DWIGHT LAUDERDALE

Dwight Lauderdale is co-anchor of the 6:00 p.m. and 11:00 p.m. Eyewitness Newscasts.

He began his broadcasting career when he was 17-years-old at the ABC station in Columbus, Ohio. A junior in high school, Dwight did everything from processing black and white film to news writing, newsproducing and substituting for News and Sports talent on the air.

In 1973, Dwight graduated CUM LAUDE from Ohio University with a degree in Communications.

Dwight joined the Eyewitness News team in 1976. He has been commended and praised for his incisive reporting during the 1980 Miami riots, his live reports on the threat of Hurricane David, and was awarded a South Florida Emmy for hosting and producing the WPLG special, "South Florida Radio Wars" which aired in the fall of 1984. Dwight has also received numerous other awards and honors.

In addition to anchoring and reporting, Dwight hosts the weekly public affairs program, "NEWSMAKERS," here on Channel 10.

Dwight is married and currently resides in Coral Gables.
