Dear Mrs. Willson:

Thanks for your letter and notes received May 7. Your kind remarks about the editor are appreciated, but I shall be obliged to take that as a personal work of thanks to me, and hide it from the public eye! It would not do for the editor to print eulogies of himself, now would it. But you are very kind to tell me that you like our journal.

Very sorry to know that you have been sick again. I trust that by now you are much improved.

Your comments on Dr. B. are illuminating. It is at least obvious that the doctor wants to hold his job. As for me, I am satisfied with running the NATURALIST and seek no other work for the present.

Your suggestion about Dr. Grinnell is fine. I wish that you would write to him, and if you can coax an article out of him, it will be splendid for our publication. I await with interest your success.

Some time I hope you will be able to prepare for us that article on the Everglades as a game preserve.

Sincerely yours,

R. J. Longstreet
