

FLORIDA INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY
The State University System of Florida

Office of Information Services
223-2300

December 15, 1971

Fred H. Koch, III, has been named Research Specialist in the Computer Center at Florida International University, the new state university in Miami.

Formerly the Coordinator of User Assistance in the Division of Computer Services at the University of Miami, Koch began his career there in 1963 as a student assistant.

In 1964, he joined the University of Miami Institute of Marine Science as a Research Aide, and was promoted to a Research Assistant in 1965. In 1968, he rejoined the Division of Computer Services as a Scientific Applications Programmer III, a position he held until his promotion in 1969.

Koch received his bachelor of science degree in mathematics from the University of Miami in 1968.

His professional affiliations include the Association for Computing Machinery and Digital Equipment Corporation User Society.

####

✓