oust Hollingsworth, Mrs. Barnes; Press Job Goes to Mary Moore

Tracy Hollingsworth and Nellie Barnes, manager and secretary, respectively, of the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce, were dismissed from their posts today by the chamber directors.

Appointed in their places were Samson Pederson to the position of manager, and Mary T. Moore to the office of publicity director for the chamber. Mrs. Moore will handle the Chamber of Commerce duties upon leaving her present job of publicity director for the City of Coral Gables. Under a new arrangement the Chamber of Commerce will handle publicity for the City of Coral Gables as well as its own public relations.

The dismissal of Hollingsworth and Mrs. Barnes was voted at a meeting of the board of directors of the chamber on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Pederson is a pioneer in Coral Gables real estate and thoroughly conversant with the problem of this area. Mrs. Moore has been in newspaper work for five years and has handled the city publicity bureau for the past two years.

Mr. Hollingsworth was associated with the Chamber of Commerce in the capacity of publicity director until the recent death of Alvie Lindborg. At that time the directors appointed Mr. Hollingsworth manager and Mrs. Barnes was hired as secretary.

Program Planned For Women

Picture, Talks On Defense Are Scheduled Here

A triple program, featuring a talk by Jack Kofoid, newspaper columnist, a technical picture on home defense and an address by a food expert will be presented at 10 A. M. Wednesday at the Coral Theatre under the auspices of the Home Defense Division of the Dade County Defense Council.

The importance of women in defense of the nation will be stressed by Kofoid in his address.

The motion picture, "The Proof of the Pudding," will illustrate what the women of America can do in their homes to help insure victory over the Axis powers.

Awards of several grocery baskets to women attending will be a feature of the talk on nutrition by a food expert being sent here by the council.

"Since the program promises to be interesting and of much value to the women of Coral Gables, we are asking that they make a special effort to attend," Mrs. Andrew Healy, chairman of the event, stated yesterday. "The admission is free, so come and bring your friends."

Mrs. Healy has also requested that all organizations in the Gables announce the program at their meetings and urge the memberships to attend.

She is assisted by Mrs. R. B. Raymond and Mrs. Earl M. DeNoon.

Member of Flying Tigers Flies 17,000 Miles to Gables and Rest

Covering 17,000 miles since he left China on July 4, Edgar Goyette, member of the famed Flying Tigers, arrived in Coral Gables Wednesday night for a brief rest from the ardors of working with the American Volunteer group. Goyette, brother of Captain Cyril Goyette, 307 Avenue Alessio, now in Africa, spent a year with the Flying Tigers, mostly in the Rangoon area. He was in charge of American boys in pursuit flying in the "P-40's."

He said that the boys now doing heroic fighting with the Chinese against Japan average about 24 years in age.

Goyette has covered a lot of territory since he left China on Independence Day. Using Pan-American Airways facilities, he

CAR STOLEN, RECOVERED IN ONE DAY

H. E. Ayer, 431 Madeira, had the experience this week of having his car stolen and returned all in the same day. Ayer parked his car in front of the Venetian Pool on Sunday afternoon while he went swimming. He came out to find his car gone and reported the theft to police.

At 9:45 that evening police found his car, hidden under the old University building near the Ingraham Highway.

Air Training For Local Schools Set

William D. McAdams, representing the Air Training Corps of America, a non-profit organization fostering pre-flight training for high school youth, addressed Dade County school officials Wednesday afternoon at the Country Club of Coral Gables.

R. P. Terry, chairman of the County School Board, said he was sure the Dade County Board of Public Instruction would approve of the ATCA program to include pre-flight training courses in the schools beginning in September.

Some meteorology, navigation, communications and other courses would be given to boys of the eleventh and twelfth grades. McAdams pointed out that England's training of young men between the ages of 18 and 20 years has been a great contributing factor in its defense.

The meeting was called by the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce. Harry N. Rath, principal of Ponce de Leon High School, acted as chairman, and was the first principal to sign an application asking for the course.

MRS. NORRIS HEADS ST. STEPHEN'S GUILD

Mrs. Frederick Norris of Coconut Grove will be the instructor in the newly-formed Altar Guild at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, it was announced Wednesday at a meeting of the woman's auxiliary board, by the Rev. Rex Wilkes, rector of the church.

Before joining the Tigers, Goyette was a member of the U. S. Naval Air Corps. He said that he had no immediate plans for the future other than to rest and build up some new energy.

Cite War Work Now Being Done By Woman's Club

Coral Gables Riviera: It is unfortunate that the women of the Coral Gables Woman's Club should be the targets for such a caustic address as that made by Mr. Seiler before the Kiwanis Club last week. Surely the members of the Kiwanis Club must know something of the many patriotic and unselfish undertakings and contributions which we are constantly carrying out. It is also disappointing to us to know that the Riviera is so willing to give prominence to unsubstantiated facts.

It would occur to me that the Recreation Director of the Dade County Defense Council should be assured of the accuracy of his remarks, that he should recognize the need for wisdom and sanity, for good fellowship and co-operation, and should be careful, indeed, especially in his prominent position to guard against fostering resentment and dissension by broadcasting as facts statements of which he is wholly ignorant.

(Editor's Note: The Coral Gables Riviera makes no apologies for the story referring to the Woman's Club last week. The story, based on the remarks of E. E. Seiler, was mere factual and routine reporting and did not necessarily reflect the opinion of the Riviera or its staff. Had we omitted a report on Mr. Seiler's remarks, we would have been in violation of the basic ethics of journalism.)

I know, of course, that one cannot remove the knife and heal the wound at the same time. However, it is only fair to those who read the article in the Riviera on July 10th, to inform them regarding the true status of this matter:

For some months the members of the Junior Woman's Club, with the co-operation of the senior club, has been trying to organize a recreation club in the center of the Coral Gables area. We recognized, apart from its inconvenient location, that the community house is entirely inadequate to house a successful recreation center, it having only one room and a small kitchen (the committee room having been turned over to the Red Cross for its exclusive use more than a year ago). The General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which we are a member, contends that it is most essential at this time that all organized women's groups should continue to meet and plan ways and means of carrying on a well-formulated program for war service. It is, therefore, necessary to keep this room available for both senior and junior clubs, and other organizations, as well as for study classes and war work in which the community will share.

The women of the Coral Gables Woman's Club feel that it is far better to have an adequate and successfully operated recreation center under the USO. They have a splendid organization to which we all contribute gladly. We do not believe that such an endeavor should be confined to the membership of one club alone, for we know there are many women in Coral Gables, not members of our club, who will want to share in the work and responsibility.

Nazi Fate Simmering On the Kitchen Stove

REFUGEE SEES FUHRER'S FUTURE UP TO WOMENFOLK OF GERMANY

The fate of Hitler and his pursuit of his country's war may well lurk in the kitchens of Nazi Germany.

The Fuehrer's Gestapo, his strict rationing program, his cruelty—all aimed at a successful prosecution of the war—all strike at the housewife with relentlessness, according to Gerti Totshek, German refugee, who addressed this week's meeting of the Lions Club of Coral Gables.

"The women are turning against Hitler," Miss Totshek declared. "There is a scarcity of food—that alone strikes singularly at the womenfolk—and the bombings break up villages and homes, demoralizing the housewife. Then, too, sons are being killed; heads of families disappear mysteriously, and the Gestapo's brutal program takes its toll in the home. I hope the women will arise in revolt."

Miss Totshek escaped from Hitler's domain a little more than a year ago with her father and mother by first migrating to Spain. "When we left," the young lady related, "we were allowed to keep only four dollars per person, our real and personal property, valuables, jewelry, and the like, were taken from us."

The speaker said that there is no private life in Nazi Germany, that the Hitler government must know every thought and act of the citizens. There is little or no education except military, and the population is approaching the point of starvation.

"Don't feel too sorry for yourself about your having only four gallons of gas a week. No one has gas in Germany unless it be used in prosecution of government business. The Gestapo stops and questions drivers, takes their cars away from them or levies heavy fines in the event they are not on official business. Nearly every taxi has been confiscated."

Miss Totshek said that German citizens were not permitted to mourn for lost dear ones nor to talk about death or missing relatives. "The citizens don't—or can't—feel anything," she said. "It doesn't matter how many are killed as long as Hitler gets his way."

The speaker said that German people were rationed only a quarter pound of butter per week per person, two eggs per person every two weeks, a quarter pound of sugar a month, and workers must turn over approximately 35 per cent of their pay to Hitler's government.

President Leland Shepard presided at the meeting, which was held at the Coral Gables Country Club. The speaker was introduced by Bob Bielawa, who also addressed the club on the subject of membership. A short education program was presented by Tom Baldwin. Pins for 100 per cent attendance were presented to George Okell and Ray Westcott.

Rumors of Ensign's Death Proved False

Rumors of the death of Ensign Randolph Dickens, Jr., U. S. N. R., which have been circulated about the Gables, were branded as false yesterday by Patrick J. Cesarano.

Cesarano said "I got so peeved at the gossippers around town that I took it upon myself to get in touch with the Navy Department." He received the following reply:

"In answer to your telegram we are glad to advise you that the status of Ensign Ralph Dickens, Jr., has been investigated and there is no report indicating that he is missing or killed."

Cesarano said that he hoped that the letter, which was signed by Randall Jacobs, Chief of Navy Personnel, would put a stop "to these rather harmful rumors."

Fan and Razor Are Stolen From Shop

Smith, an official of Southern Dairies and Gables resident, Dr. Kitchens assisted in the rescue of 40 occupants of two lifeboats from a torpedoed American merchantman off the east coast of Florida July 8. Attracted by the blaze of the burning ship, Kitchens and Smith, who were staying at a fishing lodge near Craig, put out in their cabin cruisers to help in the rescue.

Coral Gables police are searching for a sneak thief who looted lockers at the Venetian Pool last Sunday and got away with over $60 in cash and a gold watch.

Victims of the looting were E. Barker and O. W. Boles, cadets at the San Sebastian; W. Lemprey of Miami Beach and A. Moltach of Belle Glade, who lost the watch.

The thief broke in the lockers during the afternoon while the men were in swimming and took the wallets and watch from the pockets of their clothes.

To Remodel Store on Boulevard

Samuel Randall Named Director; Architect Due

Leasing of the store building at 1810-1812 Ponce de Leon Boulevard for a Coral Gables USO center was announced yesterday by C. S. Robertson, chairman of the Coral Gables USO Council.

Selection of the site was made this week during a visit of Captain George Bibbe of the Salvation Army, who came here from Jacksonville to confer with the local committee at the request of the national USO organization.

The USO will take care of the remodeling of the building and its furnishing. A USO architect will arrive next week to draft plans for the work to be done.

Under the national USO regulations, each center must be sponsored by one of the USO member organizations, and the Salvation Army has been selected to sponsor the local unit.

The building, which formerly housed the Coral Gables Furniture Company, has been leased for two years with a renewal option at a rental of $125 per month.

Samuel Randall, formerly connected with the Miami Y. M. C. A., has been named temporary director of the local center.

The local USO council will be increased to 25 members, with all civic clubs being represented. Officers include Chairman Robertson, Wallace Bell, vice-chairman; Mrs. Evan D. Rorer, vice-chairman and Mrs. W. O. Mehrtens, secretary. Tracy Hollingsworth and Father Thomas Comber are also members of the council.

The drive for a service center was started by the Coral Gables Junior Woman's Club, which will work with the USO (Please turn to Page five)

In the Women's World

Colorful as a fiesta and cool as an arctic breeze are these cotton frocks worn by Kathryn Keyes and Rosemary DeCamp. Kathryn (left) finds her two-piece suit of waffle pique with brown bold print perfect for country or town. Rosemary's more informal pinafore styled frock is of green broadcloth and variegated printed pique.

All set for a day in the sun is petite Renee Terry. She's wearing a three-piece blue and white polka dotted cotton outfit of peasant styled bodice, brief shorts and overskirt. Notice how the elasticized banding on the bodice and skirt make for perfect fit.

Figure flattering is this printed dinner frock which Ann Eden wears these warm summer evenings. It is of the new Priority Beige with oversize white flowers, and the styling follows all the new WPB fabric-saving rulings.

For informal dinners or high teas, Margot Stevenson, CBS actress of "Columbia Workshop," wears this attractive Janet Taylor tri-color frock of black crepe topped by a white blouse and trimmed with red shoulder tabs and belt. Her John-Fredrics black lacy straw hat with jet-studded veiling is as light as a feather.

California styled sport shirt in a gay plaid cotton is a comfortable and colorful addition to CBS newscaster Dick Joy's wardrobe. He wears it with slacks, shorts or over a swim suit, and recommends it for the most active sports. (From Art Vogue, California.)

Begin With Broiling Best Advice to Brides

"Begin with broiling"—is best advice to brides at the brink of their cooking careers. Kitchen adeccadarians (beginners to you) run no risk of ruining meat, mainstay of any meal, when they use the under-the-flame technique.

Broiling boasts a bonny lot of special advantages, as seasoned cooks have long since learned. Quick cooking best conserves the important proteins, the B vitamins, the essential minerals that make meat a nutrition must. Broiling won't heat up the summer-time kitchen, it takes less time, leaves no trail of pots and pans to wash. Best of all, a whole meal can be lifted right off the grid when thick tomato slices, halved bananas and strips of bacon are broiled right along with the meat, during the latter part of cooking.

How and What to Broil Steaks take to broiling like you take to steak (was there ever a tastier victual?) but remember that many are the thrifty cuts which can be broiled. Economy shoulder chops are right as rib and loin for broiling. Leave all pork cuts for oven residence, but try patties of ground lamb or beef for broiling. Kidney likes a sojourn under the broiler; some cooks believe bacon's best when broiled; and the whopping lot of nourishment that is in the frankfurter may be served after the frank has been split and grilled.

Trick in Turning Success with broiling is based on just one turning. Poking and prodding that chop to see if it's done, turning it over and over, only hinders the even browning and thorough cooking.

Diary of a Beauty Authority

Summer Care for Your Skin

Cleanliness is essential to your beauty. A dull, sluggish, pore-clogged skin is never beautiful and even the most carefully applied make-up cannot disguise it or give it the lovely glowing radiance of a healthy, well-cared-for complexion. In the summer, especially, it is of vital importance, for the oil and perspiration glands are doubly active, the skin very easily attracts accumulations of dust and pore-clogged impurities, and care must be taken to keep the skin clear and immaculately clean.

A young woman of my acquaintance visited me earlier this week and while I was speaking to her, I noticed that her usually fine-textured, smooth skin was beginning to lose its healthy glow and even to show sallowness. When I questioned her about her recent activities and she told me that she was doing a great deal of war work and had been forced to give up many of her outside interests, I realized what happened. She had always played a lot of golf and tennis, and gone to dances frequently, and as a result, since she was always active, her circulation was continually being stimulated and her skin "exercised" itself. Now, since she is indoors at a desk most of the time, her skin needs extra help to keep it clear and fine, but she never realized it until I called it to her attention.

Many other young women, formerly out-of-doors and physically active most of the time, now find themselves in the same position as my young friend. They, too, must realize that every skin requires a washing preparation. Some need to use it only once a week, some three times, and some skins need to be carefully washed every day and each type should use a different kind of preparation.

The girl with very sensitive skin should use a superfine, creamy paste which is applied to the skin after it has been wet with warm water and which gently urges out all accumulations of dust and grime and stale make-up. For the skin that is neither unduly coarse nor extremely fine and sensitive, there are little granules which form a pen-

by HELEN REYNOLDS

We watched Oscar Lindstrom, soldier at Embury-Riddle and his bride, Miss Marion L. Bourne, both of Massachusetts, being photographed Saturday night following their wedding at the Coral Gables Methodist Church. The pretty bride, dressed all in white (short pleated skirt, long-sleeved blouse, shoulder-length veil) and carrying a Colonial bouquet with streamers, seemed earnest indeed as she stood beside her new husband on the lawn facing a fading sun being photographed. Near by stood the wedding guests, mostly soldiers from the aviation school, and it made us wonder about these hurried weddings. We learned from the Rev. Carlock Hawk, who performed the ceremony (and the same from Dr. Nevin Schaaf of the Presbyterian Church) that he has from ten to fifteen of these weddings a month; that as simple or elaborate as they may be the bride always manages to have a bouquet—that the bride may come from a great distance, as in Marion's case from Massachusetts—may have to wait several days for the license, as the county judge's office is only open from 8:30 to 5 weekdays; only until twelve noon Saturdays—that a soldier cannot have time off to get that important document for which his bride-to-be must be present.

Cordial interest centers in announcement of the marriage of Lieutenant F. F. Glomb, Jr., and Miss Minnie Lou Miller of Chickasha, Okla. Lieutenant Glomb, Jr., and his bride are residing at Camp Edwards, Mass. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Glomb of Coconut Grove and a graduate of the University of Florida.

Enjoying their very first trip to Coral Gables is Mrs. L. E. Krebs, sister of Mrs. Warren Zinsmaster of 1414 Madrid Street and her three children, Miss Fay Krebs, 14; Dickson 8 and Billy 7, all of West Orange, N. J. Planning to stay just two weeks, the Krebs already have been persuaded to stay over for just a wee bit longer. Mr. Krebs is in the research division of the Bell Telephone Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks W. Bateman have returned to Coral Gables to live permanently in their home at 1409 Alhambra Circle. For the past several years they have been residing in Pahokee, where Mr. Bateman has vast farming interests. . . Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gleason, accompanied by their police dog, "Queenie," left Tuesday by motor for Hendersonville, N. C., to spend several months.

Miss Mildred Kennedy moved her school, the Ken-Castle, this week to 914 Ponce de Leon Boulevard, where she is established in much roomier quarters. Miss Kennedy has conducted the school all summer with full complement of teachers. She is hoping to get away for a week's vacation soon, when she will go to Savannah, Ga., to greet her very newest nephew, John Henry Kennedy, named for his paternal grandfather, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Patrick Kennedy of Savannah.

Captain Page Fortney, U. S. A., and Mrs. Fortney and small son have taken a house on Avenue Majorca. Captain Fortney is with the engineering department of the Army stationed in Miami. Mrs. Fortney is the former Miss Marjorie Shaut of Coral Gables.

Mrs. Fred Ralsten, accompanied by Mrs. John Alfred White, Jr., who has been her house guest this winter, left Tuesday by motor for Washington for an extended stay. She plans to visit in Detroit, Battle Creek and Chicago, and will spend a great deal of time visiting her friend, Mrs. Frank Fulton, who lives on a large estate in Illinois. . . Miss Lauramae Gordon of 1016 Avenue Milan will leave Monday for Atlanta to visit Colonel and Mrs. Joseph R. Cooke.

Miss Dorris Orrison of Washington, D. C., has arrived for a visit with Lieutenant and Mrs. E. D. Mack of 1421 Avenue Milan. Tonight Lieutenant and Mrs. Mack will entertain at cocktails and a buffet supper in honor of their visitor. Among guests, mostly from the Navy set at Opa-Locka, will be Lieutenant and Mrs. John Porter (Betty Wynn).

We're glad they will only be a few miles away, but we're sorry Commander and Mrs. W. W. Davies are moving to Opa-Locka. Commander Davies, recently promoted, has been named commander of the medical division of the Navy at Opa-Locka, which will necessitate their living at the post. They formerly lived at 1245 Avenue Andalusia.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bang, 2806 Columbus, left this week for Willmette, Ill., to visit Mrs. Bang's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gross Williams. They will return in September.

Orchids to the attractive Mrs. Kessach Duke White of 3301 Granada Boulevard who, through the Red Cross, has sold War Bonds and Stamps amounting to thousands of dollars. Mrs. Duke, whose native land is Denmark, is most enthusiastic in her praise of the American Red Cross. She is a member of the surgical dressing unit, recently completed the course in nutrition given by Mrs. J. L. McIver and will probably join the new canteen class about to be opened in Coral Gables.

Mrs. Walter N. Pierce and sons, Walter, Jr., and Staples, and Mrs. M. Lewis Hall and sons, Lewis, Jr., Frank and Vincent, got a real thrill out of the week just spent at the Hall ranch in the Everglades. They took a trip over the locale of "Cross Creek" and experienced many of the thrills Mrs. Marjorie Kinman Rawlins wrote about in her recent non-fiction best seller.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Whalen have just had as their guests their daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Whalen and Miss Louise Schoonmaker, both student nurses at the medical and surgical center in San Antonio, Texas. Miss Whalen and Miss Schoonmaker both attended the University of Miami. Both decided to take up nursing at the war's beginning. Miss Schoonmaker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Schoonmaker, formerly lived in Miami and have now established their residence in San Antonio.

Plan Sunday Teas for Cadet Entertainment

Coral Gables Junior Woman's Club will join with the seniors in three immediate projects, it was decided at the luncheon meeting of the club Monday at the Green Lantern.

With the seniors the juniors will sell War Bonds and Stamps the week of the 23rd of July at a downtown Woolworth store. In competing with other Greater Miami clubs, the local clubs may win a $25 bond from the store management.

The junior club will join with the seniors in promoting the Sunday teas and open-house hour the senior club has been featuring for the past several months for the American and R. A. F. cadets stationed at the University of Miami.

The junior club will join the senior in taking the advanced first-aid classes, to begin at 10 A. M. Tuesday in the clubhouse. These classes will be conducted two days a week.

The club also voted to accept the city's offer for the free use of the pool and will have a party the night of July 27th, with Mrs. Lewis C. Lindsay, Jr., chairman, in charge.

About 50 members attended the meeting and bridge party on Monday.

University Dean Returns From Pennsylvania

Dr. Charles R. Foster, dean of the School of Education, University of Miami, returned Monday from Middletown, Pa., where he and his family were called by the illness and death of Mrs. Foster's father, Dr. Henry W. George.

Dr. George was a prominent Middletown physician, having practiced medicine there for more than forty years. He was, within the past year, a visitor in the Foster home in Coral Gables, and had also visited Miami when it was just a small town at the lower end of the Florida East Coast Railroad.

Dr. George was a graduate of Muhlenberg College and of the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia. He had specialized in ophthalmology through post-graduate work at the Wills Eye Hospital, Philadelphia; Harvard University, and the University of Vienna, Austria.

He was a community leader and had become well known throughout eastern Pennsylvania as a ruling elder and clerk of the session of the Presbyterian church, president of the Middletown school board for twenty-five years, vice-president of the Citizens National Bank and Trust Company of Middletown, and Pennsylvania Railroad surgeon.

He is survived by one son, Dr. Forney P. George, of Harrisburg, Pa., and three daughters. His only grandchildren are the three daughters of Dean and Mrs. Foster, Helen Katharine, Jessie May and Eleanor Ann.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Metour Are Wed In Beautiful Home Ceremony Tuesday

Because Navy orders speeded their departure, Lieutenant and Mrs. Gildas Eugene Metour were married Tuesday night and left immediately for Washington, D. C.

The ceremony that united the former Miss Audrey Leitch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Granville Leitch, and Lieutenant Metour, was performed before the beautiful picture window in the drawing room of the Leitch home in Mariola Court, with the Rev. Carlock Hawk reading the service. Tall standards of gladioli palms and many lighted candles gave a soft glow to the tropical setting. Vows were spoken before a prie dieu.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a model of madonna blue silk jersey with low hipline, the slightly draped skirt falling into a brief train. Many self-covered buttons trimmed the bodice and the bracelet sleeves. A flower arrangement of pink and blue blossoms with madonna blue veiling was worn and her bouquet of taberna montana was in Colonial style.

Mrs. Jack Orr was matron of honor. Her gown of watermelon pink organza was complemented with a pink flower hat and veiling. She carried an arm bouquet of cream gladioli.

Lieutenant Robert Payne, U. S. N., was best man. During the ceremony and preceding, a program of nuptial music was given by Mrs. C. T. McCreedy, soprano; Mrs. S. Earle Giffin, violinist, with Mrs. Dorothy Moore at the piano.

The bride's twin cousins, the Misses Rosemary and Georgia May Pryor, held white ribbon streamers which marked the bridal path and six Navy lieutenants stood as witnesses.

The bride's mother wore pale green chiffon with pink accessories and rosebud corsage; the bridegroom's mother, cerise and white with corsage of roses.

At the reception the bride's table was overlaid with a damask cloth centered with a flower arrangement of pink rosebuds and lighted with white tapers in silver candelabra. The bride and bridegroom cut the cake in traditional manner with a Navy sword being toasted in champagne at the same time by the six Navy lieutenants.

For traveling Mrs. Metour wore green and white coin dot sheer, white accessories and orchid corsage.

Among guests, including many Army and Navy officers, was the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. William Pollansbee (Vivian Metour), whose husband has just received his Navy commission. Mrs. Pollansbee is from Pittsburgh.

The bride attended Gulliver's School and the University of Miami Law School. Lieutenant Metour was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh, holds a master's degree and a Ph.D. from Columbia, and is a member of Delta Tau Delta social fraternity. He has been professor of sociology at the University of Miami, of which his father, the late Dr. E. P. Metour, was the first professor of French.

Dinner Guests Enjoy Early Curfew at Club

Country Club "curfew" of midnight closing during the week and 1 A. M. Saturdays, adds to the gaiety of the dinner parties, for dancing is now started one hour earlier.

Dinner parties at the club Saturday night included one given by John Woelfel, 751 Avenue Malaga, for Mr. and Mrs. Lester L. Sisks of Boston and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bitors of Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bennett, 1253 Avenue Asturia, honored her mother, Mrs. William Giersch, and her sister, Miss Sally Giersch, who came down from West Orange, N. J., at dinner and dancing for ten.

Lieutenant and Mrs. A. O. Powell (Mary Jane Cunningham) were hosts at the dancing party, having a table for ten honoring his sister, Miss Lucy Ellen Powell, South Hill, Va., and Miss Aileen Overby of Chatham, Va.

To Beach for Summer
Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bennett of 1253 Avenue Asturia have moved to 8720 Harding Avenue, Miami Beach, for the summer.

Miss Handy, Mr. Pratt Are Wed

Miss Loretta Elizabeth Handy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Handy of 4624 S. W. 11th Street, became the bride of Vernon L. Pratt, U. S. N., of Waco, Texas, at 7 o'clock last night at the First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. W. K. C. Thompson officiating.

The bride wore a street-length frock of white mousseline de soie made with V-neckline and short puff sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a small flower arrangement on the head and she wore a corsage of gardenias. A reception followed the nuptials at the home of the bride's parents in Coral Gables. Mr. Pratt is a seaman stationed at Opa-Locka, where are also two of his brothers, Floyd Pratt, who acted as best man for his brother, and Roy Pratt. The couple will reside in Miami.

Your soldier, whether he is husband or son, will enthusiastically approve the permanent given by our experts.

"He" will notice how natural it looks and how suited to your type and personality.

What are we fighting for

The Four Freedoms

FREEDOM FROM WANT

"Freedom from Want" is more than just an expression by a great humanitarian. It is the release of mankind from the hopeless struggle of scratching the bare earth for subsistence. Too long have there been too many human beings doomed to hunger, privation and mere creature existence in a world supposedly civilized and at peace. These people, of all colors and nationalities and faiths, must have the foods and the goods of the world made accessible to them if the dignity of man is ever to reach its full stature.

No nation on earth enjoys the bounty with which our country has been endowed. We have everything for a comfortable and full life. Our riches of the earth and the products they yield have offered incentive and reward to our people. They have enabled us to make America a land of homes and to establish the highest standard of living ever known.

It has always been thoroughly American to consider that the resources of our land belong to all of the people and that all should benefit from whatever should be derived from them. This is the democratic principle behind the belief of the big majority of Americans that our country must offer a fair opportunity to work and sufficient sustenance for all.

The wealth of our nation and the resourcefulness of our people are ample to provide the necessities of life for those who are in need. Our country is the most productive one there is in a world where all countries have become interdependent and where international commerce is ever more necessary, especially if further strides in America and greater world progress are to be realized. The peoples of all nations must therefore have access to the ample resources of the world and be free to enjoy them.

When nations can be freed from economic want they can flourish as we have, and then individual wants for the basic necessities of life can and will disappear from the world. This freedom will lift men all over the world still higher above the animal kingdom and establish man's full dignity everywhere. America points the way and will win the triumph to preserve it.

University Prepares Students For Army, Navy Service

Plans by which boys can prepare for service in the Army or Navy and at the same time continue in college have been outlined by Foster E. Alter, University of Miami dean of men, in answer to scores of inquiries from interested students. The University of Miami will begin training 165 men under the Army Enlisted Reserve program this fall, Deal Alter said. Candidates for Army commissions after they are graduated, these college students will not be subject to the draft before getting their degrees unless they fail to meet the required educational standards or otherwise reveal the lack of qualifications for officers.

Three similar setups are sponsored by the Navy. Under the V-1 program 80,000 freshmen and sophomores complete two years of academic and pre-induction training in college. From these, 20,000 are selected on the basis of a qualifying examination for admission to the V-5 program, and 15,000 are chosen for the V-7 program. The others are called to active service as apprentice seamen at the end of their sophomore year. Sophomores, juniors and seniors are admitted to the V-5 program. They may finish the current college year before being ordered to active duty. After thirty days' training as seamen, these boys receive nine months' instruction in flying and become ensigns in the Navy or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps.

Under V-7, deck or engineering officers are trained. After taking their college degrees, the V-7 students become apprentice seamen for 30 days and after three months' further instruction are commissioned as ensigns.

Consequently, he suggested, soldiers, sailors, marines and members of the air forces should be examined periodically as a preventive measure. "One man not having proper care might fall below the standard of efficiency demanded of him, and this could mean the failure of an entire task force," the doctor noted.

To Graduate From 'U' of M On July 24

Paul C. Washburn, 44 Avenue Santillana, Coral Gables, will complete requirements for his bachelor of business administration degree at the close of the University of Miami first summer session, July 24. Nine other students, three of them from Miami and one from Miami Beach, will complete degree requirements at the same time. Another group will receive diplomas at the end of the second summer session, September 4.

Both the senior and junior groups will co-operate in all ways to make this undertaking successful. The community house is available for any social or educational program that the USO may desire to carry out and the facilities of the library are also available to the service men.
The Coral Gables Woman's Club has long since laid aside its own social program and meetings for the more urgent work of the times, and we believe that the people of Coral Gables are likewise entirely too busy with their individual war effort to give any credence to Mr. Seiler's incredible remarks. Volunteers Needed

Over 7,000 persons in Coral Gables have completed the Red Cross first aid courses being given under the auspices of the Dade County Defense Council.

This is quite a noteworthy record, and it shows that many of our residents are preparing themselves for an emergency.

But there's a fly in the ointment! With all these residents qualifying as First Aiders, the casualty station of our district of the Defense Council is still woefully undermanned.

People with first aid training are needed to serve with this unit, which works with the doctors in time of emergency. But no volunteers are forthcoming.

Now its fine to take these first aid courses. But that isn't doing your war duty. That is only preparing yourself to do it. For the time you spent in taking the first aid course you received valuable knowledge in return. Now you owe it to yourself and your country to put that knowledge to use.

Go to the Volunteer Bureau in the Chamber of Commerce today and offer your services with this unit.

Remember—if you are not contributing to victory you are hindering.

Gas Rationing

Coral Gables automobiles blossomed out this week with a new windshield insignia, a white "A" on a black background. Equally important as the OCD insignia, the sticker signifies that the motorist is further helping the war effort by using approximately four gallons of gasoline a week, thus saving rubber and gasoline needed by the nation's war machine.

The new gas rationing represents a far more drastic curtailment of car use than did the first ration period. "A" book holders will be able to use their cars only when it is absolutely necessary. Neighbors must work together and pool their automobiles through "Share-a-Ride" clubs and other systems.

Some residents, of course, will find it necessary to apply for additional ration coupons to carry on the business of earning a living. But all those who apply must have a strictly valid reason for getting extra gas. The ration board is going to be "tough" and many applicants will be turned down.

But even those who must get along on the "A" books will find it far less sacrifice than is being made by the thousands of American youths now in distant lands and the thousands who will follow them.

In Our Mail

Editor, The Riviera:
It has been brought to our attention that the boys in training in Coral Gables (other than the cadets) feel the residents of Coral Gables are not considerate enough in their hospitality and have asked us if we might be able to do something about it. They say that when a person calls up for service men they say, "Send me a couple of CADETS for Sunday dinner," and so forth, and they feel they should have the same consideration shown them that is shown the cadets.

However, we do know that the City of Coral Gables is doing everything it can to bring about some sort of recreation for all the service men, which we hope will soon be solved.

We hope your paper will run a few lines in hopes that the people may be enlightened to the fact that all the boys in training are not cadets, and when asking for boys say "boys in training," not cadets.

We thank you, ESTHER MARVIN, Secretary American Legion Auxiliary

WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Churchill spoke the literal truth when he said that the debate in Parliament last week was an example of freedom which no other country would use or dare to use in times for mortal peril such as those through which we are passing. Given the steady political discipline of the British people, and the fact that when an issue is raised it can be met and disposed of quickly by a vote in the House, there is, perhaps, a net advantage from what happened.

But we must not underestimate the price which has to be paid for so lavish a use of the privileges of freedom. The Prime Minister had flown to Washington, had participated in laborious and intense discussions, had received the hard blow of unexpected bad news, had made the tiring flight back to England, and then at one and the same time was forced to face the crisis of the battle of Egypt and the threat to the authority of his own government. One wonders whether Sir John Wardlaw Milne and his associates who prepared this ordeal are without the imagination to realize the human realities of this drama, whether, for example, they ever stopped to think that the time and energy Mr. Churchill and his government had to devote to the debate was that much time and thought and strength lost to the reinforcement of General Auchinleck.

Behind this debate there are undoubtedly issues of considerable importance which must be examined and dealt with. In Britain, as in Washington, there is much ground for improvement in the relations of Mr. Churchill as Minister of Defense, of Mr. Roosevelt as Commander-in-Chief, with the armed services. But in the crisis of a momentous battle the problem is how to do the very best that is possible with what you have; not to waste energy thinking how much better you would be doing if things were different. General Auchinleck's task is to fight General Rommel with the forces and the weapons that he has, and with those that Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt can send to reinforce him.

While he fights, General Auchinleck must be able to think only of Rommel, and that means that he must have the unqualified assurance of the support of all of the United Nations. And if he is to have their support, so that he may fight with both hands and not with one hand tied behind his back, he must not have to give a thought to wondering whether Mr. Churchill will still be Prime Minister the next morning.

In a struggle of the grandeur and magnitude of that which is now being fought, it is fatally wrong to disperse the nervous energy of our leaders and commanders. A battle calls for an inhuman effort of concentrated energy, and the democracies show their want of understanding of the nature of war when they allow themselves the luxury of forcing their leaders to scatter their attention.

The time for criticism is in the lull between battles. For then, criticism, if it is well directed, can apply the lessons learned from past mistakes. But during the battle itself we stand or fall with the leaders we have; it is impossible to change horses when crossing the stream, to put a new bridle on the horse, or even to wonder whether the horse is a bit of a mule.

If our leaders are to do the best they can with what they have, the civilians at home can help them best to do it by practicing self-reliance and thus relieving the war leaders of unnecessary burdens. We ought, for example to see to it that during the supremely critical months to come, the President and his chief advisers are not bothered by our civilian problems. The people, the Congress, the press, the officials directly responsible could do most for the Battle of Egypt and the Battle of Russia and the Battle of Atlantic and the Battle of the Pacific by making it unnecessary for the commander-in-chief to worry about rubber and gasoline and taxes and farm prices and wages.

These are civilian problems which we ought to have enough gumption and common sense to work out for ourselves. And we ought to do it as a means of relieving men burdened with the awful responsibility of conducting the war.

In a free country the government must have the consent of the people and must, therefore, keep them informed. But the people have a reciprocal duty which is to use their imaginations to realize the burdens of their leaders, to imagine themselves in the place of their leaders and thus to understand how heavy are those burdens upon the body, the nerves and the spirit. For we are not the audience of this momentous drama, able to sit in our seats and applaud or boo the actors. We are the actors too, called upon each of us to carry what we can of the weight of responsibility.

Editor, The Riviera:

Have just read this morning's Riviera and Mr. Seiler's reproof to the Coral Gables Woman's Club for the stand they take (not all of them, I am sure) as to the use of the building for the Soldiers' Recreation Center. The building does not, morally, belong to the women at all. It was built by the WPA, and it is well known that the WPA could only give its service to "tax-supported institutions." How that was gotten around in the gift of the Community House to the Woman's Club has already been a puzzle and a grief to me, as I hoped to see it a real community center—which it has never been.

To see the boys, to whom we owe so much, wandering about the streets of this beautiful (and, supposedly progressive) city is heart breaking. A few public-spirited citizens who have houses capable of meeting the need do entertain the visiting soldiers, but they are few, and as I am one of those living in a converted storeroom, am only able to protest, and assist with a few books and pictures if, and when, the woman's (Junior Woman's Club) succeeds in gaining a place.

Very truly yours,
DEWING WOODWARD.

It Depends on Whose Ox Is Gored

OUR TOWN by Jim Moore

Twice in the last week we have been approached by citizens who have been in sort of a quandary about what to do about some suspicions they have concerning un-American activities.

In both cases, they felt fairly certain that there were some grounds to their suspicions, but yet they felt reluctant to notify the authorities for fear they would send them on a wild goose chase and cause them to waste valuable time.

This, however, is not the case. The F. B. I. wants to hear about every little thing that even hints of espionage, un-Americanism or any enemy activities. Hundreds of calls come into its Miami office daily, and every one of them is carefully checked.

True, many of them prove to be false clues. But out of the large volume of tips received, some of them turn out to be valid and lead to the arrest of enemy agents and the suppression of Axis activities.

JIM MOORE

Many people hesitate to turn in their tips because they fear that their names will be made public and that the accused will take revenge. This is never the case. The F. B. I. keeps all your information in strict confidence. You are never revealed as the source of information. So you can allay your fears on that question.

And don't be afraid that you don't have enough evidence. If you've seen enough or heard enough to arouse doubts in your own mind, then the F. B. I. wants to know about it. They will follow through and gather their own evidence.

Enemy agents are very clever. Often they might reveal themselves through a mere slip of the tongue—just a hint that all is not as it seems. Oftentimes this seems hardly enough to arouse suspicion. But every American must be on the alert for just such slips of the tongue.

The fact that enemy agents have been landed in Florida and have been apprehended should serve to put every American on vigilant guard. J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has asked that every citizen be on the alert and report anything out of the way to the F. B. I. immediately.

The federal agents and the various branches of the military intelligence have a tough enough job on their hands. Spies, saboteurs and propagandists may be lurking anywhere. The Fifth Column never sleeps and America must never allow its vigilance to relax.

So, if you do know something that seems suspicious, don't delay another minute. Phone the F. B. I. at 9-2421 or go to its offices in the Biscayne Building and tell your story. Your cooperation will be appreciated and your information will be acted upon immediately.

"The Seashore Parade," by Muriel Guberlet (The Jacques Cattell Press).

Reviewed by LOUISE LEYDEN

Practically everyone is fascinated by the strange life inhabiting the waters along the seacoast. People who live in inland towns but who spend a part of each year on the beach, as well as those who live in close proximity to the sea, find the study of marine life a never-ending source of pleasure.

"The Seashore Parade" is a splendid book to assist one in becoming acquainted with these dwellers. It is of inestimable value to children, for it is written in language which they can fully understand. However, grownups will find it interesting and profitable also.

Beginning with the tiny organisms, the plankton, upon which many other forms of marine life depend for existence, the author introduces the reader to the sponge family, the jellyfish clan, sea worms, the clam tribe and various other queer creatures, ending with the tunicates, or sea squirts, as they are commonly called. Not only does one meet all these odd individuals and learn to recognize them upon sight; he also learns their unusual habits, their fondness for certain places to make their homes and their never-ending struggle for existence.

"The Seashore Parade" is a good handbook for those who live along the coast, particularly the tropical coast, where many of the denizens described are to be found. It contains over sixty illustrations by Jan Ogden.

This ONE'S ON You

LINGUIST—Captain Fu En I of the Chinese Air Force was addressing the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon last Tuesday. As he began his remarks, he apologized for his poor English, stating that he had only been in this country for eight months. Suddenly, a voice from the back of the room interrupted, "Gwan, you speak a lot better than those guys from Georgia."

SLOGAN—John Gautier and Jack Skillman, the funeral directors, are getting a lot of praise for their new slogan, "We would rather do business with 100 Japs than one American."

NEW TITLE—At the meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce the other evening, the boys were standing up, giving their names and businesses. When it got around to Stu Patton, the government attorney, whose job it was to clear the tenants out of the duPont Building for the Navy, he arose and said, "Stewart Patton—mover."

PILFERERS—We heard this one the other day about a restaurant man who thought he had evolved a way to keep patrons from stealing extra lumps of sugar from the sugar bowls. On each bowl he mounted a small American flag as an appeal to his customers' patriotism. They stopped taking the sugar all right—but took the flags instead.

Mark Sullivan

The home-front battle against inflation, begun by President Roosevelt on April 28, is at a stage somewhat like the battle in North Africa. Inflation has made some gains, but is now at pause. The next phase depends on two pending situations at Washington, both critical, and the two forming a kind of stalemate. One situation has to do with wages, the other with crop prices.

For a key to the stalemate of crop prices and wages, start with the price of hogs. They sold this week (in Mid-West markets) at the highest price in sixteen years. If they go higher, cost of pork to the housewife will go higher—neither Price Administrator Henderson nor anyone else can prevent it. With cost of pork would go cost of beef, all sorts of meat. The cost of living would go up. And if the cost of living goes up there will be more and more demands for higher wages in industry. Higher wages would lead to higher costs of goods—the spiral toward inflation would be under way.

And this, the Administration wishes to prevent—they are pledged to. In order to prevent it, they want to keep hogs from going higher. In order to do that, they want to keep down the price of the food which hogs eat.

Government Would Sell Wheat
The Administration has on hand great quantities of wheat, which they bought up in past years, and some of which has deteriorated. This wheat the Agricultural Department wants to sell, as feed for hogs and cattle. They wish to sell it at about 83 cents a bushel. To this, the congressional farm group in the House objects. They wish to prevent the Administration from selling any of its wheat at less than so-called "parity price," about $1.34 a bushel.

This is the cause of a kind of deadlock between Congress and the Administration, and a minor deadlock between House and Senate. It is the cause of failure to pass the Agriculture Department appropriation bill, which ought to have been passed before July 1.

Turn now to the wage end of the stalemate. Leaders of labor in four steel companies have demanding an increase of $1 a day. The demand is before the War Labor Board. If the board grants the raise, that will be a precedent for deciding several other demands before the board. It will also be a stimulant for yet other demands in many lines of industry. It would, in the judgment and fears of many, start an upward wage movement that might become a runaway.

The decision about wages is wholly in the hands of the Administration—in the wage field Congress has no control. On occasions last winter when Congress set out to pass legislation dealing with wages in war time, and with other matters affecting labor, President Roosevelt asked Congress to lay off. He wished labor matters to remain in the hands of himself and his appointees. To this wish Congress deferred. The pending decision about an increase in wages in the steel industry is in the hands of a twelve-man board, the War Labor Board, appointed by the President and responsible to him. Decision about the increase of wages is wholly an Administration matter.

What the administration does about wages is watched by the farm group in Congress, the leaders of farm organizations and farmers generally. If the wage raise is granted, farmers would feel they ought to stand pat in their position about "parity price" for wheat and other crops. On the other hand, if the wage increase is not granted, the farm group would feel that wages are about to be stabilized. In that event, they would probably be willing to let the Administration sell its wheat at a price below parity. With rises in wages stopped and stabilized, the farm group might feel that the battle against inflation could be won and might be willing to do their part.

The situation is crowded with intricacies, including attempts to do the impossible. The War Labor Board seems willing to stabilize wages, but at a higher average level than at present. At the same time the board wishes to increase what it calls "sub-standard" wages. Once a so-called sub-standard wage is increased, the average of all wages thereby goes up. Thereupon some other wages become sub-standard.

Seeks to Balance Wages
Also, the War Labor Board tries to balance hourly rates of wages in one industry against total weekly wages in another industry. In some of the steel industry, workers get a high rate per hour, and work only the statutory (forty) hours per week. In other industries men work the statutory forty hours and then work extra hours at one and one-half times the hourly rate. To raise hourly wages in one industry to parity with total weekly wages in another industry would be an upward spiral.

Until rise in wages is checked, and rise in farm crops is checked, nothing that Price Administrator Henderson can do in his field can be effective. This much has been learned, in a tedious lesson of education by experience. When price control of goods generally was suggested a year ago, most of the Administration held that wages and crop prices should be an exception. This attempted immunity was a deference to political considerations, rather than to economic law. After several awkward months, economic law is coming to be recognized.

"The Blue and the Gray" Colors for Women Working for Red Cross as Volunteers

Dade County Red Cross headquarters, especially the Volunteer Special Services, are all agog over the news sent from the Los Angeles Red Cross Conference regarding uniforms.

New cotton uniforms for all volunteer workers will be made of seersucker in blue or gray. Colored shoulder straps will denote the crops—yellow for staff assistants, green for motor corps, soldier blue for canteen, etc.

These new rules were made, Mrs. Dwight Davis, national director of volunteer special services, told the meeting, because of the shortage of dyes. For instance, manufacturers are no longer able to get the yellow dye used in the staff assistance uniforms.

The new lightweight uniforms for outdoor wear are a lovely blue-gray. Black shoes are to be worn with these, also black

Lindley DeGarmo Auxiliary Files Defense Record for Year

The Lindley DeGarmo Unit No. 70 of the American Legion Auxiliary is justly proud of its defense record of the past year, according to Mrs. L. M. Duncan, defense chairman, who filed the following report at the last meeting:

Mrs. Duncan reports 641 members gave 7,781 hours in Red Cross work; 4 members gave 1,236 1/2 hours in Filter Center work; 2 members gave 80 hours at observation post work; 1 took staff assistant's course; 5 Spanish class; 20 home nursing; 4 canteen and 29 took first aid.

One of the members, Mrs. A. L. Buzzell, departmental president last year, is a member of the speakers' bureau of the Dade County Defense Council. She also won first prize for the unit in the state competing with a national defense window display in the Anthony Arcade.

To the camps went 928 records, 90 puzzles and 17 books. The sum of $10 was donated to the U. S. O.; $206.75 was spent in War Savings Stamps and $1,425 in War Bonds has been sold through the unit.

A total of 217 hours were given to the various registrations that have been held, with Mrs. Buzzell in charge of production and Mrs. W. E. Burkins in charge of staff assistants at the Coconut Grove production rooms of the Red Cross. Mrs. Buzzell is also chairman for the inquiry division of Casualty Station No. 28, with a total of 24 hours having been given to this project so far.

Sprinklers Installed At School

The long-lamented problem of dust on the Elementary School playground was solved this week with the installation of a sprinkler system and the topsoiling and sprigging of the area.

The system, installed by W. B. Ector, supervisor of buildings for the Dade County Board of Public Instruction, will keep down dust and promote the growth of grass.

A solid turf is expected by the time school reopens in the fall.

HAIR STYLIST TO HOLLYWOOD

"Josephine," an operator at Alma Sanchez Hairdressing Salon, will leave this week for Hollywood, Cal., where she will study under the leading hair stylist for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, according to Miss Sanchez, who just returned this week from Mentone, Ala.

Josephine will stay on the west coast for about two months, returning here late in September to resume her work at Alma's.

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Bronston and son, John David, four, have leased the home at 905 S. W. 40th Avenue.

Seeking Names For War File

Readers of The Riviera are asked by the University of Florida to co-operate in the University's efforts to know the name of every former student who is now in military service.

The office of Frank S. Wright, University of Florida, Gainesville, announces that it has been making an intensive effort in recent months in building a "war file" of Florida alumni, and it is now estimated that approximately 4,000 former students of the university are in service.

University officials will appreciate very much a postcard sent to Mr. Wright at Gainesville simply giving the names of the young men of Coral Gables in some branch of the armed service.

Captain I Cites Need For Planes

The desperate need for more planes for the Chinese was stressed Tuesday by Captain Fu En I of the Chinese National Air Force, who addressed the Kiwanis Club at the Country Club of Coral Gables.

Captain I, who is studying navigation at the University of Miami, said that the Chinese air force owed both its inspiration and training to American Army officers who founded the aviation school in 1930.

In 1937 there were only 40 bombers and 60 pursuit ships in China, but the pilots managed to bring down 61 Jap planes in the first two weeks of fighting, I said.

Later 1,000 planes were purchased for Russia and used for two years until the Japs developed the Zero plane, which practically wiped out all of the Russian built craft.

Captain I said that the air situation in China didn't look very good at present because of lack of planes.

He said, "Every Chinese pilot carries a pistol with six bullets. Five of them are to kill Japs and the sixth is to commit suicide rather than to submit to the tortures of the bestial Nippons."

McClesky To Operate Swanee Bar

Opening of the Swanee Bar tonight, at 4380 Southwest 8th Street, under the new direction of Norman McClesky was announced today.

McClesky is well known in the Miami area, having lived here for the past twelve years. He was formerly associated with the Pig Tail Inn and the El Chico Bar on Miami Beach.

He is inaugurating a new policy of popular prices for all drinks. Eddie Charter's orchestra will provide music for dancing.

Pop Burns, old-time circus man, will be chief "mixologist" at the bar.

McClesky stated yesterday that he has lots of plans to make the Swanee one of the most popular spots in this end of the area.

The parking lot will be improved and many new decorations are planned for the interior of the building.

450 Complete First Aid Training At University

How to administer first aid is something which every civilian should know, especially during these days when anything may happen as a result of the war.

This week the names of 107 men and women have been added to the list of those who have successfully completed the twenty-hour prescribed Red Cross first aid course taught at the University of Miami.

Under the tutelage of C. Rodney Kilborn the members of the various classes have spent much time learning how to give artificial respiration, tie bandages, dress wounds, along with other important phases of first aid work.

A few days ago the writer ran across Mr. Kilborn as he was packing up his classroom equipment preparatory to moving out of the university building, and questioned him regarding his plans.

"This week marks the end of my work here," he stated. "Hereafter I shall be downtown in Miami."

"But the classes! What about them? Aren't they to be continued?"

"Indeed, they are," he replied.

Seeking Men For Training In Radio Work

Uncle Sam is planning to inaugurate a vast radio training program in Florida, according to an announcement received by the Coral Gables Chamber of Commerce from Harold Colee, executive vice-president of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce in Jacksonville.

A school which is to be established somewhere in Florida will provide 500 students with a 13-weeks' intensive course in communications, including radio, telephone, telegraph and television, Colee said, and added that official estimates indicate an annual pay roll of around $3,000,000.

E. B. Terry, administrative aide of the U. S. Civil Service Commission from Atlanta, will be at the Columbus Hotel, Miami, today, to interview applicants desiring to enroll in the school, Colee stated.

High school graduates between the ages of 17 and 53 years having certain specific qualifications may enroll for the first course, which begins August 17. When they finish, they may take an advanced course at the school, running as long as nine months, or they may be sent to some Florida university for advanced study in technical phases of communications work.

Terry advises that students will be paid $120 per month, or at the rate of $1,400 a year, during the initial 13 weeks' training. A new group will be admitted as soon as the first group finishes the course.

Applicants for training, Terry states, must possess any one of the following six qualifications in order to be eligible for enrollment in the school:

- 1—Completion of a correspondence course with an accredited radio school.
- 2—Completion of a course in radio, telephone, telegraph or television.
- 3—Six months full time, paid experience, in technical radio work or in a radio service station.
- 4—Completion of one year in college, with a course in physics, including laboratory work in electricity.
- 5—Satisfactory completion of a mechanical learner course in radio.
- 6—A license to operate an amateur radio station, together with proven ability to construct radio sets.

Draft Board Lists 27 'Critical Occupations'

Stressing the urgent need in our war program for skilled manpower behind as well as on battle lines, General Vivian Collins, State Director of Selective Service, has advised local boards of twenty-four "critical occupations" in scientific and specialized fields to guide them in the classification of registrants in those professions.

These "critical occupations" are listed in a bulletin sent to all State directors by national headquarters, Selective Service System, which also specifically outlines the conditions under which students in such fields may be classified or deferred from military service as "necessary men." The list includes: Chemists; economists; engineers — aeronautical, automotive, chemical, civil, electrical, heating, ventilating, refrigerating and air conditioning, marine, mechanical, mining and metallurgical (including mineral technologists); radio, safety and transportation — air, highway, railroad, water; geophysicists; industrial managers; mathematicians; meteorologists; naval architects; personnel administrators; physicists (including astronomers); psychologists and statisticians.

Require Training
The National Headquarters Bulletin pointed out that all of these critical occupations require highly specialized periods of training of two years or more; that all these occupations are needed in activities, according to the national roster of scientific and specialized personnel, which are necessary to war production and essential to support of the nation's war effort, and that there are serious shortages of persons "trained, qualified or skilled" to engage in them.

Specifying that a student who is in training and preparation for one of these scientific and special fields may not be considered by his local board for occupational deferment "until the close, or approximately the close, of his second or sophomore year in a recognized college or university," the bulletin said.

"There are many registrants who are in training and preparation to acquire the qualification or skill to engage in these critical occupations. Normally the period of training and preparation to acquire the necessary qualification or skill in these scientific and specialized fields extends over a period of four academic years in a recognized academic, professional or technical college or university. In many instances, however, it is necessary for persons to have additional study in a recognized academic, professional or technical college or university in order to acquire the more highly specialized qualification or skill necessary for the performance of particular services in activities necessary to war production or essential to the support of the war effort. Persons engaging in further studies in addition to the four academic years normally required are referred to as graduate or post-graduate students."

THEY ALSO SERVE

Telephone offices now proudly display service flags—as a patriotic tribute to those in the armed forces of the Nation.

Although the star figures in the center field of white show the number of Southern Bell men now in the armed services, the flag might also symbolize all Southern Bell employees—for all are wholeheartedly serving their country in this great world crisis.

The telephone, fittingly termed the nerve center of the Nation, is even more vitally important in war than in peace. Thus, the telephone men and women at home whose lives are devoted to its dependable and efficient function are definitely—in the war. All stand ready for emergency calls at any hour of any day—operators, line-men, construction men, repair men—everybody.

In or out of uniform, telephone folks are doing their war work—for they all serve, and the spirit of service was never more in evidence than it is today.
