Searle Ends 8 Years With City; Won't Run

Mayor Robert L. Searle announced formally Tuesday that he will not be a candidate in the April election, ending eight years service to the city.

Searle made the announcement at the regular City Commission and read a prepared statement to fellow commissioners, the press and a few spectators.

Here is the text of the mayor's statement:

"It is with deep regret that I am announcing my decision not to be a candidate for reelection as city commissioner or mayor of Coral Gables in the April elections.

"The privilege of serving the City of Coral Gables as an elected municipal official for almost eight years has been an experience for which every citizen interested in his community should devote time.

"The City of Coral Gables is recognized throughout the United States and Latin America for its beauty, outstanding architectural planning and zoning.

"I am looking forward to devoting more time to my business responsibilities that have been neglected during the past several years and, because of their growth, need more of my attention.

"The cooperation that I have received from the citizens of Coral Gables, my fellow commissioners, the City employees and the news media has been most gratifying."

The mayor's statement thus made academic the arguments whether he had promised not to run for mayor again or that he would be a candidate at all.

Searle had said back in July during the controversy over tax millage that he would no longer be a candidate for political office.

Recently he was quoted by Miami News Columnist Herb Rau as saying he would like to be a candidate again.

Searle told The Times at the time that he was considering running again, but had not decided for what office.

Better stop, you're violating the law.

The Chamber said it has had several reports on such violations. Manager Lee Smith said he has written to these affected informing them of the city's ordinances. The ordinances say, in effect: No license, no serve.

Mayor Robert L. Searle and Commissioner Franklin Evans, both of whom helped Ben Gaines get a liquor bar license for his Holiday Inn, wound up with insurance coverage on the recently opened hotel, it was disclosed this week.

Searle and Evans had also voted to grant Gaines a series of exceptions on the hotel as well as for a sign and for parking.

Their three fellow Commissioners joined with them in voting affirmatively for both the liquor license and the zoning exceptions.

Dr. Evans had previously been disclosed to have been appointed the Holiday Inn's house physician.

Gaines' liquor license satisfies the legal requirements for its granting. Nevertheless, it was a controversial license and the conditions surrounding the approval of it were unusual. The details of this are recounted on page 2.

The mayor himself confirmed last week that he had been handling the owner's protective liability insurance while the hotel was under construction.

"I do business with a lot of firms that do business with the City," said the mayor.

Evans said he had no knowledge of any insurance held by the firm of which he is vice president, Barclay Insurance Inc. Later, he said the firm may have held a small policy on plate glass.

He did not sell insurance personally, Evans said, and was not aware of every account.

Mrs. Gray Barclay, secretary and treasurer and only licensed agent for the firm, told The Times that the firms has "two small policies" on the Inn—garagekeepers' legal liability and innkeepers' legal liability.

President of the firm is Angelo Astuto, who is also fleet sales manager for Deel Ford.

Gaines said he has known Dr.

City Gas Makes Plea For Vote

Coral Gables voters should approve a franchise for City Gas Co., President Sid Langer said Tuesday, "because I don't believe there's any place in the Southeast you can find a franchise with terms as favorable to the City as this one."

The gas executive also previewed several company plans which he hopes will whet the appetites of potential users here:

—All bottled gas conversions will be done at company expense. (Any gas appliance can be converted to natural gas.)

—Any square block with four or more potential customers will be provided gas service.

—The company proposes a lease program on gas-operated air conditioners for 10 years which Langer said he guarantees "will provide a 25% to 50% savings over electricity."

Here, apparently he referred to the air conditioning

AL JACOBSON
... in the race

Al Jacobson First Name In the Ring

Al Jacobson, president of the Chamber of Commerce and owner of Rae's Stationery Store on Miracle Mile, Tuesday became the first man to toss his hat in the ring in the April City Commission race.

He paid his $100 to the City clerk Wednesday morning.

"It is my intention to qualify and run for the Coral Gables City Commission," said Jacobson, making his first venture into politics.

"I do so with a keen appreciation for the outstanding contributions to this community which have been made by those who have served and are serving on this body," he said.

"For the past several years, through civic activity, I have had the opportunity to become intimately familiar with the problems which confront Coral Gables.

"The solution to these problems requires a dedicated belief in the future of Coral Gables plus a realistic acceptance of the role of Metropolitan Government.

"I offer the people of Coral Gables recognized integrity, proven leadership and successful business background."

The civic leader was chosen in 1961 for the David H. Hendrick Award as "Outstanding Citizen." He was chairman of the Traffic and Parking Committee for eight years.

In 1960, Temple Judea named him "Man of the Year." He is a member and treasurer of that congregation.

Jacobson has his wife, Edna and four children, Susan, a student at Vanderbilt University; Harvey, a senior at Gables High; Peter, at Ponce de Leon Junior High School; and Barbara at Gables Elementary.

The Jacobsons live at 1243 Catalonia Ave.

Here's Law On Matter

When asked for a ruling by the Chamber of Commerce, City Attorney Ted Semple furnished them the following:

Anyone who transfers an alcoholic beverage for a consideration or makes a gift of an alcoholic beverage in connection with, or as a part of a transfer of property other than an alcoholic beverage for a consideration, or the serving of an alcoholic beverage by a club licensed under the beverage law, constitutes a violation of Chapter 561.01 (12) and the person guilty is subject to prosecution.

Therefore, in my opinion, any places of business which give away whisky to their customers, or so they say, is subject to prosecution, and the prosecution, in my opinion, should be reported to the State Beverage Department.

Liquor License Okay Given Amidst Odd Circumstances

The Holiday Inn, the Gables' newest hotel, was granted a license for its liquor bar under unusual circumstances.

City Attorney Ted Semple says the decision came at a conference meeting of the Commission on May 25, 1962—nearly seven months before the 155-room hotel opened.

Semple notified owner Ben Gaines of the Commission's action in a letter dated May 28, 1962.

The decision was made in secret. The press was not told of the meeting and the City refuses to make public minutes of its frequent conference meetings. The Times learned of what had transpired and when confronted, City Hall acknowledged it.

Having made the decision, the Commission followed what for it is an almost unheard of procedure:

Telling an applicant in advance that his application will be approved. In this case, the City even specified that intention through Semple's letter.

The City is not required to hold a public hearing on the matter of granting a liquor license and its authority to grant is discretionary, not mandatory, when conditions are fulfilled.

However, many people believed, Commissioners among them, that the prospect of the first liquor license here in more than two decades was sure to provoke public controversy.

At least one of the Commissioners, when approached by several prominent churchmen, assured them that a thorough public discussion would precede any Commission action.

The Commission never held a public hearing on the controversial matter. It did not formalize its action until Oct. 30, 1962, when the item came up on the Commission agenda without any advance notice.

At that time, Commissioner

Franklin Evans moved to grant the license and it was unanimously approved.

It was the first such license to be issued since before World War II. The Miami-Biltmore Hotel had the last operable license, and gave it up in the early '40's when it became a hospital.

No other hotel has qualified under the 100 rooms or more provisions of the City Charter.

Motels, such as the University Inn, although of more than 100 rooms, have not been ruled qualified because the Charter says only "hotel".

rate between the two fuels rather than the total bill for all uses such as water heating and cooking as well.

The voters will make their decision on Tuesday, Feb. 12. City Gas, if a majority says yes, would be given a non-exclusive 30-year natural gas franchise.

Langer, himself a Gableite (4209 Granada Blvd.), met Tuesday morning with the Coral Gables Citizens Committee to speak on the coming election. The breakfast was at Coral Way Cafeteria with 25 attending. The committee voted to recommend approval of the franchise.

Langer pledged that "within

City Hall Is Neutral On Vote

City Gas Co. Tuesday sought the formal approval of the City Commission on its proposal to lay pipelines and furnish natural gas on a 30-year franchise, but backed off when victory became unsure.

Attorney Joe Dumond withdrew his request when the four commissioners advised him one Commissioner, C. L. Dressel Jr. was against and one more vote would have defeated the move.

The Commission previously voted 4-1 to approve the form and substance of the proposed 30-year franchise scheduled to go to a referendum Feb. 12.

A majority of the voters must approve to validate the proposed ordinance.

"... The franchise should stand on its own merits," Mayor Robert L. Searle told Dumond.

Commissioner Franklin Evans told Dumond he'd abstain if it came to a vote.

That would have foiled Dumond's proposal.

"I would rather not have a vote on that and to have it turned down," Dumond told the Commission.

Saving Money

The City Commission has authorized the use of certified mail to replace registered mail for its official notices.

A saving of 40 cents per letter over the cost of the 60-cent registered mail cost will be realized. Certified costs 20 cents.

Registered mail must be used whenever money is involved, but certified mail is the same service otherwise, according to City Manager L. W. Robinson Jr., who recommended the change.

24 to 48 hours after an affirmative vote is given, we'll be laying pipe down Red Road." He reiterated his firm's pledge that no rate raise would take place in five years and added:

"Actually, the reverse might be true. Our firm is making plenty of money. The Railroad Commission, which sets the rates, does so on the basis of return on investment. We might just have to decrease rates at some future time."

The City Commission has already okayed the form of the franchise itself. The city is taking no stand.

The City Attorney has looked over the proposal and pronounced it legally sound. All that remains is for a majority of those voters voting, however small the number may be, to say yes.

Elections of this nature traditionally bring out a small vote.

What's so good in the franchise for the Gables?

"In addition to the utility tax of 10% which the City will get from the customer on his total bill, we're agreeing to pay 6% of our gross revenues to the City."

Why so generous to the Gables and not to West Miami, Opa-Locka and Hialeah or Miami?

"Well, they've already got their franchises with a lower rate on the gross revenue.

"The Gables is the last big city in Dade County left to us and we'd like to have it. With the Federal government drying up revenues sources to the cities and states, some municipalities are looking at the gas works so we have to offer an attractive rate."

Langer said his company's customer rates are the lowest of the three gas firms serving Dade.

The other two are Peoples and Florida Gas. It is from the latter that City will buy its supply. Florida's affiliate brings natural gas in from Texas and by law must make it available to other franchise utilities who then resell it to retail customers.

A residential customer would have two meters. One is for his heating and air conditioning and the other for cooking. The heating-air conditioning rate is 8 cents a therm for what you use there and the cooking rate 40 cents a therm. A therm is a unit of measure for gas.

The company wants to serve the University of Miami as its first customer so would run its mains southward down Red Road and up U.S. 1 and then northward on Douglas Road. Then it would begin its laterals to get into the residential areas.

City Gas is publicly-owned with more than 100,000 customers in South and Central Florida.

New Hotel Required Variances

Ben Gaines' luxurious Holiday Inn could not have been built the way it is without a series of zoning exceptions.

Of 14 initial exceptions asked for by Gaines, the City Commission granted all but four.

The motion to grant the exceptions was made by Dr. Fred Evans and approved unanimously by the Commission.

Approved on April 2, 1962 were the following exceptions:

Permitting a 15-foot setback rather than a 125-foot setback as required from South Dixie Highway.

Driveway canopy with a six-foot setback instead of a 125-foot setback.

Fifteen-foot setback from Madruza Avenue instead of a 50-foot setback.

Balcony nine feet from Madruza instead of 50 feet.

Outside door to dining room. Ten cabanas.

Outside dining terrace.

Twelve apartments with kitchens.

Ground coverage 37.26% instead of 35%.

Steam room and solarium.

On Sept. 25, 1962, Gaines came back and asked for a 32 square foot detached sign, 10 feet high with a 2'6" setback from the highway.

Permission was also granted to place a sign with the word "restaurant" in front of the dining room and another sign in front of the building above the roof.

Commissioner Franklin Evans moved to grant him a six-foot high sign with five-foot minimum setback. The vote was unanimous on all three items.

On Oct. 9, 1962, Gaines got approval to erect a total of five signs over the objections of the Board of Architects and residents, who objected to the sign on the north side of the building.

Commissioner Joe Murphy moved this request and it was approved unanimously.

Said Gaines last week of the exceptions:

"I got what everybody else would have gotten."

Gables Federal's 6 Stories OK'd

Coral Gables Federal Savings & Loan Association Tuesday got what it had sought to get in the summer of 1961—a six-story building addition alongside the present main building at 2501 Ponce de Leon Blvd.

But this 87-foot high addition will be approximately twice as large in area as the one sought then. It will be built on two 25-foot lots rather than one, as previously planned.

Coral Gables Federal had obtained permission from the Commission to go to five stories on March 6, 1962, but construction plans were delayed.

Meanwhile the Rader zoning study was made and Commissioners, drawing from the recommendations of that report, indicated that the original six-story request was acceptable.

Ed Rogers, on the same basis, was granted permission to build the Gulf Building, first at six stories and later at seven.

Tuesday, the City Commission overrode a preference by the Board of Architects for limestone facing to the financial institution and approved a reddish-brown material.

2 City Men Help Insure New Hotel

Evans for some time and that Evans was a paying guest at the Sahara Motel "20 times" or more with his family. The Sahara was once owned by Gaines.

"He did not ask me," Gaines said of the position of hotel physician.

Gaines said that he had nothing to do with the award of the insurance contracts to Searle and Morris and did not even know that Evans' firm had been awarded a portion.

He followed the advice of his insurance adviser, he said. The adviser is John Paine of Insurance and Bonds Inc. Paine handles Gaines' insurance needs as "coordinator."

How was it that Searle and Morris, and Barclay had obtained the Holiday Inn insurance business?

Paine, has known Searle "since the mayor has been in the insurance business."

Evans he did not know, he said, but he has had a long standing friendship with Mrs. Barclay, for 26 years an insurance agent before she went into business with Astuto and Evans in July.

Paine said he extended bids to these firms because they represent many other insurance companies which he was eager to deal with. He said he did not extend bid invitations to any firms other than the commissioners' and his own. He said he felt the depth of coverage afforded by the three was sufficient.

Searle was low bidder on one of three bids, Paine said. Later he said the mayor had been awarded another small policy also. He would not say what it was.

"I'd rather you'd get that from him," Paine said.

Barclay's bid on four items and was low on two, he said. Mrs. Barclay said she bid on three.

Insurance and Bonds Inc. (Paine's firm) was successful bidder on workmen's compensation; fire insurance for five years; plate glass; and bonds covering employe dishonesty, money coverage, forgery and other similar acts, Paine said.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS
by Rolfe Neill

Where Our Mayor And Mr. Evans Erred

It is an upsetting revelation that our Mayor, Bob Searle, and another City Commissioner, Fred Evans, have insurance on the new Ben Gaines Holiday Inn near the University of Miami.

The granting of a public bar liquor license to that establishment was considered the key factor in its coming here and plans were assiduously laid to insure that a license would be forthcoming. One was forthcoming—the first in over 20 years—and the manner in which it was done was an insult to the people of this community, whether or not they happened to favor its granting.

The license was contracted for in secret, a commissioner's tacit promise of a public hearing broken and formal okay given without public notice.

City Commissioner Evans and Mayor Searle who do business with the owner of such a hotel are not conducting a routine business transaction and we suspect they know it. At least that is to be inferred from their answers to questions put to them by The Times.

The Mayor carefully pointed out that he didn't deal with Gaines himself but through an intermediary (if it's so routine why make such an issue of the third party?).

Commissioner Evans seemed vaguely aware that some sort of policy might have been written by his agency but professed to know nothing of substance about it. And as for being the Inn's house doctor, said Commissioner Evans further, it's really a bother and hardly worth the occasional remuneration (although we notice he hasn't resigned it).

Finally, as for "bids": What kind of "bidding" is it when the coordinator asks for bids only from two insurance agencies who happen to have officials on the City Commission?

We believe the two men evade the moral issues, which are unmistakable:

One does not do business with those who bring unusual cases before City Hall for judgment. Either announce your interest and step aside, or sever the relationship. Further, one does not accept business from those whose applications were of a recent and controversial nature where the resolving of them in the applicants' favor makes subsequent transactions suspect.

No reasonable citizen expects a City Commissioner to turn away all business which comes his way because he happens to be better known through his public service. And we all know that many persons must appear before the Commission on ordinary matters and yet they have business relations with those who must decide on them.

But the case of the Holiday Inn is not ordinary, for reasons listed. It must have been so perceived by a man of Bob Searle's maturity. Fred Evans is certified professionally by both the bar and the state medical society of Florida as competent, so he certainly should recognize that this was no ordinary affair.

We have had cleavages with Mayor Searle on several substantive issues and joined with him in others. We dislike seeing eight years of public service end on this note (and have no way of knowing how important in his decision of self-removal was his knowledge that these revelations were forthcoming).

We hope the voters of this city, should Fred Evans have the audacity to offer himself again for election, will show their disapproval of those who do not know a conflict of interest when they see one. We can think of other reasons and facts as to why Fred Evans should no longer serve on the City Commission. If he insists on running again, we shall present them to you.

Lawrence Of?

Although I've lived in Florida for nearly two years I still get a start when I come unexpectedly on a home, shrouded in a billow of canvas for fumigation. Those bright stripes always remind me of "The Desert Song." I came across one going home the other night at the corner of Fluvia and Le Jeune and was as startled as the first time.

Typical

Typical of the generosity that has been encountered for the Jack Harding Dinner Sunday night is that of J. NeSmith, general manager for Southern Dairies here. He's donating a thousand hand-made ice cream footballs in UM colors. His comment when approached: "I'd do anything for Jack Harding."

New Twist

Here's a man bites dog story: The Japanese manufacturer supplying Spiegel Inc., the Chicago mail order house, with cheap portable TV sets has complained that Spiegel is selling them too cheaply—$79.95. As a consequence, Spiegel is changing the price, and upping it to an undisclosed figure. The 16-inch portable TV is the feature of its back cover. 4106 Santa Maria; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Well Turned

There's a fine piece in the February Good Housekeeping about Hemingway's widow (his son Gregory lives in the Gables and is in the UM School of Medicine). The article says that Miss Mary now accepts the fact that the author's death was suicide, but its most illuminating insights aren't into Hemingway but into his widow:

"But from here on in I'm riding it out alone. I hung around Papa for 17 years and he pummeled and molded and beat me into a certain pattern that has solidified.

"I don't think it would fit with anyone else, so I'm free of that terrible need to look for a replacement, which is the burden most women in my position carry constantly with them.

"Remarriage is a little conceit I can do without, and once I got that straightened out in my head it's made living alone a lot easier."

The AP

The Associated Press, whose task it is to inform the majority of newspaper readers about world events, frequently misses the important nuances, in my opinion. However, this week I read two sterling paragraphs that better sum up the I suspect The AP is much closer to the truth.

De Gaulle's opposition to England's entry into the Common Market than all of the liberal and conservative essays I've read on it put together. Said The AP in two paragraphs:

"The towering, 72-year-old Frenchman wants Britain barred from the Common Market because he is convinced that, once inside, she would serve as a Trojan horse for the Americans.

"Primarily, De Gaulle wants to loosen Western Europe's bonds with the U.S. so that the European peoples, led by the French, can serve as a third force in world affairs."

First Add

And speaking of The Associated Press. They did a nice job of wrapping up the consensus on England's socialized medicine scheme in a Sunday feature a couple weeks back. The conclusion:

Socialized medicine has shortcomings but overwhelmingly the doctors and patients like it. That's sure a far cry from the occasional British lecturer who turns up under the auspices of some local medical society in the U.S. and tells about the life of medical horrors in England.

In My Opinion

By LORETTA FLAHERTY
Correspondent

The advent of the so-called discount department stores to the Miami area has brought with it a few unappealing innovations in shipping.

I don't like being met head-on, by uniformed guards, no matter how rakishly attired, as I enter a store to shop.

Neither do I care to check any packages I might bring into these stores, until I am ready to leave.

I resent the time wasted at the check out counter while packages are stapled, pasted or taped, with the sales receipt on the outside.

Granted, there are those who will steal, but all this nonsense does little to dissuade them. Shoplifters merely devise new and more complicated methods of plying their trade, while legitimate shoppers must bear all manner of inconvenience.

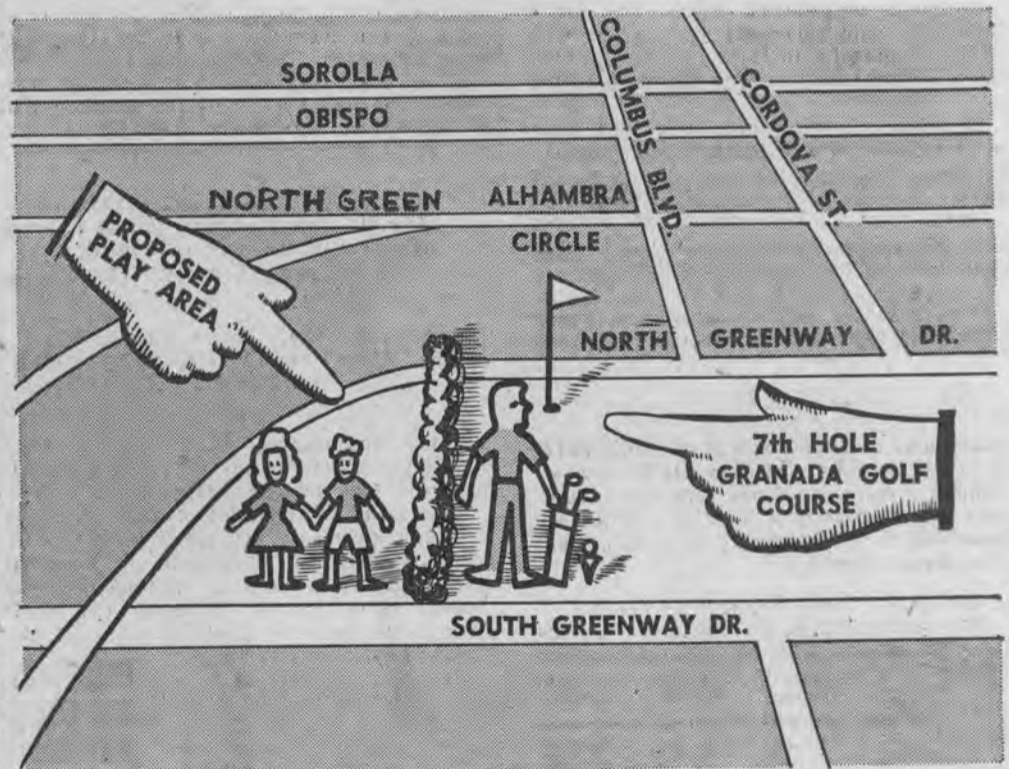

In this instance, I am almost in their corner. I have been sorely tempted, at times to give these stores reason to suspect me.

Instead, I do as much shopping as I possibly can, in department stores where there is at least an attempt at mutual trust between management and the customer.

In these stores, I have a choice of entrances and exists, an absence of uniformed guards and merchandise is packaged without a lot of hokus-pokus. I am free to roam about the store without my packages bearing outward verification that I acquired them honestly.

These department stores have been in business for countless years, some for generations, without resorting to Sunday openings and this obvious surveillance.

I am not so naive as to think that they do not have their corps of store police. However, I rather like the feeling I get, that these agents respect my integrity and are there to protect my interests rather than to suspect my motives.

MAP BY RED ROBBINS SHOWS AFFECTED AREA

And a Little Child Shall Lead Them

The City Commission acted wisely last week, we believe, in insisting on children's right to play on the unused western extremity of Granada Golf Course. The Commission acceded to neighbors' complaints against putting up playground equipment or a dividing hedge just now, but will let children play there.

More small parks and playgrounds such as this are badly needed in the Gables. We don't think the residents protesting made a convincing case beyond selfishly claiming the right to view a beautiful golf course, unobstructed by children. After a few months' experience with children at that spot, we hope the Commission will reconsider and if it warrants, install some simple play equipment.

THE CATTLE EGRET

What 2 People Know: Cattle Egret

EDITOR:

The birds mentioned on Page 9 of last week's Coral Gables Times are undoubtedly Cattle Egrets. Four were feeding in the large vacant lots on Biltmore Way for several weeks recently and were also seen there last year.

The Cattle Egret is a native of Africa, evidently spread under its own power to South America and from there to the United States. It was first identified in Florida something like 10 or 15 years ago and has since spread up the coast to New England.

It nests in large numbers in Greynolds Park along with Ibis and other Herons and Egrets.

The Cattle Egret is so named because it frequently follows cattle, eating the insects stirred up by the browsing animals. Many feed in the fields of our large dairies and occasionally one may be seen perched on the back of a cow.

These birds are not to be confused with our lovely American and Snowy Egrets usually found near water, and whose food consists of frogs, fish and other small aquatic life.

EDITOR:

That bird with the white long neck seen walking in vacant lots and sidewalks in the Gables was undoubtedly a cattle egret which is becoming quite common to South Florida. Two appear in front of my own home at 515 Loretto Ave., quite frequently.

The unusual story behind the story though is that the cattle egret is a native of Africa and was never imported into this country — flying over on its own as it were on a fly now, pay later basis.

They are quite numerous around Lake Okeechobee farm regions and South Dade tomato fields and follow cows and horses around pastures to seize any small bugs, snakes or lizards they stir up with their feet.

They are not afraid of civilization at all and frequent vacant lots, even in the Gables.

Pals Will Score for Harding

(Editor's note: Morris McLemore of the Miami News wrote a fine tribute to Jack Harding in that newspaper Monday and we reproduce it below. Both writer and subject, incidentally, are Gableites. McLemore lives at Douglas Entrance Apartments and Harding at 3702 Toledo St. The banquet is Sunday night. Tickets are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce.)

A couple of weeks ago at the Pensacola Naval Air Station a man came up to me at a banquet and identified himself as a Californian. I later learned he is an official of Douglas Aircraft Co.

"You're from Miami — do you happen to know Jack Harding?" he inquired.

I said yes, that Jack was one of my good friends.

"He's been a good friend to a lot of people," said the Californian, earnestly. "I'm one of the ones he went to bat for a long time ago. We were in the Navy then and Jack did me a turn I'll never forget..."

Although we chatted about Jack for a while, the Californian didn't volunteer why he was so grateful to Harding; apparently it was a personal matter very important at the time.

A small incident, surely, but one must reckon a man's worth to his fellows in small incidents, for they make the sum of the whole...

A bunch of the boys will whoop it up for Jack next Sunday night at Miami Springs Villas and I'll be there early and stay late.

The reason is simple. I don't know a man in Miami I feel closer to or prouder of than Jack.

He started being nice to this community before World War II when, in 1937 he became head football coach at the University of Miami... he was then and is now a builder. I can't recall one time when Jack attacked to destroy a man or a situation beneficial to the university he loves or the community he serves.

He is a plus factor if ever there was one.

For several years, starting in 1946, Jack and I sat around a lot of hallways together, waiting for other men to come through doors from smoke-filled rooms.

At the time he was straining every cell in his brain trying to figure ways to sign Southeastern Conference football teams to games with the University of Miami.

As a consequence, he was interested in all the politics, all the trends and nuances of relations between SEC coaches and athletic directors... from this he gained an intimate knowledge of their strengths and foibles that has benefitted the University of Miami in geometric progression in the years since.

My own interest in the same matters — as a young sports writer for an Atlanta newspaper — gave me a natural rapport with Harding and, from those days to this, he has been a steadfast friend.

Time has dulled some of the memories of those hours in the hallways at Biloxi and Tuscaloosa, Atlanta and Knoxville, and the byways in between, but the impression remains clear that Jack was one of the most popular men in college athletics in this country, as well received in the Big Ten or SEC or other far areas as he was received in Coral Gables.

The difficulties of his position in those early years was best illustrated by a wry comment from Scrappy Moore, longtime head coach and athletic director at the University of Chattanooga. Then as now, Chattanooga was on the fringe of big-time college athletics and Scrappy fought, as Harding had to fight then, for favors dealt by the moguls of the SEC.

One day Fred Russell, the Nashville newsman, found Scrappy waiting in the hallway for a caucus of his benefactors to break up.

"How things going, Scrappy?" Russell asked his tired pal.

"Fine, Freddie," Moore replied, brightening. "When I came here I had four games for next fall with Southeastern Conference teams... and I still got three of them!"

Since those days, of course, the University of Miami's situation has improved tremendously. Not only because of Harding's efforts.

The skills and energies of other men and a kind Providence which allowed the U-M to escape disaster in many perilous financial storms also were vital... but no man has created more sincere interest and trust among outsiders for the University of Miami than has Jack Harding.

It might be said of him that he is an aggressive man, willing to wait... and, as events have proved, this is the man U-M athletics needed.

Next Sunday we'll tell him so, in person.

Bayshore Drive Is Still Sought By Gables Men

The Bayshore Scenic Drive may not be dead after all — at least the portion proposed through Coral Gables.

Gables City commissioners Tuesday agreed to ask the Planning Advisory Board to look into the feasibility of the road.

On Jan. 22, the Metro Commission voted 10-1 to kill the Metro Planning Board and Department's 300-foot wide, landscaped, 30-mile long highway stretching from Cartagena Plaza in Coral Gables to the proposed Arseniker Causeway to Islandia.

The road would have narrowed between the Plaza and South Dixie Highway.

Only Metro Commissioner

Robert Brake voted for the road.

Tuesday, Mayor Robert L. Searle, told the City Commission that the road was still desirable for the Gables, that many property owners wanted it and that it would meet with their approval on a more limited scale.

Searle indicated that perhaps a 100-foot right of way was obtainable.

Some of the City Commissioners, favored a more inland route hugging the ridge near Old Cutler Road. Metro Commissioner Brake said he favored a route near the bay shoreline. He, too, is a Gables resident and law partner of City Commissioner Joe Murphy.

Methodist Meet Led By Bishop

The woman, 76 years of life lending a slight stoop to her shoulders and lines to her gentle face, stood peacefully in the foyer of Coral Gables First Methodist Church.

"I'm so glad he came at this time," Mrs. Florence Williams, 439 Sevilla Ave., said to her friends. "I had a few problems."

"But now, after listening to him, they don't amount to a hill of beans."

Mrs. Williams, president of the church's Senior Adult Fellowship group, had just heard a sermon by Bishop Arthur Moore.

Bishop Moore delivered sermons at First Methodist at both services Sunday and twice-a-day Monday to Friday last week.

"We've been so prosperous that we've developed an independence," Bishop Moore said deplorably as he talked in a consultation room following his Friday sermon.

BISHOP MOORE CHATS AFTER HIS SERMON

"We've had it so easy," continued the man who's been a bishop for 33 of his 74 years, "that we think we are the arbiters of our own fate."

Bishop Moore said this is not the case. We must ultimately, he said, depend on God for our salvation.

Bishop Moore said he feels our way of life has become so complex that we have lost many of the solid values.

Many live by indulgence, rather than obedience to God, he said.

Bishop Moore does see hope, however.

"I believe there is a desire to see God," he said. "We may be closer to a realization of God's power than we are aware of."

Bishop Moore can well remember several years ago when several persons riding with him in a plane were precariously close to God's power.

As the plane passed over Hugeton, Kansas, an engine sputtered and conked out. The plane landed in a cornfield. No sooner did its occupants speed to safety than the craft exploded.

"When we hit the ground," said the Bishop grinning, "there were no atheists."

'Bayshore Still Good Idea'

The only Metro commissioner to vote in favor of the proposed 30-mile long Bayshore Drive still thinks it's a good idea.

"Basically, I believe as the Planning Department says that we're going to need what they call the 'amenities' for future population expansion," said Commissioner Robert Brake.

Brake was outvoted 10-1 by his fellow commissioners when the proposal came up last week on a public hearing.

"As they say, that's about the last open stretch of bay shore around. It would make a beautiful drive. Some objectors say it's not proper expressway since it begins no place and ends no place.

"Neither is the Blue Ridge Parkway, which begins no place and ends no place, but still is a marvelous magnet for tourists," Brake said.

Brake said the 300-foot wide, divided and landscaped highway would have had its chief value as a tourist attraction rather than as a traffic carrier.

Some of the Coral Gables property owners had indicated a willingness to donate the necessary right of way, Brake said.

The future of the off-shore bay bottom land, which the County sought to acquire for the road, is now in doubt.

Many of the opponents, who came to the meeting well represented, themselves seek to obtain the land from the State Internal Improvement Fund.

Gables Wrong, Not Metro, County Attorney Advises

Coral Gables is barking up the wrong tree in its attempts to get Metro to change the law requiring examinations by certain building tradesmen, Metro Attorney Darrey Davis said this week.

The Gables Tuesday asked Metro Commissioners through Commissioner Robert Brake to "take the proper steps" to see that the state law prevails requiring examinations in cities over 7,500 population.

Davis' statements made Monday followed in the wake of the discovery that the Gables had taken all its former Building Code Requirements and made them part of the Zoning Code "to preserve higher standards."

Davis has given the opinion that this is in violation of the South Florida Building Code adopted county-wide.

The matter is now in the hands of the Metro Rules and Appeals Board for their recommendation to the Metro Commission.

Davis said Monday that City Attorney Ted Semple's contention that Metro Commission could amend its laws to conform with the state statutes requiring exams is impossible without a vote of the electorate of Dade County.

CORRECTION

In accounts in this newspaper last week, The Times incorrectly identified Frank Kerdyk as president of the Gables Board of Realtors. He is vice president; Robert H. McTague is president.

This spacious chapel seats over 200 in comfortable pews equipped with kneeling rails. Auxiliary seating space for 100 persons is available. A Racy Murder Mystery Opens at the Playhouse

(A Review)

In the past many of us have wondered why most productions in Palm Beach never reached Miami and vice versa in spite of the many obvious economic advantages and the completely different audiences.

Tuesday night marked the culmination of a plan whereby Coconut Grove Playhouse and Palm Beach's Poincianna Playhouse would share productions and "A Shot in the Dark" was the first of what we hope will be many more.

Eva Gabor plays a hoydenesque French parlor maid who can not trip or fall without being compromised. She is the prime suspect in a murder which apparently results from her sharing her love not wisely but too well with the sullen Spanish chauffeur and her wealthy cuckolded employer.

There is no particular action and all of the events are brought to us by clever dialogue. In fact the entire murder mystery is a vehicle to carry us along in glimpses of French bedroom humor and a reverse twist where the chauffeur gets it rather than gives it (only as far as murder is concerned).

Miss Gabor is well supported by Donald Murphy and Albert Corbin who play magistrate and clerk, Eric Berry as the wealthy aristocrat and Joan Wetmore as his wife were outstanding.

There was an occasional slow spot but we enjoyed a light and entertaining evening with many laughs.—Pat and Dick Bohn.

The Delicate Pickings Of a Refugee Musician

(A REVIEW)

Two years ago a handful of guitar lovers met to hear a young man named Juan Mercadal who had just fled Cuba with five dollars, a guitar and much talent.

It was only a matter of moments before we knew we were listening to an extraordinary artist. Since then he has acquired a large group of devoted followers who faithfully attend his many local concerts.

Friday night was his second annual Dade County Auditorium recital where his enthusiastic audience demanded four encores.

We have followed him carefully in the last two years and have noted a large increase in repertoire with a wide divergence of numbers demonstrating his formidable technique. The program consisted of many short selections with the suite in D by Kuhnau and the Sonata Op. 15 by Sors as the larger works of the evening.

We were particularly intrigued with "Capricho Arabe" by Tarrega and "Guahira" by Pujol. The latter was filled with sparkling Spanish rhythms and syncopation.

The only off-note of the evening was the thought that a talent of this magnitude was not playing to a capacity audience in his adopted home town.

Goodbody Wins Bid On Bonds

Goodbody & Co. was the apparent low bidder on refinancing of the SS-2, SS-3 and SS-4 sewer bond issues Tuesday.

The firm bid $4,485 to handle the more than $350,000 issue.

Purpose of the refinancing is to reduce by approximately $80,000 the amount of debt payment to be until 1968 and shorten the time of the bond issue by seven years and save an estimated $36,000 in interest.

Dooly & Co., which had attempted to negotiate privately on a similar bond refinancing proposal, failed to get the bid.

Other bidders were William R. Hough & Co. and A. C. Allyn & Co.

The Commission's move is expected to take a load off the budgets for the next few years, while realizing a saving through lower interest rates.

New Retirement Plan For City Recommended

The Coral Gables Retirement Board has recommended a new retirement plan for City employees providing them with pensions under both Social Security and the Retirement Fund. Social Security benefits are now subtracted from Employees retirement pensions.

The plan, it is claimed, would cost an estimated $10,000 per year.

City Commissioners took no action on the recommendation Tuesday, choosing instead to take up the proposal at a later conference.

City Manager L. W. Robinson Jr. said he favors the plan.

Mayor Robert L. Searle indicated he was not satisfied the plan would cost only $10,000 a year to run.

He Can Read Academic Freedom in 16 Languages (Plus Ours!)

DR. A. C. ANDREWS

WARNER DANIELS JR.
Correspondent

Dr. A. C. Andrews is a soft spoken man with a well-groomed mustache and a slight — very slight — British accent.

That his office contains two tall shelves housing a large amount of books is not unusual, but the fact that some of them contain translations by Dr. Andrews in a wide variety of languages is.

Dr. Andrews said, "I became interested in languages while in college and in my senior year I was taking English, French, German, Greek and Latin."

The Doctor is a natural linguist and is able to gain a fair command of a language in six weeks to two months.

The languages of which he possesses a reading command are French, Spanish, German, four forms of the Italics, Dutch, Modern Greek, and seven dialects of ancient Greek.

Dr. Andrews is chairman of the Department of Classics and vice chairman of the Board of Review for the Student Government at the University of Miami.

Another responsibility has also, recently been added to a busy schedule. Dr. Andrews has been elected the president of the UM chapter, American Association of University Professors.

Says the AAUP's new president:

"On the local level, the primary interests of the AAUP are academic freedom, tenure, and faculty government.

"The local policy on academic freedom is a liberal and intelligent one. The core principle is that every faculty member is a responsible person and is expected to exercise academic freedom with proper regard for the welfare of the University."

Besides being a fine linguist, the doctor is also an authority on ancient foods.

"I took a course on ancient Roman foods while in college and was dissatisfied with it, so I began building my knowledge of the subject."

Dr. Andrews has certainly kept building, for he has collaborated with other men from this field in the publication of books on this subject.

A letter arrived just before the interview from Richard Evans Schultes, curator of the Harvard Botanical Museum asking for the aid of Dr. An-draws on an upcoming book to be published.

He is a consultant to the Loeb Classical Library in classical biology and referee for Classical Philology and Journal in the same field.

Dr. Andrews enjoys tackling problems in classical botany which have remained unsolved for some time. His last triumph concerned a problem which 35 scholars had puzzled over prior to himself.

Dr. Andrews received his education at Bowdoin, where he received his A.B.; The American Academy at Rome, and the University of Pennsylvania, where he received his Ph.D.

His honors include, Phi Kappa Phi, Omicron Delta Kappa, Iron Arrow, and Scabbard and Blade.

He was a military intelligence officer in the Second World War and he came to Miami in 1944. In 1947 he retired from the service and began work with the University of Miami.

He and his wife, Sydnay, who is a painter of Christ paintings here and in Pennsylvania (and who took four languages while in college, reside on SW 176th St. They have a stepson who is in the Marines.

Heard any Volkswagen jokes lately?

Remember the one about the lady who looked under her front hood and thought somebody stole her engine?

Or the one about the guy at the gas station who didn't know where the gas went? Or the water?

Today, the gas station attendants know enough to put the gas in front. And they don't bother checking your water or trying to sell you some antifreeze.

(After all, they've seen enough VWs to know that our engine's in the rear, and that it's cooled by air, not water.)

The point is this: People used to make fun of our car, now they have fun with it.

Which helps explain why our joke file's been getting a bit low. So, if you've heard any good VW quips or sayings or jokes, why not send them on?

Just write to John Stanley, Volkswagen of America, Englewood Cliffs, N. J. He'll start them on their rounds.

After all, nobody enjoys a good VW joke better than we do.

This year's Cavalierte Musical will be presented Thursday and Friday evening, March 21 and 22 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. The theme selected is "Circus Go 'Round." The cast of the amateur production consists of Gables students. Tryouts are Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 4 and 5.

General chairman of the show is Elsie Lettino, Cavalierte president. Mrs. Ethel Steele, drill team sponsor, will supervise the production. In charge of the dances are Margaret Lacy, Carole Claytor and Dorna Sisk; publicity, Sally Nohlgren; programs, Claudia Wilson and Donna Knowles, and tickets, Greer Woodward.

TOURNAMENT

On Feb. 1 and 2, Gables will play host to Dade County schools for the Florida All Events Tournament. This includes debate, original oratory, oratorical declamation, after dinner speaking, interpretation (poetry, humorous and dramatic) and extemporaneous speaking. Approximately 300 of Dade's best high school orators will participate in the event.

Former Havana Editor to Speak

Carlos Todd, former editor of the Havana Times, will speak at the Riviera Republican Women's Club meeting Feb. 14 at 10 a.m. at the Coral Gables Country Club.

Todd testified before the Senate Committee on the Cuban situation and is publisher of Cuban Information Service, a weekly periodical for Cubans.

University Bank Counts Heads, Adds Cash on Its First Day

University National Bank clocked 3,000 visitors on its opening to the public Monday and at day's end also announced assets of $3½ million.

President Nelson E. Thompson said he was pleased with the first day's deposits.

While the public got its first peek on Monday, a VIP reception was given last Friday evening and nearly 1,000 persons showed up at the new institution, 1190 S. Dixie Hwy.

Outside they saw landscaping just being finished and such a bounty of greenery that it looked as if University National might have been there for years instead of days.

The building's exterior is of anodized aluminum.

Inside is done in pre-Columbia decor. Mayans figures in bas-relief number each teller window and there are hand-worked Mayan design tapestries. Italian slate is used on several walls.

The Bank's board of directors' room is done in rosewood paneling, all of it from a single tree with the grain matched on the wall as it was cut from the tree.

New Lineup on Recreation Board

Four new faces are to be found on the controversial Recreational Advisory Board following the men's recent appointment by the Coral Gables City Commission.

They are C. B. Brasington Jr., 1234 Country Club Prado; William R. Colson, 1218 Coral Way; S. H. Compton, 1101 Sorolla Ave.; and Herbert O. Root, 6411 Leonardo St.

Coming off the board is Bernard B. Weksler, who only last week instituted a suit against the City charging that the agreement it made with Biltmore Pro-Manager Bill Tinder represents a conflict of interest.

Also leaving the board are William Charlton and Mrs. Dorothy Hoover. Mrs. Stanley

Fosgate resigned earlier after the death of her husband.

Holdovers, whose terms had not expired, are Larry Adams, Dr. Phil Chastain and William Kerdyk.

The former board, under Chairman Larry Adams, ran afoul of the Commission's good graces when it asked for information about the operation of the city's recreation concessions.

Later, board members asked the Commission to spell out the Board's duties again. This was after sitting down with Commissioners only a few months previous over the same matter, following the resignation of chairman Charles Rogers.

Weksler later resigned as secretary after internal controversy developed over the way the Board's minutes were being kept.

Jack Harding Banquet Is Sunday

Sunday's Jack Hardin Night at Miami Springs Villas and the Gables Chamber of Commerce is expecting nearly 1,000 people for the banquet tribute.

The date was moved from the end of February to this weekend. Harding, director of athletics at the University of Miami and completing his 25th year of service at the University, will be feted by friends and fans from over the area. (See the reprint of a column on page 5.)

Wally Butts, the University of Georgia's athletic director, will be master of ceremonies. The Chamber is flying up Harding's daughter and his grandchildren this week from Puerto Rico for the event.

VOTE YES... FOR NATURAL GAS FRANCHISE

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1963

A special election of the qualified electors of Coral Gables will be held on Tuesday, February 12, 1963, to vote on City Ordinance #1309. This ordinance grants a non-exclusive, 30-year franchise to CITY GAS COMPANY OF FLORIDA to provide natural gas within the City of Coral Gables, subject to certain provisions and conditions, and under the rules and regulations of the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission.

LOWER GAS RATES PLUS UNINTERRUPTED SERVICE

The natural gas rates will be lower than the present rates for comparable consumption of bottled gas. For example, here are the monthly rates of four actual customers in Coral Gables compared to their new natural gas rates.

Type of Customer	LP Gas Used	Present Rate	Natural Gas	New Rate
Small Residential	39 lbs.	$ 3.90	8 1/2 therms	$ 3.23
Large Residential	383 lbs.	22.98	83 therms	18.26
Small Commercial	156 lbs.	10.96	34 therms	9.97
Large Commercial	16,633 lbs.	628.71	3,607 therms	412.79

NO RATE INCREASE FOR 5 YEARS — The natural gas rates for Coral Gables are identical to those charged by City Gas Company in other communities in Dade County, as determined by the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission. THESE RATES WILL BE THE MAXIMUM RATES FOR A PERIOD OF 5 YEARS from the effective date of the ordinance. Although there can be no increase in rates for 5 years, they can be reduced during this period by the Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission.

NO INTERRUPTION IN SERVICE — During the recent cold spells in South Florida, there was no interruption in service to the area's natural gas customers. However, as is always the case during these periods of highest gas consumption, many bottled gas users allow their supply to run out and are without gas until the empty tank can be replaced. During such emergencies, gas companies work 24 hours per day delivering full tanks, but the demand is often greater than personnel and equipment can supply immediately. Although City Gas Company was able to deliver bottled gas within one day of notification during December's severe cold spell, there still were many bottled gas customers without gas for several hours, an unavoidable inconvenience not affecting natural gas users.

CITY GAS COMPANY OF FLORIDA IS a publicly-owned utility serving over 100,000 gas customers in South and Central Florida. It was incorporated in 1949 and has a long history of outstanding service in distributing bottled gas throughout Dade County. The company is now one of the largest retail distributors of natural gas in Florida.

Red-Bird Corner Zoning As Residential Is Upheld

A property owners' efforts to rezone the southeast corner of Red and Bird Roads from residential to business failed in Circuit Court Monday when Judge Harold Vann dismissed the suit.

City attorney Ted Semple told the City Commission Tuesday that the case had been won on its merits.

Harry Harris, 1512 Bird Rd., the owner had sought to have the City rezone the property.

Harris claimed that the property could no longer be developed residentially because of commercial development across the street in South Miami and in the County.

The City feared that rezoning the corner would lead to the complete breakdown of zoning along Red from Bird to Tamiami Trail and from Bird to South Dixie Highway.

Judge Semple Gets Vacation

City Attorney Ted Semple has been granted leave "up to 20 days" by the City Commission.

Semple told the Commission he needed the vacation after defending the City in a series of recent suits.

They Seek Car Lot On Corner

Catamal Realty, Inc., which failed in an earlier bid to have property on the northeast corner of Ponce de Leon Boulevard and Catalonia Avenue rezoned for parking will ask the City Commission next Tuesday to overrule its Zoning Board.

The meeting is at 3 p.m. The offstreet parking plan included closing off of Catalonia from Ponce to Coconut Grove Drive to provide more parking for tenants of the FHA Building.

A 130-car parking lot would be created by the proposal.

Tenants of the FHA building now use a lot on the northwest side of Ponce.

N.Y.'s Finest

The case of a retired New York cop who allegedly tried to bribe a Coral Gables officer following his arrest has been postponed, pending arrangements to try the case in Metro Court.

Joseph Dugan, 59, 631 NE 30th Ter., was arrested Jan. 2 by Officers Macon Hazen and Lewis J. Mertz.

He was charged with drunk driving, reckless driving, failing to obey a police officer, driving without a state license and bribery.

Cav Team Has Record For Season

Coral Gables High School's basketball team, with 12 notches on its victory belt, is having one of its best seasons. They have lost but one game.

Last year, they wrapped up a 14-8 record.

What has made the difference?

"The main difference is that we're winning the close games. Last year we lost them," offered coach Garry Ghormley this week.

As he talked in the gym, there came the steady pound of basketballs as his team went through its paces.

It was 10 a.m. Monday. There was no school, but the Gables hoopsters practiced.

"Another difference," Coach Ghormley went on, "is that we have only one junior, Alberni (Pedro.) The rest are seniors."

"I feel I'm a little faster than last year. I've more team speed and that's the deciding factor."

"As for height, I have only one real tall boy, and that's Shaw (Ellis). He's 6:6."

Shaw, the center averages 20 rebounds a game and pumps in about 14 points. Another stand-out is Mike Sandler.

No story about the Gables crew would be complete without mention of their star, Howard Dale. He's averaged 23 points a game.

"It's playing together as a team and our speed that's come through for us," said Coach Ghormley.

Gables High has nine more games to play with district play-off set for Feb. 27.

Jim Simpson coaches the junior varsity, which has a 6-4 record. On his squad are Herb Meyer, Larry Davidson, Richard Segal, Guy Church, David Sandler, Alfonso Cueto, Victor Perez, Ramon Perez, Ronald Osbrach.

And Bill Kirtland, Pat Phelan, Bill Compton, Bill Cepero and Ted Jansen.

Mort Guilford's Chosen Head of Junior Orange

The annual election of officers of the Junior Orange Bowl Committee took place Jan. 22 in the home of Mrs. Leo Mahan.

Elected president, to guide the nation's largest youth festival during 1963, was Frank W. Guilford Jr., Coral Gables attorney.

Other officers are vice-president, Fran Rosendale, local business woman; secretary, Lee Smith, manager of the Chamber of Commerce; treasurer, William C. Swain, local banker.

A brief critique was held of the 1962 Junior Orange Bowl activities. President Guilford announced that committee assignments to begin planning the 1963 festival will be made soon.

Zoning Squabble

(Reprinted from Monday's Miami Herald)

THE PLEASANT, sedate city of Coral Gables gets into an unseemly number of court battles with Metro. It's not really the whole city which does this, but the few city hall officials.

Fresh off a losing fight over a plumber's license, Coral Gables must now defend slipping some rejected amendments to the building code into its zoning law. Next to the outcome of the Liston-Patterson rematch, picking the loser in this Gables-Metro battle is the safest bet in town.

How many more clobberings will it take to get the Gables officials in step with their constituents, and with Metro?

"You mean, I passed!"

The Things You Hear, See, Do As Auto Checker

By RAYMOND LANG
Times Reporter

A woman sobs.
A dog chomps on your arm.
You flunk the cars of the police chief, his assistant and a captain — as well as the car of Congressman Claude Pepper.

Such is a typical day in the life of the fearless three who run the Coral Gables Auto Inspection Station, 4520 Ponce de Leon Blvd.

"When some come in, they'll cry," said Everett (Buck) Fulk, the superintendent, as he talked about how some women react if their cars are first rejected.

"They'll tell us they've been sick and couldn't get it fixed or something. It's really true. We get at least four or five a month."

Jim Burnett, a co-worker, will never forget the time another inspector, Jerry Lever, was petting a German Shepherd as it sat in the back seat of a police car going through the line.

Burnett, a happy-go-lucky sort of guy, strolled over. The dog opened his mouth and bit Burnett's arm.

The three men check 5,500 cars a month. They reject about half, mainly due to headlights and faulty brakes, Fulk said.

"We had a woman in here driving a Cadillac and we rejected her car," recalled Burnett, "and she said she was broke and needed more time to get it fixed."

"And when she opened her purse later, I happened to see a wad of bills big enough to choke a horse."

Fulk laughed as he remembered his trial with a woman in a Cadillac.

"I had rejected her left rear tire and she told me it was perfectly safe.

"She sat there for five minutes arguing with me when the tire suddenly blew out." The grateful woman wrote a letter of commendation to the police department.

"There's a fella," said Fulk, "with one of those small foreign jobs. It's a real springy car and he always has a great big German Police dog with him."

"And we can't check the car because the dog jumps around inside and the car bounces up and down. So each time he drives in, he hands us the leash and we stand there with his dog while his car's checked."

Courtesy is something Fulk and his two co-workers strive for in earnest. He said Police Chief William Kimbrough told them if there's one thing he demands, it's that all who bring their cars for inspection receive the courtesy due them.

It pays off.

Many times, persons who are strangers to the inspection crew will ask if they can run to a near-by restaurant and bring back some coffee.

The oldest car ever checked, said Fulk, was a 1906 Chrysler. It belonged to a vintage car collector.

But the three will always recall having to perform their duty and yet reject the cars of their bosses, Chief Kimbrough; his assistant, D. L. Edwards; and Capt. Robert Crittenden.

"Oh, no, not again!"

DOROTHY COLLIN

Problem: What to chat about with the VFW Auxiliary national president when she visits Coral Gables.

Solution: Why, the Corn Palace in Mitchell, S.D., of course.

The connection between the Gables and Mitchell may seem a trifle far-fetched, but it led to a relaxed talk with Mrs. Elfreda Tice last week over coffee and rolls in her motel room.

Mrs. Tice is from Mitchell where she is woman's editor of the paper in addition to her VFW duties.

I went to school in Iowa which is a mere day's drive through the cornfields from South Dakota.

The Corn Palace, incidentally, is a huge exposition where all where shows, fairs, etc., are held and it is the pride of Mitchell.

Mrs. Tice was in Florida to give a speech Saturday night about the aims and goals of the Auxiliary, but unfortunately, after discovering a common knowledge of the Corn Palace, we didn't get much said about the VFW.

Instead we talked about how she got into the organization and her explanation will sound very familiar to many clubwomen.

"When we moved to Mitchell I didn't know anyone so I had to think of something to do or go mad," she said.

"You name it; I joined it."

"One thing led to another and before I knew it someone asked me if I wanted to be president of the Church Guild.

"That was the root of all evils," she laughed.

She had joined the VFW Auxiliary while on her joining spree and finally decided to concentrate on that.

"Since my husband had been away during the war, the VFW gave us something to do together.

"Heck, I could even get the kids to sell poppies."

She has taken her children to several conventions and plans to take them to the 50th anniversary convention in Seattle next year.

Installed as national president in August, she will serve until next August.

Mrs. Tice recently completed a 21,000 mile tour of the Far East with her 16-year-old daughter.

"It was a fascinating trip, but nothing could be more beautiful than Los Angeles when you fly back into the U.S.," she said.

She said she took her daughter because "she is probably the only person in the world who I could stand to talk to for a solid month."

More seriously, she said she had her daughter go because "I want them to see a typical U.S. teen-ager and I wanted her to see the people of that part of the world."

Mrs. Tice gave her daughter two rules to follow on the trip before they left the states.

She was to lengthen her skirts and leave her spike heels at home, and she was not to argue with her Mother no matter what Mrs. Tice said because she would have a reason for saying it.

"She did beautifully," Mrs. Tice said. "She wore the native dress in Japan and the people bowed and smiled, pleased to see a blonde Westerner in their dress."

MRS. ROBERT PEEPLES

Miss Kichefski Weds
UM Track Captain

Helene Yvonne Kichefski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raymond Kichefski, 5800 SW 50th St., became the bride of Robert Peeples Jan. 26 at the Church of the Epiphany, South Miami, in a double-ring ceremony.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peeples, 6341 SW 25th St.

The bride's father is assistant head coach of varsity football at the University of Miami.

A reception for 50 guests was held at Kings Bay Yacht and Country Club immediately following the ceremony.

The bride's gown was a Bianchi of candlelight peau-de-soie. The fitted bodice of Alencon lace was reembroidered with seed pearls and the bell-shaped skirt ended in a Cathedral train.

The crown headpiece of the wedding veil matched the Alencon lace and pearls of the dress. Her bouquet was a cascade of white orchids.

Judith Peeples, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Clara Cox, Emmie Esposito, Kim Kelly, Dianne Noppenberg, and Mrs. Linda Baker.

The attendants' gowns were short turquoise satin sheaths with bell-shaped overskirts. Their flowers were cascades of pale yellow carnations.

Walter Baker was best man. Ushers were Albert Peeples, brother of the groom, Ronnie Cochran, Walter Haybert, Gene McCleary, and Donald Baker.

The bride's two-year-old sister, Mary Alexis, and Patricia Morris, goddaughter, of the bride's parents, were flower girls.

Dress is optional, but there will be prizes for the best costumes.

Dutch Treat cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m.; dinner at 8 p.m.; and there will be dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

"To confess a fault freely is the next thing to being innocent of it . . ." Syrus.

A major difficulty in confessing a thought is the problem of first being able to recognize it. Faults have the uncanny faculty of avoiding detection by their possessors, and only a most objective person can and will recognize a fault for what it is.

Once a fault is truly recognized by its owner there then arises the question of whether that individual is big enough — and big he must be — to admit ownership.

Allegro Music House Serves Combos And Concerts Alike

Those of you who play an instrument in an orchestra, sing in a choir, have a child in the school band, or direct a glee club might make a mental note of the location of Coral Gables' newest music store — 292 Aragon Avenue. Or just drop in and get acquainted with Alan Reskin and his Allegro Music House. Since each has something of particular value to offer South Florida musicians, whether professional or amateur, in combination they provide a unique service.

Mr. Reskin was a founding member of the Miami Beach Civic Orchestra. He is a member of the University of Miami Symphony, and somehow manages to rehearse and play with the Ft. Lauderdale Symphony, as well. His wife is the celebrated concert violinist, Joan Field, whose artistry is of international fame, and who is particularly well known to greater Miami concert goers. She has been soloist with many major symphony orchestras, both here and in Europe, has been heard on radio and TV, and is a Decca recording artist.

Perhaps under these circumstances, it is not surprising that their 16-year-old son has already won honors in music, including that of having performed at the White House — with President Kennedy in the audience — as tympanist for the Transylvania Symphony. Charles also plays piano, trumpet, French horn, and clarinet, but his main bent appears to be for composing and conducting.

If you attended a concert sponsored by the Miami Beach Music and Arts League, you heard Charles play Haydn's Trumpet Concerto and Bugler's Holiday. Charles was accompanied by his mother at the piano. At the completion of these selections, he accompanied Miss Field at the piano as she performed a violin piece written by her son especially for her.

Charles finished the last notes of this piece only three days before the performance.

In addition to this all round musical background, Alan Reskin is bringing to his customers a concern for the "forgotten man" in the musical world — the individual who needs a piece of sheet music for himself or perhaps several parts for a group. This person naturally HOPES he will not have to wait anywhere from three weeks to three months to get it. At the Allegro Music House, he KNOWS he will not have to!

"A 30 cent piece of music is just as important to THAT customer as a $200 clarinet may be to another," says Mr. Reskin. The Allegro Music House has an extremely wide selection of popular sheet music, song folios and albums for piano and organ. He is constantly adding to his sheet music racks to provide a library that will be both extensive and comprehensive. He puts special emphasis on classical selections for all instruments, and in addition, is devoting time and effort toward providing choral music in octavo form so that choral directors of both church groups and secular organizations will find a variety of selections right on the shelves from which to choose. Individuals in both voice and orchestral groups will be able to pick up their particular parts from his stocks.

Of course, the Allegro Music House also has brass and woodwind instruments for the student and the professionals, as well as guitars, ukeleles and banjos, also professional instruction in all instruments can be scheduled in air conditioned studios and an expert repair service. But Alan Reskin's knowledgeable personal attention to your needs in music is the extra that makes buying and browsing at Allegro Music House at 292 Aragon Avenue particularly worthwhile.
