David L. Wilson, '60, has been named Coordinator of Educational Media at Florida International University, the new state university in Miami.

Formerly an Assistant Professor at Florida Atlantic University, where he also served as Director of the Curriculum Library and Director of the Audio Visual Laboratory, Wilson is also a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at Boston University in the Doctoral program in Curriculum and Instruction with an emphasis in media. He completed his residence and course work this past June.

In 1963-64, he was Chairman of the Committee to select Florida's Teacher of the Year. From 1963-69 he was a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Palm Beach. From 1967-69 he was coordinator of the Florida Federation of Women's Club reading program.

Wilson received his M.Ed. from Florida Atlantic University and his B.S. from Richmond Professional Institute. He is a member of the National Education Association, Phi Delta Kappa, and the Association for Educational Communication and Technology.

Florida International, an upper division institution, will open for student enrollment of 4,250, in September, 1972.
