THE EVERGLADES TO HELP WAR FUND

"Snap Shots From the Everglades of Florida" is the newest production from the pen of Mrs. Minnie Moore-Willson, of Kissimmee, Florida.

Mrs. Willson enjoys the distinction of being the only recognized authority on the life and history of the Seminole Indians, and for this reason the booklet bearing the above title will appeal to many readers.

During the past few years Mrs. Willson's graphic portrayal of the wrongs imposed upon a defenseless people have been constantly before the public, and this new booklet, with its pen and camera pictures of a people living in the jungle morasses of the much talked of Everglades, will appeal to those interested in the 'Glades history of Florida, whether from a commercial, speculative or agricultural viewpoint.

Mrs. Willson is contributing the entire proceeds from the sale of the booklet to the various war relief funds, and from those who would aid a patriotic work of this kind the Kissimmee Independent urges a ready response. Any organization for war relief work may obtain copies free and retain all the proceeds from the copies it sells, or individuals may designate the particular fund to which they wish their purchase money to go.

In this beneficent and patriotic work Mrs. Willson is doing, not "her bit," but "her best" for our American soldiers.

The booklet may be ordered direct from the author or through the bookstores of the State, and is to be sold for 25 cents.
