

June 28th, 1913.

Mr. J. E. Ingraham,
Vice-President,
St. Augustine, Fla.

Dear Sir:

This in acknowledgement of your wire of yesterday evening stating that you were returning to St. Augustine and to return your mail there. No mail, so far, has come to you in care of this office, but I think Mr. Reilly has come. I will advise him of your wire to me.

I am sorry you did not get to Miami and trust it is business matters and not your ill health that has caused you to return, and that you will be able to make us a visit a little later on.

In accordance with your letter of the 26th from West Palm Beach, I wrote Mr. Powers asking him to meet you here as soon as he could, but have not heard from him since. I rather expect him in on today's train. He will be much disappointed at not seeing you as he seemed very anxious when last here to take up some matters with you personally. When he left here last week by boat with the Roberts boys it was with the expectation that you were coming to Cape Sable by boat to see him.

Yours very truly,

FJR
