Dear Sir:

As the writer expects to leave the city the first part of next week to be absent possibly four or five weeks, I would like to have a further conference with you regarding the proposition of a hunting and fishing preserve for your Chicago friends, which we discussed in the past. Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning would probably suit me best, however, suggest you give me a little notice as to what suits your convenience so that I can arrange to be in my office.

Yours very truly,
