning'

She Hung Herself For Joy

By RAYMOND LANG
Staff Writer

Belle Dawson always wanted to hang around an art gallery.

She got her wish.

This pretty, diminutive mother with blue eyes and blonde hair tumbling down to her waist loves to paint.

But she wanted to hang some of her work in a gallery.

And today, several of her paintings grace a wall at the Granville Galleries, following her 'Burning Yearning' letter to satisfy her suppressed desire.

"I've had several exhibits in California, but not here, and that was 10 years ago," said Mrs. Dawson, who lives at 7620 SW 99th Ct., with her four-year-old son, Brad.

The paintings Dr. Granville Fisher selected for his gallery on Ponce de Leon Blvd., are all of Mrs. Dawson's favorite subject — Oriental faces — and they flash across the canvas in brilliant colors.

Mrs. Dawson worked six years ago in Osan, Korea, as an arts and crafts director with the U.S. Air Force. It was there she picked up an immense interest in the Orient.

"I like the challenge of painting," Mrs. Dawson said, "the challenge of taking a two-dimensional subject and creating the impression of a three-dimensional object.

"Sometimes," she continued, "I might see something and if I have a camera with me, I'll take a picture and paint from the picture."

ACE PRESENTS FLYMO

A Product of the future is available now at Ace Lawn Mowers, 2232 Southwest 32nd Avenue. The mower that actually floats on air is the new, revolutionary, FLYMO by TORO.

FLYMO is a tried and proved product that makes use of an engineering principle called "ground effect." Use of this modern principle in a power mower provides you with benefits never before available. FLYMO is a totally new concept in lawn maintenance. It utilizes many of the good features of ordinary rotary mowers and contributes a number of new ones.

FLYMO has a variety of uses and because of its unique features, it fills a number of different mowing requirements. FLYMO is ideal for small restricted areas. Lawns currently cut by "hand mowers" can now be maintained with power. Flymo offers low cost, exceptional maneuverability and ease of handling. For storage, you can hang it on a wall - it weighs only 30 pounds.

FLYMO is also an excellent trimmer under low hanging trees, shrubs and bushes. Ground hugging design prevents damage to overhanging foliage.

This unique mower offers many advantages over ordinary mowers for average lawns. It's an excellent trimmer under low hanging trees, shrubs and bushes. Its floatation and light weight make it easy to handle and it doesn't scalp the lawn. It is an outstanding performer on slopes and terraces.

For very large lawns, such as those maintained by a riding mower, Flymo can be very useful for trimming under shrubs, around flower beds and those areas where larger mowers are difficult to maneuver. With the addition of a FLYMO, large lawns can have total lawn maintenance.

A major breakthrough in power mower design the Flymo sails across lawns just 1/4-inch above the ground. Unlike conventional rotary mowers, Flymo has no discharge chute. Debris and grass clipping drop safely to the ground beneath the mower. You can move it in any direction. It handles as well on hills and terraces as it does on flat lawns.

With its ground-hugging design, it even trims under low-hanging trees, shrubs and bushes. Height of cut is easily adjusted from 1/2 inch to 1 inch to 1 1/2 inch. Powered by a 2-cycle 2 1/2 hp engine. Flymo is easy to handle and start... for women as well as men.

Note how the housing of the FLYMO is lower than objects such as this ball. FLYMO "nudges" objects away from the housing rather than go over them.

The Flymo housing is totally enclosed (no chute) so that debris or any foreign objects that may be picked up are deflected downward into the turf. The housing is lower than most objects and "nudges" objects away from the housing rather than going over them.

The revolutionary Flymo rides on a cushion of air, just like the famous military hovercraft. A highly ingenious impeller just above the blade, and attached directly to the engine crankshaft, creates an increase in pressure. The resultant pressure differential between the underside and top side of the mower housing provides lift, that allows this mower to float.

Gary Hill, owner of Ace, believes more women than men cut the grass. For this reason he believes the Flymo will be a whole of a seller. It does not disturb Florida sand and soil any more than the ordinary rotary mower. Weighing in at 30 pounds, the Flymo is light and easy to handle by men and women. It can be hung on the wall like a vacuum cleaner, and according to Toro is one of the safest rotary mowers on the market. Priced at $74.95, it can be purchased from ACE LAWN MOWERS, 2232 Southwest 32nd Avenue.

The FLYMO is very portable (weighs only 30 pounds) and can be carried easily or hung up on a garage wall where it's out of the way.

Prior to opening Ace, Mr. Hill was a carpenter. A close friend opened a lawn mower shop and hired Mr. Hill to do some carpentry work. A natural interest in things mechanical, dating back to when he was a boy, prompted him to join the friend in the business venture. From there success naturally lead to opening his own shop.

The FLYMO housing is totally enclosed (no chute) so that debris or any foreign objects that may be picked up are deflected downward into the turf.

For a free demonstration of the New Flymo by Toro stop in soon. And for all your lawn needs remember Ace has a complete line of supplies and accessories.

As summer arrives and your lawn requires more care you can relax in the knowledge that all the supplies you'll require are obtainable at Ace.

Crazy Foam's Too Good To Be Just for the Kids

By BETSY POLLER
Woman's Editor

Milk is not the only product that's too good to be just for the young; Crazy Foam, that semi-soap, quasi-disaster that comes in aerosol bottles, is another.

I don't know why manufacturers assume that anything that's a fun product automatically must be slanted toward the kiddie market.

All my kids can do with Crazy Foam is make mustaches out of it, and elephants, and pythons and snowballs. Occasionally they smear it on the windows, but they actually sense very little of the delightful potential of this product.

I wish they'd go back to their V-room motors and slot racers, and let me indulge the Crazy Foam to its fullest potential.

A friend stopped by the other night to show us his new sports car: it had, he admitted rakishly, "four on the floor." When we stepped outside to view this object of pride, I concealed a glob of foam in my hand, and while he was showing my husband the carburetor, I coated the gear shift knob with the

I thought he'd call us after he got home to tell us how much he enjoyed the joke, but we never heard from him again. Well, he doesn't have much of a sense of humor anyway.

My Aunt had dinner with us yesterday. A fine woman, she exhibits a weakness for rich foods. So I prepared a whipped cream pie, but managed to top her slice with Crazy Foam rather than cream. She ate it, but eschewed the topping, which she complained was "a little sour." When I asked her to come back soon, she mumbled something about a "terribly busy schedule."

Crazy Foam placed on the doorknob shortly before guests depart adds a festive closing note to a congenial evening, and if ever I should stand in a reception line, I'll have to palm a blob of the stuff.

It's really wonderfully versatile, especially if you have friends and relatives to spare.
