

Poll Majority Flunks Metro's Performance

By MAURICE LABELLE
Guide Managing Editor

Less than half the people of Dade County — 47.4 per cent — believe Metro is doing a good job, but they don't want to abolish Metro or split up the county.

This is indicated in a study made by the University of Miami Government Department by graduate students under the guidance of chairman Dr. Tom Wood. The study was based on a poll.

While only 3.4 per cent indicated Metro is doing an excellent job, 30.6 per cent felt the results were disappointing and 18.6 per cent though Metro's performance was poor.

Only 22.6 per cent of the 608 respondents polled favored abolishment of Metro, they also want the cities retained (82.3 per cent).

An overwhelming majority of Dade Countians — 83.1 per cent — do not want their county split up into two or more counties.

An overwhelming majority of those polled, 72.7 per cent also favor an elective sheriff over an appointive one.

This comes on the heels of a concerted drive by various news media, Government Research Council and the League of Women Voters, who favor an appointed sheriff, to push another election on the question.

The Cuban refugees and the problems caused by the insteady influx was listed as the number one problem in Dade County, followed by urban renewal and lack of industrial jobs and traffic congestion followed in that order.

Only 18.5 per cent on those polled replied that they would favor more Metro control over the cities, with both city and unincorporated area residents about equally agreed — 17.3 per cent and 20.4 per cent.

On the other hand, only 23.1 per cent wanted more independence for the cities.

About the same percentage — 24.7 per cent — felt the relationship between Metro and the cities was about right.

In another part to the same question, only 11.2 per cent favored the abolishment of city governments.

Finally, only 22.6 per cent wanted to abolish Metro.

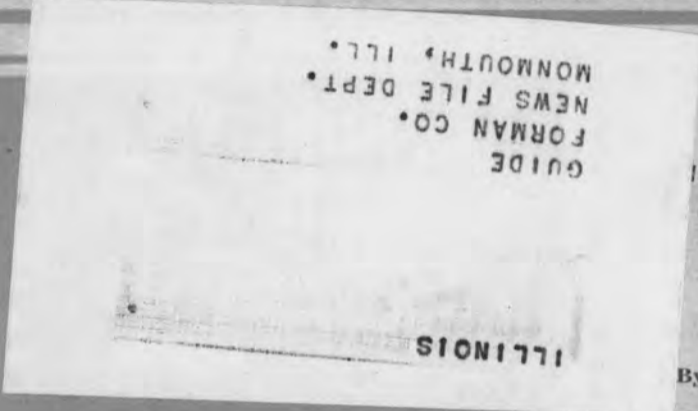

While city residents indicated that their city taxes were reasonable (58.8 per cent), both city and unincorporated area residents said that County taxes were too high (57.2 per cent)

The Great Pumpkin Comes to Miami

By JIM VAN ORDEN
Correspondent

If Peter Pumpkin Eater could be here today he'd be very envious of 10-year-old Johnny Jetton.

Johnny owns a pumpkin that's twice as heavy as he is.

"I weigh 65 lbs.," says Johnny, "but my pumpkin weighs 124 lbs. and it's so fat that my father can't even get his arms around it."

Johnny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jetton, 10321 SW 50th Ter., was given the pumpkin by a farmer while the family was visiting in Davidson, North Carolina.

Doubling Pay, Expense Hike Planned by S. Miami Council

South Miami Councilmen were to vote on doubling their salaries plus awarding themselves a monthly expense account at a Council meeting Tuesday night.

If the ordinance passes, salaries for the four Councilmen and a mayor will jump from $50 to $100 a month, effective Mar. 1, 1966.

Councilmen would share a $1,200 yearly expense account while the mayor uses his $60 monthly car allowance and $1,080 for other yearly expenses.

Other agenda items included:

AUTHORIZATION to pay $3,000 to the South Miami

Chamber of Commerce for publicity programs and services.

VARIANCE for Dr. Kenneth Bastholm to construct a detached sign with its bottom one foot above grade instead of required nine feet at 7450 Red Rd.

CHANGE of zoning for Property Trade Corp. to build a garage for repair and rebuilding of automatic transmissions at SW 59th Place and SW 69th Street.

GAS STATION zoning change at 5949 Sunset Dr. requested by University Bowl Inc.

6 Candidates On Vogel Show

South Miamians — normally used to quiet campaigns where debates among candidates are rarities — will get a chance to hear all six candidates for the Commission on January 27.

Lee Vogel, commentator on WQAM, has invited all six candidates for the South Miami City Council to appear on his 11 p.m. show for discussion on "What is the Future of South Miami?"

Kendall Hospital Closing

'A Long Haul to Jackson When Your Throat is Cut'

By MARIAN WYNNE
Staff Writer

Inside the pale green walls of four old buildings, some feel a nostalgic sadness while others quietly worry they may lose their jobs.

That's how employees of Kendall Hospital reacted to the jolting news that County Manager Porter Homer wants to tear down the hospital and three senior citizen cottages.

Homer's recommendation made to Metro Commissioners Monday is based on a detailed study made by Charles Nordwall, Metro Hospital director, who says the county could save $565,000 a year by transferring services to Jackson Memorial Hospital.

Outside reaction is mounting while Commissioners, who will cast the deciding vote, debate the merits of phasing out the only County hospital in South Dade.

County fathers could also consider the alternative of tearing down Kendall's present buildings to construct a new $2.5 million facility approved by the people back in 1964 to replace the 1927 landmark.

Homer cites economy as the major reason to consolidate operations at Jackson while opponents cry that convenience justifies the present location at 8500 SW 107th Ave.

A South Miami physician who donates his time at Kendall pointed out, "Forty miles from Homestead to Jackson is a long trip to make if your throat is cut."

Raymond Poore, administrator of the 170-bed South Miami Hospital, said, "It's a mathematical fact that there are not enough hospital beds in the South Dade to handle the patient load that would remain after Kendall is closed."

"This community could no longer get along without Kendall than it could without any other hospital here. It is the County's responsibility to care for the medically indigent of South Dade and not the private hospitals.

Iron Curtain Goods Case 'Under Study'

No action has been taken by federal officials on the complaint that Zayre's discount stores were selling Christmas decorations made behind the Iron Curtain that had country of origin labels obliterated.

U.S. Attorney Lloyd Bates said Monday that he was still awaiting a report on the findings from Steve Minas, chief customs agent in Miami before making a decision on the case.

"We're still working on that," Minas said earlier, but he declined to discuss the month-old case.

Mrs. Joan Lynne, 8950 SW 50th Ter., one of the women who protested to the federal government the sale of the unmarked goods, said they have heard nothing from officials since they make a complaint in mid-December.

A Zayres official said at the time that some of the Christ-

DCAUA-Bay Glades

Showdown Near On Controversy Over Authority

It may not be on the agenda or next Saturday's Dade County Association of Unincorporated Area monthly meeting, but Jack Nelson's charges against the group promises to create some fireworks.

Nelson, president of the Bay Glades Civic Association, last week issued an "open letter" to the 24-plus member associations that make up the DCAUA charging that its officers were unauthorized to make certain statements before a recent Dade Delegation investigating Metro.

The Bay Glades president's charges that his organization was not informed of the DCAUA's plan to propose the abolishment of Metro, a claim of 25,000 members and its attack on the Dade League of Women Voters came under fire from a long time leader of his own organization this week.

Archie Brafford, a Bay Glades veteran and its official delegate to the DCAUA, said Nelson was guilty of the same shortcomings alleged to the parent organization.

"I always in the past have been called to directors' meetings," said Brafford of the meeting at which the open letter was drafted.

This time, no one called him, he said.

Nelson verified that Brafford had not been advised through what he said was an oversight caused by Brafford's irregular working hours.

Brafford said also that he had never seen a copy of the letter sent out by Nelson to the news media last week which was critical of the DCAUA appearance before the Dade Delegation.

"What gripes me," said Brafford, "is that this man, on the basis of his meager knowledge, with no foreknowledge . . . writes a letter to the news media."

Brafford said that Nelson should have brought out his criticism before the DCAUA before putting out a news release to the media.

Nelson said Monday that he had intended to present the "open letter" to the 24-plus member organizations last Saturday at the DCAUA meeting, but the meeting was later changed to a directors' meeting, with the regular membership meeting postponed to this Saturday.

The Bay Glades president said he intends to distribute the materials then, but will ask that the matter not be taken up until the February meeting.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Paulette Burton, spokesman for the DCAUA, said she has never received the open letter.

A check with other DCAUA officials also revealed that none of them had received the letter, she said.

Nelson, she said, was among those who had congratulated her following the appearance before the Dade Delegation and was at a loss to explain his actions now. The DCAUA stand to abolish Metro, she added, was adopted last summer and presented to the State Legislature.

Brafford said that a member of the Twin Lakes Civic Association and not the DCAUA jumped up and made the statement about 25,000 membership after the DCAUA had been baited by a member of the Delegation to tell them how many people the organization represented.

The episode with the League of Women Voters, said Brafford, resulted because the DCAUA had been told by the Delegation that they would have their day in court and later found themselves on the same agenda with their old foe.

Kendall Hospital Staff Hits Loss administrator of Kendall Hospital and the Senior Citizen Homes, admitted that he was surprised at the suddenness of Homer's action.

"Yes, I knew Nordwall was studying countywide hospital facilities and I agree with his statistics. I must be objective and leave my personal feelings out of this," said the retired Army officer who has led Kendall operations since 1961.

He left his post as an associate executive director of Jackson to come to Kendall five years ago with the thought that a new hospital would be built on the 280 acre grounds.

"This hospital meets the minimum safety structure requirements but we agree that the narrow hallways and age of the buildings makes this a potential fire hazard," Moore said.

If the Commissioners vote to abandon Kendall, what will be the fate of Moore and his 320-member staff and the patients who occupy some of the 130 hospital beds and 127 beds in the senior citizens cottages?

"I'm sure that Jackson would absorb our personnel in a matter of several days. They would really welcome our nurses," Moore exclaimed.

"The patients could be moved to other hospitals and nursing homes by ambulance in one or two days.

Labels Case Under Study

mas decorations markings had been obliterated by an employe.

Some of the goods with labels obliterated reportedly were later purchased at a northwest Zayre store after they had been removed from the Coral Way-Galloway Road store.

Bates indicated Monday that he would check with Minas on the status of the case.

if we grew pumpkins in Florida," said Johnny. "But when I told him that we didn't, he invited me to his farmhouse to see his pumpkin patch."

"The next day," he added, "the farmer invited me over again, but no one was home when I got there."

"But," said Johnny with pride in his voice, "outside the door was a great big pumpkin with a note on it that said 'This one's for Johnny.'"

"Johnny was delighted and couldn't believe all that pumpkin was his," said his Mother, Florence. "But his father, a six-footer, couldn't lift it off the ground, and had to get help before we could put it into the car."

"I'm very proud of my pumpkin because it's all mine," says Johnny. "I dust it every day and keep it on a rug by my window, and I will never throw it away."

"But, before it goes bad," he added, "I hope my mother will make pies out of it. If she won't, then I'll have to sell it for $40."

However, Mrs. Jettón feels slightly different about the matter.

"I would like it to be eaten by someone and I guess I'll have to make pies out of it," she said. "But my oven won't take as many pies as that pumpkin could make, and we couldn't really eat that many pies anyway," she added disparagingly.

But, Johnny has the solution.

"I'll just keep eating the pies till they're all gone," he said.

Candidates Tell What They Favor

By MARIAN WYNNE

South Miami should beautify its neighborhoods, publicize its facilities, hold the line on taxes and stimulate better relations between Council and the administration.

Furthermore, it should not allow pre-Council sessions, closed meetings, heavy industrial development nor spot zoning.

That's what the city's 4,695 registered voters have been hearing from six candidates as they enter their second week of campaigning for two Council seats in the Feb. 8 elections.

Here are the platforms from all six political aspirants.

Councilwoman JEAN WILLIS, secretary-treasurer of AAPCO Automotive Inc., has a six-point platform leading off with elimination of spot zoning and development of presently zoned business areas rather than expansion into new areas.

The incumbent also wants to eliminate all unnecessary expenditures to balance the budget while providing the same excellent services, work with Metro in arranging "service areas" or other means to eliminate double taxes for city residents and to co-operate with Metro when possible to save South Miamians' money without lowering the quality of any service now provided by the city.

Work with South Miami's appointed and elected officials and employes for the smooth functioning of the city, to establish policies which will be clear and specific in order to simplify the administration of details.

Form and implement specific ideas that will maintain standards of excellence and beauty in all new business and residential developments.

JACK SHERIDAN JONES, apartment house manager, is in favor of a sewage system for the protection of the underground water supply, street widening and sidewalks, where necessary, beautification and other means of attracting business to the city.

He wants an overall plan for the future growth of the city in order to separate business establishments and private residences.

The former U.S. Naval officer is opposed to spot zoning and any increase in taxes of any kind.

"I have no ax to grind; I own no property and I'm not in the insurance business and I'm not here to make money.

GEORGE GIBBONS, manager of the Aviation Building and Embry-Riddle Co., wants to dispense with the present pre-Council meetings which start one hour before all regular Council meetings.

"Too many final decisions are made at these meetings," he said, "and the public usually attends only the Council sessions."

Gibbons is in favor of opening all meetings including executive sessions of the Planning and Zoning Board, to the public.

Other planks on his platform are to return good government to the city, eliminate spot zoning with better control of apartment house construction, expedite construction of sewer system, city garage and library building;

VINCENT CRUDELE, land developer, believes, "Local government with local people know local problems so I want strong, independent, local self-government."

He wants South Miami's to get its fair share of federal and state funds for urban redevelopment.

"Much can be done to improve our city streets and public parks to attract visitors and shoppers," said the candidate who also supports up-dating and adding ordinances when needed to benefit all property owners in the realm of zoning.

ED BRAMSON, certified public accountant, aims to work out a fair and equitable changeover in the manner in which assessment valuation (real estate and personal property taxes) are rendered to South Miamians without increasing taxes.

"A number of projects including sewers, library, parks and city garage have been committed through a special revenue bond to be financed by franchise and utility fees yet the amount allotted is inadequate," Bramson said.

He wants to provide these facilities by finding proper financing and eliminate the cost to the homeowners.

He suggests that Council members appear before all legislative committees and Metro Commission meetings when necessary.

Bramson wants the city to define certain areas for apartment and business development to protect the investors of residential property, the homeowners, and to publicize and encourage full use of recreational facilities.

JOHN BRAU, real estate salesman, appraiser and broker and incumbent councilman, wants to protect homeowners during shift to Metro tax roll by requiring fair and equitable real estate assessments while the city holds in the line on taxes.

"Sewers are a must," said the councilman who wants to protect the health and welfare of South Miami residents.

Brau also favors economy in government fiscal matters plus integrity, stability, efficiency and harmony in government.

He wants a civil service program for department heads and employes.

occurred on the question of the quality of services being offered by Metro: 44.7 per cent approving and 41.2 per cent dissatisfied, but 14.1 per cent asked facetiously, "What Metro Services?"

Many persons claiming that the unincorporated area is clamoring for all types of services will be surprised that 41.2 per cent of those questioned were satisfied with present conditions in the unincorporated area.

Only 26.1 per cent favored merger with the City of Miami, which would go out of existence and the Metro Commission take over; 19.5 per cent preferred annexation to the nearest city; 12 per cent a new city; and 10.6 per cent special improvement taxing districts.

On the question of concern over duplication of services, 40.4 per cent felt there was, an identical number felt there was not, and 19.1 per cent said there wasn't enough to be concerned about.

On the hypothetical question on the effect of the County providing all services in the unincorporated area, 66.3 per cent did not think their County taxes would increase; 21.9 per cent thought an increase of $1 to $25 a year was probable; 7.5 per cent felt the increase would be in the order of $26 to $50; 2.7 per cent $51 to $100; over than, 1.6 per cent.

Metro's Super Power Didn't Win People

Despite its super legislative powers, Dade's Metro government has failed in its single most important effort — to win the overwhelming confidence of the people it serves.

The results of a special University of Miami Metro study should leave no doubt in the minds of Metro leaders that this county's super government is held in something less than popular esteem.

Metro's ardent supporters who fail to see any wrong will pooh-pooh the U-M opinion poll percentages as being too scant.

This would be foolhardy.

For here, written in black and white and for all to see, is a crystal clear mandate for Metro — to abandon its like-it-or-lump-it approach to governing Dade, and create a rapport with the people and problems which exist outside the baronial halls of the central business district.

Thankfully, the poll shows the people of Dade are willing to give Metro a continued chance — they don't want it abolished.

But the people want their cities retained as strong governments, the poll shows, with Metro tending to affairs best suited for its character.

Metro's leadership now has the opportunity to profit from this grassroots poll.

Who among Metro's leaders would be foolish to ignore it?

We Need More Claude F. Wertzes

Claude F. Wertz retired this week as the City of Miami's long time director of the Water and Sewer system.

Though the system bears the Miami name, it long ago abandoned those restricted limits to serve other municipalities and a good chunk of the unincorporated area.

Directly or indirectly, most Dade Countians get good, clear, soft water from the system established by Miami through the efficient handling of Mr. Wertz.

Many more would enjoy the blessings that come from having aqua that is pura, but a power struggle has developed between Metro and the City of Miami Water and Sewer Board.

So now we have the County, which has no organization, experienced or trained personnel, vying with the City of Miami.

Mr. Wertz, and the board, who have managed to run the Miami system with a minimum of controversy, have been loathe to engage in conflicts with Metro and have simply pulled in their horns and awaited development of a more favorable climate.

As a result, thousands of residents will continue to boil or buy bottled water.

Meanwhile, from those of us lucky enough to enjoy "City" water a big thanks to Claude Wertz and others whose foresight helped make it possible.

From the Mailbag

EDITOR:

After reading "From the Mailbag" in your latest issue I know that I won't be able to sleep without doing something about it.

Peg Robinson's letter especially sticks out in my mind. She talks of negativism and Rev. Papandrew's finding nothing to be thankful for

Listen to Opinion, Even If Different during your harvest holiday. She talks of this asinine pretext of free speech at the Berkeley campus of the University of California where my father obtained his Ph.D and worked as a teacher.

Now she talks of my church and my beliefs. Call it asinine if you like but take a look at what you are saying. Americans, God fearing Christians, civilized human beings, are fighting a war in Viet Nam.

They "Love thy neighbor as thyself, and Thou shalt not lie, steal, or cheat." I turn to what is more immediate to me and what makes all of this hypocrisy so obvious.

I am sure that some of you have children who are students at my high school. I'm not sure, however, that you know that they belong to certain illegal organizations that not only condone but actually encourage drinking and smoking and assorted other "sins." I speak of the God fearing Christians who write on desks, cheat on tests, skip school and church, of the people who didn't know what Profiles In Courage was nor who Dr. Tom Dooley was.

I speak of the popular radio station to which many of these people listen which repeats constantly, "The well-informed citizen is the cornerstone of democracy." I speak of these people who don't read the paper or listen to the news. But I guess the belief in the infallible principles of the Church raises them above all of these atheistic practices such as being informed and expressing your opinion even though it may make you different, the capital sin of the teenage Christian.

With this in mind we can better understand Viet Nam, juvenile delinquency, unwed mothers and a thousand other problems which are concerned with worrying so much about what others think of you that you forget your children in the mad rush of going along with the gang.

Sure the demonstrations seemed asinine in Berkeley but they must be tolerated by the American public. If we do away with free speech, no matter how asinine it may seem, we can also do away with papers that take a onesided view and people who voice the thoughts of God fearing Christians all over the world.

These principles must be tolerated. They have made our great nation what it is today. Look at Russia, Red China, the government control of industry in Britain, the people of India or the masses of China.

But more so look at Rhodesia, the same with us in 1776. No one said we were right, everyone said we wouldn't succeed, no one wanted to help us except France, yet look at us now. So listen to what Rev. Papandrew has to say and heed it since it is nothing more than an American voicing his opinion no matter how weak his voice may seem.

BILL SOUJANEN,
A Student at Coral Gables Senior High School

'Guide Faithfully Reports Truth'

Editor:

As the pros and cons of Mr. Papandrew's protest of the lighted cross on the courthouse continues, I note a letter from Mrs. Betty Poller in the Times-Guide, Jan. 12.

After coming to the defense of Mr. Papandrew, she accuses your newspaper thus: "The page 1 and 2 story and the column and editorial on page 6 did not, in my opinion, constitute responsible journalism. Indeed, the net effect of the coverage of Rev. John Papandrew, is that of a vicious small minded attack."

In the first place, as Mrs. Poller should know, responsible journalism consists of reporting the truth for the enlightenment of the public, and confining its opinions to its editorials.

This, the Guide has faithfully done.

Secondly, Mrs. Poller's accusation that the net result of the coverage of Rev. Papandrew is that of a "vicious small minded attack" puzzles me. Does Mrs. Poller oppose the report regarding Mr. Papandrew's connections with the Fair Play for Cuba? Does she want his record, as one of the marchers in radical racial demonstrations suppressed? Does she think his admiration for Martin Luther King and his "Willingness to follow him to Hell" should be concealed? And doesn't she realize that Mr. Papandrew's past record could easily account for his opposition to the lighted cross?

Mrs. Poller concludes her attack: "I can only conclude that your newspaper has no tolerance for a dissenting voice such as Rev. Papandrew's." She ignores the fact that your paper printed a highly dissenting voice from the state head of the ACLU. Also it printed the dissenting voice from one of its employes — Mrs. Poller's own letter to the editor.

Would that other newspapers in the area were as forthright and as fair, we would indeed have responsible journalism.

Treat Becomes a Trick

When Gerard Pucci and his anti-U.N. supporters two years ago waged a bitter battle before the Coral Gables City Commission over the world body and particularly UNICEF — charging that the children's aid organization was being used by the Soviets as an espionage cover — he was villified, pilloried and humiliated by the pro-U.N. group.

On Jan. 12, the New York Journal American, the city's largest evening daily, broke the story of Vadim Isakov, a Soviet citizen and UNICEF's procurement officer and his reported attempts to obtain restricted missile and space components from a U.S. firm.

We contacted the F.B.I. in New York in an attempt to get more information, but, while an agent was helpful in leading us to source of the information, he would not comment on the case now in its hands.

Isakov, 35, has been employed by UNICEF since 1962. His $14,000 to $18,000 salary plus expenses is paid largely by your taxes and mine.

The use of the United Nations as an espionage cover and center for distribution of anti-American propaganda is not a very well kept secret, though its apologists attempt in every way to discredit any valid criticism of that body.

Recently, this newspaper published a report of a U.S. Senate committee which proved that the Fair Play for Cuba Committee was a Communist-front organization and that its ad in the New York Times was paid for by the Cuban Communist government through its United Nations representative, Raulito Roa.

That report also showed that Rev. John Papandrew, leader of the local First Unitarian Church, not only signed that ad as a sponsor, but also co-sponsored meetings of the "Fair Play" committee at his New York Community Church.

Today, Rev. Papandrew is one of the most active local leaders in what you might call a "fair play for Viet Nam" movement. He has spoken, written and demonstrated against the U.S. war against communism there.

Our disclosures have brought both widespread support and violent, almost rabid denunciation, as witnessed in the letters published recently, editorial comment and verbal assaults.

On the other hand, we have received the plaudits of hundreds who have not perfected the use of hyphenated words, but who nevertheless know a duck when they see one.

Which brings us back to the U.N. and UNICEF. UNICEF — which spends money to bring milk to little babies with bloated bellies all over the world and also for high salaries and expensive brochures and literature to promote itself — is financed largely by the American taxpayer and other generous Americans who also buy the UNICEF Christmas Cards at Halloween.

While many foreigners mouth heavy praise of UNICEF's aid, those same lips denounce America and Americans who make the aid possible and get no credit for it.

The Christmas cards themselves came in for criticism because few of them carried any religious themes or had anything to do with Christ. Last year, more religious themes were added to quiet the criticism.

By strange coincidence, one of the more vitriolic critics of the article about Fair Play for Cuba Committee, attended a Christmas party also attended by me.

During that event, this party passed around an obscene "Christmas" card in which the words "Merry Christmas" were spelled out by nude male and female figures in various positions.

These are the "Neo-Americans" of the "new left" who want to remake America to suit their own twisted images.

Van Atten and His Wall of Coins in Bank
... he designed striking paneling for office

He Made a Giant-Sized Mint Of Money for a Giant Bank

By RAYMOND LANG
Staff Writer

J. D. Van Atten, of Coral Gables is a stubborn man.

A fire wipes out his life's work ... he smashes his right hand ... and a 1,000-pound plastic panel crushes his leg.

Does he give in?

Take a ride someday past the new First National Bank of Hialeah and marvel at the magnificent Wall of Coins that makes up an entire side of the building.

For four months last year Van Atten — a stubborn Dutchman who lives at 226 San Sebastian — toiled on the Wall, made up of an eye-glittering series of plastic panels speckled with replicas of coins dating back to the days when Cleopatra and Julius Caesar were sunning on the Nile.

The coins — the largest is 40 inches across and the smallest 4 inches — are plastic copies of currency used in antiquity in ancient Greece, Rome, the Congo, Siam and throughout the world. The coins are embedded in the plastic paneling.

Then while sweating to put the finishing touches on the panel for the bank opening, a fire reared out of a candle factory and leveled Van Atten's workshop next door on Laguna Avenue last December.

"That fire just kicked me in the seat of the pants. I lost everything. I wasn't even insured," said Van Atten this week, a far different man than the one Gables police roused out of a warm bed to inspect a mound of ashes that was once his livelihood.

"I had to start all over. Had to build the equipment, buy the materials and set about to do all over what took about three months to do and," he said with a quiet pride, "I did it in three months."

It was a race against the clock. First National had commissioned him — at $15,000 — to build the Wall of Coins. Architect Herbert Mathes, wanted something "different."

Van Atten, who now has a shop on LeJeune Road, re-did the entire wall and at his own costs because he felt he "had a moral obligation" to the Bank.

He finished the monumental work — just one week before the Bank opened last April.

But not before he broke a hand and smashed a foot.

"We worked seven days a week, 10 hours a day and even holidays, Christmas and New Year's," Van Atten said.

"The only bright spot was that the designs of the coins had been borrowed just the week before the fire by the advertising agency who wanted to make up a brochure."

But just after the fire, Van Atten broke his right hand and had to work with his left.

He gave a lot of the credit to his assistant, Christa Founds, who labored with him to get the Wall of Coins out on time for what was perhaps one of the biggest commissions in his career.

He was near the finish of the panel. He had haunted libraries ... pored over books ... taken precious coins out of coin shops to photograph them in the sun on the public sidewalk with a black cardboard for background.

"Now, listen to this. Just one week before I was to finish the panel, I had some other panels leaning against a wall. They each weighed 1,000 pounds," said Van Atten.

He rubbed a hand across his brow. "All of a sudden, one of the panels came down — 1,000 pounds — and pinned my leg.

"But I was determined, just had faith, that I was going to be alright.

"The boys from the ad agency (Shillito and Ryan) came over and said I should go to the hospital. But I knew if I did, I'd be in for surgery.

"So, I put some water on it and pulled my pants leg down.

"And then all day long, I walked up and down a 100 feet at my shop, stomping my leg. I put it out of my mind."

And the great Wall was finished.

10 Union Organizations to Give Variety More $$$

Ten union organizations have announced they'll give their financial support to Variety Children's Hospital Development Fund.

The unions will add their names to the mammoth "Wall of Faith" mural which honors donors of $500 and over for the support of the hospital's year-round operations.

Unions are: Roofers' Local No. 57; Communication Workers of America, Florida State; Dade County Federation of Labor; International Union of Operating Engineers Local No. 487; Marble Polishers Union No. 121; Miami Federation of Musicians Local No. 655; Miami Iron Workers' Sick Fund Local No. 272, Miami Building and Construction Trades Council; Transportation Workers' Union No. 511; and Teamsters Engine Overhaul Technician Local No. 511.

Organized labor in the state of Florida recently "adopted" a resolution designating Variety Children's Hospital as their major community service project for 1966. The state-wide program aims to raise funds to help offset the hospital's free medical care deficit which amounts to some $700,000 annually.

JET PILOT Capt. John R. Houser, of the 31st Tactical Fighter Wing at Homestead Air Force Base, has been awarded the South Miami Jaycees' distinguished service award for his service as a jet fighter pilot in Viet Nam. He flew 152 missions against the Viet Cong before returning to Homestead.

Now Acting Eastwood Wants Job For Good

Roland Eastwood, acting city manager of South Miami since November, likes the job so much that he has applied for it.

"It's interesting and there are problems I'd like to have the opportunity of helping solve," said the zoning director named to the manager post when Council fired Richard Barton.

Eastwood said that he's willing to serve as both city manager and zoning director.

It's up to South Miami's five-member Council to hire a permanent city manager — and the decision may be postponed until after the Feb. 8 elections.

Mayor Clyde Taylor said that more than 20 men have applied for the job.

No Lawn

The Grass Is Always Greener Next Door

He calls it a non-maintenance lawn — but actually it's not a lawn at all!

Builder Murray Friedman has initiated a new "option" for those who buy his new model homes in Kings Bay Estates in South Dade. It's a backyard completely free of grass and thus free of maintenance.

Friedman has accomplished the unique "landscaping" idea by utilizing pebbles, rocks, cement, bricks, tiles, and other building materials as well as fountains, statues, plants and trees.

"More and more people — even though they would like to have a half acre home site — want that area as free from maintenance as possible.

The backyard, especially a backyard off of the pool or entertainment area, can provide a unique appearance by utilizing new and different techniques."

POT ROAST SUPERS

pot roast	4 whole cloves
potatoes	1 bay leaf;
carrots	parsley
onions	1/2 c. water
	1/2 c. vinegar
	salt, pepper, flour,
	Accent, fat

Rub roast with salt, pepper, Accent, flour. Brown all sides in a little hot fat in deep heavy pan. Slip small rack under roast. Insert cloves in sides & top. Top with large sliced onion, bay leaf.

Pour water & vinegar over roast. Cover tightly, simmer 2 hours. Add water as needed. Add quartered potatoes, small whole onions, whole carrots, cook until tender. Discard bay leaf, thicken gravy, garnish.

STEPS ON STEAKS

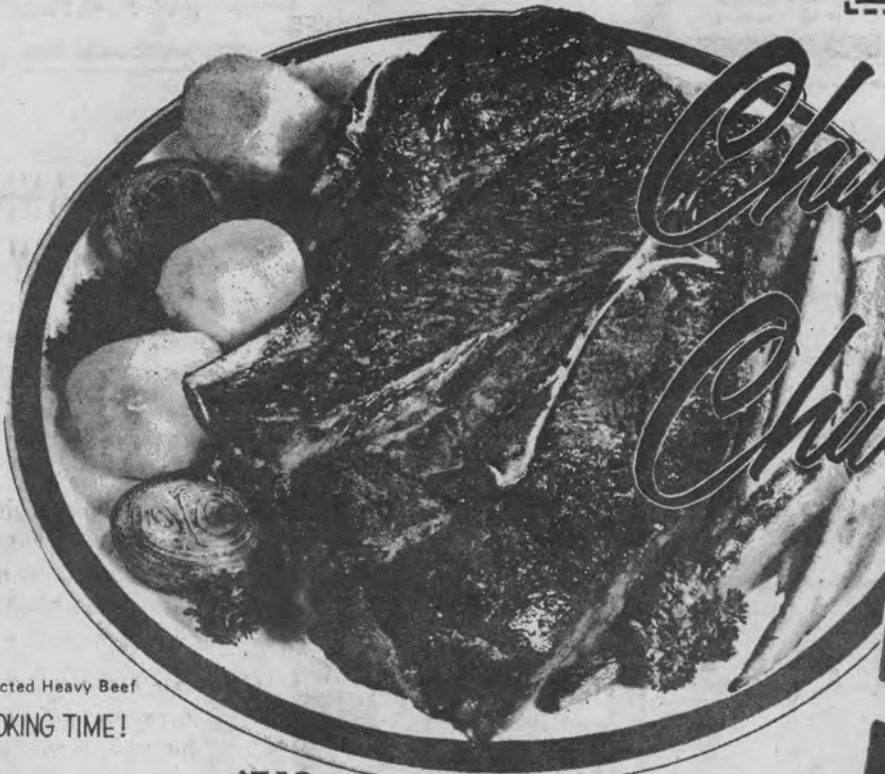

Proten beef is more tender than the same cut in ordinary beef, and cooks in less time. You can broil outs which in other beef must be moist-cooked. Slash fat at edges to prevent curling.

Steaks one inch thick or less are best pan-broiled in heavy, lightly-greased hot pan.

Steaks more than one inch thick: broil in oven or over charcoal. Oven-plate steak on lightly-greased rack two inches from heat source. (Leave electric oven door open.)

Doneness: Check by cutting steak and observing color.

Chuck roasts 2 to 2 1/2 inches thick can be oven-broiled like steak.

New Officers

Olympia Heights Elects

Ralph Commiso, 2900 SW 104th Ct., is the new president of the Olympia Heights Civic Club whose main project has been getting street lights for that subdivision.

RALPH COMMISO

The board of directors will be comprised of the officers, retiring president Waldo Howard and two elected members, Scott Baber and Robert Artioli.

While the Club, using County figures, has pushed for the street lighting district, Richard J. Tumulty has been waging what was largely a one-man campaign to defeat the plan.

Tumulty claims that the lights should be installed by Metro through ad valorem taxes and that cost would be more than advertized.

The cost would be less than $1 a month — approximately 75 cents — for a typical 75-foot front lot, according to the club, based on the County's figures.

calendar was distributed to the business and residential areas of the city. The subject for the 1966 calendar, "Growth Of A Leader" is painted by Norman Rockwell who has created these Scout subjects for 42 years.

FINE ARTS FOR CHILDREN

Conservatory Taps Top Talent

By HINDI DIAMOND
Correspondent

An hors'd'oeuvre is all that is usually offered a child by the way of introduction to the arts.

But the First Unitarian Church, at 7701 S.W. 76th Ave., has prepared a full-course dinner every week for the past two years.

The Fine Arts Conservatory has a full-day schedule on Saturdays, and is open to all children.

Top professional talent has been enlisted for the venture by Director Ruth Greenfield, who teaches music at Miami-Dade Junior College.

An unusual class in creative dramatics is being taught by Mrs. Ilse Earl.

"I want to stimulate their imagination, to have them be more aware of their surroundings, and of each other," is the way Mrs. Earl explains the workings of her class.

Emphasis is not on performance, but rather on developing their imagination, powers of concentration and self-expression.

Arnold Grayson, who runs the Recorder Workshop, teaches music. Rudolph Adams, art teacher in the elementary schools conducts the art classes.

Sandy Warshaw who has had training in musical comedy in New York teaches ballet to the youngsters.

New classes start this month, and further information about registration may be obtained by calling Mary Freeland at CA 6-3671.

Let There Be Light—Bulbs

By BEA MOSS

I have this thing with lights: As far as T. Edison's mechanical marvel is concerned, it and this twain shall never meet — lit, that is.

Time was when I actively practiced bulb snatching, since those 100 watters used up most of my beer money. Fast as a new bulb went in one socket, another blew out somewhere else. I mumbled "planned obsoles-

In Bea's Bonnet

by Bea Moss

cence' and kept a huge supply of lights stashed away in the hall closet. Why fight progress?

One night, while I fumbled for a new bulb for the kitchen, the hall light blew out and the whole mess fell down around my feet. It was like the Fourth of July at the Orange Bowl, only glassier.

I firmly resolved — while tying a tourniquet on my leg to keep the blood off the floor — that progress or not, from then on storage of those frosty whites was verboten.

I would wait until they ALL went and THEN charge out like the light brigade to buy just enough to fill the empty-socketed house.

Time flew merrily by, the days bright and sunny, the nights growing dimmer and dimmer as those sweet little filaments flashed blue and sizzled out all around us.

The coup de grace occurred not long ago. While all those monster light poles that line our avenue and cost us extra taxes were sputtering on at dusk, the one in front of our house gasped and died a cold, red death.

"It knows me," I said to no one in particular, but I think the couch lamp heard me because there was this faint crackling that sounded strangely like chuckling and there I stood — completely in the dark.

The electric company — with hydraulic lift and ten ton truck — rushed out on the double about three weeks later at one thirty in the morning and pierced the gloom. That served to eliminate the rumbles we were beginning to have on our darkened corner.

There's a moral here someplace. I think it's, "It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness." "If it's better to light one," I mused, while cursing the darkness, "why not light dozens."

And that is why, when you pass our house you may see a shadow flickering on the living room wall. That's me, sitting there with a drink in my hand instead of a bulb and reading a good book.

I can't see the title but I think it's called "Dark Victory."

White Tie, But Pastel Palms

It was formal affair at the Country Club of Coral Gables when the Century Club invited members and guests on a Caribbean Caravan. Pastel palm trees, colorful Macaws in raffia cages and 'fun in the sun' figures adorned the room. Woven baskets of artificial and real flowers decorated the tables.

There were cocktail parties galore and one happy group met at the home of Hilda and George Roerig.

Dining on roast beef or pompano and dancing to the rhythms of the Jerome Twitchell orchestra were BILL AND CHRISTINE PHILBRICK (Chris in a gold sari print formal, one shoulder job) Joe and Eve Murphy (Eve looking young and slim in a gay print formal) Harriet and Bill Lewis (he is Gables Country Club Prexy) Betty and "Mac" MacDonald, Jim and Dot Herren, Pat and Bill Merriam.

Dr. Don and Mabel Marion, (she looked like a little doll in her black sequin top and black crepe skirt) Dot and Dwight Smith (Dot radiant in bright happy blue) Ruth and Bill Kerdyk, the Buford Pedigos, Dr. Bob Edwards and his pretty blond June, the Lee Fullers, Bob and Rita Searle (she looked adorable in her black formal with the white lace top, the new empire look)

Dr. Ed and Jo Preston, Jody and Ben Turner,

On the Town

... WITH PAT GABRIEL

Lyle and Anne Pritchard, Dr. Nelson and Louisa Walter, Graham and Hazel Monroe, Mary and Ed Christenson, Homer and Jean Frazier.

Herb and Maurine Jarvis were absent from the festivities for the first time, Herb had the flu, Missed y'all.

Dropped in to the Youth Fair the other day and the Coral Gables Woman's Club gals are really working overtime. Caught sight of Louis Rempe, Nan Tyler, Rosalie Darlow, Margaret Dansyear, Rosalie Gorman, Sophie Addison (she is co-chairman) Audrey Raia (She is chairman) and scads more.

The Esprit Club girls working side by side with them, Linda Lojinger, Chrissie Buice, Rickie Dowlen, Ellen Parsons, Ann Walker, Kathy Morris, Connie Benoit, in fact just about the whole club.

What a fun time members of the Kings Bay Yacht and Country Club had Saturday night. It was the first annual Awards Night Formal Dinner Dance and everyone was in a happy time mood.

Club President Angus Mc'D Stephens introduced by Lennie Putterman, officiated. Carol Putterman was in a black and white formal, Geri and Ron Levitt (Geri wore black), Bill and Anne Mae Esslinger, the John Greists, (he won a silver champagne bucket in the Club Senior Tournament) Lola and Stu Winston.

Housewife Goes To Europe On a Gallon of Gas

By JAMES VAN ORDEN
Correspondent

A South Dade housewife who teaches Sunday School found that buying gasoline was the answer to her "prayers."

"Even Sunday School teachers like to travel," said Mrs. Eloise McWilliams, 7730 SW 61 Ave., one of 13 national winners in the Citgo contest. The mother of two will tour Southern Europe.

"I have only left Florida twice in my life," she said, "but I always dreamed of seeing Europe."

"When I heard that Citgo service stations were giving away specially marked cards for prizes and foreign trips, I picked up a card everytime I stopped for gasoline," she added.

Mrs. McWilliams sent in five sets of five cards, and her name was chosen from among 9,000 entries.

"My 16-year-old daughter, Jessie, received a phonecall from Chicago saying that I had won the contest on November 19," she said, "but I was ill and couldn't come to the phone."

"When Jessie told my 13-year-old son, Andy, he called my husband, at the University of Miami where he works," she added.

"He was absolutely amazed," she said, "and couldn't believe my son." Unfortunately, his work prevents Jesse McWilliams from going with his wife.

Her mother, Mrs. Theo. Jones, also a Sunday School teacher, will accompany her instead.

Mrs. McWilliams and her mother travel by jet to New York this week, and will leave for Lisbon, Portugal after a reception at Kennedy Airport where they will meet the other 12 winners.

From Lisbon they will visit Barcelona, Spain; the French Riviera, and Monte Carlo; and Rome and Naples in Italy.

"This is like a fairy tale," she said, "all expenses are paid... even the tips."

"I still can't believe it happened to me."

Owens Airline

Goes from Top to Bottom Overnight

Why does a man with more than 25 years of flying experience forego a rewarding and responsible career as a jet pilot with one of the largest airlines in the world — a position that places him at the top of his profession?

In the case of Irving L. Jones Jr. of South Miami, it's to start at the bottom.

That's exactly what the former Pan American Airways check pilot and American Airlines captain did. And the result is one of the most interesting Florida airline success stories in recent years.

About six years ago, Jones resigned his position with PAA to investigate the potential for a virtually untapped airline service, an intrastate "feeder" carrier.

"With the great amount of communication and travel of both businessmen and vacationers in the state of Florida, and the element of time often being critical, I believed we needed a convenient and efficient intrastate airline service to accommodate this demand," Jones said.

And in 1960, Southeast Airlines Inc., based at Miami International Airport, was begun.

"Our early flights were mainly charter flights," Jones added, "enabling us to make a complete study as to which areas in Florida had sufficient traffic so as to warrant regular intrastate airline service."

The Miami-Marathon-Key West route proved extremely successful — and today Southeast operates four regularly-scheduled round trip flights between Miami and the Keys. These flights service air mail to the Keys area.

"I'm confident that more areas will need intrastate service within the very near future," said

IRVING JONES

Jones, former military flight instructor. "And this is what Southeast Airlines is basing its expansion and growth on . . . continued, extended need for rapid and regular intrastate transportation throughout Florida."

As proof of his confidence, Jones is now in the process of phasing out his fleet of twin-engine Beechcraft for larger aircraft. He listed the Douglas Super DC-3, the Convair 240 and the Martin 404 among aircraft being considered for purchase.

A stubborn, pioneer attitude has always been an integral part of Jones' character — dating back to his initial flying days in 1937. A member of the Million Miler Club, with more than 10,000 hours of logged flying time, Jones was a World War II Air Transport Command pilot.

During this time, he flew with Ernest Gann, author of the best selling novel, "Fate Is The Hunter."

Jones lives at 6440 SW 107 St. with his wife, Martha, and children, Irving III 17, Marilee, 14 and Kathy, 11. His son is a member of the Palmetto High School football team and Jones is active in the high school boosters club.

In addition, he is a former chairman of the board and now a trustee of the University Christian Church of South Miami. The Jones' were among the seven original couples which founded the church in 1954.

Jones' hobby also is in the area of transportation, antique cars — "quite a bit slower than airplanes," he admits — and he is a member of the Antique Automobile Association. He is presently reconstructing a 1929 Classic Packard.

"It's exactly the thing for airline owners," he quipped. "No competition at all."

U-M Inventor Twists His Way to Fame

By SANDRA FAHY
Correspondent

Michael Patty's life has taken on a new twist.

Little did he know three years ago when he graduated from the University of Miami that he would become an inventor and president of an exerciser corporation at the age of 23.

Patty, 434 Vittorio Ave., has discovered the "swivel as you twist" board, which is guaranteed to trim from one to three inches of a person's waistline, hips or thighs within 30 days, if used for two minutes daily.

Manufacturing of the "Trim Twist" is now underway at Patty's newly set up headquarters at 90 Beacom Blvd. It consists of a revolving board, 10 inches by 10 inches, which turns on steel ball bearings.

"The idea came to me one day when I was stepping on a ball bearing to loosen it up," Patty said. "The twist dance was popular at the time and I suddenly thought of what a gimmick some type of twister would be."

"Later I tied it up as an exerciser," he added.

Last year the "Trim Twist" was featured at the Better Living Pavilion at the New York World's Fair.

"We sold thousands of them there," Patty said.

According to statistics published by the U.S. Air Force, twisting ranks among running and rowing in calorie consumption.

"A person uses 1,240 calories in one hour of twisting as compared to only 300 calories consumed in cycling within the same period," Patty explained.

The former finance major says his product has four advantages in that it burns calories, stimulates circulation, aids in figure control and improves posture.

"A person can lose inches fast," he said. "It's a healthful, fun way to reduce."

Patty has already sent the twist boards to 10 states and has had requests from Ecuador and Colombia for them.

The set, which includes an illustrated course of exercises costs $4.95.

He said several airlines are now using them in their stewardess training programs.

He added that the golf pro shop at the Key Biscayne Hotel promotes use of the board to limber the golfers up before they pound the links.

My Own Personal Guide to Fashion

By BETSY POLLER
Women's Editor

"SIMPLICITY AND VARIETY" said my 8th grade home ec teacher, "are the keystones of fashion." As Women's Editor of this paper, I realize my responsibility as a local style-setter, so I heed her advice.

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, I wear a red knit shell and a navy blue skirt. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, I wear a faded blue denim skirt and a faded blue denim blouse. Sundays, I wear a terry cloth bathrobe.

To express my personality, I am consistent about wearing the same accessory: sneakers. Faded blue denim sneakers.

For dressier occasions, I pull a pair of high heeled pumps over the sneakers.

It's difficult to walk that way, and some people think I'm eccentric, but I've worn the sneakers for so long that it would take a surgeon to remove them.

I do not, however, have faded blue denim feet, as some people claim. That is a malicious falsehood.

WITH A WARDROBE like mine, I avoid extremely Dressy Occasions.

Last week, however, I was invited to a luncheon I particularly wanted to attend, so I made a quick closet survey.

My dressiest skirt was the faded blue denim number, which I wear with a thick rope belt snatched off a 49c table at a chic but now defunct little boutique called the "Kawfee Klatch."

The skirt was obviously sporty, but I tried to imagine how I could dress it up: A sleeveless knit sweater, a faded denim skirt, speakers, and a pearl necklace.

I glanced at my nails. Scruffy. I'd need gloves.

Obviously I would have to buy a complete outfit for the luncheon. But since I wasn't likely to use it again soon, I consoled myself, at least I could economize.

"Start simple," I mumbled as I nervously scanned the racks of ready-to-wear. "Better to be underdressed than overdressed."

I selected a red-and-white checked cotton shift, a pert white hat, a pair of gloves and new shoelaces for my sneakers.

ALTHOUGH I approached the luncheon with fear and trembling, I enjoyed it thoroughly.

After it was over, I stopped to see my mother who has for years complained that I looked like a slob. Let her get a peek at the New Me, I thought.

She noticed the change soon as I walked in the door. "Where did you get that hat?"

"Oh, just a little something I picked up to wear to a luncheon," I answered. "Isn't it marvelous? Strictly entre nous, it only cost $1.49."

"Well, it certainly is cute, but why does it have 'University of Miami Freshman' embroidered on it?"

"I didn't think anybody'd notice." The glow was wearing off.

"What kind of event was this," she asked, "a costume party?"

"Yeah," said my brother. "With that red checked dress and those long black gloves, all you need is black knee-length socks. Then you could get down on all fours, carry a pizza on your back, and go as an Italian restaurant."

"Wise guy kid," I said. I left, considerably miffed, and headed for the office.

I HAD BEEN at my desk a few minutes when the photographer told me a woman was waiting to see me. I walked up to the front of the office and asked if I could help her.

She looked at me very slowly, head to toe, then said in a most genteel voice, "There must be some mistake, my dear. I wanted to talk to the Fashion Editor."
