

Mrs. Richard Himell Soothes Lisa, 4 ... Child Has 'Inoperable' Heart Condition

No Remedy

Little Lisa's Life Day to Day Affair

By RAYMOND LANG

Lisa Himell, a sweet little girl of four with large blue eyes set in a pixish face, played with some pink clay on her living room floor - while her mother sat a few feet away and talked resigned-ly about her dying.

Lisa has a rare congenital heart disease. Only one child out of 100,000 with heart trouble has it.

Taylor Eyes New Seat In Senate

South Miami Mayor Clyde Taylor said that he will soon make an announcement concerning his candidacy for State Senate, District 40, which runs from NW 20th Street south including Monroe County.

Jeff Gautier and Maurice Ferre have already indicated that they will seek the post which is open for others to file until March 1.

"I've had encouraging offers of support and help from residents of Miami Beach to Key West," Taylor said.

Valentine-Wise, Nothing Changes

By MARIAN SNEIDER

Valentine's Day always reminds me of a certain fella from the past and the thought brings tears to my eyes. I met him during my teens when I sported a pony tail and jeans and my life was uncluttered.

Oh, certainly, there may have been too much homework that day, or the lunch in the cafeteria was icky or maybe I'd forgotten to make my bed and I'd have to muddle through some annoying explanations. But, that was the nature of responsibity then.

My big worry was whether or not he'd send me a Valentine. This was the first Valentine's Day since we'd met. I ran home from school and tore through the front

Setting there on the hall table was a white envelope from HIM. I tore it open. On the cover it said, HAPPY VALEN-TINE'S DAY TO A VERY SPECIAL GIRL. Such sheer bliss and uncomplicated happiness!

This past Valentine's Day wasn't so different from the one several hundred years ago. I mean not different as far as that fella is concerned. I thought about HIM a

However, there some obvious differences. When the mail came, I wasn't at school, I was home wringing out wash that the dryer, which had just broken, didn't dry. Debbie was asking endless questions while Cathy and Suzanne were arguing about a red crayon.

I finally did have to run outside when Andy fell off his bike and lay "mortally" wounded. I still didn't look at the mail. Who thinks of an old flame at a time like ments of quiet, and re-membered that I hadn't looked at the mail yet.

Among the bills and the two magazines was a white envelope addressed to me. When I opened it, I found that it was from the very same HIM.

This time it said HAP-PY VALENTINE'S DAY TO MY WIFE. My heart flipped and again there appeared that old, exhilarating happiness.

It's so special to know that although things are different nothing is changed. Valentines are too good to be just for the

Jack Stanton Leaves A Political Gap

The death this week of Jack Stanton, chairman of South Miami's Planning and Zoning Board, will leave a large gap in that town's political structure.

Mr. Stanton was a man of conviction, and implacable in his judgments. This is to his credit, whether he was right or wrong.

We were among Mr. Stanton's strongest critics. But as an adversary in matters public, we nevertheless had respect for the will and personal flair which added something to South Miami's politics.

The New Look Gives City Opportunities

The new structure and new complexion of South Miami's City Council offers City Hall new opportunities to constructive government.

Reduced from six to five members and with the Mayor having a vote for the first time, no bloc as such exists.

New Councilman Ed Bramson and re-elected Councilwoman Jean Willis have been given a vote of confidence to tackle what they believe to be key problems and needs

It is too early to tell where Mayor Clyde Taylor will stand with his new vote.

But the Mayor knows, as do the other members of the Council, that South Miami's future hinges on business-like legislation and nothing less than that.

Keep Up Good Work So Flag Will Keep Flying

Several articles from your newspaper and a few of your columns have been called to my attention.

Your work in exposing communism for what it is and for focusing attention on some rather notorious Communist sympathizers in the Miami area is greatly appreciated by me and others I know who are interested in awakening some of the American people to this danger.

Keep up the good work and may our flag continue to fly over the land of the free and the home of the brave for generations to come.

JERRY SCHOMP 4561 NW Third Pl.

LESBIANISM, homosexuality, wife trading, sex fetishes, sado-masochism are the luridly treated subjects of these books and magazines available at countless newsstands and drug stores throughout Dade County. These were all purchased at one store in Coral Gables this week.

Red Quits UNICEF; No Funds Misused

Vadim Isakov, the Russian employe of UNICEF accused of using his United Nations job as a cover to purchase restricted U.S. missile and other instruments for the Soviet Union, has reportedly "resigned" from his post.

Victor de Keyserling, director of information services for the United States Committee for UNICEF, made the announcement in a letter dated Feb. 1 to this

De Keyserling's letter was in reply to a recent "Off Beat" column by Maurice La-Belle based on a story appearing in the New York Journal American, which broke the story on Jan. 12. Said De Keyserling:

"On Jan. 24, UNICEF Headquarters announced the resignation of the said employe, adding that:

'The acceptance of this resignation brings to a close Plantation Fla. the review that was initiated by UNICEF as a result of the allegations regarding his activities."

The U.S. Committee for UNICEF said it had made inquiries of UNICEF and reports the following:

"At no time has there been any intimation of the misuse of UNICEF funds.

"The employe in question has no access to such funds and no authority to contract for or purchase supplies for UNICEF.

"In his capacity as one of UNICEF's procurement officers, he had authority only to line-up and negotiate supplies used in the normal course of the Children's Fund Program,

"All contracts or purchase orders have to be signed by a more senior officer, and this is done only after careful review in each case."

Use of UNICEF funds was never alleged in the Journal American Story, nor in the column.

One might argue, "Why not send some of the residents from Jackson Memorial Hospital and the medical school over to Kendall to ease the doctor shortage?" The fact of the matter is, nearly all of the specialty departments there are short of residents and can ill afford to spare any to work in another hospital.

staff. This staff, however, cannot supply help for the

In addition to the staffing problem, is the undeniable fact that the patient load at Kendall has dropped down to where it is no longer financially feasible to operate it as a general hospital. For example, no general hospital would be able to continue to keep an Obstetric Department and a nursery open with only two to four patients in each. Nevertheless, this is the situation as it now exists at Kendall.

With the advent of the Maternity and Infant Care Project, with which I am now associated, most of the 'Hi-Risk' pregnant women also have babies born who are high risk, either because who would previously have gone to Kendall, are now being sent to Jackson Memorial Hospital for delivery. This has dealt a crippling blow to the Obstetric and Pediatric service there. Emergency Room care is almost non-existent at Kendall. Jackson Memorial Hospital now received 70 per cent of all emergency ambulance calls in Dade County. GUNNARD J. ANTELL, M.D.

Is that any way to treat a Queen?

You bet it is. An Orange Bowl Queen,

That's just what pretty, brown-eyed Helen Grossman, of Coral Gables, was from the time she was picked amid thundering applause Nov. 13 through a maze of pulsating events . . . to her last day, Jan. 16, when she planted a ceremonious kiss on the salt-laden cheek of the winner of a boating regatta.

Now, the hoop-la and razzle dazzle, chaperones, question-popping reporters and all the fervor that goes into one of the nation's most publicized events — the Orange Bowl festivities — is slumbering until next year.

And the 19-year-old University of Miami dra-ma and speech major who's going steady with a future mortician has settled down into a normal routine at 716 Alhambra Circle, with her parents, the Mark Grossmans and, of course, the two she really missed, Antigone, her cat, and Floppy, her dog.

"IT'S HARD to put it into words. I miss all the excitement and I miss the a fabulous time," purred Helen, a somewhat deli-cate-looking brunette with a honey-soft person-

"It was a let down in a way," she said, talking of the adjustment from Queen to Girl in one day. "Your life is guarded by two State Troopers and the next day, you're back on the campus."

But she repeated over and over again that this once-in-a-lifetime experience every girl dreams of was just the greatest.

Despite the rubber spi-

"One morning I came down for breakfast (the girls were occupying a wing at a downtown hotel), sat down, opened the menu - and there was a black, rubber spi-

"And then, one day, we were greeting one of the football teams at the airport. I looked around. There was a rubber spider on my shoulder.

"And here," Helen smiled, "you were supposed to look composed," One of the two state troopers - who both struck up sort of a brother-sister bond with Helen and the princesses — had planted the fake insect,

"Once, we were all ready to go out and we were standing by the elevator — and they squirted us with invisible ink," Helen recalled.

SO, LATER that night, they squirted the burly troopers back their own shaving cream.

What's the greatest moment in a Queen's life?

"I kept waiting for it to suddenly dawn on me," she said of her selection," and I think the time I really felt it was the Coronation Ball.

"And the parade! Peo-ple standing up . . . calling me by name . never expected that. I really hated for that parade to end.'

The toughest part?

The thick satin gown she wore during her grueling ride in the parade and she smiled and waved all the time - was laden with heavy jewels and rimmed inside with steel

It weighed 125 pounds. Helen weighs an eyelash over 100 pounds. * *

"IT'S QUITE hectic running from one event to another and changing clothes several times a day," Helen offered.

"There was one day," she said softly, "we had just come in from a tennis match and we were in sports clothes. We were supposed to get dressed for dinner.

"But then," she said, "we were told we had to make a TV appearance and so we dashed over. We didn't have time to something greater

Natural science and human invention are breaking through many old barriers, but men are still unsatisfied . . . still reaching out for something greater . . . still looking for a star to follow. It was glimpsed long ago in the redeeming love and power of Christ Jesus, whose entire life pointed to the underlying spiritual laws of all existence. There can be nothing greater. Why do we believe the 1966 outlook is favorable for bank stocks and for earnings of the nation's commercial banks? Our timely Research Bulletin gives our reasons. It analyzes the increase in the discount rate and points out a number of factors that are expected to widen profit margins of the majority of banks in 1966. With bank earnings generally expected to equal, and in some individual cases exceed, the 8% gain of 1965, we recommend three bank stocks as particularly attractive for current purchase. Students Form First School Civil Defense Campus Unit

By RAYMOND LANG Staff Writer

While many of the nation's youth are tearing through the Watusi, sloppy elothes and mop-like hair styles, a South Dade junior high school has become the first in Florida to think of life and death - and form a civil defense club.

It's Glades Junior High School - only three years eld - at 9451 SW 64th St. Their sponsor - gladdened by this interest is the Dade County Civil Defense headquarters at Miller Road and Galloway

The youngsters who belong to the school club will learn how to operate under almost any emergency conditions, from simple first aid and mouthto-mouth resusitation to radiological monitoring and shelter management.

And, if their club sponsor at school thinks they're mature enough, a Civit Defense spokesman said there's a film on emergency child delivery the members might see.

"These kids came up with the idea and came to us," said Ed Broadwell, information director for Dade Civil Defense.

"And we feel the best way to reach the adult is through the children in some cases. With the children in school exposed to it, they carry some of it home with them.

"This," Broadwell said, evidenced by some adults who come by or call about some courses."

While civil defense is geared to both military and natural disasters, Broadwell feels the youngsters will benefit greatly from the medical self-help in the program.

Disputed Apartment Under Fire

A controversial zoning change for a two-story 40-unit apartment house bordering a strip of plush residential homes along Miller Drive went before the South Miami Council Tuesday night,

The Planning and Zoning Board unanimously recommended denial of the Gemini Development Corporation's application for 6600 Miller Dr. after a heated hearing last Tuesday.

It appeared likely that Council would also vote to deny the liberal RU-4 apartment zoning on the homesite owned by Mrs. Bess Jones, who lives directly west of the late Planning and Zoning Board Chairman Jack Stanton.

"This is spot zoning," cried Harold Solomon, of 6521 SW 58th St., "and the apartment would add to the congestion with raceway traffic."

Comments from other speakers at the crowded PZB hearranged from Mrs. Jack Stanton who said, "more apartments would be like a cancer eating down the streets" to a charge by Sid Wirtshafter 5795 SW 67th Ave., that property values would be damaged.

Builders Warren Trembley and Harvey Moldoff are now constructing a 20-unit apartment house and pool west of Mrs. Jones on the corner of Miller Drive and Ludlam.

It's a coloring book.

Entitled 'Florida Fun Coloring Book' and selling for 50 cents (with crayons), it has 96 pages with coloring subjects drawn from the state's various tourist attractions.

While the usual coloring book has pictures of maybe a farmer milking his cow or a boy petting a dog, Ryan and Shillito's book deals with such matter as Cape Kennedy, Cypress Gardens, the State Capitol and the Miami Seaquarium.

It also lists locations of the coloring page subjects, as well as different hotels and motels throughout the state.

JUST ABOUT a year ago, Hal's wife, Peg, came up with an idea, the idea of a coloring book, but distribution was a problem. They had no idea what the topic might be.

The idea slept until last fall. That's when Ryan was driving his motherin-law, Mrs. H. B. Hill, back to her home in Avon Park. They stopped at Gator-Rama.

"We came out later, got in the car and went on down the highway and then I started looking around for a gift for the

Why not. Ryan thought, make up a coloring book. It would give kids something to do on those long car trips in the back seat - and use Florida's attractions as the subject matter to acquaint tourists with the center part of the state?

The Rock & Roll Kids in Amy's Garage

of heart was the big enter-tainment news in Miami last weekend, but let's not overlook what went on in Amy Erdheim's garage, at 6470 SW 21st St.

The Rock & Roll Kids, six bops and girls aged eight through 11, presented a one hour performance Saturday that included everything from acrobatics to go-go danc-

There was singing, too, some guitar playing, clowns, costumes, makeup, printed tickets on glossy stock, and refresh-ments which were served after the show.

Admission was 3 cents per person, and some 20 people were in the audiroom in the garage for the performers, who were: Sheree Stern, 6500 SW 21st St.; Sandi Brav-erman, 6550 SW 21st St.; Lisa Ericksson, 6511 SW 22nd St.; Jeffrey and Ronnie Lipsitz, 6450 SW 21st

St.; and Amy Erdheim.

The troupe rehearsed the show for two weeks and the actors made their own costumes. Sheree's father, who owns Hurricane Printing, helped a bit with the tickets, and the mamas took care of the refreshments.

The 60c collected would with enough revenue for one Batman comic book. There were no talent scouts in the audience and no newsreel photog-

Elegant Setting For Cotillion Club Luncheon

Cotillion Club members met for luncheon and seating of new officers, at the fabulous new home of Carol (Mrs. Edward) Fogg. About 30 dined in the living room with the Italian Provincial air, beneath a crystal chandelier, or in the family room with deep leather chairs and dark wood paneled walls, or on the patio with trellis cover with vines trailing and overlooking the free form pool and circle dance floor.

The dining table was filled with goodies and overhead, crystal prisms sparkled.

President Marilyn (Mrs. James) Hiss, turned the gavel over to new President Dottie (Mrs. Jerry) Wright. First V.P. is Eddie (Mrs. Wayne) Martin, Recording secretary, Babs (Mrs. Jack) Coleman, Corresponding secretary, Maureen (Mrs. John) Koval, and Treasurer Dottie (Mrs. Jim) Culver.

Spent a marvelous few hours with Van Heflin who is opening Tuesday night in "A Case for Libel" at the Coconut Grove Playhouse. He is such a gentle, easy man to talk with. He has been looking forward to coming here in this play and hopes we like him. He told me that he has a lovely red-haired wife, Frances. a red-haired daughter in her twenties, and one nineteen and his son, his fishing buddy just 11.

He spoke lovingly of them and seriously of his craft, acting, preferably the theater where the name of Van Heflin is with the greats.

The hot line from the stork was busy this morning informing waiting grandparents to be, they were. Mona Tel (Fondron) and Chris Christiansen welcomed a 63/4 oz. baby girl into this old world, her name, Tiffany Tell Christensen, congratulations.

The busy ladies of the Church of the Epiphany are presenting a fashion show in the church auditorium. Marguerite (Mrs. John) Conroy is chairman with Elaine (Mrs. Pete) Schaefer and Marlene (Mrs. Richard) Mariani giving assistance.

Parsons on Coral Way will do the fashions and J. Baldi hair styles. King Rex will rule over the day, his name is Michael Maguire, son of the Francis Maguire's.

You guessed it, on February 18th, at 12 noon it will be Mardi Gras time, and the lilting strains of 'Take me to the Mardi Gras' will be sung by lovely Bonne (Mrs. T. M.) Campbell and Olive (Mrs. Pete) Odell as commentator, will make all your dreams come true.

The Name of the Game is Oneupsmanship

By BETSY POLLER

THE ALL-TIME favorite adult parlor game is called "Oneupsmanship." It is played by batting a concept back and forth over a net, or as it is sometimes called a "coffeetable."

The open form of the game, in which any number can participate, is known as "the cocktail party," but skilled players prefer mixed doubles.

To illustrate the rules and playing procedure, let us follow one round of Oneupsmanship between Bernie and Phyllis, the "Hosts," and Irma and Harry, the "Guests." ("Guests" and "Hosts" rotate roles much as a baseball team plays half its games in the home park.)

THE GUEST starts the game with a service, or as it is called in Oneupsmanship, a "Compliment." Irma says, "What a delicious dip. Mmmmmm! Never tasted anything like it. What's your recipe, Phyl?"

Phyl scores immediately: "It's something new.

After I load my dishwasher, I put all the dry ingredients in a clean bowl, and put that in my dishwasher. By the time the dishes are washed, the dip

By establishing ownership of an automatic dishwasher. Phyllis scores in the Appliance-Dropping division. Two points.

Other acquisitions, not necessarily appliances, also carry credits; electric toothbrushes, half a point; Weimaraners, two points; an English secretary, four points; a college education, half a point.

BUT BACK at the Coffeetable, Phyllis' partner, Bernie, must now serve into Harry's court. "How's business, Harry."

"Terrible." (This is a reverse-twist, so Bernie shifts into a defensive stance, knowing a wicked curve is going to come from somewhere.) "Been working so hard the Doc tells me I need a rest, so I'm taking Irma to Acapulco for a month or so.'

The answer earns an automatic three points for Harry, unless Bernie can say, "You'll love it there. Phyl and I did."

Las Vegas would have been worth one point; Aspen, Colo., two points; a private room in Doctor's Hospital, half a point.

Play can be varied. Currently popular is The Full-Length Gown Ploy, in which the hostess answers the door swathed head to toe in ulcerated madras, coyly bats $17.98 mink eyelashes (with the price tag glued to the strands) and says, "Irma! Harry! pussycat. How ring-a-ding-ding to see you."

THE TECHNIQUE can be dangerous, however. Recently, in California, a host driving his motorized golf cart on the patio caught the hem of his wife's long gown, and the resulting accident sent both players to the Penthouse Suite of a nearby hospital.

But by having three Major Medical policies, the couple not only made a profit by being hospitalized, but accumulated enough points to win game, set and Carole Lynn Aring and Charles L. Bible, Jr., were married Feb. 5 in Gethsemane Lutheran Church, Cleveland, Ohio.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Richard Aring, 4825 Fairlawn Dr., Lyndhurst, Ohio. A graduate of Cleveland schools, she is currently a stewardess employed by Eastern Airlines.

She was attended by Judy Killough and Mitzie Neely.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Bible, 6225 SW 98th St. He attended the University of Miami and is now a pilot for Delta Airlines.

John Bible served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Robert Bible, Larry Durham, and Brian Aring.

The bride selected a floorlength sheath of silk organza and Alencon lace. The modified Empire style bodice had a free hanging lace top, Sabrina Neckline and short

'Case of Libel'

Van Heflin Meets the Press And Talks About Grove Role

By HINDI DIAMOND

Some men of distinction are horn that way.

And some are made.

Actor Van Heflin is of the former class, and when he enters a room, you are fully aware of his presence. He commands. He inspires confidence. He speaks with the assurance and poise that comes after 30 years in the theatre.

Above all, his words have the ring of truth. He says only what he means. And honesty was the keynote of an informal interview planned by the Coconut Grove Theatre management Monday night when a dozen or so reporters, radio and tv men, editors and close associates of the Grove family met informally over cocktails and dinner with Van Heflin.

"How do you like this theatre?" he was asked.

"I haven't been backstage yet," replied Heflin in that deeply resonant voice that exudes charm and a deep sense of security. Reporters knew by the that when he does backstage everything will be of a beach magazine asked.

"None, I have never appeared here."

"Oh, it must have been some other handsome guy."

Heflin is handsome despite an uneven craggy face and bushy expressive eyebrows. He opens at the Grove in "A Case of Libel" which was extracted from lawyer Louis Nizer's best-selling "My Life in Court."

remarks with:

"I know this is a stupid question - but do you play this as if it were actually the case of Quentin Reynolds and Westbrook Pegler?"

"No, I don't even imitate Nizer. We're nothing alike. It's a great compliment to me if he likes my performance (and he came many times to see it on Broadway,) but I couldn't possibly imitate him.

A LETTER OF INVITATION

In these days it is difficult to find a Gospel Believing, Gospel preaching church that stands uncompromisingly for "the faith which was once delivered unto the saints." We would like to take this opportunity to both acquaint you and invite you to such a Church—Dadeland Baptist Church.

There never has been a greater need than now for an evangelistic, independent, and fundamental Baptist Church that believes in the plenary verbal inspiration of the Bible for sole rule of faith and practice and which opposses all forms of Modernism, Neo-evangelicalism, Neo-orthodoxy and all other "isms" contrary to the clear teaching of God's Word.

If you love the Lord and are looking for such a fellowship of believers — a fellowship that loves the "old-time religion" and Gospel singing — then meet with us at Vineland Elementary School, 8544 S.W. 119th St. (one block East from 87th Ave.) every Sunday at 10:00 A.M. for Sunday School and 11:00 A.M. for Worship Service and Junior Church. We also meet on Sunday Evenings at 7:00 P.M. For further information please confact:
