"The Electric Power Industry Belongs to the American People" 99

Says the Portland Oregonian

"----By means of public regulation, the people have harnessed these big units and made them serve the public. Even more, the people by hundreds have bought stocks and bonds of power companies, and have gained comprehension of the working of public regulation and have spread their knowledge, The new attitude of the public toward public utilities is a symptom of the return to sanity and common sense that has followed the outburst of radical frenzy."

Today the mechanical forces of the world are aligned on the side of humanity. Not only have these forces become democratized themselves, through the public ownership of their securities, but they themselves are an accessory of democracy.

Science and skill have replaced politics in the regulation of business. By making possible shorter hours, better wages, more self respecting conditions of labor, and less drudgery in the home, electricity is enlarging the participation of the masses in the economic good things of life. Everyone does more, has more, enjoys more, hence the ever increasing demand for electrical service.

Through the far sighted planning of the electric power industry, this demand has found an adequate supply of electricity ready at all times. Today America produces more electric than the rest of the world ---- and at a steadily decreasing cost to the consumer.

The foundations have been laid for the electrification of the country on a scale so comprehensive that eventually no one need be without the advantages of a full list of electrical benefits.

In following this program a new and better United States is being created. It is made possible by unhampered adherence to the principle of individual initiative. Only to the degree that this principle is preserved and perpetuated can the public look for the continued extension of its best interests.
