Mr. J.R. Deane.,
Hotel Leamington,
Miami, Florida.

Dear Mr. Deane:

Referring to our conversation relative to Mr. A.R. McLean, beg to say that until about a year ago he was with the American Sugar Refining Company, not only in their primary investigations, in almost every sugar growing section of the world, but that his training has been one of a life-time along the lines of commercially growing sugar cane. As a boy he went to Hawaii and started from the very bottom in commercial sugar cane industry, and has extended his activities as per above in almost every sugar growing area in the world.

Mr. McLean is now in West Palm Beach and it would certainly be my suggestion that he be retained by you to do your preliminary work, and if possible hold him as Consulting Engineer for any large operations in sugar cane production that you might undertake.

It was my pleasure to spend several weeks with Mr. McLean, going over the various areas of land in the Everglades and in southern Florida, and I do not know of anyone who is so capable and well informed on the subject.

I am,

Very cordially yours,

JFJ:H
